

M. Gabriel Renand

$10\frac{1}{4} \times 7\frac{3}{8}$ 26 x 18.7

Self Portrait

16625

THE HON. ANDREW SHIRLEY

BONINGTON

LONDON

KEGAN PAUL, TRENCH TRUBNER & CO. LTD.
BROADWAY HOUSE, 68-74 CARTER LANE, E.C.4

First published 1941

Acc. No.	16625
Class No.	G.10.
Book No.	1568

Text printed in Great Britain by the Chiswick Press, London Illustrations printed by Messrs. Headley Bros., Ashford, Kent, from blocks by Messrs. John Swain & Son Ltd., Shoe Lane, London

TO ENID LAWSON

CONTENTS

	PAGE
FOREWORD	ix
INTRODUCTION	I
(I) Biography	I
(II) Chronology of the Paintings	45
(III) Portraits	72
(IV) Lithographs, etc.	77
BIBLIOGRAPHY	81
CATALOGUE	85
LIST OF WORKS SOLD AS BY BONINGTON	119
INDEX	159
ILLUSTRATIONS	I-158

FOREWORD

SOONER or later most students of Bonington develop a neurosis, for their difficulties increase the farther they advance. Yet the study is fascinating, intricate, and valuable, since Bonington is the connecting piece in the puzzle of the relation between the French and English schools of the early nineteenth century, and so has his part in the most vital artistic sequence of the past hundred years. Just as in his brief life every year is of importance, so in any solution of the major problem priority of inspiration will tend to determine the final judgment.

For this reason I have tried in this book, which offers no great originality of documentary research, to establish a chronology of Bonington's work. In order to clarify the position, I have not attempted a complete catalogue, but rather to assemble a list which should be generally acceptable. I have omitted a number of works that in my opinion are right, when I felt the decision of authenticity to be purely personal, and to lack the support of convincing argument.

I wish therefore to thank not only those owners and principals of Museums in France and England, whose pictures or drawings are listed here, but others as well who have generously appreciated my reasons for not including theirs. And I should like to acknowledge the special assistance of Mlle. Delaroche Vernet, M. Gobin, Mr. C. E. Hughes, M. Paul Jamot, M. Lebrun, Mr. J. G. Mann, Miss Campbell Orde, M. Arthur Sambon, Mr. F. Simpson, Mr. P. M. Turner, and Mr. Ustinov. I am particularly indebted to the Burlington Fine Arts Club for their permission to use certain negatives made from pictures shown at their instructive exhibition in 1937.

BONINGTON

INTRODUCTION

I

BIOGRAPHY

PERHAPS it is through the uncertainties of our present that we view the unfulfilled hopes of history, if not with fatalism, at least with some detachment. We shed our scanty tears, so we think, as wisely for genius that has lived too long, as for its briefer flower. Had the open-air cures of to-day saved Keats—or Bonington—for old age, should we have had more from them than they have given? Tuberculosis consumes the spirit as quickly as the body; should we indeed have had so much?

But to the Romantic Age, delighted always by melancholy and the might-have-been, genius cut off in its prime, or better still in its bud, was a rich theme. Dirges rose spontaneously to their lips, and luckily they were well found in subjects. While Shelley wept for Adonais and Scott for Pitt, Turner showed how nearly Girtin's death touched him—"had he lived, I should have starved". "Je me figure que ton âme viendra quelquefois voltiger autour de mon travail" wrote Delacroix at the death of Géricault. But to Bonington, the genius to die youngest of them all, Paul Huet gave the simple epitaph, "il était mon ami".

His career is so short—he died at twenty-five—so fully productive of results, which his contemporaries in France acknowledged, that these sad, almost banal words seem at first too few. Yet Huet's phrase in its simplicity contains the truth. Bonington was too busy painting to think of his effect on others. Unlike Turner, he never challenged, but rather would help any artist. He was not concerned with starting a new movement, barely concerned with theories of art; that he did affect Corot and the rest was chance; he was no chef d'école. He was Shelley's skylark, wholly oblivious of Shelley. Therefore there was no need for Huet to mourn the loss to his generation; he knew that Bonington had done enough for them, and may have doubted whether this lyric quality contained the germ of further greatness.

At least it is no intellectual we have to deal with. Bonington never had to struggle for self-expression—he lisped in scumbles, so to speak. Delacroix classes him among the talents faciles, and said that he came into the world ready armed—"cette main était si habile qu'elle devançait la pensée". Unhappily his correspondence with Alexandre Colin, his best friend among the painters, was destroyed by a pious but deplorable hand; so we must guess his character as best we may from the few letters that survive and the recollections of others.

These show a personality vivid indeed, but simple. He is at ease with a quiet, bourgeois family, like the Perriers at Dunkirk, and chatters amiably to Madame of Paris fashions and the latest hats. Or to Colin, "a splendid storm since you left. I saw it from the end of the enclosure: I heard everything. My friend, it was superb! I was simply soaked". In their twenties, if at all, men are prone to theorize, and in Bonington's time a certain amount of generalization, half emotional, half quasi-intellectual, was almost a polite necessity. Yet here we get a romantic statement of physical experience, which leads to no further reflection. Nor has the writer seen a single letter that touches an aesthetic or an abstract proposition. Delacroix was a man of great intelligence, who one may guess would have struck fire from the smallest flint; but his comments on the months, during which Bonington shared his studio, suggest nothing above a technical level. Yet these months were of the highest importance in the artistic development of each painter.

One other trait may suggest that it was Bonington's nature to feel by instinct rather than to argue. He went one day with James Roberts, an English contemporary in Gros's studio, to see David's Rape of the Sabines. In the foreground was the figure of a spearsman in, shall we say, an unusual attitude. No professional model, David explained with proud volubility, could achieve this position; but finally Madame Vestris, the celebrated dancer, had proved able and obliging enough to pose for him. "These words", Roberts goes on, "brought to Bonington's face, which, I may say in parenthesis, was not very expressive, a pained look which passed away in a smile of pity and a shrug of the shoulders."

INTRODUCTION

His friends have curiously little to say of his personality beyond stating the universal affection for him. This in itself amounts to a fact. With two or three companions he was easy and, one may almost imagine, eager. In a watercolour by Géricault (in M. Gobin's collection) of three people examining a picture, one is said to be Richard—the shock of yellow hair, the long, capable nose, and the rounded, slightly recessive chin of the Midlander, make the identity possible; it stands comparison with the authentic sketches of him. The figure, if it is he, is alert and intent, about to burst into the conversation with a criticism. And a passionately generous nature is conveyed by the story that he offered a dealer the contents of his studio to save a Watteau from being sold to a man who could not appreciate it. Men of such enthusiasm never lack friends.

On the other hand, a crowd at once attracted and paralysed him. He was sensitive, and covered reserve with a genial manner. Later in life his silence in company was noticed as extreme—perhaps an effect of his illness. He liked to be with people and was always welcome, though so far as conversation went he might have been the original subject of the remark that he went to parties because he preferred a different room to be silent in. Even the subjects of his pictures alternate between the clattering streets and squares of France and Italy and the wide, open, empty fields and beaches; and he loved to paint the bright colours muffled by the early morning mists as much as the full brilliance of midday.

If he was sensitive in a crowd to the point of oppression, he was as sensitive in the presence of landscape. The lightest impression galvanized his rapid hand. Unlike Huet, who preferred to study and absorb a scene, sometimes leaving it and then returning, before he put a line on paper, Richard's reaction was immediate. He had, said Huet, "le génie de l'aperçu . . . un aperçu fin et juste de la nature". His almost unconscious grasp of scenic quality wherever his eye alighted would have produced ten sketches to the other's one. There are days when most of us see the world in pictures; this was Richard's state at every hour.

Often enough the rapid talent advances in short rushes of activity and then lies idle; but Bonington never had a moment to spare. He was wholly concentrated on the arts; James Roberts never heard him talk on any subject unconnected with them. How soon the presentiment of an early death came to him we do not know; but it was already driving him when he was twenty-three. With a good commercial sense that his father never had, he had been consistently apt in finding the subject and the price that would appeal, and he revelled in his ever-growing commissions, by which he meant to achieve the independence to paint for pleasure themes from romantic history. His death was hastened by this application, perhaps to the advantage of his fame. One can see so clearly the dangers of his fluency, and one is left wondering whether he had the strength of mind to conquer his success.

At least Richard had been single-minded. By this unaffected concentration, and by a judgment clear as his colour, he was empowered from the first to reject and choose his masters and inspirations. One cannot otherwise explain this phenomenon of a boy-painter, who, transplanted with no previous standards to another country, without at first the support of understanding friendship, could resist the impact of a teaching system and of an aesthetic so logically buttressed as the French. The pre-eminence of the turncoat, David, and the perennial tendency of dictators to see in the arts a useful vein of propaganda had combined to give French painting a rigid Code Napoléon: the critics, the public, and the artists had been drilled to know the rules for recognizing and for making a good picture; what did not conform was bad. Yet there is not a moment's sign that Richard ever regarded these rules or painted anything that reflected them. He knew no doubts, no dread of consequences, but was natural in the face of nature. Only contact with a strong mind seemed to upset the balance of his personality, to lead him along paths he was not endowed with strength to climb, and to sap the naturalness that was his birthright.

Richard Parkes Bonington was born at Arnold, near Nottingham on 25th October, 1802. His parents were utterly dissimilar in character. Mrs. Bonington was the better man of the two, and during the first years of their married life kept a school for young ladies at Nottingham. She offered nothing beyond the average curriculum—English education, sewing, ornamental needlework, and geography—while such extra frills as writing, music and drawing were provided on the terms of the visiting masters themselves. A caller at the house, an actor named Ryley, speaks of her conservation as well above the average; and even if she could not give her son a strong intellectual background, she could teach him a quiet respect for intelligence. It is probable that her efforts brought in whatever steady money the family had to live on; for Bonington, senior, was an adept at losing jobs. He possessed that degree of unreliability which the second rate excuse as artistic temperament; and he could justify this claim as a practising artist, or rather drawing-master, who even achieved the distinction of having two pictures hung at the Royal Academy. These practical efforts were interspersed with bouts of political activity, the culmination of this side of his career being his failure to secure election as a junior counsellor of the city in 1815. There is a story that young Bonington on a walk with a school-fellow passed his father whilst haranguing a street-corner audience on politics. His friend made some adverse comment, with which Richard agreed, adding as he produced a penny from his pocket, "and this is all I get from it". We can however bless this instability of character, without which the Boningtons would never have gone to France.

A comfortable, settled future had awaited the painter's father. In 1789 Richard's grandfather, also Richard (1730-1803), resigned the appointment he had held for many years as governor of the Nottingham County Gaol, and secured the succession for his son. Old Richard's salary had been raised to £100 a year, with an additional £20 annually in commutation of his monopoly of selling liquor to the prisoners. He had apparently made a decent living from his office—he had the advantage of free lodgings in the gaol—for the catalogue of his son's effects, sold in 1817, suggest a well-plenished house. However the new governor, deprived of the perquisite of selling liquor, took to drinking it—and not always in the discreet secrecy of his quarters. On one occasion he had to be helped home, somewhat muddled, between two and three in the morning by the "guardians of the night". One or two mishaps of this sort could have been overlooked, but it seems that they multiplied rather than decreased. Stories got about, too, that he was reading Tom Paine on The Rights of Man to the prisoners, hardly the wisest pastime for the governor of a gaol. It is not surprising, therefore, that his resignation was requested in 1797.

But failure never daunted the painter's father. He had been for some time philandering with the arts, and luckily it was in the year of his dismissal that his first picture was accepted by the Academy. This gave him sufficient local prestige to establish himself as a drawing-master after the major discipline of the gaol had proved too much for him. He started well enough, though five changes of lodging between 1797 and 1801 imply either fecklessness or a strange sequence of dissatisfied landlords. By the time of his marriage he was attending as drawing-master the academy of Nottingham, and several schools in the county: naturally he gave the drawing lessons at Mrs. Bonington's school, and his name is always coupled with hers in advertisements. He extended the scope of these undertakings with characteristic optimism. He issued his own engraved or aquatint views of the locality; in 1806 he became Boydell's agent for the sale of prints in Nottingham. On the gay assumption that if you could sell prints you could sell anything, he added to his stock "writing paper of the finest quality, optical glasses, camera obscuras and music". Unfortunately it proved that he could not even sell prints, and within a year he was advertising the sale of his complete stock, writing paper and all.

From this point we may trace the decline of his fortunes, which were not even redeemed by another acceptance at the academy of 1808. Mr. C. E. Hughes ascribes the fall of the Boningtons to the exodus of the better families from the town as the success of the lace-making industry commercialized it more and more. But money was being made, and rich manufacturers have been known to fall for advertisements appealing to the nobility and gentry. One cannot help feeling that although Mrs. Bonington may have lost some of her best pupils in this way, after 1812, her husband's failure was due to his personality rather than to the stress of economic laws. Having been to sea, or at least having created this myth, he sanded his conversation with nautical metaphors, hearty as a third rate salesman. Grasping and boastful, the alehouse radical could hardly keep in with the best families, even as a drawing-master.

Mrs. Bonington's school had a less varied career. It was opened at Arnold in the spring of 1803, just after the birth of her son, who was christened Richard after his father and Parkes from his mother's maiden name. "Mrs. B. thinks it but just to inform the public in general that the house is quite entire, with a garden and a good playground walled in; situated in a dry and airy spot but a short distance from the Mansfield Road." From the first the school prospered in a modest way, and after two years she was able to speak of "the late increase" in members. While her husband was losing money over his prints and optical glasses, she maintained this progress, and prospects seemed so bright that early in 1809 she announced her intention of moving to a "more eligible situation than her present dwelling"—a large house in Park Row, a good position in Nottingham, which then faced open country. "A situation more eligible could not have been chosen", says Mrs. Bonington in her advertisement, "as it combines every advantage of town and country. The premises are large and quite entire, with a convenient playground, the schoolroom 33 feet in length, and within a few paces of the Park". Mr. Bonington is now saving himself the expense of a separate studio or shop in Nottingham by opening, or, as he puts it, intending to open, "an exhibition room for portraits in oils etc. at his house in Park Row".

INTRODUCTION

This however was the high tide of his success. Before 1814 the expenses of the Park Row establishment had proved too heavy; the additional attractions of lessons for the young ladies in flower-painting by Mrs. Bonington were unavailing; they moved to Park Street. There affairs went rapidly downhill, and in three years time the boarding school was closed and the Boningtons both going out to give lessons. "Mr. and Mrs. Bonington respectfully inform their friends and the public that their Drawing School will reopen on Monday 27th inst. (January 1817). They will also continue to attend schools and private families in Nottingham and its vicinity as usual." They were cancelling their commitments and were ready for a new move.

The Boningtons had reached the crisis of their fortunes in 1816; the school was doing little and Bonington the father was doing less. Sure sign of the needy, they now had a lodger, "a respectable non-conformist divine", while Bonington was late with his subscriptions to the chapel. But never could he be said to lack enterprise, though his gay and inexperienced sallies into trade could be called foolhardy. Soon he had another project ready. He would enter the lace trade, since as a citizen of Nottingham he would of course know all about lace. His idea was an ingenious one, even if it involved connivance at a breach of the law. It was then illegal to export lace-making machines; but the dominant partner of the new firm, Clarke, Webster and Bonington, contrived to transport the parts to France and to erect them at Calais late in 1816. Bonington was to be the designer, and with his sanguine temperament he must have seen himself the creator of new patterns that would sweep the French market, underselling all his English competitors; the continental market would follow naturally, and easy wealth would flow into the Bonington coffers.

It was a lovely prospect, even if it proved a pipe dream. By October, 1818, the partnership was dissolved. Somebody's domestic bliss had been shattered; whose we do not know, for Fergusson, the historian of the lace trade, concealed the names as one party to the dispute was still living (1867); he tells us only that one partner had paid too much attention to the wife of another. So Clarke took a new partner, while Webster and Bonington joined in a fresh venture with a factory at Calais, of which Bonington was to manage the sales side in Paris, where he set up in the Rue des Tournelles in the following year. The new business kept going well enough to support the family's life until young Richard was earning. After his death the father and mother returned to London, where they were able to live at ease on the proceeds of pictures left unsold by their son.

It was at Calais that Richard's career as a painter was definitely decided, and therefore it is important to ascertain as nearly as possible when he arrived there, since in so short a life one may almost say that each month has value. Unfortunately the evidence on this point is conflicting. Some is inexact; for instance Redgrave's theory that as a result of the father's political activity the family "fled to France" can be dismissed; so also can the statement in the Gentleman's Magazine, repeated by Cunningham, that "at the age of fifteen his parents journeyed to Paris, attracted by the facilities for study afforded in that capital". At that time nothing was further from his parents' wishes than that Richard should be a painter—he could be better used working at lace designs for steady money. The main facts we have to go on to fix this date are the failure of the Boningtons' school in 1816, the formation of Messrs. Clarke, Webster and Bonington in the same year, and the firm's dissolution two years later. It was not till the end of 1816 that Clarke's loom was erected at Calais; so we may take it that although Bonington senior may have made one or two journeys to France, he certainly would not have settled there before 1817. It is possible that he crossed to Calais on business early that year, as we must reasonably assume that he made arrangements to house his family before bringing them over. The key to the position is that in August, 1817, the elder Bonington advertised the sale of his household effects, which actually were dispersed in the following month. We may notice, too, that for the first time he did not make a Martinmas payment to the High Pavement Chapel in this year. It must therefore have been in the late summer or early autumn that the Boningtons took up life in France.

INTRODUCTION

These points have been excellently discussed by Hugh Stokes in his life of the painter (Girtin and Bonington, pp. 101-4), where he prefers 1817 as the year of emigration. There is perhaps another small point to be added which enforces a preference for 1817 over 1818. All the early authorities concur in giving Richard's birth year as 1801—an error corrected for the first time by Mr. C. E. Hughes: there is also a consensus of opinion that he was fifteen when the move was made, i.e. between 23rd October, 1816-17, according to their reckoning. Delacroix's memory places his first meeting with Richard in Paris in 1816 or 1817. This again is an inaccuracy; but all these inaccuracies have a common factor in the implication that the earlier date is correct.

It is the misfortune of all Bonington's biographers that so often they must argue from silence. There is a fair amount of information available about him; though he left few letters behind him, there are references to him in the letters and reminiscences of his contemporaries. But naturally the every movement of a boy of twenty or so is not carefully noted and observed; only after his death did men set themselves to remember what they could. And so it is that at each crisis of his life, we miss the relevant detail that would explain the course he took or would form a vivid picture for us. We must be content to balance probabilities and implications, where all that is wanted is one plain fact.

Not until his arrival at Calais do we begin to find something definite about the young painter. There are plenty of admirable stories of his childhood: to create an infant prodigy legend would be irresistible in his case. We are told that as a child of three he was busy with his pencil. This is so commonplace as to be credible, but totally without significance. By the age of seven or eight he was quite a master; and here there exists some evidence that he was at least neat-handed, for his mother preserved two election maps, drawn for the Whig interest in Nottingham, when Richard was eight. These figure with Robinson Crusoe, "the artist's first design", and other early works in the sale which took place after her death. Other juvenile feats were the production of admirable marine views without ever having seen the sea—Cunningham assigns these to 1813 or 1814—and excellent imitations from engravings of historical scenes. So far as I know such early works have not survived, or if they have, they still await identification.

Without accepting all this to the letter, we can make some safe deductions from the flourishes of the journalists, even if they were partly inspired by Bonington's father, who certainly appears in most accounts as a large, white guardian-angel. Undoubtedly Richard showed interest in and aptitude for drawing as a child. At first his father fostered these enthusiasms, while they could still be boasted of as a credit to the family. It is improbable that Richard would have learnt his elements from anyone but his father; for there was no painter of any reputation working in Nottingham, there were no local exhibitions of value, and it would have required influence for the boy to have seen the collections of the great houses of the neighbourhood. And we must give Richard senior credit for having laid a sound foundation to his son's art, without which his rapid advance, when once he met an abler teacher, would have been impossible.

One phrase in the Gentleman's Magazine obituary, however overstressed, has value as showing most probably wherein lay his mother's influence—"history, which from the moment our infant artist was capable of thought, became his favourite study and research". Here was the nourishment of a mind, cast to paint with such sympathetic insight the architecture of mediaeval France, and to plan a series of pictures illustrating French mediaeval history. There is nothing to show that Richard ever went to school in Nottingham; if therefore this is not another of the lacunae so typical of this story, we can guess that his mother taught him; and what would have been more reasonable than that a schoolmistress, with time increasing on her hands as money decreased, should educate her son. And if she achieved no more, she built a mind that could appreciate Shakespeare, Scott, and Byron, and implanted in it a lust for accuracy, that later made Richard an exact student of the costumes and armour which he introduced into his historical compositions.

INTRODUCTION

History-painting, however, was still a long way ahead. For the moment landscape was his only love, and his first necessity was to learn his trade thoroughly. In Calais chance befriended him. It seems that his father in his plans for the family had cast him for a breadwinner in the lace factory; he was just fifteen and should be contributing to the household budget. After all many artists at that time had graduated in commercial art; one can hardly blame the father for his attitude. But Richard played truant, and was to be found on the quays and in the streets of Calais sketching. It was there he first met Francia.

François Louis Thomas Francia (1773-1839) was a native of Calais, who had migrated as a young man to England to escape the troubles of the revolution. He soon settled to work in London, and was fortunate in an early friendship with the brilliant and charming Girtin, from whom his art received a permanent impression. He had talent, and soon worked up a considerable practice as a drawing-master, gaining commissions also from the Duke of York. Membership of the Associated Artists in Watercolour followed, and he was elected secretary of the society. In 1816, however, he failed in his candidature to the Academy, and the twin impulse of this disappointment and the second restoration of the Bourbons decided him to return to his native town. But he did not sunder his connection with England entirely, as he exhibited at the Academy until 1822 and was secretary to the English Consul at Calais. Nor did he lose his personal contacts; for many of his English friends passed through Calais on their way to study in Paris or to tour the Continent for subjects. Francia was not only Bonington's first master; he may have served later as a sort of post-box of English influence to his pupil, passing on to him in Paris the visiting painters. For one of the most remarkable qualities in Bonington is the degree to which he retains his nationality as an artist despite his early exile and foreign training.

But the paradox must be admitted that a French master gave him in France a purely English education in watercolour painting. Under this skilled tuition Richard's talent blossomed suddenly. His natural bent was encouraged to paint the beach scenes he was always to love, and to find his way to the springing beauties of French Gothic. He learnt from his teacher the priceless lesson of Girtin's breadth, a lesson that had especial value for an artist with an eye so sensitive to detail, and with a hand so dangerously happy in its interpretation. He learnt, too, how to lay in his skies and to form a clean edge to his clouds. It appears that he made his first essays in oil-painting about this time; for in his mother's sale were an "Interior with many figures", dated March, 1818, two copies from French historical subjects and an original composition, "The Holy Maid of Kent". We cannot say for certain that Francia was responsible for these attempts; but it is at least clear from results, which will be discussed later, that in the field of water-colour he soon had mastered all that his teacher had to offer.

It is unlikely that he was with Francia for more than six months, indeed he was lucky if it was so long. His father was by now strongly adverse from his proclivities for painting, and he would not be the only father to know the drawbacks of his own career and to preclude his son from risking them. So he issued his orders—work at the factory and no more sketching—and then left this display of energy to take effect. It was not for some months that he realized that he had been flouted, and that Richard was still having regular lessons—were they free, or paid for by Mrs. Bonington?—from the kindly Francia. Then there was a scene. Round to Francia's house stormed old Bonington; he would not have this, he would not permit that, no more lessons must be given to his wastrel son. Richard was hiding upstairs while his master drove off the attack. There was a hurried consultation, and Richard took the first important decision of his life. Armed with a letter from Francia to his patron, M. Morel of Dunkirk, he set off from Calais without returning home. He was not yet sixteen.

Of this adventurous journey no tale survives, beyond the bald fact. We do not know if Francia smuggled him on to a coasting vessel in the best school-story manner, or booked a place for him on the diligence, or pressed some money into his hands and bade him use his long legs. But Dunkirk at length was safely reached, and M. Morel then took up the role of fairy-godfather. Having read Francia's letter, he took the best step possible by forwarding him to Paris—providing the necessary francs?—with an introduction to a young, unknown painter, Eugène Delacroix, who would at least have the art of living cheaply. The sequel must be told in Delacroix's words.

INTRODUCTION

"When first I saw him, I myself was quite young, and . . . was making studies in the gallery of the Louvre . . . I saw a tall youth in a short coat who also was silently making watercolour studies, for the most part from Flemish landscapes. Already he had a surprising skill in this method, which was in those days an English novelty." The introduction had solved itself, and thus without the gène of obligation began a friendship which lasted while Bonington lived, and which Delacroix was to recall with pleasure and sincerity in his old age. (Joubin: Correspondence Générale D'Eugène Delacroix, IV, 286.)

Delacroix placed this episode "about 1816 or 1817"; but the letter in which the passage quoted appears was written to Thoré in 1861, and in the face of the evidence already given for the date of Richard's arrival at Calais and of the fact that Delacroix was himself copying at the Louvre in 1818, we need not stress these dates unduly. The degree to which Bonington had mastered Francia's style seems to make it impossible for him to have spent much less than six months under his tuition. If it is reasonable to suppose that the two did not meet immediately on Richard's arrival, the journey to Paris can hardly have taken place before June, 1818. The normal difficulties in such an acquaintance must have been lessened by Delacroix having some knowledge of English, and by the fact that he was already more than casually interested in English watercolour. One of his great friends, Raymond Soulier, had been brought up in England, and had formed a friendship with Copley Fielding. It was Soulier who first instructed Delacroix in the rudiments of the English language and watercolour technique at the same time. And we cannot but assume that it was he who first made Delacroix acquainted with the Fielding brothers when they later came over to Paris. Very likely, too, he would have met Richard in these early days, and thus, as a link between the artists of England and France, he has a modest importance in history.

Richard's student days began at the Louvre and went on at the Ecole des Beaux Arts,¹ where he learnt to draw the figure in the ordinary academic routine. He was still timid and inaccurate as a draftsman, but his first delight in the Dutch and Flemish painters and in Watteau proved to be of permanent value, decisive in his artistic development. For the rest, he lived the thin life of the impecunious—did this emphasize a tendency to consumption?—dining royally for a franc at the Porte de Vincennes, and perhaps living in the crumbling yellow house near the Tour de Nesle, much frequented by artists, where it was said that no rent had been paid and no repairs done for over forty years.

¹ He entered on 20 April, 1819.

It was fairly early in 1819 that Richard's parents arrived in Paris, where his father was to be sales manager for Messrs. Webster and Bonington, lace-makers. The family quarrel was made up, and Richard now made his home with them in the Rue des Tournelles, near the Faubourg St. Antoine. This saving of expense must have made it possible for him to meet the fees of the Ecole des Beaux Arts without embarrassment and at the end of the year to pay the twenty francs a month for tuition at the atelier of Baron Gros. Delacroix places this change of training in 1820, and there seems no reason to doubt him.

Gros stood high in popular estimation at this time. He had made his reputation by taking his themes from the contemporary heroics of Napoleonic battles; he was dramatic without being theatrical, and he directed a subtle sense of colour to reinforce and heighten his effects. Moreover, he had a genuine faith in painting from nature, and a fine gift as a painter of horses, that Géricault and Delacroix sincerely admired. All this was at variance with the instruction he had received from David, for whom he maintained and fostered an ever-increasing admiration, that the classics were the true inspiration of the artist, and that drawing was the first, second, and third requisite in a picture with colour as a poor relation. The conflict between his personal instinct as an artist and his intellectual convictions, supported as they were by love for his master, finally destroyed Gros's aesthetic judgment and performance. Feeling that through his false position his influence for good in the arts had gone, harassed by domestic unhappiness, which, though open to all, he believed to be profoundly secret, he committed suicide in 1835 at the age of sixty-four.

He had been running a school since 1812 in a large room on the Cour d'Honneur of the Institut, which held about sixty; the fees were twenty francs a month, and you could draw from the living model from 8 o'clock to 1. Candidates were only admitted by examination or by the recommendation of some painter of standing, and as there was always a long waiting-list, we may take it that Gros, as professor at the Ecole des Beaux Arts, already knew Richard's work, when he accepted him. For those who could use what he had to give, Gros was the best teacher in France. He had a genuine kindness for the young; it will be recalled that as a judge on the Salon committee he provided Delacroix, who was a stranger to him then, with the frame for his Dante et Virgile, without which it could not have been accepted. He had also that rarer merit in a teacher that he did not coerce a pupil's temperament. Such men as Huet, Roqueplan, Charlet, and Barye emerged from his studio with their important individualities unscathed.

INTRODUCTION

Punctually at eleven Gros would arrive at the studio—for he had the pedantic punctuality that often goes with impatience—and instruction would begin. One constant phrase was instilled as the essence of art, though his own practice and inclination had contradicted it. "Drawing comes first, colour second. Remember that le dessin is masculine, and la couleur is feminine; the former therefore dominates the latter." (This curious travesty of the grammar of the arts belongs perhaps to a slightly later date than Bonington's pupillage; for Gros's emphasis on David's principles became more extreme after the latter's death in 1823.) He could be harsh in correction, though he would soften the blow with encouragement later. Indeed it is said that he forbade Richard the studio for idleness; probably he had got bored with the endless cycle of limbs and torsos. But if this was so, Gros forgave him, and Bonington finished his career there in an aura of commendation. Various versions of the story are given. Gros came into the studio one day and addressed the class according to his custom. "You do not give sufficient attention to colour", he said unexpectedly. "Colour, let me tell you, is poetry, charm, life; without life there is no work of art. In my walks I see in the shop windows certain water-colours and pictures streaming with light. Go and see them and study them. I don't know the exact name. In any case, gentlemen, the man who did them is a master." Bonington, their abashed author, stood silently blushing during this harangue.

Thus far Gigoux's version. François and Huet, however, agree that the authorship was pointed out to Gros, who then said to Richard, "Is it you who do these charming little things?"

"Yes, Monsieur", said Bonington.

"Oh," said Gros, "then why do you come here? You have nothing to learn and you are wasting your time."

"Bonington, thus encouraged, set up on his own." That is how the story should go on. But the well-informed accounts of him in the Library of Fine Arts and the Revue Britannique suggest nothing so dramatic. The first states that after leaving Gros, he continued to study at the Ecole des Beaux Arts until his mastery of the figure was complete, while according to the other, Gros told him that he could come back to his studio as often as he liked without payment—a generosity quite typical of Gros. It seems certain that he remained in statu pupillari until the end of 1820; and as he copied, or made sketches, from old masters all his life, it is likely that a fair amount of his time still went in study at this early stage rather than in creation. Moreover he was now beginning serious experiments in oil painting, which therefore would slow down his output of original work, as it entailed consulting with his masters. A little twilight sketch of Notre Dame in Mr. Turner's Collection, which bears an old date, September, 1820, shows the immaturity of his work in oil, which is strongly reminiscent of water-colour technique. (Plate 11.)

One other story of his student days must be told. Probably it is true in outline, though not in detail. Paul Huet relates that he once copied a Bonington landscape with so much success that his fellow-students decided to pull Richard's leg. The next morning Richard arrived at Gros's studio, and the whole class congratulated him on the admirable quality of his sketch on the easel. Actually it was Huet's copy, but Bonington appeared to be deceived and to accept it as his own work. Of course, Huet tells this story in his own favour, and we must remember that as he grew older he became jealous of the importance attached to Bonington by the critics. But could he—or any other painter—have mistaken another man's work for his own? No doubt he could bluff as well as the next, and as he was sincerely fond of Huet, let the copy go without comment. But the value of the tale for us is that it shows Bonington's standing with his contemporaries—for there are not many painters of eighteen whom their more serious competitors will copy—and still more, that it suggests some of the difficulties besetting the man who tries to decide what is a genuine Bonington.

INTRODUCTION

Bonington's finance must have improved steadily during his first two and a half years in Paris. He was wise enough to keep his prices low for the gay little watercolours that Gros admired so much; and they brought in a small but steady income. To get seclusion he used to hire a cab and to sketch from it undisturbed by the urchins who settle like flies on any artist in a street. One can see him working thus absorbed by and absorbing his subject, with the same still calm that kept Constable so quiet that a fieldmouse would creep into his pocket. He got fifteen or twenty francs for a sketch at this time; and with the money he saved by leaving Gros's studio, he was thus enabled for the first time to make a sketching tour.

Travel was still very cheap in France. About twenty years later William Callow made twenty-five pounds last him four months, and Richard's tour was not nearly so extensive in time or distance. So far as we can make out, he wandered down the Seine valley; he passed by Mantes, where his friend, Baron Charles Rivet, had a fine estate; he visited Rouen, its quays still fringed with the huddle of mediaeval houses he had painted two years before, and which were to be destroyed by fire the next year. Perhaps he sailed down the river to see for the first time the inspiring bluffs of the Pays de Caux. He got as far as Havre, and turned inland to Lillebonne, as we may guess from the pictures he showed at the Salon of 1822. There is also an interesting oil painting made probably on the return journey, the Interior of Senlis Cathedral. (Plate 18). Its technical quality will be considered later. Here it is sufficient to remark it only as one of his few attempts at the rendering of early French Gothic. With a hand so gifted, his inevitable choice was for the richer decorations of the flamboyant style; and even here he makes the most of the restrained, conventional ornament of the capitals of the nave.

And so back to Paris, where he spent the autumn sketching for the print-sellers, working up finished pictures from his pencilled notes, preparing for the salon, copying, gossiping. He shared with Delacroix a passion for a model, Mlle. Rose, a belle laide, with a figure so entrancing that it left you content with her more ordinary face. The beautiful Madame Hulin, too, had a tendre for his dark eyes and silent ways. Did he exploit them? In his world she was a powerful woman; she not only kept the best shop for artist's materials and so had a say in a painter's credit; but she sold pictures too and was successful with the moderns. It must have been about the same time that he met a more important dealer, Schroth of the Rue de la Paix. In every generation of the arts there is a shadowy figure moving in the background, making and unmaking by obscure manœuvres the reputations of the artists. As a contemporary one would be conscious of the force, even if the method was elusive; but through the filtre of history method and personality alike slip away. Such a man was Schroth, a dealer in prints at this time, holding a warrant from the volatile Duchesse de Berri, whose château Bonington was to paint a few years later. Schroth's business was developing rapidly; he took to selling modern water-colours and paintings—Constable's among them; he published prints and introduced to Paris the great English landscape engraver, S. W. Reynolds, who made his first plates from Bonington's designs in 1823. Only when the slump came in 1826 was Schroth forced to draw in his horns; pictures locked up too much capital, so he confined himself to his old trade of selling prints. Sometimes he held auctions of pictures, among them the famous sale of the great collection of Bonington's formed by Lewis Brown of Bordeaux. Schroth's difficulties were one reason why Bonington exhibited in England for the first time in 1826.

The year 1822 saw his reputation rising. Géricault had returned the year before from a tour in England, full of high praise for the English School, though not of that academic section of it most in public favour. He had perceived the dangerous predominance of Lawrence, but was entranced with the freshness of the watercolour painters. Their brighter tone, and emphasis on colour, already accepted here, appealed directly to him; and their effect on his practice is to be seen in the few pictures, such as the Course de Chevaux à Epsom, which are attributed to his English period. Bonington was instinctively working in the same direction and it must have been important to him to have had the endorsement of Géricault, who since the Radeau de la Meduse had been recognized by the younger painters as their leader.

It was an auspicious moment for his first appearance at the Salon, where he showed a view of Havre and another of Lillebonne, a little town nearby that still can show the ruins of a Roman theatre. There is a story in the Library of Fine Arts, repeated in the Revue Britannique, that he made a journey into Italy after this success; but this is almost certainly a confusion with his tour of 1826. I can only say that I have not met with, or heard of an Italian scene by Bonington that can be referred to this date. (See also p. 77.)

INTRODUCTION

With his ever-deepening knowledge of French Gothic, he became more and more the child of his age. A romantic's love of the mediæval background began to dominate him. James Roberts remarks, "he always showed a strong liking for all sorts of historical traces. He loved to study the transitions from one style to another. He was fascinated by the works of Sir Walter Scott, especially those which had an archæological bent. I have no recollection of ever having seen Bonington interested in anything but questions of art or matters connected with it. With costumes, all from the middle ages onwards appealed to him. His excursions were all in accordance with his literary tastes. He had Barante's history of the Dukes of Burgundy, and, later, the memoirs which had furnished this author with the material for his works—books such as the chronicles of Enguerrand de Monstrelet and Froissart, whose archaic language had a particular charm for him. One often saw in his hands the early essays in French literature, such as those of Gerard de Nevers, Saintré, and Lancelot of the Lake; and also all the modern novels which had an archæological flavour. He was, however, not so much dominated by a love of history as fascinated by the sentiment which in France is called the historic colour sense, a sentiment characteristic among artists and strongly developed in him."

Twenty is an exciting age, the right age to be caught up in the swirl of romanticism. Yet Richard was curiously level-headed. In his nature was nothing that cried out for the horrible, the awful, the macabre. He could not have constructed Géricault's madmen, nor the violence of a Constable thunderstorm, nor the bloody desolation of the Massacre de Scio. Instead, there are wide skies, isolation, and a brilliant light; a pomp of staircases and carved balustrades, rich silks and noble company. A knight takes his oath in armour inlaid with gold; it is the opulence of the middle ages that elates him, not their decay. He had dramatic sense, but often it was sardonic. Pagan Henry IV is caught playing bears with his children, by the proper, pompous ambassador. Here, as in so many of his pictures, it is the drama of situation from a comedy of manners, viewed with the same detachment that observed from a distance the broad fields and foreshores.

Steadily his interests and his circle widened. In 1823 he made another tour of Northern France, visiting the coasts from Havre to Calais, and towns rich in mediæval building—Bergues, with its walls and pinnacled Tour du Marché, and the noble cathedral and ruined abbey of St. Omer. It was a journey fruitful in masterpieces; the Pays de Caux (Plate 25), and the Abbaie de St. Bertin (Plate 23) were developed in Paris from sketches made at this time. And he started on another activity, in which he could display the beautiful qualities of his draftsmanship, lithography. In the next year was published the second volume, Normandy, of the Voyages Pittoresques dans l'ancienne France, a vast undertaking issued in twenty-four volumes between 1823 and 1847. Baron Taylor, a French collector and connoisseur, of such taste that he brought back Figaro to the repertoire of the Comédie française, was responsible for the work, Nodier contributing the text; and we may assume that either he financed Richard's tour in advance, or insured the expense by promising to use some of the sketches in his publication.

Lithography was then a new discovery, and had at once won popularity from the artists and the public. Géricault, Delacroix, and Devéria had already proved it to be a useful source of income; for the lithographic pencil was tractable, and the method of printing simple and expeditious compared with etching and line-engraving. Owing, perhaps, to the use of it in commerce and the over-elaboration of the printing technique, the process fell into disrepute in the latter nineteenth century, and its beauties, though revived by some modern artists, have been too generally forgotten by the public of to-day. It is not known from whom Bonington learnt. Many of his friends were already working in the medium, and with his extraordinary instinct for any technique he would have needed only to watch for the shortest time to succeed himself. His style is immediately personal. He at once appreciated lithography as a tone medium, building up the chiarosco by careful hatching, yet never losing his dramatic sense for the sharp accent of the pencil line, while for Prout and Shotter Boys the line alone was the thing.

In its turn lithography had a certain effect on his own pencil work; his trick of hatching in rather short parallels with a broad, soft pencil only appears after these experiments, and often echoes his touch on the lithographic stone.

Obviously he delighted in these new adventures. He seems to have issued some prints on his own account, and he received commissions later to make lithographs from the drawings of others. In 1826 he produced a series of Scottish views from drawings by Pernot, and some sketches of Brazilian scenery were published posthumously. Again in 1827 he was working for Baron Taylor, for whom he drew on stone some views of the Franche Comté, some, perhaps, derived from sketches made the previous year on the way to Italy. And in 1828 were published his illustrations to the "Contes du Gai Sçavoir", done in imitation of mediæval illumination.

He was now doing well enough to have his own studio in the Rue des Mauvaises Paroles, No. 16. He stood on the threshold of fame. His artistic position was already recognized by the section of taste that favoured the new movement in painting. Among the younger artists he seems to have enjoyed universal popularity; this note is struck in every obituary notice. It was in this year that Delacroix spent so much time with the Fieldings, of whom two, Newton and Thales, were then living in Paris. It is highly probable that Bonington would also have known them, not only through Delacroix but also through Francia. Signed and dated drawings by his old master bear unmistakably the impress of Copley Fielding's style in this year. They had known each other as members of the Watercolour Society in London, and Francia certainly would have spoken of his brilliant pupil. However it was that Richard came to know this able family of painters, we shall see that they had considerable effect on his technical development.

At the famous Salon of 1824, the forces of modern painting were for the first time recognized and one is almost sorry for the painters who showed there. The modernists of the day were belaboured by the critics of the old Davidian school; and ever since, first one critic and then another has tried to assess their historical importance. Even now another is about to tilt at the windmill.

The problem is all the more difficult since national honour, or shall we say prejudice, is at stake. To the Frenchman the Salon of 1824 traditionally represents the birth of the Barbizon School, which determined the direction of European painting for a century. One would proudly take full credit for it. The Englishman, on the other hand, can construct a strong case, showing that his compatriots first demonstrated there the new principles of a higher scale of colour. It is all the more tempting to him to proceed, because it is the one moment in the history of our painting, when we were able to make an offering to Europe. Just as French, Belgian, and German critics strive to show that their own country originated the woodcut, so the French and English discuss—but with less acrimony—the salon at which Delacroix, Constable, and Bonington achieved honour.

Hitherto the battle has been fought mainly over Constable's dead body. One faction, basing its case on the recorded enthusiasm of Delacroix and a section of the French press for his Haywain and other exhibited pictures, has tried to give him the glory. The opposition claims that three pictures do not make a revolution; in other words that what Constable showed at the Louvre was not enough to found a school; and it is added with pertinent accuracy that none of the leading painters of the Barbizon School were in Paris to see his three pictures. One wing of this position has been undermined by recent evidence that Constable sent not three but over twenty-five landscapes to Paris between 1824 and 1826; but still neither party is wholly satisfied.

Were this question to reach the status of an international affair, undoubtedly the mediating power, having explored every avenue, would find the perfect diplomatic formula in the word, "Bonington". True, he was of undoubtedly English birth; his French grammar and accent were as regrettably English. But he was the pupil of French painters and spent most of his active life in France; and the writers of the French obituary notices speak of him as "notre Bonington". A valuable hybrid, therefore. The astute negotiator would then suggest that here is the middle term which should satisfy all parties.

But unfortunately the establishment of historical facts is not a matter of negotiation, and we are obliged to go farther. At least Bonington provides the theme of an instructive argument. We have seen how he was in the correct milieu for affecting the course of French art. Delacroix and Huet, both destined to play an important part, were among his best friends; Camille Roqueplan already knew him in Gros's studio; young Isabey whom he probably met through Baron Taylor and Charles Nodier travelled with him from England in 1825. There is even evidence that from the first the novelty of his technique nd brilliant colour arrested his French contemporaries; it was still remembered as a potent force forty years after his death by Gautier, Delacroix, and others. M. Dubuisson has proved the effect of his watercolours upon Corot. Moreover a great part of his work remained in France, and even after the dispersal of the great Lewis Brown collection, classic examples were in the Palais Royal and the Coutan collection or were notable in such a remarkable assemblage as the gallery of Prince Demidoff.

The whole argument is in fact most convincing—until one hears the other side. When one considers such names as Delacroix, Rousseau or Corot, one realizes that the case for Richard's supremacy can only be preserved in a vacuum. Of these three names Delacroix's is the most important in connection with the salon. Yet even here the Bonington partisan can put difficulties in the way of an easy decision in the Frenchman's favour. It is undeniable that between 1824 and 1826 their work was very close indeed. Is Delacroix's Faust and Mephistopheles in the Wallace collection derivative or original? And how are we to estimate Bonington's Medora, or The Chibouk? They had worked side by side in London, and when they came back they shared the same studio. In these circumstances it is hard to say which is the leader of the two, or whether, in discussing the origins of French nineteenth century painting, it would not be wiser to speak of them as a single force, "Bonington-Delacroix".

The evidence now available is not sufficiently refined to distinguish their relative importance at that moment. Nor, to my mind, would a valuable answer come from the results of such an exact examination, were it possible. It is true that the technical history of each painter is involved in this problem; but the problem goes beyond these limits, for we have to deal not only with a change of technique, but with a change of mind. When Delécluse and the others who criticized the new school went to the attack, they claimed more than that their colours were glaring and that they had no drawing. The new art, they said, lacked order; it was barbaric, Shakespeare not Homer, and so on. It is most important in this argument to recognize that to the old school the æsthetics of the younger men were just as odious as their methods. We have, in fact, to look for the philosopher of the movement—and we do not find him in Corot, Bonington, or Rousseau.

Every new departure in art needs a man to formulate its ideas, to inspire journalists and publicists who can spread them, and to give to the instinctive, but less intellectual, members of the group the verbal weapons to defend their position. Now, Delacroix's mind was of a high order. Intelligent and intellectual, he ranged beyond the fields of painting; he was a keen critic of music and the drama, and his enthusiasm for literature was so great that at one time he nearly abandoned painting to pursue it as a career. He was the one man in this movement—for I cannot see Bonington in this role—who could move easily among ideas, stating and arranging them in an intelligible order. It was also this part of his nature that responded so quickly to the sight of Constable's pictures. The Englishman, more than twenty years his senior, had already arrived at his theory of art, and in his paintings his mind always controlled his emotions. This was the bond between them.

The superiority of Constable's mental and technical accomplishment at this moment over that of the Bonington-Delacroix group drew the fire of the critics in Paris. I do not mean that the others went unnoticed, but that, because his art was considered and assured while theirs was still experimental, it made the better subject for argument. The principles that underlay it were discussed and elucidated, and so became of essential service to the younger generation, which in the next two years saw another score of his landscapes at Schroth's and Arrow-smith's. There is little doubt that for a time he exerted an influence on the technique of Delacroix; and in Richard's work for the next two years we find passages that proclaim a Constable origin.

It is almost certainly wrong to attribute exclusively to Delacroix, Constable, or Bonington the most important position in this crisis of French art. Each had moments of dominance, and moments of eclipse. At the Salon of 1824 Delacroix, perhaps, mattered the least. But while Constable's pictures provoked and clarified the issues between the old classical school and the French Romantics, Delacroix was able to accept this mental and technical filip, and to pass it on to younger painters; he assimilated the experience, and during a long life retained the memory of its importance. The brilliant Bonington had already made his contribution, for by 1824 he had acclimatized the French eye to a bright colour scale. Beyond this, his effect is that rather of personal charm than of æsthetic impulse. Men come under his influence and unt extraordinarily close to his style; but the great art of the future is not born of it. (Here we must except Corot; but Corot's art, again, is so personal that it had little general influence.) The young generation of the 'sixties considered Bonington dated; but Monet could still be interested in the instances of divisionism that he found latent in Constable's last works.

Bonington exhibited five pictures, numbered 189-192—Etude en Flandre, Marine, Vue d'Abbeville, (watercolour), Marine, des pêcheurs débarquent leurs poissons, Une Plage Sablonneuse. The first three of these were bought by the Société des Amis des Arts, while the last already belonged to M. J. Sommerard. All were probably the result of his tour in the previous summer, and the fact that three were purchased by a body that corresponded to our Contemporary Art Society proves the attainment of a certain renommé. In fact this salon made Richard. It is one thing at the age of twenty-two to be discussed with admiration by your contemporaries, but quite another to receive a gold medal from the King of France. He advanced in a stride from a private position to public fame. He was in the news.

After this exhibition he and Delacroix drew closer together. He could have been impressed by Delacroix's Massacre de Scio. The gentle, romantic orientalism of the Near East, first stimulated by Byron's poetry and some years later re-inforced and transplanted to suit French colonial ambitions, now made its début as a theme for French painters. It was late in this year that Bonington made his first essays in this manner. He shared this phase of romanticism because romanticism was in his blood. His genuine love of history produced the series of oils and watercolours on mediæval subjects, painted after this date, and natural to him. But the oriental vein was outside his first repertoire; it is not suggested in the passage from Robert's memoir already quoted. We do him no injustice by assuming that here Delacroix's mind intervened. For, however exquisite in colour and tone, his Turkish moments do not carry conviction; they have a pastiche air, whereas his mediæval pieces are at least always good theatre. With Delacroix the case is reversed; for he studied in travel books what he could of Turkish manners and customs, and came at length to know them at first hand. But when he finds himself confronted by Faust, he equally is less happy.

There is also a change in Bonington's oil technique, that we may be right in connecting with Delacroix's friendship. Reverence for Rubens was the core of the new movement in painting, and that it was so, was mainly due to something so simple as to be almost a nursery accident. When Napoleon fell, the greater part of the artistic treasures with which he had filled the Louvre, the loot of all Europe, were restored to their original homes. To fill the blatant and uncomfortable gaps on the walls, pictures, most valuable sometimes for their area, were brought out from attic and cellar. Among them were Rubens's History of Marie de Medicis. Their vigorous decorative value struck the younger painters unexpectedly; and the curators, bewildered and horrified, found themselves responsible for an artistic revolution. Every one studied Rubens. Géricault's copies are dangerously close to the originals, and Delacroix may have derived from him his first interest in the Flemish master, whose works he sought out all his life wherever he stayed. The same interest is as clearly marked in Bonington's last years.

They were not alone in this movement. Charlet, whom Delacroix considered as Richard's equal in dexterity, was as much affected, and Jal, the best critic of the day, found the same qualities in the work of Poterlet, another of the romantic painters who died prematurely. In England Rubens's influence was already established in the work of Stothard, Constable, and James Ward, and this common background was partly responsible for the easy acceptance of Constable's style in Paris. Richard's tour to Flanders of 1823 had given him the opportunity to improve his knowledge of Rubens; and some earlier pencil drawings strengthen the idea that he was studying the school.

What prompted him to go to England in the summer of 1825? Was it an economic prescience, denied to his father, that forewarned him of the French slump and led him to seek another outlet for his pictures? Or was he persuaded by the praise of the English artists who saw the Paris Salon? His name before long was known in high circles in England; even a duke, the Duke of Bedford, was told to visit his Paris studio. On the whole we can decide that Richard was neither an opportunist nor a snob. Having seen at the salon that there was much to be learnt across the channel, he made the journey to improve himself. He never used his letter of introduction to Lawrence, as he did not consider himself ready for the great man's acquaintance. Clearly then, he did not go to make a splash. Instead, he worked quietly at the Meyrick collection of armour, studying side by side with Delacroix; and he was enormously impressed by Turner's work, which he must have seen at the Academy—introductions to that painter were not easily come by. When he got back to France, he babbled of Turner, as Falstaff of green fields. Bonington found in him a great romantic, who, inspired as the generation was by literature, drew from another source than his own, and realized his ideas in terms of paint as none of the others could. But Bonington's art and thought remained personal despite his overriding influence. He never exaggerated nature. There are Turneresque dreams in his later work, but they are dreams of empty places with only a hint of human life. And what Bonington contrasted with his dreams was the familiar circumstance, the fisherman's punt on the river, or the trader's barge; his crowd scenes are all plain realism in their own street settings—not the peopling of quays from which imagined kings and queens set sail.

I know no positive records of this journey to England, beyond the facts that he went to London, saw the Meyrick collection, was startled by Turner, and returned with Delacroix to France. There are many other suggestions; and if we accept them all, we shall agree that Richard was a rapid traveller. It has been said that he shared Delacroix's tour to Cornwall; paintings of Scotland are also said to exist belonging to this period; there are also tales, most circumstantial, of a journey to Nottingham made at this time according to one account, but later by the other. In our present state of documentary knowledge, the adjustment of these stories must depend on the authenticity of the drawings or sketches that can be found to support them. And even if the few Scottish scenes are genuine, they may have been derived from others of Pernot's sketches than those which Bonington chose for lithography. There is also a marked dearth, indeed a complete absence, of sketches of the country between the latitudes of Lincoln and Edinburgh. Again while the larger quantity, comparatively, of drawings of English shipping enhances the possibility that he went down the south coast on the yacht with Delacroix's "English nobleman" (an army horse-contractor!) Elmore, it can be countered that as he twice made the voyage to England before his last illness, naturally there would be plenty of shipping scenes. There are, indeed, a number of subjects in sale catalogues to which Cornish titles have been given; but such as I have met with lack any really decisive feature to make the title inescapable. My own conclusion is that the Scottish journey is not acceptable, and that if he went to the Midlands in 1825 it was for a flying visit only. The Cornish story is possible, but not yet probable.

These tours would not have left him much time for making new friends—not that this mattered in one respect, for his influence acted directly through his paintings, not through his personality. The Fieldings, who found Delacroix his lodgings, he, of course, already knew; and he met Westall, an academician of some mundane, but no artistic importance. This may be the moment of his closest personal contact with Samuel Prout, who was enough his friend to be chosen his executor. Here, again, is a relationship one would like to understand more fully. Since 1819 Prout had been making tours on the continent, covering the same ground as Richard loved—Rouen, St. Omer, Fécamp, Harfleur, Ghent. Their style can be close enough at times for confusion; they had indeed worked side by side at St. Omer in 1823. Prout, with his more pedestrian emotions, was primarily attracted by the picturesque elements in architecture, and had already popularized this vein in London. Bonington, however, showed nothing of this class at the Academy; he had already outgrown it, and architecture became for him either a vehicle for light or for history.

His quiet, sometimes silent manner may have been an obstacle at his first social encounters in London. He cannot have failed to notice the extent to which he had become a mongrel; in France he was an Englishman, but he was not at home here. One story of the Nottingham journey points this. The Jonathan of his boyhood, Samuel Hulse, met him in the street and addressed him, not as "Parkes", the name he was known by at home, but formally as "Mr. Bonington". Poor Richard was deeply mortified.

The English journey, in so far as it had any effect, helped him to sort out his artistic position. He cannot have felt much in common with the general tendencies of the Academy. Though it is clear that after this visit an impetus was in some way given to his inclination for "fancy subjects", as they were called, or pictures inspired directly or less directly from literature, yet one cannot believe that the English work of this type had enough quality to strike fire from him. Our Academy of 1825 could only have proved to him that the genre was popular here, and to this degree might have encouraged him to carry on the experiments he had begun in 1824. But, as if he had suffered a revulsion, his later work of this sort is but faintly English. The sense of drama was rooted in him; even as a child he had played at theatres with Sam Hulse, making puppet shows and painting his own scenery. His adolescence, passed in France, had taught him nothing of the Englishman's distrust for the dramatic. So, while academy pictures of his class were primarily narrative, his are good theatre; and he used to choose for his scene a moment of higher tension than would the average English painter handling the same subject. France had become his home.

INTRODUCTION

And from this moment landscape took the second rank in his ambitions. He still continued to paint it with the same rapid brilliance and sensibility; but the multitude of commissions, which were to hasten his death, he accepted to make himself free from financial cares, so that he could devote himself to imaginative work. It must not be thought from this that he went in for cheap pot-boiling: on the contrary, Delacroix says that what Richard would throw away as unsatisfactory often seemed to him perfect. But the landscape of his last years, technically admirable as it is, makes no fresh contribution.

The return journey from London was made with Delacroix, and with Alexandre Colin, his great friend, and young Isabey, who had probably gone out with him. They all stopped at St. Omer, that irresistible town, to do some sketching, and as they worked Bonington became aware of a boy who watched them with more than an idler's attention. He spoke to him; the boy had ambitions to be a painter, and was at once sent off to bring his sketches. Correcting, advising, encouraging, Richard looked over them all; perhaps as good a lesson as Jules Cavelier ever had.

And so, sketching and arguing through the now familiar fields of Northern France, they came back to Paris, where Bonington and Delacroix had agreed to share a studio for some months. This was their closest partnership, and one would have liked a day-to-day diary and full records of their conversation. But all we know is Delacroix's comment "il y a terriblement à gagner dans la société de ce luron-là, et je te jure que je m'en suis bien trouvé". Bonington would, no doubt, have said the same. Now begins the series of "fancy-subjects" that made Bonington's reputation with the mid-nineteenth century collectors and that is best represented by the choice of that prince of connoisseurs, Lord Hertford—the Medora (pl. 105), the Francis I and Marguerite of Navarre (pl. 142), The Chibouk (pl. 97), Anne Page and Slender (pl. 95), and therest. Up to this time Bonington had been the dominant partner; but now the other, whose many-faceted mind had grown the slower to maturity, set the pace. Their development is well shown by the only two Delacroix in the Wallace Collection, the Faust and Mephistopheles, in which as has been said Bonington is the master, and the Execution of the Doge Marino Faliero, of 1827, which is wholly personal, in finish, despite the suggestion of a sketch belonging to M. Longa that the idea might have originated with Richard.

By that date Delacroix was on his own way. So, too, was Richard, and the way he took was not altogether Delacroix's, although his artistic outlook was coloured by the other's mind. As we have seen, he had in his student days copied the old masters at the Louvre, beginning with the Dutch and advancing to the Italians. All that was in the natural course of education, and its repercussions were elementary and technical. His admiration for Rubens had meant something more in his life, a revision of his æsthetics; and through the study of his work Richard came back again to the Venetians. But during his stay with Delacroix he seems to have formulated a new theory; to achieve in one picture "la finesse des Hollandais, la vigueur des Vénétiens, et la magie des Anglais" came to be his aim. Eclecticism is a dangerous path, down which many good artists have slipped to the second rank; for the eclectic flirts with the tropes of style; he does not grapple with style itself. Bonington was not allowed time enough for his art to suffer any effect; he died before it could be judged whether he would assimilate, or be swallowed by the new influences to which he willingly surrendered himself. By the end of 1825 his familiarity with the Dutch and Flemish schools was already well grounded; but he still felt the need to know the Venetians more thoroughly. His opportunity came the next year.

After leaving Delacroix, he must have busied himself with preparations for his first contribution to an English exhibition. He sent two landscapes to the British Institution—French Coast (242) and French cast, with Fishermen (256). Of course they sold—his pictures always did—the first to the Countess de Grey and the other to Sir George Jarrender. They are also the theme of a story of the sort that one is most reluctant to explode, because of its core of truth. The tale goes that a newspaper critic—later versions say the critic of the Literary Gazette—denied the existence of Bonington, and asserted that these paintings were the work of William Collins, who though a neat painter and a recently elected R.A. would have been lucky to go three-quarters of the course. All this proves that the English world knew nothing of him, but was at once surprised into recognizing his power. But what the Literary Gazette actually printed was, “Who is R. P. Bonington? We never saw his name in any catalogue before, and yet here are pictures which would grace the foremost name in landscape art. Sunshine, perspective, vigour, a fine sense of beauty in disposing of colours, whether in masses or in mere bits—these are extraordinary ornaments to the rooms.” (4th February, 1826.) A fortnight later the critic burst out into a fresh panegyric of the French Coast, with Fishermen. “Few pictures have more skilfully expressed the character of open sunny daylight than the one under notice, and we have seldom seen an artist make more of the simple materials which the subject afforded. With a broad unfinished pencil, he has preserved the character of his figures and accessories; also a splendid tone of colour, glowing and transparent.” Let us hope that the story is still true, even if of another paper.

In the midst of these preparations at the beginning of 1826, he appears to have made the acquaintance of two English painters. His meeting with young Frederick Tayler (1802–89), who later became something of a personage, achieving foreign decorations and the presidency of the Royal Watercolour Society, has a pleasing informality about it, and shows again Richard’s artless accessibility; for, after all, in Paris he was someone. Apparently the two met at a Calais hotel, when Bonington was on his way back from London. They liked each other, and agreed to take a studio together. The plan did not materialize at once, as Bonington was already pledged to Delacroix, but after a few months in Paris he had taken the large painting room where Horace Vernet had studied horses. Horses were still romantic animals—they had not yet graduated as noble—and the sequel of Tayler’s efforts to paint them must be given in his own words: “I was painting a portrait of a horse for Lord Henry Seymour, when suddenly the French cook entered the room bearing a set of couverts on his head. This so frightened the horse that he broke from the lad who held him and dashed at full speed round the room, kicking out in all directions, to the great danger of Bonington's pictures, which were placed on the ground. A favourite pointer dog of mine left the room, also at full speed, and I could never hear any tidings of it afterwards. Soon after this Bonington returned from Rome."

The story of his second acquaintance is a little more obscure. Henry Ottley's dictionary recounts how Thomas Shotter Boys (1803-74), went to Paris in 1825 and "there he formed an intimacy with R. P. Bonington, who persuaded him to leave engraving and take to painting. Accordingly he studied under this distinguished landscape painter till his deathblow, a coup de soleil received while sketching one day on the Seine." This makes a straightforward story, all the more credible because Boys's work is undeniably influenced by Bonington's, which it resembles as nearly as the artist's talent would allow. But against such a plain position we must set the evidence of William Callow. He knew Boys in Paris in the early 'thirties, and shared a studio with him, taking it over afterwards. "In later years", says Callow in his autobiography, "I have seen it stated that Boys was a pupil of Bonington; but if that had been the case I certainly should have known of it. Boys never spoke to me of having other than a mere acquaintance with Bonington." The point here has no absolute importance; for, though Boys's work has charm at times, it never has real greatness. But in dealing with Bonington and his influence, we cannot neglect any personal channel through which it may have flowed. That Boys was affected by him is clear, and his successful lithographs must have contributed to spread the ripple; Callow's affinity with Bonington may have been born of contact with Boys or with his own master, Newton Fielding. Even if we do not write Boys down as a pupil, we may legitimately assess him as someone who worked near Bonington in the way that Tayler did. And remembering that he was never secret about his methods, we can grasp how revealing even so brief a contact could have been.

In the spring of 1826 the chance came for him to make his bow to Italy. He had been for a few years on easy terms with Baron Rivet (1800-72), a devoted admirer and life-long friend of Delacroix, who o had a practical interest in painting. It has always been assumed that Bonington's views in the neighbourhood of Mantes, where the vet family had land, were taken on visits to him. Rivet prized Bonington's work almost as highly as Delacroix's. He offered to the Louvre a noble landscape after Richard's death, but it was refused with the curt intimation that modern work might be good enough for a circle of connoisseurs but it did not reach the standard demanded by the national museum of France. In a prompt fury Rivet made it an article of faith, with the express injunction that it should never be sold or presented to the Louvre. With such an honest partisan a long journey could be made safely, and in the first week of April they left Paris for the south.

INTRODUCTION

For these few weeks we have the only consecutive narrative of Bonington's life that exists. Rivet kept a diary and supplemented it by letters home, extracts from which M. Dubuisson was permitted by the descendants to publish in the Revue de l'Art ancienne et moderne of 1909. It is sad that this precious account should picture him for us only in decline. The atmosphere was hectic with a sense of impending doom. Across the mountains of Switzerland and during the descent to the Italian plain, Richard could hardly use his eyes; his passionate longing to be in Venice anesthetized all the romanticism that the first sight of the Alps stirred in the correct traveller. Switzerland was for him a country of rain and obstructive avalanches, of difficulties which must be overcome before the promised land was reached. He had sketched in the Franche-Comté, and made a few notes of peasant costume, but the beauties of Brieg and Sion, which had so moved Turner, he drew only for form's sake. Milan, indeed, did rouse him; in Sant Ambrogio he found the subject of a most patrician watercolour. But thereafter things were too slow for him; exquisite Verona, and Palladian Vicenza were hardly glimpsed. Everywhere it rained.

And it rained at Venice, too; it never stopped. The grey lagoons were lead, not silver. It was not surprising that Rivet wrote, "he is in a dismal mood. He ought always to have someone with him to make him laugh." They took their pleasures simply enough—coffee in the piazza, La Semirade eternally performed at the baroque Fenice, and then an ice for six Austrian sous.

By day Bonington worked with a furious, angry energy, determined not to be cheated by the vile weather, battenning down his depressions. And even if Venice did not at once offer to him the inspiration of her sunlight, her architecture ravished him; his pen and pencil sketches of the palaces and shipping on the canals and of St. Mark's Square are among the finest of his life. It was a fertile and prolific moment. At last the skies relented, and he then fought to capture the miraculously un-harsh clarity of the Venetian light, which enhanced all the colours to a brilliance that not even he had imagined. Fascinated with these new problems, he was with difficulty cajoled to complete the rest of their plan, and he regretted giving in. At a later stage Rivet, perhaps his mouthpiece in this, says "I hardly like to admit that Raphael looks to me all brick colour. I have been spoiled by the Venetian school." And again, "Bonington has said nothing since we left the lagoons. He regrets Venice, though she treated him so badly with her rain and incessant storms, and he left the place with the presentiment he would never see it again." Poor Rivet! The friends of genius deserve brighter crowns.

Padua, Ferrara, that jewel of the Renaissance, then on to Bologna where the leaning towers under a broken sky stirred Bonington from his lethargy, and so across the Apennines to Florence—an American rush of five days. But at some point, possibly short of Florence, the two must have parted company, and Bonington turned south to Rome. I make this suggestion on the strength of a sketch in M. Gobin's Collection, undoubtedly authentic (pl. 92), of the Trinita de' Monti and of the drawing "St. Jean de Latéran" (Louvre 22758). It is supported by Tayler's statement, already quoted (p. 32), that Richard returned from Rome. It is very noticeable that Rivet has little to say of the week at Florence, and there are not many drawings to record. The few he made there are well enough, but were not conceived in what a later generation of romantics was to call un saisissement d'artiste. One has the feeling that Richard was still unable to look at anything that was not Venetian.

Yet the unfriendly rain at Venice had had certain merits. In fine weather Bonington would never have torn himself from the eventful streets and canals. Driven in by the wet, he had time to study the Venetian painters profoundly. It was his work at the Academia, where a letter of introduction worked wonders and enabled them "even to touch the pictures", that had a lasting effect on his style. Here he studied in quiet ease the greatest of the great Venetians, Titian, Tintoret, and Veronese, the last holding his fancy longest. Some of his imaginative paintings, the conversations on balconies in particular, seem like short stories developed from a theme hinted in the background of a Veronese. Indeed the pictures of the past had a quite unusual significance for him, which is without parallel. Bonington has been accused of borrowing or adapting figures from the old masters. But there seems to me to be no case of plagiarism, any more than a historical novel can be called plagiarism. He treated the old masters just as he did Scott's novels or the chroniclers. He could turn a phrase from Woodstock into a picture that was more than mere illustration, because it had elements of its own, or he could as easily continue the amours of one of Terborch's gallants in another setting or with another lady. In this respect he is entirely a creative borrower. So receptively imaginative was he, and so rightly attuned to painting, that the characters in pictures of the past were flesh and blood to him, whose past and future he could detail to you.

INTRODUCTION

He came home to Paris—even the colour notes on his drawings are now written in French—to find a pleasant nest-egg. The money from sales of his pictures had come in, and everything on hand had been disposed of. The news had come to him in Italy, and Rivet recorded that "he finds himself in possession of a capital sum of 7,000 or 8,000 francs earned since January. It is splendid and I have advised him to buy a house when he gets back." Sound, typically French advice, which Bonington rejected. Instead he took a large studio, 32 Rue St. Lazare, and there he lived in a fever of industry. Ideas for pictures were inescapable, the scenery of Venice, the characters of Veronese, of Scott, Shakespeare, Byron, de Thou, and all the sixteenth century—months of surfeiting inspiration. There was to be a Salon in 1827; there was also the not yet interminable Academy; perhaps, too, he would prepare something for the British Institution.

Then there were as well the collectors to be served, who admired and steadily bought his work. Chief among these was Lewis Brown, of Bordeaux. The only obituary of him I have found depicts the ideal collector-patron. He had in an equal degree the passion to possess, the zest to strive and travel for possession, an almost feminine tact in his dealings with artists, sensitive appreciation, and true standard.

When he lay dying of dropsy, it is said that he thanked all the artists who had, perhaps to their own detriment, contributed to his pleasure by producing work in the size and medium that he preferred. His one remaining wish was to settle in Paris and to found a gallery in which their more durable works in oil could be properly represented (L'Artiste 1^{re} série, tome XII). His admiration, it was almost idolatry, for Richard never left him. The evening before he died he finished a copy from one of his drawings, and the last drawings he purchased were a parcel of Bonington's work. His collection of Boningtons, the finest and most comprehensive in style ever formed, was sold in two sections by Schroth, the first part during his life in 1834, and the main body a few months after his death in 1837. According to the note in L'Artiste the proceeds of this sale of more than a hundred works rose to over 43,000 francs. The principal buyer was the Comte (Prince?) Demidoff, who paid 10,022 francs for four pictures—Un Antiquaire, Vue de Rouen, Une Plage à Marée basse, and Un Veillard et une petite Fille, the last, a watercolour "à peine grande comme la main", brought over half this sum. Other buyers who formed important collections were M. Paul Perier, M. Dubois, and the dealers Susse Frères and the great Durand-Ruel, with M. le Comte Maison as an unlucky underbidder. John Lewis Brown, junior, the collector's son, also bought important pictures, which were among the sixty he sold in 1843.

Another collector, of whose personality I have found no trace, was Captain W. Webb. Some sixty-five paintings and drawings by Bonington passed at auction from his hands between 1832 and 1837. We read also of Bonington's rich acquaintance, M. Montfort, who presumably bought from him. Not long after his death other collections certainly built up during his life in France were sold, such as that of M. A. P. Coutan, the great impresario and a firm friend to the modern painters, or the Duc de Rivoli's. He was never safe for long from commissions. Baron Taylor flits in and out to pick up another portfolio of lithographs for the Franche Comté volume of his endlessly picturesque France. Whether all the plates were made from Richard's own designs may be doubted, for some are dated 1825, and we do not know that he visited the Franche Comté before 1826. Others, however, are dated 1827, and these alone give some scale to his activity. For he also had got ready for the Salon two oils of major importance in his new style—Francis I and Marguerite of Navarre, and Henry IV and the Spanish Ambassador. Both had been carefully prepared from preliminary drawings. He also sent two Venetian landscapes, The Ducal Palace and The Entrance to the Grand Canal. It must have been a beautiful sight to see these in all their full freshness between a Constable and a Corot. There was a fifth, too, a watercolour, The Tomb of St. Omer, that all who saw it mentioned with reverence then and later. It was destroyed twenty years after his death in the sack of the Palais Royal.

He also found time in the summer to pay another visit to England. This time he had the self-confidence to use Mrs. Forster's introduction to Lawrence, who, as befitted his courtly brush and capacity as an amateur actor, played the presidential host to perfection. A kind surprise crept out that so young a man had so much talent; the inn-keeper's son had forgotten, or did not care to remember his own début in crayon portraits at the age of twelve. But he redeemed himself magnificently, at the same time showing his judgment, by the purchase of some important paintings at Bonington's posthumous sale.

More practical were the relations he established with dealers and engravers in England. Letters in the possession of Mr. Westley Manning show that he had received commissions from Colnaghi, and that he was in treaty for a Venetian view to be engraved by the able W. I. Cooke. But he was worried by the pictures not coming up to his standard—the Père La Chaise drawing would not do. He was worried that he was behind the clock with his orders. And yet he had more work to do for Mr. Carpenter of Bond Street.—And his friend, Mr. Barnett of Tottenham Court Road, was only too active in furthering his fame, proposing "drawings from Shakespeare with views, Venice, etc., but neither did he mention the size, nor whether you wished the figures or the background to be the principal".

He moved to a larger studio at the end of this year, still in the Rue St. Lazare, No. 11, to have more room for his many activities. These English commissions were not the only ones. Even Jal, the critic, had mentioned his paintings in the Salon with the nearest terms to praise he could find for a member of the new school. And without any orders there would still have been enough to do, for he had definitely decided to attack the Academy next year, and if possible the British Institution.

Both objectives were achieved. But the two pictures he sent to the Institution—View of the Piazzetta near the Square of St. Mark, Venice (198), and The Ducal Palace at Venice (314)—had a mixed reception, though the latter was bought by Robert Vernon and later bequeathed by him to the National Gallery. The Literary Gazette critic, since his first outburst, regarded Bonington as his own discovery, and wrote of the second picture, "if it possessed a little more sunniness of effect, this fine picture might challenge comparison with the best of Canaletti's works. It has all the truth of the camera-obscura. The execution is masterly, not only in the buildings, water, etc., but also in the figures, which are numerous, and to which, by a few bold and well placed touches, Mr. Bonington has given a character and expression rarely to be seen in the productions of this branch of the arts." (The critic did not know how cold poor Richard had been in Venice.) The New Monthly Magazine was more reserved. "Not a bad attempt at Canaletti, but it wants the peculiar and 'individual' effects of the buildings by that master." Fewer doubts assailed the London Weekly Review. "The Ducal Palace in Venice is by far the most spirited drawing in the Exhibition. The Piazzetta is a small canvas, and the execution is miserably cold and meagre, but the Palace is really beautiful, the deep blue sky, the gloomy Palladian architecture and the scenic groups of characteristic figures are all purely, uniquely Venetian." La Belle Assemblée wrote in similar tones of the Ducal Palace, which "possessed great merit, every object in the piece is remarkable for its distinctness, but it strikes us that the almost total absence of air tint is a defect. The picture would have been yet more valuable had it shown anything like imaginative power in the artist." Well, certainly they were notices; and to have been taken up from the first was a great asset commercially—the historical series became almost feasible. And at least these suffice to show the quick response of the public eye to Bonington's work, explaining how readily his influence was accepted by contemporary painters. But how Richard must have cursed "Canaletti".

There were no doubts, however, over the quality of his work at the Academy. "In a very short period", writes the Literary Gazette (24th May, 1828), "this able artist has so distinguished himself by the brilliant character of his pencil, that his name to any piece is a sufficient guarantee of its excellence" (so forgers have found). The London Weekly Review mentioned the Grand Canal (470) as "something in the broad style of rout. The perspective of the long sheet of tranquil water is extremely true, but the atmosphere is hardly warm enough for Venice." The reserve of the New Monthly Magazine was quite swept away. After noting the influence of Italian masters on him, the critic goes on, "The first of these is a bold and stately picture of Henry III of France, certainly unfinished, but displaying a power and breadth of style that shows the hand of a master. The imbecile king and his flatterers are very cleverly contrasted with the figures of the Spanish and Austrian Envoys. The second, which is a brilliantly coloured view of the Grand Canal at Venice, and the third, which is a quiet English Landscape sic, 'Coast Scene') show the versatility of the gentleman's pencil." It was universally agreed that the Henry III and the Spanish Ambassadors was scandalously hung; it appears that you had almost to go on all fours to see it; but many distinguished gentlemen, among them Allan Cunningham, that happy confectioner of inaccurate biographies, stooped to conquer. The Literary Gazette again leaped in to protect Bonington's interest. " 'Who put my man in the stocks?' said the indignant Lear, after having found his faithful adherent in that unenviable position. With a similar feeling we say, Who put this picture here? Why is the pain of stooping till one's back is nearly broken to be inflicted as the price of the pleasure of looking at this able performance? . . . The mantel-piece of the Great Room would have been the proper place for this picture", etc.

INTRODUCTION

While journalists in London were marshalling their best adjectives, Richard was in Paris, visibly wasting. The preparation of these pictures had been a great strain. He had also completed work for James Carpenter to the value of 125 guineas, which was paid him on 23rd February, 1828. A View of the Grand Canal with the Salute Church was among the work covered by this bill. With the fatal optimism of the consumptive, he tried to recover from this fatigue by another tour of his beloved Normandy. Huet, like himself, gentle, silent, and a loyal friend, was to join him: he was ready to set out, when on a pouring wet evening the news came that Richard's strength had failed. They never met again. Then followed a nightmare struggle against death. Nothing would stop him working. Typically enough, of the two companions who watched over him, one was an Englishman, Henderson, the other a French doctor, the brother of Richard's friend, the painter Carrier. They managed to take him out each day to the Bois for a little air. By July he was already very much an invalid, and a pathetic letter to the painter, Gaudefroy, contains details of the chair he would need. The climax came through sunstroke, as he lay sketching by the side of the green Seine.

St. John Long, an Irishman, had established, despite two charges of manslaughter brought by the friends of deceased patients, a fashionable practice in Harley Street, treating cases of rheumatism and consumption. Perhaps it was inevitable that Richard's father should seek out just such a quack; he always wanted a quick return, and the alternative of settling in the South of France was too slow a cure. So the whole Bonington ménage, father, mother, son and the spinster aunt, Miss Parkes, transported themselves slowly to London. Richard was still preoccupied about his commissions. They reached Abbeville on 6th September, and he got his parents to send word thence to Mr. Barnett, explaining the change in his plans, and asking for rooms to be engaged for them all. He could write no more than his signature. Once in London, he lingered for a few days, staying with Barnett at 29 Tottenham Court Road. His mind was still vigorously driving what was left of his body. Though very weak, he was taken to see Cooke, his engraver, who was experimenting with a new ink that Shotter Boys had advised. He was all enthusiasm, making pen and brush sketches, and saying how he would try the vehicle further when he was a little better. The account of this scene by Cooke's pupil, John Saddler, describes him as "lying on two or three chairs". Saddler piously collected the sketches from the waste paper basket, as the last things Richard did. This visit was his last. Not long before his twenty-sixth birthday, he died on 23rd September, "perfectly calm and in full possession of his reason almost to the end".

Ceremonial is our national outlet for the emotions, and it must have consoled the Boningtons that a pomp of Academicians, headed by Lawrence himself, accompanied the cortège. The funeral service was read by the Rev. T. J. Judkin, a parson of Hampstead and an amateur painter, who flitted about the artistic circle writing eulogistic sonnets. Lawrence went home to send an account of the scene to Mrs. Forster (who had introduced them), in which he alluded to Richard tactfully is the most promising young painter since Harlow, and Old Bonington then crossed back to France to clear up his son's effects. The phrase can almost be taken literally, for the catalogue of the Coutan Sale of 1830 commented that his work had become very scarce in Paris as the family had removed it all to England. It is also said that he was so violent in demanding back from the Carliers the drawings Richard had given them, that they were handed over to avoid prolonging an unpleasant scene.

INTRODUCTION

There is no doubt that the father capitalized his grief; his references to it bear no trace of dignity. Carefully and gradually he was building up the legend that he had been the perfect father of deceased genius, fostering, encouraging, guiding. The earliest obituaries are in this vein, though within two or three years other versions than his own were current. And if he had been violent in dispossessing the Carliers of their property, his approach to Colnaghi and Prout, whose assistance he needed, was almost servile. His intention was to sell Richard's work; and he formed a sort of consultative committee of Barnett, at whose house Richard had died, Prout, Clarkson Stanfield, and, presumably, William Wyld the executor. Barnett dropped out when his wife died early in the spring of 1829, and Colnaghi seems to have offered to lend his gallery for an exhibition at which the pictures could be bought. Finally, however, auction was the method agreed upon, and eighty oils and six hundred and five watercolours and drawings were dispersed at Sotheby's for £2,296 (29th and 30th June). Old Bonington had calculated on getting twenty-five guineas for the larger, and twenty for the smaller oils; Prout supported him on the first figure, but doubted the second. It is quite possible, therefore, that some oils were bought in, though the recurrence of their titles in subsequent sales is not absolute proof, as Richard often made repetitions or variants of a successful subject.

Even if all of the prices did not satisfy the sanguine father, the interest created by the sale must have done so. The list of purchasers contained distinguished names—the Duke of Bedford, the Marquesses of Lansdowne and Stafford, Lord Charles Townshend, Lord Cawdor, Lord Wharncliffe, Samuel Rogers, the banker and collector, and Seguiet, the Keeper of the King's pictures. Dealers' names occur as well, notably Colnaghi, Tiffin, and Carpenter, who had something of a flair for the work of young painters. From a historical point of view it is more important to notice the artists among the buyers. Stanfield, Roberts, and perhaps George Jones bought sketches in oil and other mediums, not as collectors, but out of lively admiration. These pictures which they owned and studied were not without effect on their work. It was as a collector, rather than as an artist, that Lawrence bought; he had already acquired "the Turk" when it was shown at the British Institution earlier in 1829. At the same time purchases from the man who owned the finest collection of old master drawings in England, one of the finest indeed ever formed, must be regarded as a tribute of respect.

The sale had fired the English world of art and artists, and Bonington's name began to hold something of the same position here as it had held in France. Connoisseurs were talking and buying Bonington. Dealers were getting good prices, twice as much as the painter had ever asked; and one of them, Carpenter of Bond Street, who published a number of prints from his work, had been discussing him with Constable. The elder painter wrote, "You do me an injustice in supposing I despise poor Bonington. I despise no man—but Collins the Royal Academician. Can you give me a print or two of Bonington's to convince you that I don't wholly overlook him. But there is a moral feeling in Art as everything else. It is not right in a young man to assume great dash—great complection—without study—or pains." The tone of jealousy cannot be missed. Constable's dangerous tongue was always at its worst when he was finishing against time for the Academy. As so often with him, the criticism cut because it exaggerated a germ of truth: Huet had the same thing in mind when he attributed Richard's success with the public to a superficial brilliance of touch. Indeed there can be in his last years something of the opera-singer, who sacrifices the music to the note.

But the public interest did not flag. The issue of prints and lithographs, and the notices of them in the contemporary papers attest it. His works in Sir Thomas Lawrence's sale went for fair prices to Colnaghi, Moon, another dealer, and Lord Northwick, a fine judge. More surprising was an attempt in 1832 by the despised Collins and Seguier to organize the purchase of a Bonington for the nation. The publication of a long biography in the Library of Fine Arts was part of the propaganda for the scheme; and Arnold's Magazine followed suit in the next year. Both wrote at length of the Henry III and the Spanish Ambassadors, which may have been the picture in Seguier's mind. Constable also was approached, but he had still some acid left. Perhaps the price, £500, was the real stumbling block, for nothing came of the project. Gradually the enthusiasm for Bonington began to have a widespread influence, for instance, a critic in 1832 remarked it in Thomas Holland's work—and he could have quoted more examples. We cannot but admire the astuteness of old Bonington, who sat by and held his hand while the fire was catching.

In 1834 he judged that the market had absorbed what was offered at the first sale. The moment, therefore, was ripe for unloading another part of his stock. This time his method was more elaborate. He took the Cosmoramic Gallery in Regent Street (high-sounding name), and there held a well-attended exhibition. "We observed Etty, Collins, Westmacott, and Phillips among the apparently delighted spectators", wrote Arnold's Magazine of Fine Arts, "and we cannot give a better opinion, generally, respecting the works of Art under consideration, than by adopting the language of the venerable Stothard. . . . 'They are very clever.'" To raise the level of the collection and to increase its snob-appeal, he borrowed some important works from noble owners, such as the Duke of Bedford, the Marquess of Westminster, and Lord de Grey. These he interspersed with his own property, and was careful now that the story of Richard's juvenile prowess was well established to add a fair sprinkling of early works. The point was well taken by the New Monthly Magazine. "As a study to young artists, we are presented with some of Bonington's earliest drawings showing how the young idea advanced from its first faint drawings to the full maturity of honour and success. Besides these, the exhibition contains some truly characteristic sketches and studies from the living model, in the execution of which simplicity is happily blended with freedom. These last will afford the professor, as well as the amateur, ample field for study and enjoyment. . . . The works of Bonington are now universally appreciated, and bear enormous prices, the connoisseurs having found that in 1834, a painting is worth £300, which, in 1828, would have been gladly given for £30."

Old Bonington used to sit at the door, taking the shilling entrance fee, and one must record the agreeable story that observing the frequent and enthusiastic visits of a young man (the "P.A.L." of Notes and Queries) he gave him free admittance till the exhibition closed. Once the doors were shut, all the collection was packed up and run across to King Street, where Christie's offered it in a two days sale on 23rd and 24th May.

BONINGTON

This sale has been incorrectly represented as occurring after old Bonington's death—in fact he lived two years longer. Fosters sold or offered for sale by order of the executrix what was left over on 6th May, 1836, and the final gleanings of the family collection were dispersed at Sotheby's on 10th February, 1838, well after Mrs. Bonington's death. By that time few important oils were left, and the sale was padded out by including old Bonington's copies of his son's work, and the works of other artists. Their names suggest Richard's friendships, and so are worth recording—Charlet, Boys, Holland, Isabey, Prout, Brockedon, Monnier, and Bentley. But for anybody attempting to study Bonington's art, the collection would have had the greatest interest. It included, for instance, all the lost juvenilia, and the early experiments in oil. There were many of his preparatory studies for important pictures, a few portraits, and copies after artists as varied in taste as Rembrandt, Feti, and Rubens.

After this brief fanfare, the secret of Bonington's genius was confided, as so often in England, to a handful of artists and collectors. It was never broadcast to the general public. His first picture to enter the National Gallery was given by Robert Vernon in 1847; the second came in 1910 with the Salting Bequest, while two others were presented in 1927. The finest English collection of Boningtons, formed in France by the last Lord Hertford, was with many other masterpieces grudgingly accepted by the nation in 1897. So much for official interest.

Either this official attitude, or the more positive effects of Ruskin's emphasis on the Italian primitives, and the pallid survival of the grand tour tradition diverted our national interest and admiration from our own art to that of other countries. Artistic scholarship had little concern for anything later than 1800; and so we failed to observe the continuity of the best English tradition. And what these forces accomplished for the intelligentsia, the influence of Lawrence did for the painters of his age and the next generation. The birth and develop-ent of the French nineteenth school took place in the decent obscurity of France; the potential importance to English art of Turner and Constable was buried with them; and almost the only English painters to feel Bonington's influence were those who had studied in Paris. Naturally, therefore, he was overlooked here, while he maintained his position across the Channel. Though his father had brought back as much of his work as he could to be sold in England, it drifted back again to France as the original purchasers died, and only in the last fifty years or so has the process been reversed, and his pictures have been found homes in England. To Horace Walpole's words that we do not always err in vaunting our own productions should be added that we err more often in forgetting them.

INTRODUCTION

II

THE CHRONOLOGY OF THE PAINTINGS

THE BRIEF account I have given of Bonington's life will have shown on how tenuous a thread our knowledge hangs. Fashions of taste change rapidly; and unless a painter is lucky enough to find a biographer within a few years of his death, he is not likely to find one for another fifty. Meanwhile the flash of intimacy has gone, the flesh of his personality has shrunk and perished, and the ardent researcher finds only laundry bills and the skeleton. With Richard the case is the more accentuated, since he died so long before the term of his generation, and it was nearly a hundred years before a work of any importance was devoted to his memory, when MM. Dubuisson and Hughes published and reproduced such an assemblage of his pictures as made his reputation safe with the student.

But even so the question of chronology is still open, and the frontiers of authenticity ill-defined. There can be few painters, and certainly very few English painters, whose work has been the subject of so much controversy and disagreement. Not that there exists in print any great body of criticism, where the case for and against accepting this or that painting as genuine is fully argued. Such problems have so far been eagerly debated in private and no finality has been reached. Therefore my idea in this section is to offer a theory of Bonington's progress as a painter, and to try to establish a series of pictures that are authentic beyond question. If any such series can be generally accepted, it will be infinitely easier to carry the work further and to extend the canon, distinguishing more exactly the overlapping of Callow, Boys, Prout or Pritchett on the English side, and of Delacroix, Roqueplan, Huet, Isabey, and others in France, thus approaching a final estimate of his powers and of his position in the early nineteenth century movement. Such a narrow objective seems to me preferable in the present state of Bonington scholarship. In attempting a definitive list at this juncture mistakes would be made undoubtedly, and any good work that might have been done would be wrecked in a sea of erroneous detail.

Obstacles to clarity are many and various. If little is recorded of Richard's life, there are as few fixed points in the history of his art. Rarely did he date his pictures or sketches in his early years; and although we know more or less the dates of his tours, some of them covered the same country and therefore may not give an exact criterion for dating his work. Again, like so many other artists, he would repeat a successful subject, sometimes in oil, sometimes in watercolour; and though we may perhaps be able to tie down the first version to a given year, the repetitions may vary in date. Then, there is the problem of title, universal for the student of landscape—"Paysage", "Marine", "Beach with Fisherfolk" can cover a hundred subjects, and without an impeccable pedigree one is often at a loss to identify even an exhibited subject. More troublesome still is the difficulty of marrying literary and artistic evidence. One may know of a tour and yet be able to show no paintings for it; or there may be a drawing, say, of Brittany or Bordeaux without a sentence to show he ever went there. All this makes it easier to see the trees than the wood.

In order to see the wood as well, we must take in turn the established points in his career, and connect them as best we may. At the risk of mistakes, a system of dating must be provided, that may or will appear at first too black and white. While a fair number of Bonington's pictures and drawings can be placed with tolerable certainty there is a protean variety in his imagination, and often he would throw off some experiment eccentric to the general trend of his development, which thus becomes harder to date. Again, ill-health caused an unevenness in the work of his last two years, which can be very disconcerting. But only by controverting a system of dates can we get, I think, towards a truer knowledge and interpretation of his career, and the brevity of an eight years' span, in which every month had value to the painter, must excuse a precision otherwise exaggerated.

It is important, therefore, to emphasize at the outset that only one unquestionable picture or drawing is known with a genuine date before 1825—the Hon. Mrs. David Bowes-Lyon's Marly (pl. 20), an oil which is dated 1823. Prior to this is a panel in Mr. Turner's Collection, Notre Dame with the Pont des Arts (pl. 11), on the back of which is a more or less contemporary label bearing the date 1820.¹ Obviously, then, a reconstruction of Bonington's style during these formative years can only be a matter of opinion, supported by the documentary evidence of his tours, or by arguments based on observation. But some attempt to know the painter at this age is necessary if one is to dis-entangle the cross-influences of the English and French painters in the early nineteenth century.

After 1823, his development is—I will not say plain-sailing—but at least less difficult to follow. It is freely annotated with inscribed dates and signatures, forged and genuine, and the prolific output of the great Italian tour of 1826 makes an admirable landmark. We know, at least, that no Italian subject can be earlier in date, though equally one must beware of writing them all off to the one year, as a great many impressions were worked up later at his studio in the Rue St. Lazare. But, lest the problem of resurrecting this Prince Charming of landscape painters should become too simple, it here reverses itself. In the first period our trouble is to say what is a Bonington, to separate his work first from Francia's and then from Huet's or Prout; later, when he has become the centre of admiring imitation, our task is to distinguish what is not a Bonington.

¹ Lord Berners also has a genuine sketch in oil, A Sailor holding an Oar, in the same manner, with a date on another canvas at the back, 1820. A painting of A Bridge over a River, formerly on loan to the Brooklyn Museum, but known to me only from the reproduction in Dubuisson & Hughes, p. 31, is signed and dated R P Bonington 1821. The form of the signature, admirably clear in the plate, is otherwise unknown to me; and one might hesitate before accepting the date as genuine. The Roadside Halt; Edge of a Wood (pl. 12), in a private collection, also is known to me only by photograph; it is signed RPB 1820, and so far as one can tell is authentic.

It is a rough and ready rule that between an important artist's life and work there is some correspondence. The neat practitioner, like Stothard, goes in the same style for sixty years of uneventful life. Rembrandt, Raphael, or Constable change their styles in response to spiritual or material crises. Of Bonington we know too little that is intimate to be able to interpret the development and art at the same time. But, as has been said in the biographical chapter, there is no mistaking the change that comes over him after his visit to England in 1825 and again after his journey to Italy. I think it probable that the impulse to revise his opinions and orientation was born at the "English" Salon of 1824. The work done in that year is transitional, sometimes looking forward, sometimes proceeding from the old vein. Then come the wonderful years of the English and Italian tours, coloured by the passion of or for Mrs. Dalton and the sense of approaching death. The ebb of his talent is disturbed by the unevenness that comes of ill-health.

It is best to begin our study of his art through his early work in oil, if only because it gives us the sole certain points of chronology. The Notre Dame and the Pont des Arts (pl. 11) has a simple, uncomplicated accomplishment in its construction; it is the plain statement of a moment that has been understood—the Parisian twilight when the cathedral has become a mass rather than a series of vivid architectural perspectives, when the colour is dying from the sky and the Seine, and the little becs de gaz will soon be the only visible points; a moment of quiet transition. In the placid sky and water are the elements of which Bonington was later to enhance the beauty. But his technical treatment of the theme is that of the watercolourist. The rendering of the river in broad washes of colour, the flatness of the sky do not belong to oil technique, towards which he makes an effort only in the little dots of impasto that point the street-lamps so effectively and are the essence of the scene. There are two other views of Paris in the same mood and style, one in the collection of Mr. Atherton Curtis (formerly M. A. M. Bracquemond's), and the other, exhibited some years ago by M. Gobin, belonging to M. Strölin.

Bonington's artistic descent from Girtin is perhaps more obvious in these oils than in his watercolours, where Francia's interpretation of that influence is at first more salient. The only oil by Girtin known to me (in Sir George Beaumont's Collection) has much the same qualities of charm and technical weakness. I do not wish to suggest that this, or others by him, were known to Bonington, but that Girtin's effect is clearer here for the removal of Francia's trappings. Once perceived, it will be found again and again throughout the early period.

We know from the sale catalogues that Bonington had made attempts in oil before he left Calais, even if we cannot now identify those mentioned. But a few landscapes in public and private collections show characteristics similar to those of the paintings already discussed. At the Musée Magnin, Dijon, is a sea-piece with an effect of departing storm (pl. 7), painted with the same broad and fluid touch, a little empty, one might say, of event and colour incident, but yet conveying an impression well enough. Again, Besançon has a Marine—mer orageuse (pl. 7) constructed and handled on the same principles. In both of them the essentials of a Bonington picture are present though the scale of colour is lower than his achievements a year or two later, they have the subdued freshness of the English watercolour school, which he derived from Francia. The cumulative effect of small local weaknesses in each make me feel that they are earlier efforts—say 1818–19—than the group of Paris views. Presumably they were studio works, built up from pencil or colour sketches made near Calais; at least we may perhaps suppose so in default of evidence that he left Paris between 1818 and 1820. On the other hand M. Gobin has an oil, Les Deux Moulins sur les Dunes (pl. 15), rather more carefully worked up in surface and a little more brilliant in general effect, that we should be justified in placing after the Paris group, in 1821, when we know he was touring Normandy, and could have found scenery of this type.

And here we should turn aside for a moment. In the Musée de Picardie, Amiens, is an able and charming sketch of a sea shore with a distant storm cloud, its colours reflected in the sea towards the horizon. It is very much in the spirit of this type of Bonington, the simple, fresh statement of a young man's work. Fortunately it is signed with the initials of Victor Dupré (1818–78), brother of the better-known Jules; and after this warning we can easily see the essential differences—a rather sticky sky, flashier paint in the foreground, and instead of the slatey grey in Bonington's storm cloud a suggestion that Prussian blue has been used. Though it should not deceive one, the picture's unmistakable ancestry has importance for us. Bonington's work, even of his earliest phases, continued as a force in France well after his death. This picture could not have been done much before 1840; it is reasonably competent. And a French watercolour in the Carnavalet, Paris from the Quai des Augustins, gives a parallel. It was formerly attributed to Bonington, but one is saved from any pitfall, not only by the character of the figures, but by the Tricolor flying from one of the buildings, which, as M. Max Terrier pointed out, proves the drawing to have been made after 1830. In its style, however, it recalls Richard's work of 1822.

From this nucleus of early oil-paintings, we can perhaps go still further back to his first beginnings at Calais—View in a French Town, belonging to Mr. Arthur Morrison. This is quite obviously an immature picture, but its immaturity differs from that of the work we have already described. Whereas in them the paint was thin and fluid, here we have a boy who feels that you have only got to slap it on thick to succeed. He failed and learnt his lesson, as we know. Yet even in this failure there are the bones of his personal style. I do not stress the choice of subject—that is easily picked up—but the value given to the houses beyond the church. It is to be found again in M. Gobin's La Bouille (pl. 16) and in many later works. More obviously suggestive is the emphatic drawing of the shutters on the right; ignore the heavy-handed lack of skill, and the decorative intention could be paralleled in many later pictures, particularly in the Italian scenes. There is a touch of blue in the foreground, that forecasts the full-bodied blue of the mature painter; the figures are squat, as always. I have written of this picture at greater length than its æsthetic importance demands, partly because the attribution of early works is always hazardous. Here, indeed, it is doubly rash, for evidently the picture did not satisfy the painter, who, failing to bring off the effect he aimed at in the shadows under the bridge, has blacked them out. But if my view that this is a Bonington is accepted, its historical importance is considerable, since it must be the earliest yet known. It would suggest, too, a curious pattern in his technical preferences, quite intelligible in view of what we know of his work. After this first failure, his attention was caught, as Delacroix noted, by the Dutch paintings at the Louvre, which partly explains the thinness of his next style, he did not understand their glazing then, but was trying to get its effect. He then reverts to a richer fatter scale of paint, which Wilson and his derivatives in England would have used. We find this development in 1823, emphasized in the next year by his acquaintance with Constable's work. Finally he abandons this for good, and the last two years of his life are devoted to his eclectic attempt to combine the virtues of the Dutch and Venetian schools, the surface and transparency of the one and the colour of the second.

These early oils foreshadow the mind with which we shall grow more familiar. Already Bonington has set out on his twofold quest for the beauty of light and the beauties of architecture. Simply and without complication he sets down the departing storm; the violence of the emotional sky does not disturb the slower sea. From the first a certain repose of mind governs his reactions to landscape, for he never tried to whip up romanticism to the highest pitch. Unlike the young Isabey, he does not select the storm on sea and land. His colour scheme is fresh, but not yet brilliant. In architecture he has shown his instinct for the decisive line—not the encircling contour, but the line which conveys at once the decorative effect of a building. And the same qualities are to be found in such early watercolours and drawings as we know.

The first of these, at the Musée Magnin, Dijon, is inscribed in an almost contemporary hand "Par Bonington à Rouen". The reading of the last word is doubtful, and should it be correct, the subject must be wrongly identified. The tall houses which rise so sharply from the fore-shore and the boats beached on it were never built on the Seine estuary. The character of the scene seems to me to be English, and if this is so, the drawing must be his "Last of England". The whole thing is very simple and very immature; there are no subtleties of colour, no sureness of drawing, no complexity of design. All the same, the shapes and lay-out of the composition seem to suggest his hand rather than any other's, though the acceptance of this drawing must remain at present a matter of opinion, like Mr. Morrison's View in a French Town.

We are on firmer ground with the Louvre drawing of L'Eglise de S. Wulfran, Abbeville (pl. 1), of which there is a copy at the Musée de Picardie, Amiens. All the apparatus of early Bonington is here; the attractions of early Gothic and the picturesque half-timbered houses; moreover, a crowd of squat, ill-drawn Normans clatters over the cobble street. It has great verve, but too many events and too little grasp of the subject, like a good story told by a callow novelist. A view of Paris with S. Sulpice (pl. 3), in M. Pierre Maurois's possession, has the same virtues and defects—a certain brilliant neatness, but a lack of perspective and a lack of emphasis. One would say that both these drawings came from a hand less well formed than that which painted Notre Dame and the Pont des Arts: and therefore they cannot be placed later than 1819. Whether the Abbeville drawing represents a reconstruction of an earlier note—it is of a fair size—or whether it implies an unknown first tour to Normandy, one cannot yet say. But I think it will become clear from the sequence of drawings to be detailed that it cannot belong to the 1821 tour. A large watercolour in Mr. Atherton Curtis's Collection, engraved in 1829 by Reeves, View of Calais Harbour (pl. 6), shows the same readiness to accept detail; and the outline of the houses recalls the oil of Paris in the same collection, though the drawing is not yet secure. Similar qualities are found in a watercolour belonging to Mr. C. E. Russell, Notre Dame and the Pont des Arts. Nor has the Part of a Ruined Church (B.M. 10-38) the decisive touch that would entitle it to a later date; an early inscription, "at Granville, nr. Honfleur", attaches it to the same area of place and time as the Abbeville drawing at the Louvre, but the pencil work is so tremulous that one hesitates before accepting it as genuine.

The most characteristic feature of the Eglise S. Wulfran, Abbeville, is the sky, even though the white with which it is heightened has perished a little. The sharp edges and diagonal drift of the clouds are found again in a watercolour, A Church in Normandy (Victoria and Albert Museum, P26, 1928, pl. 8), which has by some been claimed as a Francia. Undoubtedly it shows his influence, and the influence of Girtin behind him. But the sky contains features that are too peculiarly Bonington's to be disregarded, and the weaknesses of drawing are those of a hand that is already light without being as yet steady—a lightness that his master never reached. The colour with its grey greens certainly emanates from Francia, and is the best ground, apart from the crowded air of the composition, for assigning it to him. But colour is among the first things learnt by a pupil, a side of the art that is mechanical until it is inspired. A more difficult problem is offered by the La Ferté, in Mr. C. E. Russell's possession. The group of houses is strongly Boningtonian, and the straight edge of the washes in the foreground are related to those of the Church in Normandy. The sky and some rubbing of the foreground suggest that it might have been touched on later. But a point in favour of its authenticity is the inscribed "No. 90" in a script found on several drawings in the Lansdowne Collection. A drawing of this subject was in Bonington's sale, lot 39, 1829. The same tone of greens, greys, and browns occurs in an enchanting sketch of Boys with a Donkey (pl. 5), so pervaded with atmosphere that one can only think of Bonington in connection with it. (Besançon, 2379D.)

Two more drawings are immediately suggested as belonging to the same family as the last—A Cadet of St. Cyr (pl. 3), in M. Pierre Maurois's Collection, and A Student (Besançon, 2374D pl. 4). In both there is a remarkable atmospheric quality about the head, and the entirely natural pose of each has artistic individuality. Neither is consummate, but each is more than pretty. It is worth noticing a trick of Bonington's "handwriting" in both of them, the summary but satisfactory drawing of the shoes, which remains a hall-mark of his work all his life. On the reverse of the Besançon drawing is the copy of a woman's head, perhaps after Rubens or at least his school. Either by instinct or by precept he was already in 1820 absorbing the doctrines of the new school in France, which turned away from the inspiration of the Italians to the study of the freer, more romantic, more colourful Flemings.

None of the works we have so far considered, with the exception of the Church in Normandy, belong to the type which so much excited Gros and his students, and kept Corot, then a draper's apprentice, lingering at Schroth's windows till he was late on his rounds. Indeed if Gros made his historic speech in 1820, we are hard put to it to find examples certainly of that year. Two, however, can be suggested—the Rouen Cathedral from the River (B.M., pl. 13) and A Port (perhaps Dieppe) in Mr. P. M. Turner's Collection (pl. 14). Both are in watercolour over a slight foundation of pencil. The first is accented with a reed pen, and we can safely say that it was done before 1822, when the central spire of the cathedral was burnt. The quality of the watercolour, with a rather granulated finish that seems to hold the light—a trick he learnt from Francia—is the same in each. The colour itself obviously derives from the same source and is related to the Boys with a Donkey or the Student, while the cloud forms recall the Church in Normandy. Of the two Mr. Turner's shows the neater and surer draftsmanship, and may therefore be a little the later, a matter perhaps of months only at this stage of Richard's development.

But it was not on technical skill that his appeal to his contemporaries was based. The freshness of cool colour was, indeed, new in Paris, but still more so was the outlook that inspired the choice of subject and accepted an everyday scene. The drawings, though a little crowded, have composition; but they were not arranged by the formula of such Salon classicists as Chauvin or Michallon. Bonington, unlike Turner and Constable, never seems to have passed through a stage of admiring Claude and his tradition, at least not to the point of submitting to it. He was born after 1800. Instinctively and from the first he was a romantic, and from a lover he had now become a student of Gothic. At the British Museum careful drawings are preserved of the mediæval sculpture of Notre Dame; though still a little bony, they are more certain in touch than the early drawings already examined, and they also foreshadow the rich mode of hatching of which he was to be a master.¹

¹ Perhaps it will be as well to deal now with the puzzling album, in which these drawings are kept, purchased for the Museum in the fifties. It is not a sketch-book, but contains leaves cut from several sketch-books, and with the exception of nos. 33, 36, 37, and perhaps 38, I believe them to be genuine. But their origin is obscure. Eighteen out of the thirty-eight bear an old number, and in some cases the same number occurs on different drawings, as thus:

Catalogue No. 4. Ghent, numbered 33.

23. Man on horseback, wearing inlaid armour, numbered 34.

3. Study of a boat, numbered 37.

2. Fishing boats, numbered 38.

16. Knight in chain armour, a sculpture, numbered 39.

12. Two stone figures, Notre Dame, numbered 39.

13. Studies of sculpture, one from Notre Dame, numbered 39.

19. Madonna and Child, study from the same statue as the last, numbered 41.

27. Four studies of armour, numbered 43.

7a. A Page's doublet, numbered 43?

9a. Seigneur de la Cour de Charles VIII, numbered 43.

24. Four studies of armour, numbered 58.

26. Five studies of armour, numbered 58, on paper watermarked
G & R TURNER.

15. Study from Rubens, numbered 59.

14. Study of thirteenth century costume, numbered 72.

By the end of 1820, Bonington had made his mark with his contemporaries and his master, and in the next three years his talents flower with spectacular rapidity. Yet there is method and a steady line of progress in this speedy development, and the later pictures contain fundamentally the same outlook as inspired the first, concentrating upon the achievement of freshness and brilliance in colour and drawing. We watch him acquiring a full command of oil-painting, and elaborating the resources of watercolour, till he was fully equipped to be for a time the equal and companion of Delacroix; and by examining the diversity of his technical experiments we can rebuild the chronology of this period.

For a year or two he continues to use oil as if it were watercolour. M. Gobin's La Bouille (pl. 16) seems in every way a more certain performance than anything so far considered, still unemancipated in Catalogue No. 7b. Architectural ornament, numbered 72.

17. Study of mediæval sculpture, Bruges, numbered 72.

11a. Study of a mediæval carved group, numbered 73.

19a. Study of a four-poster bed, numbered 77.

It will be seen at once that there is nothing logical about the sequence of the inscribed numbers. Drawings of the first English tour (1825) are sandwiched in between French and Flemish subjects, the latter dating 1822. There are also drawings in private collections with similar numbers inscribed on them, and one would conclude that they only represent the pagination of an early collector's album, were it not that the same numeration occurs among the Lansdowne drawings, all of which were bought at Bonington's sale in 1829.

The remaining drawings in this album fall into similar groups. For instance, catalogue nos. 8b, 9b, 5, 8, 20a are from mediæval sculpture or manuscripts. A shipping study and a note or two of pictures may belong to the Flemish tour (1, 6, 8a). Then a study of armour and a rapid sketch after Rubens on paper with the English watermark G & R TURNER must be dated 1825, and on stylistic grounds we may connect with them nos. 30, 31, 32, 35, 22, 28a, and 10. Perhaps of the same period is the Girl with a broad straw hat (11b), while no. 21 belongs to the Italian tour of 1826. Two others, 20b and 34, seem later still.

There is a second album in the British Museum (Catalogue number 11) containing for the most part pencil or chalk landscape drawings on a French paper, several sheets of which bear in whole or in part the watermark "I Johannot" (cursive). The majority of them seem to come from the same sketch-book. Though strongly Boningtonian in character, they are rather the work of a member of the circle. Throughout there is a coarseness in touch and a waste of effort in producing any effect, which are never found in Bonington's genuine work. Only one (4), with colour notes in French and English, seems likely to be by him.

colour, and suggesting in the surfaces of the houses (always an important feature with him) the granulated finish that he was giving to his watercolour. A small point worth noticing is the brushwork of the sky on the horizon, which is a little dragged so that the direction of the paint is clearly shown parallel with the line of the hill. Its effect is somehow to give the illusion of the sky's recession, and it is a device so frequent with Bonington that, while I would not claim it as a hall-mark, his name must always be considered as the possible author of any picture with this touch. Yet the La Bouille has not all the flash and freedom of the Interior of Senlis Cathedral (pl. 18), a brilliant sketch as light and colour, though the perspective of the retrochoir would not have satisfied him a year or two later. The sunlight on the north wall, coloured by the glass of the clerestory windows is the emotional centre of the picture. It has an interest as one of Bonington's first pieces of pure architecture, and despite the fine light slashes of the brush on the south-east pier at the central crossing, and despite the attempts to enrich the effect with some emphasis on the carved capitals, it is a little empty. Perhaps the austerity of the cathedral did not wholly accord with his instincts. All his sensibilities were aroused in M. Gobin's Chancel of a Church, with two Monks (pl. 48), painted two years later, where the varying surfaces of the masonry, carved stone, sculpture, and the whites of the monks' habits are mingled and distinguished with the utmost delicacy. In this picture the masonry itself is expressed with a subtler and more comfortable touch than that of the houses at La Bouille, though the method is basically the same. The drawing, too, is firm and masterly, and a sense of space is preserved in spite of the rich ornament, which obtrudes no more than the decoration of a complicated Bach fugue: it is all seen in mass, just as Bonington in landscape contrived to see the trees and the wood.

Here, however, we are going too far ahead. For in 1822 began a revision of technique. The earlier watercolour method continues in his sketches; the foregrounds of La Bouille, of the Interior of Senlis Cathedral, and the Grande Galerie du Louvre (pl. 19) all have this in common, though in the last it is important to remark a new feature, Bonington's red painted in a low shadow. As has been said, his first idea was to slap the paint on thick, and when that failed he adopted the thinner technique we have just examined. But he did not abandon his first ambition entirely, and from the latter part of 1822 for two or three years his canvases are more heavily loaded. An early painting of this type is the Tour du Marché, Bergues (pl. 17), in the Wallace Collection. The sky is noticeably richer than the previous pictures in pigment, which is laid on flat and oily; the same is true of the main mass of buildings on the left, where again we see the type of masonry surface, which is now familiar. With these changes in vehicle, a new note appears (or rather re-appears, if we accept Mr. Morrison's picture) in his colour, the vivid Bonington blue; not exploited to the full extent of subtle variation that he mastered later, so that its echoes pervade the picture—but at least it is here. And one might almost say that the reds of the Grande Galerie du Louvre and the blues of this picture mean the birth of Bonington the colourist; now he is using positives instead of the cool greys and greens. Are we to surmise that his study of mediæval manuscripts—there are a few of his drawings from them that belong to this year—helped him towards the realization of this more brilliant palette?

For the next two years his paint grows richer. Mrs. Spender Clay's Marly (pl. 20), our unique dated oil of this period, is fatly painted throughout, and Mr. Turner's Rogny sur Seine (pl. 22), is first cousin to it in handling, though a little more liquid. At this turning point of his style we can perhaps make a distinction between his open-air work and the paintings done in the studio. Compare the two versions of The Seine near Mantes, for instance, in the Wallace (pl. 27) and Mr. Turner's Collections (pl. 27). The second is the earlier of the two, possibly as early as 1822, for there is a good deal of the canvas grain showing in the foreground. In the first the brush stroke is noticeably longer and more certain. Whereas in Mr. Turner's picture there is only a hint of impasto, this device is exploited to a greater degree in the other. And in the Picardy and Norman coast scenes of 1823 and 1824 at the Louvre (pl. 35), Hertford House (pl. 37), or in the Bureau Collection (pl. 35), as in the Heath in the National Gallery, he extends these experiments with marked success, particularly in studying the effects of sun through mist or the coloured reflections of sunlight from chalk cliffs, building up a rich concentration of paint for the focus of the picture. A studio picture belonging to this class and of very high quality is Mr. Turner's Pays de Caux, Sunset (pl. 25), elaborated from a small pencil sketch in the same collection. This was a favourite subject with Richard and we find him repeating it in a watercolour of intricate skill in the last year of his life (Wallace Collection 708, pl. 149).

Bonington painted as long as there was light in the sky, and he was as skilful with the sunrise as the twilight. M. Gobin has a sketch of Rouen Cathedral from the River (pl. 58), a brilliant and sensitive impression of the early light piercing the mist. It will be noticed that the central spire is gone, so that the picture cannot be earlier than 1822, the year of the fire. Though the work is open and rapid, the brush was fully charged with pigment, which was dragged to give an effect of vibrating colour. Again we see the trick of laying the paint parallel with the horizon.

To be didactic in differentiating Bonington's work of 1823 and early 1824 is to pass beyond the reasonable limits of purism. One may feel that of two pictures of this time one is the earlier without being able to advance any argument that is immediately urgent. There is a fair amount of his work that is best dated loosely "1823-4", a category that probably carries down to July, when the Constables at the Salon began to be known in Paris. There are, however, one or two canvases that seem to me to belong to the earlier part of 1824, but it is as well to admit that my reasons for so placing them are that they do not tally with what we know of him in the previous year, nor can they reasonably be placed later.

Among the first of them is M. Gobin's Chemin Sablonneux, Bords de la Seine (pl. 33), a finely finished and sensitively conceived picture. By its solidity, by the way in which the whole scene is envisaged in masses, it seems advanced on such pictures as the Heath (pl. 24) in the National Gallery, or the Côtes Normandes of the Louvre (pl. 35). Its beautifully balanced composition is filled with diffused light and heat. A trick of handling may be noticed here, perhaps for the first time—the trees, and more obviously the tree-tops are painted with an upward stroke, a small point of individuality that must have been, or become, unconscious. It can be seen again in an enchanting sketch of the same date, Bords de la Seine (pl. 34), in the same collection. The impression of the scene is rapidly and effectively given; the general lines of the well balanced composition move, as so often with him, diagonally from the right foreground to the left distance; the upward stroke of the brush I have just described is visible in the tree-tops. And, as an argument for dating the picture 1824 rather than earlier, we may use the heavy preparation of the unfinished foreground—if indeed it is unfinished, for the moment of the day has been so perfectly seized that nothing more seems necessary to the composition.

In the Wallace Collection Coast of Picardy (341) (pl. 37), one finds such a heavy decoration of the foreground with impasto, and such conscious drawing of the horses, that I am inclined to regard it as a studio painting done in 1823 or even 1824 either for exhibition or for a definite commission. A pencil study for some of the foreground detail in the British Museum is sufficiently warm and rich in touch to belong to the tour of 1823.

There is more difficulty in placing exactly the Boats and Fisherfolk (pl. 39), formerly in the Simon Collection and now in the possession of Mr. P. M. Turner. Here is something brisk and spontaneous, and full of romantic sparkle. Its spirit seems mature, and it could belong to the 1824 tour to the Pas de Calais and Dunkirk. As a matter of detail, however, we must set against the later date the thinly painted foreground and the dubious drawing of the horse. This is for me emphatically an 1823-4 picture.

The importance in Bonington's career of the English contribution to the Salon of 1824 has already been discussed. He felt its impact as much as did his French contemporaries. Nor do I feel that after this his artistic life has perfect unity. Under the English stimulus, reinforced by a visit to England in 1825, he does indeed produce three of his noblest landscapes—The Timber Waggon (pl. 83), the Sunken Road (pl. 77), and The Waggon (pl. 84). In each splendour of performance, delicacy of perception, and a romantic sense of space and luminous atmosphere are blended by inspiration. The interpretation of the scene is rich and perfect, and yet so full of suggestion that one is not bounded by it. Rather one can in imagination hear the silence fall when the timber waggon has passed out of earshot, or catch the numerous quiet sounds of the heath as the searching wind drops, or sit passively watching the light fade behind the farm house when the cows are in. Only the greater works of art allow one this freedom, and urge one to use it, of going beyond the moment. These three pictures are the concentration of Bonington's art and personality, with all the enrichments of technical and spiritual experience, Constable and Turner included.

They are also the finished expression of his first endeavours. After this anything in his landscape is either repetition or appeals primarily, like the important Italian pieces, from brilliance not from sentiment.

Had he seen in Constable's paintings an intelligence rather than a technique, he would have retained his balance as Delacroix did. But where the introspective Delacroix was intellectually strong, Bonington had less force; and the gods he followed were not those of consciously scientific observation, which compelled a technical result of far-reaching consequences. Instead he fell in love with the emotions of colour, of antiquity, of the Venetian scene, of the subtle, technical combinations which become ambitions in themselves. Is it fair to stress in this connection his new preference for Renaissance over Gothic? Perhaps not wholly fair. And one must add that never did Bonington betray his standard of work even when painting for the pot.

When a man is torn between two contemporary influences, he is less likely to do first-rate work. While Bonington continued to paint fine landscape, under the new stimulus of Constable or Turner, it was Delacroix who turned him aside to the romantic subject picture, inspired from Byron, Scott, or the history of France. This was all studio work, and one has the feeling that even in landscape, apart from his annual sketching tours, he became more and more of a studio painter. Possibly it was less a matter of inclination than of health. Yet this new work has value not only for its dramatic qualities, its superb technique, or the impulse it gave to other painters—the Lavignes, the Leprincés, Roqueplans or Isabeys. As original colour arrangements Bonington's historical pictures must always take a very high place in painting. Diligently as he studied the Dutch, the Flemings, the Venetians, he never lost himself as a colourist; and no one has used his red, his blue, or his slightly metallic green in the combinations he evolved. There have been imitators, but no equals. Except where a medium has betrayed him, his clarity of tint is amazing, his shadows deep and luminous. His importance in the history of painting would always preserve his name for a few students in every generation; but his exquisite sensitiveness to colour and light must assure him a much wider circle.

The development of these qualities is the history of his last years as a painter. The new themes make their appearance first in water-colour, as was natural with Bonington; and thereafter reflect the profit he drew from his journeys to England and Italy. Since 1822 he had been steadily increasing the brilliance and clarity of his water-colour, and the range of his technical resources. About 1823 we find him "wiping out" his lights, as in the Wallace Collection, Fishing Boats, Dead Calm (700, pl. 30); and this device for giving brilliance to a high light was improved on next year, when he began to "leave out" his lights, that is, to let the blank white of the paper form the high light. Good examples of this are The Quay, Dieppe (pl. 31), or Boats and Fishermen on the shore, both in Mr. P. M. Turner's Collection. All the drawings of these two years, 1823 and 1824, show an almost fantastic manual control. For instance, the suggestion of horizontal reflections in the water is reinforced below the watercolour by parallel pencil lines, touched in so firmly, yet so finely, that it almost needs a glass to find them. The same strength of hand gives the delicate reflections of a mast, broken by ripples, with a lessening of pressure that is mathematically graduated. These three drawings and others I suggest belong to this period as having an accomplishment so much higher than anything we have yet discussed, though still there is a general simplicity of outlook and finish and a lack of complication that seems anterior to the Salon of 1824.

A sepia drawing at Nancy, A Knight Templar standing by a Gothic Tomb (1338), seems to be the forerunner of the new historical subject that was to occupy him. With the flash of high lights on the armour, the sharp use of positive line, the thing is highly romantic; and one can only think of Bonington in connection with it, and of the Bonington of 1824, not yet wielding his full technical armoury. It is interesting to compare with it a more elaborate version by L. S. M. Lavigne in the Musée Magnin. The emphasis there is on the accessories rather than on the light; and they are drawn by a hand that was less daringly economical than Bonington's. In the expansion spontaneity is lost.

I would prefer to place the Nancy drawing in 1824 rather than 1825 on account of the general simplicity of handling. Subjects of this type dated 1825, which we may rightly think of as done after his English tour, are as we shall see very much richer. For the English visit, while it expanded his capacity as a landscape painter through a renewed study of Constable and through a first acquaintance with Turner, seems to have turned his mind definitely to subject painting. He took the opportunity of studying such Rubens's as he could find, as some of the studies in the British Museum suggest and as is proved by the magnificent interpretation—it is far more than a copy—now in Mr. Turner's possession, of the Conversion of St. Bavo (National Gallery 57, pl. 62). The time in England was rich in impressions, nobly set down—the views of Greenwich (pl. 66) and Westminster Abbey (pl. 68), for instance, in Mr. Turner's Collection. And a point may be mentioned here as material for dating, that for the first time he is using his thumb on the wet colour to give texture, as Turner used to.

The change that comes over his watercolour after this visit is so striking that we cannot fail to connect the two. For by using gum as a varnish for his watercolour, the character of his work is considerably changed. Examples of it, dated 1825, are the Great Staircase of a French Château and the Arabian Nights (Wallace Collection 696 and 657; pls. 69, 70). In these first instances the gum is used only in the extreme shadows, to which it gives an extra depth, contrasting vividly with the left-out lights of the foreground. In drawings dated 1826—the Medora or the Turk Reposing (Wallace Collection 749, 750 (pls. 105, 97))—its use is more extensive; though used no less in the dated work of 1827 and scarcely less in 1828, it is combined then with other resources, which will be discussed in their proper place.

Now this technique, which rapidly became popular in France, seems to have its origin in England; and if Delacroix and Bonington were its ambassadors, the point is of importance in the relationship of the French and English schools. The practice was well established in England from the end of the eighteenth century; indeed in 1809 the Old Watercolour Society was obliged to pass the following resolution: "Some difficulty having been experienced by the Committee of arrangement in the Spring Gardens Exhibition, owing to the introduction of a quantity of gum in certain subjects, it was resolved that such a method of painting is injurious to the views of the Society relative to the admission of varnished drawings." Though the use of gum may have been restricted in exhibition pictures, artists in general were not discouraged from its use, which in fact went on for many years, until its tendency to crackle and blacken was recognized. Certainly the Fieldings were using it at this time, and Delacroix wrote to Soulier from England, giving special directions that Augustin was to be allowed some of the precious gum-water that Fielding had given him.

This suggests that it was unfamiliar in Paris in 1825. And it is therefore somewhat puzzling to find on the verso of the Besançon drawing, A Student, which I have placed in 1820, the sketch of a woman's head, possibly after Rubens, done in watercolour heavily varnished with gum (pl. 4). Again there is a drawing in Mr. Turner's Collection, dating about 1822, where a touch of gum is to be found in the shadows. It is, I think, extremely difficult to reject either of these drawings. It would seem, therefore, as if Richard had picked up the method in his student days, conceivably from one of the Fieldings, but that he could not then work it into his style. If this is so, his outbreak into this technique in 1825 is the second stage of the experiment.

In the two dated drawings of 1825 the gum is confined to the deepest tones of the background, against which the left-out lights of the foreground are contrasted. Yellow plays an important part in the colour scheme of each, perhaps a hint of Bonington's association with Delacroix; and we notice that he is now beginning to hatch sparingly with the point of a fine brush, as on the newel post of the Grand Staircase—a practice that he carried much further. With some certainty we can attach to these two A Lady and a Cavalier in the same collection (732), which is related by a similar proportion of gum and left-out paper, even if as a composition it lacks bite.

To guide us through 1826 we have two dated oriental scenes in the Wallace Collection, Medora (749, pl. 105) and a Turk Reposing (750, pl. 97), while a third belongs to Mr. C. E. Hughes, A Bearded Oriental on a Divan. Gum is more freely used in these not only to deepen the lower tones of the background, but also to strengthen any local darks of the foreground. In the Medora fine brush hatching is extensively used for modelling, there is rather more impasto, and more scratching out of the lights than in the Turk Reposing, which perhaps may be just the earlier of the two. On similar grounds, some scratched out lights and a heavier use of gum, it may be preferable to date Lady and Page (Wallace Collection 676) in this year rather than in 1825. But the Earl of Surrey and the Fair Geraldine (pl. 69) makes a difficult problem in chronology. One has as a fixed point Bonington's English visit of 1825, before which he could not have seen Holbein's picture, the origin of the central figure; and a date soon after his return to France is hinted by the restricted use of gum. On the other hand, in a brilliant open-air scene the painter would have only a limited need for this medium, and we do better to pay attention to the quality of the sky and the grouping of the figures at the head of the steps, which seems a reminiscence of Veronese. These features suggest to me that he had returned from Italy before this charming watercolour was done.

Three watercolour landscapes, certainly of 1825, are free from gum—perhaps an additional reason for placing the Earl of Surrey and the Fair Geraldine in the following year. All are English subjects, Westminster Abbey (pl. 68), Greenwich (pl. 66), and Park Scene, Sunset (pl. 67), in Mr. P. M. Turner's Collection—obviously sketches on the spot, freely and boldly handled. In common with the Grand Staircase of the French Château they show the trick of using colour with rather a dry brush, particularly in the foreground, so that by emphasizing the grain of the paper the colour is vibrated. Again, his thumb-print hall-marks them all. The Westminster Abbey is the most deliberately worked out, with touches of body-colour in impasto, and a little scraping out of the lights. There is a sketch by Delacroix at the Louvre, which must have been made at the same moment as the Park Scene, Sunset. We may mention, too, the Shipping off the Coast of Kent (the title may not be significant) in the Whitworth Institute, Manchester (pl. 76), as belonging to this period. The extreme delicacy of the drawing and the absence of gum would suggest 1825, though the faint outlining of the wave crests with the point of a knife is commoner in work of a year or two later. However, as the trick was one of Turner's, he could as well have learnt it on this tour; this drawing would then be one of his first efforts with it, for we know that he was already using the knife in watercolour from the Westminster Abbey.

A highly finished drawing in M. Gobin's Collection, Sur les Dunes (pl. 79), shows traces of gum in the shadows to the left of the group of figures; possibly it was done towards the end of 1825 or early the next year. The effect of the storm-cloud has something of a Constable air to it; and perhaps on these grounds one should incline to the earlier date.

For Constable's influence on Bonington was short-lived, and is on the whole more evident in his oils, as is natural. It is undeniable in sketches like the Sunset at Sea (pl. 44), with its dexterous touches of the palette knife, or the Coucher de Soleil; Mer Orageuse (pl. 46), which has the same daring scheme of reds and orange. The Timber Waggon of 1826 (pl. 83), a full-fledged exhibition picture, recalls the Haywain in the handling of the middle distance. Bonington's study of the Dutch seventeenth century pictures, which he used for his costume pieces, and their smooth, glazed finish must have fought against the rougher brilliance of Constable's style. And at least by 1825, he had started on historical subjects in oil. Don Quixote in his Study (pl. 53) and The Bride at Prayer (pl. 54), rapid sketches with dramatic lighting and a genuine Bonington colour scheme, are among the earliest—the first, be it noted, a favourite subject with Delacroix. M. Gobin has also a third, Henri IV et Gabrielle d'Estrées (pl. 53), with some passages of knife work that suggest 1825. And in all these three a triangular shadow is to be remarked below the eye. Closely related is one of Bonington's rare flower-pieces, belonging to Mr. P. M. Turner (pl. 55). Unfortunately this admirable work has only a short pedigree; but we know from the sale of 1829 (lot 208) that flower-pieces were executed by Bonington, and here there is no mistaking the hand that combined those reds and blues with the metallic green, and that rapidly painted in the foreground with an open brush. These four pictures are all, I believe, earlier than the carefully finished Child at Prayers (Wallace Collection 270, pl. 60). Though the paint of the background is fairly thin, there is rich work and a full surface in the principal figures. The long hands, longer than is usual with Bonington, throw the mind forward to the later watercolour in the same collection, Souvenir de Vandyck (688). They symbolize his interest in the Flemings, which reached its highest point in 1825. This painting could be as late as 1826, but makes a general impression that it was done before the Italian tour.

If the foregoing analysis of Bonington's technical career has not been thought to insist too much on the small tricks of style, it will be agreed that all this time his art was in a state of flux. Just as we found a certain pattern in his preference for different textures of paint, so his admiration for Rubens, intermittent and varying in its force, forms the background to this story. After his first initiation into the group of modernists at Paris who set Rubens above the Romans, his faith was strengthened by his tour to Belgium. By the moment we have reached the end of 1825, the end of his closest association with Delacroix, Richard was ready to research into Rubens's artistic ancestry, the Venetian school.

So his journey to Venice was decisive, being perfectly timed. Compare with even the best of his earlier pencil work—say, Mr. C. E. Hughes's La Vierge Dorée d'Amiens—any of Lord Lansdowne's Venetian studies. Where hitherto have we found such daring contrasts of light and shade, set down with such economy and such noble assurance? His control of the pencil had always been remarkable for its mechanical dexterity, but now his line is significant, creative and not decorative. These sketches are played con brio. Dazzling, complete, and yet tender to the golden palaces, they never lapse into the purely picturesque. Oils and watercolours have the same sparkle, which makes the Louvre Vue du Parterre d'Eau, Versailles (pl. 85), one of the great landscapes of the early nineteenth century.

The effect on him of the Italian tour was emotional rather than technical; for I think that with Bonington colour and light were always the emotional element in art, and it is primarily in colour that the first developments are to be seen. He learnt to make a colour the essence of his perspective, filtering it through a picture in varied tones, as in Lord Glenconner's Boulogne Fishmarket, complicating the pattern with contrasts of a vivacity beyond the reach of imitators. Such subtleties are most evident in his finished work, that he calculated and prepared with infinite attention. For the Henry IV and the Spanish Ambassador, apart from a watercolour study with a variant composition, there is a sheet of preparatory sketches for the figures. The Doge's Palace (pl. 128), a watercolour in the Wallace Collection (656), is developed with variations particularly in the foreground from the first sketch belonging to Lord Lansdowne. There are pencil notes for the Colleoni Statue (Louvre), and for the Institut from the Quais (British Museum), and no doubt many others await recognition. But the change of outlook is just as clear when he was working on a smaller scale. The Amy Robsart of the Ashmolean Museum (pl. 120) and the La Declaration of M. René Longa's Collection (pl. 124), both to be dated about 1827, have an opulent and challenging freedom that is absent from the earlier Child at Prayers. Neither has L'Espace, at the Musée de Rheims, a study of morning light on a hilly landscape, the magnificence of Mr. Morrison's View from a Terrace (pl. 90). Only a few months can have separated these two; yet Richard was so acutely receptive, that a new stimulus would alter his method of approach in a moment.

He also gained from the study of the Venetians a bigger conception of a picture. Two drawings entitled Le Lavoir, one in M. Gobin's Collection, the other in the Louvre, have a largeness that reminds one of Claude (pl. 112). It is interesting to remark the colour-notes on the latter, as if Bonington had meant to develop a canvas from it. Even in his simpler sketches there is a greater depth in the sky; the stronger force of colour replaces the need for minor incident. The Colleoni Statue (pl. 129), the Castelbarco Tomb, Verona (Mr. P. M. Turner, pl. 131), the Institut from the Quais (pl. 134), and the Quais des Augustins (M. Lévy, pl. 133) all have this large handling, which gives grandeur without destroying illusion of detail. Drawings of this class, composed from notes made on the spot, show wide technical resources. Gum is used, lights are scratched out and then overpainted, the paper is left out, a substratum of pencil and contrasted wet and dry washes are all brought into play. The period of 1826-7 is for his outdoor scenes in watercolour his freest; there is never a studio smell about them; and the subtleties of technique are always properly subordinated to the wash, which should always be the most engaging feature of a watercolour.

His realism, of which most romantics have a germ, saved him from capitulation to the charms of pure technique. There is, it is true, more than one lapse. The National Gallery Piazzetta (pl. 145), for instance, compared with the Piazzo di San Marco (Wallace Collection 375, pl. 94), is hard; it overflows with ability, and did indeed épater les bourgeois of its day. They recognized the brilliance of his grouping; the arrangement of his crowd scenes was a side of his art that appealed most to his contemporaries. Byron and Turner had revived the standing of Venice as a romantic city, and until the charms of the Moors and Spanish bandits captured the public in the 'thirties, a Venetian view was a safe seller at an exhibition. That the painters based their interpretations of Venice on Bonington's naturalism—Turner's crowds never chattered as Bonington's did—is the best proof of his influence. It touched all the best second-raters of his generation—Holland, Callow, Prout, Pritchett, Stanfield, Roberts and the rest. But near as they came to his performance, never did any one catch at the same moment both his gift for colour and his gift for the single stroke of the brush or pencil.

Deciding features of authenticity must be the palette, the figures, and the control of line, with its correlative, the ability to compress detail into some sort of shorthand. A painter whose work is best differentiated on the first two grounds is Pritchett. His buildings and sky, though they have luminosity, are always a degree less lively in light, and a little greener or greyer in tone, as in the Canal Scene at the Whitworth Institute or signed Venetian views at the National Gallery of Ireland (746), and whose rather theatrical groups of figures have a larger proportion of brown. In architectural detail, particularly in the dash of colour that breaks the surface of a stuccoed wall, his line is always heavier. Clarkson Stanfield and David Roberts fail in expressing their detail. Neither is so vivid as Bonington, the first being too empty and the second too full. Yet their dated work of the early 'thirties, of which there are good examples at the Victoria and Albert Museum and at Manchester, proves the extent to which they had studied and made use of the Boningtons each bought at the sale of 1829. Holland has much of the colour, though he runs too much to the yellows, but never the line. Scarlett Davis gets the nearest to Richard's conception and feeling for line and atmosphere, but his tonality is blonder and fundamentally he is clumsy-minded. Prout and Callow have their own heavier individualities in line; they deal with the skin rather than the bones of architecture, and never show the brilliant sensitiveness in colour that was his supreme gift.

Bonington returned from Italy in the summer of 1826, fired by the great Venetian compositions to devote himself to the historical subjects. To pay for the leisure to paint them he needed money, and undoubtedly produced some pot-boilers. Italy was still a fresh and sacred subject that evoked all his power, as he worked from notes in his studio. The new love was eclipsing the old; and some of the commissioned scenes are no more than sound routine—for instance, the versions of the Boulogne Sands or a canvas like the Place des Molards, Geneva (Victoria and Albert Museum, pl. 121). Only such a dull town could have inspired so dull a picture. Yet it has all the marks of the painter's hand—the finely drawn lines of architectural detail, the squat, talkative figures, and above all the colour. Never before this has there been anything boring in his landscape. And perhaps it was not entirely the fault of the subject, but that his health was wearing thin. The few portraits of him tell the story of his decline from the fresh-faced young man of 1822 or 1823 in Colin's drawing, then grown, two years later, sharper of feature in a sepia drawing (M. de Lajudie), to an unhealthy puffiness in the self-portrait of 1825 in the collection of M. Renand. In fact his quality as a painter was no longer constant—an added difficulty in identifying his work. While he was preparing the brilliant Henry IV and the Spanish Ambassadors (pl. 123) or the Anne Page and Slender (pl. 95), both consummate examples of his art, enthusiasm and the intermittent optimism of his disease would overcome the lethargy of illness, which a repetition landscape could not dispel. At the other end of the scale from these great pictures are two pencil sketches Cottage by a Gate and Landscape with figures where despite the feeble touch the character of the hatching and of the tree-drawing and the sense of atmosphere make it hard to mention any name but his. And I would say, too, that the Old Church, Chelsea, in the Tate Gallery (pl. 137), shows weaknesses that are equally attributable to ill-health.

INTRODUCTION

It is by no means easy to provide a reasoned chronology for the years 1826–8. He was covering so many fields of painting and tackled his problems in so many different ways. The direct advance that was traceable in his formative period is over. His interiors dated 1827, the Antiquary (pl. 140) or the Letter (pl. 140), show a heavy use of gum, the heaviest of his career; and the trick of overpainting a scratched out light does not, I think, occur in any dated work of 1826, whereas it is found in dated work of 1827 as well as in such drawings as the Colleoni Statue or the Palazzo Maffei, Bologna (Victoria and Albert Museum, pl. 132), which on other grounds must be referred to this year. Two other tendencies belong to 1827 and 1828 rather than earlier. The hatching of the flesh with a fine brush point, which has already been remarked in the Medora to a slight degree, is carried much further in the Louvre Odalisque au Palmier (probably 1827, pl. 138) and in the Wallace Collection Odalisque, dated 1828, which has more than a hint of Correggio. Certainly from 1827 we may date his practice of stippling, and it might be suggested that on his English tour of 1827 Bonington saw some more of Turner's work of the type of the Roman views in the British Museum. The complicated stipplings of some Venetian scenes, simple enough in their general effect though rich, undoubtedly derive from Turner. A Venetian Scene (Wallace Collection 674, pl. 152) has the first suggestion of middle age in a young man; it is such impeccably good taste; the balance of technical performance and spiritual alertness is perfect. Of the same date, or even a little earlier, is Mr. Turner's View on a River, and the richly stippled Rouen (pl. 101) at the Wallace Collection. The romantic River and Castle, a study for the picture in the Montpellier Museum, though it reflects a facet of Turner's work, suggests in its simpler forms that it was done soon after the Italian journey. In his last watercolours Bonington developed the stippling method still further. The Pays de Caux, Sunset (Wallace Collection 708, pl. 149), and The Undercliff (pl. 150) at Nottingham, which Mrs. Bonington certificated as his last work, are far more than technical achievements, though their ability is not obtrusive. Carefully and beautifully built up, they both have poetry, even if the lyrical quality of his first work has gone.

The same difficulty exists in determining the stages of his progress in oil during these years. The general trend of his outlook is perhaps the governing factor and has already been discussed. The process of simplifying his surface, which may be said to have begun in 1826, is gradually completed after his return from Italy, Henry III and the English Ambassadors (pl. 147), being perhaps the finest example of his latest phase. There is less impasto and more glazing than in the Henry IV and the Spanish Ambassadors of the previous year. So far as one can judge from a photograph, the Boston Museum's The Visit, or the Use of Tears (pl. 127), belongs to 1827. The figure of the old woman was a favourite with Bonington and with his contemporaries. She reappears again in Meditation (Wallace Collection 668, pl. 116), and was also copied by Roqueplan in a drawing in the same collection. The Boston subject was repeated at least twice, if not by Bonington at least by someone working close to his style.

The latest pictures and drawings seem to me to appeal less by line than the work of 1827. This is certainly true of The Undercliff and the Pays de Caux: and line plays only a small part in Mr. Dudley Wallis's Venetian Canal, Sunset (pl. 146), which bears a scratched date "July/28"; its theme is a reminiscence in colour. We know that he used a brush in his last months whenever he had strength to lift it, and a feeble touch here and there is now as likely to prove authenticity, as it is certain to disprove it in work two years earlier. Illness would explain the quality of the Louvre Old Houses in the Rue Ste. Veronique, Beauvais, which might almost have been done on his last journey to die in England. The Staircase (pl. 153) at the Whitworth Institute falls in the same category. On similar grounds I should prefer to read the truncated date on La Siesta (Wallace Collection 726, pl. 151) as 1828 rather than 1826. Moreover, we do not know that he undertook any work for James Carpenter, the Bond Street dealer, from whose collection the drawing descends, before 1827, whereas he was fully engaged for him and fretting over uncompleted commissions in 1828. The pencil work below the water-colour resembles that in another drawing with an obscurely written date, Lady and Cavalier in Mr. P. M. Turner's collection (pl. 138). Here again, I think, that on stylistic grounds 1828, and not 1826, is the preferable reading.

It is from Bonington's work, thus far dissected and reviewed from a technical and historical point of view, that we must corroborate the idea of his personality I have already attempted to sketch from the contemporary sources known to me. The quick and sensitive reaction to the scene corresponds with his reputation as good company; the man who catches at once the mood of his companions is always a social success. And his landscapes have very much this sort of easy, felicitous charm, flattering your perceptions, pricking your emotions, but not straining the intelligence. It was told me as hearsay, by a friend of the late M. Dubuisson, that the destroyed Bonington letters described in the freest detail the promiscuity of his relations with women. We know for a fact that he shared Mlle. Rose with Delacroix, and perhaps Mme. Dalton, too. These easy physical passions can give us at the best a certain purity in creative work—but never without some stain of facility. All his friends and critics have remarked the fantastic dexterity of his hand; depth of feeling is not stressed.

He was, indeed, given all the talents but one. When he attempts his grand ambition, the history picture, he is betrayed by a lack of force and a lack of intellect. He offers all the trappings, like a really able period decorator, and presents them in a colour that beguiles our attention from the real emptiness of the scene. Anne Page and Slender, Leicester and Amy Robsart, Francis I and Marguerite of Navarre, or the Henrys and their Ambassadors have not the disturbing tang of mental originality, that persists in art independent of epoch. He did not create this genre, but practised it more perfectly than anyone else. Delacroix soon had enough of it; but it served the lesser painters of France and England for a generation. This is the ultimate measure of his importance as a creator of the scenes by which he hoped to be judged.

But an artist is not always his own best critic; and Bonington perhaps found colour so simple a problem, that he never realized how his solutions, to him so easy, enlightened and stimulated his contemporaries. The unself-conscious brilliance of it and of his drawing must have been endearing and amazing to his friends. It seduced the affection of the connoisseurs to a new type of landscape and a new scale of colour. And in this way Bonington, a ruthless worker, a dandy, a saver and a spender, a fly-by-night mediævalist, holds a secure place in the history of European art.

III PORTRAITS

PORTRAITURE has been practised by most painters at some time in their careers as a source of income. Luckily for Bonington, he was always able to extract a living from the side of art he preferred, and he never knew the necessity for drudgery of this kind. Yet from time to time, out of friendship, one may imagine, or from curiosity, he would paint a portrait in oil or watercolour. But if I have reserved them for a separate study, as something eccentric to the general line of his interests, it does not mean that the same features of surface and palette are not found in them.

It is not surprising that the sale catalogues should contain few references to his portraits. A portrait is, as a rule, painted to order or given away to the sitter; it infrequently remains on the artist's hands. There are, however, ten entries of this kind,¹ mainly described as studies or sketches, which attest occasional activity of this sort. None of them tally with any portrait I have seen.

The majority of those known to me are quite small, except seven major works—La Vieille Gouvernante (Louvre 1803 bis), Portrait of the Artist and his Mother (Mr. F. H. Clarke), Portrait of a Man, A Chinaman, ¹ 1829; lots 163, 166. 1834; 94, 135. 1838; 106-9, 116.

The Jockey, and A Man in a Top Hat, all in Mr. P. M. Turner's Collection, and Portrait of a Lady (Mr. Dudley Wallis). The Artist as a Boy at Nottingham must, I think, be rejected, though the later Self-Portrait (?) there may be admissible.

The earliest of these must be the Vieille Gouvernante (pl. 29); the very fat paint, characteristically dragged with the brush, has strong analogies with the landscapes of 1823. It cannot be regarded as an altogether satisfactory picture, and its dark tone has somehow a suggestion of Opie, who was the rage in Bonington's youth. At Epinal is a little portrait (pl. 28), not comparable with the ambitious scale of La Vieille Gouvernante, hardly more than a landscape with figure. A young man sits against a bank, with a background of woodland, which is indubitably Bonington's work; the attitude, charmingly natural, is easily brushed in. The cool greens and greys of the landscape belong to the palette of 1821-2. The freedom of the sketch suggests the later date, and we may mark as a characteristic point the drawing of the shoe, which may be compared with the Student and Le Jeune St. Cyrien.

Unfortunately, Mr. Clarke's portrait is known to me only by photograph; one would judge it to be smoother in finish than La Vieille Gouvernante, which tends to confirm the early date suggested for the latter. Once more the feeling of the thing is essentially natural; he has seized a momentary pose with the same precision as he did a moment of landscape. A change of outlook to a rather more conscious artistry is seen in the watercolour at Besançon of the Comte de Forbin (pl. 81), who organized the Salon of 1824, and through whom Bonington was presented with the gold medal. Apparently a more important work was contemplated, for the drawing is inscribed in a roughly contemporary hand—"Esquisse pour le portrait du Comte de Forbin". Whether it was executed or not, I do not know. Here is a more romantic mood, and a hint that he, like Delacroix, had seen and admired Lawrence at the Salon. This charming and carefully finished sketch shows traces of gum in the background; and its combination with the broad, sharply-edged washes point to a date at the turn of 1824-5. The drawing of the hand and the red of the books and the background curtain are wholly typical.

The same features on a larger scale appear in Mr. Turner's Portrait of a Man (pl. 46). Here the colour is an all important element for the attribution. The browns and low reds of the books and chair-back have many parallels in pictures of undoubted authenticity, such as the Henry IV and the Spanish Ambassador, or the figure groups of the Venetian scenes at the Wallace Collection or the National Gallery. The dark bluish green of the coat and the lights on it are those of Marguerite de Navarre in the Wallace Collection picture. One could indeed quote many others, in which these personal colours are found in similar combinations, which were not achieved by other painters. Particularly in the modelling of the head, the brushwork with the lighter impasto of 1825 and the drawing of the hands again suggest Bonington as the author of this fine and thoughtful work.

Of very much the same date is Richard's Self-Portrait (Frontispiece) belonging to M. Renand. He is seen at the easel, and his palette shows that he mixed his own red, for a bottle of the pigment, ready ground, is prominent. As if to give us the key to his work, the brilliant red is used for the neckcloth, and the tiny pinkish reflections round the mouth are in the same scale. His deep blue-green coat is an exquisite and brilliant piece of colour and execution. The whole is full of subtle detail, such as the sparkling delicacy with which the hair is painted. In the background large canvases with figure compositions are suggested, not so as to be identified, but enough to make one wonder if this is not the painting room which he shared with Delacroix. The style makes a date possible between his return from England and his departure for Italy.

For all its small scale, this is a highly finished work; and we may place near it two portrait sketches—A Woman Painting (pl. 63), and a sketch apparently after Gérard's Empress Josephine (pl. 62), respectively in the Collections of MM. Renand and Marillier. The colour scale of the first is the same as in the Self-Portrait, with points of brilliant impasto for such details as the handle of the parasol, recalling the decoration on the spines of the books in Mr. Turner's Portrait of a Man. Though a little fatter in paint—due probably to its being painted on millboard, not on panel—it is of much the same date as the Self-Portrait and the fresh impression of Gérard's Empress Josephine; Delacroix's respect for the painter as one of the older generation who was capable of natural vision in his art supports this dating. In this sketch one may pick out at once the red of the sofa, the blue of the lady's ribbon, the drawing of her wrist, and the painting of the fruit on the right. The landscape background claims its author.

Slighter pieces of approximately the same time are the watercolours of Newton Fielding, dressed as a "chasseur", in M. Marillier's Collection, and the Henri Monnier (pl. 81), belonging to Mr. Atherton Curtis. Both are outdoor scenes; the watercolour is touched with gum, and the faces are lightly hatched with a fine pointed brush rather in the manner of the Medora. On the back of the Henri Monnier his nephew noted that it was done in 1824, when the two painters were together at Gros's school (sic). We need not, however, stress a date that is in part inaccurate, for the drawing seems otherwise more related to the landscapes of 1825-6.

Of the remaining portraits all are on an important scale. The most difficult is the Self-Portrait at Nottingham, which I am inclined to think is genuine though wrongly identified; the length of the face and neck and the rather narrow forehead do not seem to tally with other representations we know. The most characteristic passage is the painting of the hair, the lights of which recall those in M. Renand's Self-Portrait. That they have not the same subtlety may be due to the difference in scale. But in the Chinaman, The Jockey and the Man in the Top Hat we have something of a major quality. In them we seem to have reached a later period of accomplishment, probably 1825-6. The surface is quieter; there is less impasto in the Chinaman, and virtually none in the others. On the other hand, Bonington is glazing the flesh tones freely and ably. As usual, the colour scheme is the obvious key to the solution; the characteristic green of the Chinaman's coat and the red button at the top of his hat is a seal.

Of higher quality than any portrait so far considered is The Jockey, who wears the colours of the Duke of Richmond. It has a moving simplicity of statement that makes for great portraiture. It is a piece of fine painting; for the surface is wonderfully diversified by the character of the brush-stroke, glaze and impasto, and by the contrast of rich and thin pigment. Everything, the canvas and the racing colours, point to its having been done in England; the richness of the paint precludes his second visit in 1827, and we are safe in concluding that 1825 is the correct date.

Half way between The Jockey and the Man in the Top Hat is Mr.

Dudley Wallis's Portrait of a Lady. The sitter is obviously Italian and the picture may safely be dated during the Italian tour. The horizontal lights on the silk dress find a parallel to those in the Chinaman; the painting of the background echoes The Jockey stroke for stroke. The gold chain recalls that in the Woman Painting; the red shadows of the flesh are characteristic of this later group of portraits. It is a dashing piece of work, the lights in the hair being boldly and effectively put in. For the historian it once had the merit of authenticating all these portraits. Its previous owner, who bought it thirty years ago in Glasgow, noted a signature "R.P.Bonington" on the hem of the handkerchief; but alas, a warehouse catastrophe destroyed this valuable document.

Closely related to The Jockey in the painting of the hair and to the Portrait of a Lady in the dignified set up of the picture is the Man in the Top Hat (pl. 99). Its splendid design, which comes near being a romantic Ingres, leaves one again wondering what would have happened if Bonington had lived. After comparatively few attempts in the genre, he had shown himself capable of producing a work in it that has permanent importance. For it has not only beauty of paint, but the penetration of the great portraitist. The spirit of the dandy, for which Bonington like Delacroix had something of a flair, is interpreted by an eye that criticizes its French manifestation from a faintly English angle. Any problems of its authenticity are resolved at once by the landscape and cloud-forms, before the flesh painting is considered. At a moment when it was interesting to have found some portraits by Scarlett Davis, an attribution of this picture to him was canvassed privately. It would, however, be difficult to substantiate the quality of the sky and the light cloud-forms except from a Bonington of 1826. And in addition the landscape has a warmth of tone and a sureness and subtlety of handling that the clumsier Davis never reached even in his masterpiece, the Interior of Amiens Cathedral, in the Tate Gallery. Moreover, throughout the picture we meet in their proper combinations the Bonington greens, greys, and reds. And, if we are to disregard the Bonington palette, which he symbolically offered us for consideration in his self-portrait, we may as well resign from the unequal struggle of maintaining that he had any artistic personality, and create instead some fabulous Amico di Ricardo, who, of course, painted all his best pictures.

IV. LITHOGRAPHS, ETC.

It was inevitable that Bonington should try his hand at the new black and white medium, that was so popular with the artists and the public of his generation. For many of them lithography was a pot-boiling business. Delacroix had been accepting work from the papers since 1820 to supplement his meagre income; but it seems as if Richard's first attempts in 1824 were not commissioned, but a private venture of his own.

The greater number of his lithographs consists of illustrations—to the Normandy and Franche-Comté volumes of Baron Taylor's Voyages Pittoresques dans L'Ancienne France, to Pernot's Vues Pittoresques d'Ecosse (1826), to the Voyage Pittoresque dans le Brésil by Maurice Rugendas (1827) and to the Contes du Gai Sçavoir, published in 1828. MM. Bouvenne, Beraldi and Hughes have catalogued his work, and more recently Mr. Atherton Curtis has published some unrecognized states and stones in his new catalogue, which provides for the first time a chronological order for the prints, based on documentary evidence. This shows that the first to have been published was the Restes et Fragmens d'Architecture du Moyen Age in 1824, part of the work having been done in 1823. Richard probably had a share in the profits of the plates, which came out simultaneously in Paris and London (his first effort to get himself known here), as his name appears on the list of vendors.

It was expressly stated that these lithographs were from his own designs; and it is fairly safe to assume the same—there is proof in some cases—of the Normandy Views published by Taylor in 1825, though three of the four plates are dated 1824. But four of the Franche-Comté views were taken from originals by Ciceri, Vauzelle, and Baron Taylor himself, and it has not yet been decided whether the remainder were from his own sketches. Four of these are dated in the underlines 1825, and 1827—the date of publication, is given in the underlines of the fifth print. Now, we do not know that Bonington was ever in the Franche-Comté except on his way to and from Italy in 1826; and it has therefore been argued that at least those prints dated 1825 must be translations from other men's drawings. This is no more than an argument from silence. But it must be noticed that two of these five subjects—Façade de l'Eglise de Brou (C. 23) and the Vue Generale du Château d'Harlay (C. 27)—repeat the localities of the prints after Vauzelle and Taylor. The original drawing for a third of them, Vue d'une Rue des Faubourgs de Besançon is so weak and slight that its attribution must be doubted (B.M. 11-38). With the fourth dated 1827, the Eglise de l'Abbaye de Tournus (C. 22) is left as the likeliest support for a theory of a journey to the Franche-Comté before 1826.

From the experience gained in these first plates came the greater solidity of his later work, in which he exploits to perfection the velvet qualities of lithography. Both the Scottish and Brazilian prints are noticeably more romantic than his usual level. In drawing his own romanticisms on the stone, he was a little more reserved; and the Cahier de Six Sujets, published late in 1826, makes a valuable contrast. Some of their themes were repeated in water-colour, perhaps an indication that the prints won some popularity.

In quite a different vein are the illustrations to the Contes du Gai Sçavoir, done with a pen on the stone half in imitation, half in caricature of mediæval drawings. There is an entertaining sparkle about them, which explains Richard's popularity as a companion. The book was illustrated in collaboration with Henri Monnier, an artist friend of some standing, whose portrait by Bonington is in Mr. Atherton Curtis's collection.

Besides his lithographs Bonington executed at least one etching—Bologna (C. 62). In its first state, the only one where his work survives intact, it is extremely rare; T. S. Boys touched it up for publication by Colnaghi's just after Richard's death. This is the only etching certainly by him. Four soft-ground etchings are rejected by Mr. Hughes but accepted by Mr. Curtis (C. 63-65). The first, Vue de Verona, is at least in the style of the Bologna. The arguments against it are first, that it bears a false date, 1824, if we agree that 1826 was the date of his first visit to Italy. Moreover the line is insensitive, in places almost harsh, compared with the Bologna. In favour of acceptance is the provenance of the only example known—the collection of Baron Triqueti, a contemporary of Richard's, who considered it as his work. Mr. Curtis also contends that our knowledge of his tours is too slight to rule out an earlier visit to Italy, and that the false date could have been added later. Of the other three, all of which come from the same source, the Tourelle de St. Paul (?) (C. 64) seems to me too fussy to be acceptable, though Un Calvaire (C. 65) is so closely related to Bonington's late pencil work that it could be genuine. Bâteau de Seine (C. 66) has the same simplicity and sense of atmosphere as Un Calvaire.

There is too little to judge Bonington as an etcher. One can only regret that he took to the medium so late, since an artist with his sensitive touch must have succeeded. In lithograph he takes a high place; his command of tone values and his grasp of them as the essential of a composition put him ahead of the other landscape practitioners. And while his art in general is neither wholly French nor wholly English as a lithographer, and especially in his first plates, he seems to me to belong definitely to the French School.

LIST OF LITHGRAPHS BY BONINGTON

The following list gives the order of Mr. Atherton Curtis's chronological catalogue of the lithographs and prints; references are made to the catalogues of Beraldi (Ber), Bouvenne (Bou), and Hughes (H).

LITHOGRAPHS

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1. Dunkirk (Ber. 62, H. 48)
Restes et Fragmens d'Architecture du Moyen
Age 1824 | 3. Architecture du Moyen Age (Bou.
15, Ber. 16, H. 17); title page |
| 2. A Gothic Doorway (Bou. 37, Ber.
43, H. 28) | 3a. Hospice de Charité First described by Mr. Curtis |

INTRODUCTION

4. Abbeville from the Calais Road (Bou. 19, Ber. 20, H. 21)
5. Beauvais; House in the Rue Ste. Veronique (Bou. 21, Ber. 22, H. 23)
6. Bergues (Bou. 16, Ber. 17, H. 18)
7. Caen; Church of St. Sauveur (Bou. 22, Ber. 23, H. 24) Plate 155
8. Caen; House in the Grande Rue St. Pierre (Bou. 18, Ber. 19, H. 20)
9. Château d'Harcourt, Lillebonne (Bou. 17, Ber. 18, H. 19)
10. Rouen Cathedral (Bou. 20, Ber. 21, H. 22)
11. Rouen, Palais de Justice (Bou. 23, Ber. 24, H. 25)
12. Rouen, Fontaine de la Crosse (Bou. 24, Ber. 25, H. 26) 1827
13. Abbeville; A Doorway of St. Wulfran's (Bou. 34, Ber. 26, H. 27)
14. Morning (Bou. 36, Ber. 45, H. 46)
15. Gothic Doorway of a Half-timbered House (Bou. 38, Ber. 44, H. 45)
- Voyages Pittoresques et Romantiques dans l'Ancienne France*
16. Rouen; Rue de la Grosse Horloge (Bou. 10, Ber. 1, H. 1)
17. Gisors; Church of St. Gervais and St. Protas (Bou. 11, Ber. 2, H. 2)
18. Vernon, Tour aux Archives (Bou. 12, Ber. 3, H. 3)
19. Evreux; Tour du Gros Horloge (Bou. 13, Ber. 4, H. 4)
20. Evreux; Windows of the Apse of St. Taurin (Bou. 14, Ber. 5, H. 5)
21. Pesmes (Bou. 1, Ber. 6, H. 6) 1825
22. Tournus; The Abbey Church (Bou. 2, Ber. 7, H. 7) 1825
23. Brou; Front of the Church (Bou. 3, Ber. 8, H. 8) 1825
24. Brou; Tomb of Marguerite de Bourbon (Bou. 4, Ber. 9, H. 9) 1825
25. Pierre de Vaivre (Bou. 7, Ber. 12, H. 10) 1827
26. Cross at Moulins les Planches (Bou. 8, Ber. 13, H. 11) 1827
27. Château d'Harlay (Bou. 5, Ber. 10, H. 12) 1827
28. Château d'Harlay (Bou., p. 10, Ber. 11, H. 14) 1827
29. Château d'Harlay (Bou. 6, Ber. 11, H. 13) 1827
30. Street in the Outskirts of Besançon (Bou. 9, Ber. 14, H. 15) 1827
Plate 155
Vues Pittoresques de l'Ecosse
31. Edinburgh from St. Anthony's Chapel (Bou. 50, Ber. 39, H. 32) 1826
32. Edinburgh from the Calton Hill (Bou. 41, Ber. 30, H. 33) 1826
33. Old Gateway at Stirling (Bou. 47, Ber. 36, H. 34) 1826
34. Doune Castle (Bou. 42, Ber. 31, H. 35) 1826
35. Loch Tay (Bou. 49, Ber. 38, H. 36) 1826
36. Brackline Bridge (Bou. 51, Ber. 40, H. 37) 1826
37. Glenfinlas (Bou. 44, Ber. 33, H. 38) 1826
38. Loch Lomond (Bou. 46, Ber. 35, H. 39) 1826
39. Argyll Castle (Bou. 43, Ber. 32, H. 40) 1826
40. Bothwell Castle (Bou. 45, Ber. 34, H. 43) 1826
41. Old Tower near Lanark (Bou. 48, Ber. 37, H. 44) 1826
42. The Gibbet (Bou. 53, Ber. 42, Ber. 41) 1826 Plate 156
43. The Duel (Bou. 52, Ber. 41, H. 42) 1826
Set of Six Figure Subjects
44. Le Repos (Bou. 28, Ber. 47, H. 49) 1826
45. La Prière (Bou. 29, Ber. 48, H. 50) 1826

BONINGTON

- | | |
|---|---|
| 46. La Conservation (Bou. 30, Ber. 49, H. 51) 1826 | Les Contes du Gai Sçavoir |
| 47. Le Silence Favorable (Bou. 31, Ber. 50, H. 52) 1826 | 54. Title Page (Bou. 54, Ber. 54, H. 56) 1828 |
| 48. Les Plaisirs Paternels (Bou. 32, Ber. 51, H. 53) 1826 | 55. First Headpiece (Bou. 55, Ber. 55, H. 57) 1828 |
| 49. Le Retour (Bou. 33, Ber. 52, H. 54) 1826 | 56. Second Headpiece (Bou. 56, Ber. 56, H. 58) 1828 |
| Voyage Pittoresque dans le Bresil | 57. Third Headpiece (Bou. 57, Ber. 57, H. 59) 1828 |
| 50. Banks of the River Das Velhas (Bou. 26, Ber. 28, H. 30) 1827 | 58. Fourth Headpiece (Bou. 58, Ber. 58, H. 60) 1828 |
| 51. Rio Janeiro; Entrance to the Harbour (Bou. 25, Ber. 27, H. 29) 1827 Plate 156 | 59. Sixth Headpiece (Bou. 59, Ber. 59, H. 61) 1828 |
| 52. Mouth of the River Caxoera (Bou. 27, Ber. 29, H. 31) 1827 | 60. Eighth Headpiece (Bou. 60, Ber. 60, H. 62) 1828 |
| 53. The Storm (Bou. 40, Ber. 46, H. 47) 1827 | 61. La Vilageoise (Bou. 39, Ber. 53, H. 55) 1828 |

ETCHINGS

- | | |
|---|---|
| 62. Bologna (Bou. 62, Ber. 64, H. 63) 1826-27 Plate 157 | 63. Verona (Bou. 63, Ber. 65, H., p. 146, 1). |
|---|---|

DOUBTFUL ATTRIBUTIONS

- | | |
|---|--|
| 64. Tourelle de l'Hotel de St. Paul (Bou. 65, Ber. 66, H., p. 146, 2) | 73. The Wreck (H., p. 147) |
| 65. Un Calvaire (Bou. 64, H., p. 146, 4). Plate 157 | 74. Raleigh and Queen Elizabeth (H., p. 147) |
| 66. Bateau de Seine (Bou. 66, Ber. 67, H., p. 146, 3) | 75. Landscape with three nude Figures (H., p. 147) |
| 67. Bateau (Bou. 67, Ber. 68, H., p. 146) | 76. Lafon (H., p. 146) |
| 68. Rue d'une Ville Italienne (Ber., p. 162, H., p. 146) | 77. Man in sixteenth century costume (H., p. 146) |
| 69. Bologna; First Described by Mr. Curtis | 78. Lyons; Front of the Church of St. Jean (Bou. 35, Ber. 15, H. 16) |
| 70. Two Women and a Child (H., p. 147) | 79. Arched Gateway in a Ruined Wall; First Described by Mr. Curtis |
| 71. Lake Scene, with Rocky Mountains (H., p. 147) | 80. Entrance to St. James's Palace, London (H., p. 147) |
| 72. Mountain Scene, with a Well (H., p. 147) | 81. The Customs House, London (H., p. 147) |
| | 82. Four Subjects on one Plate (Ber. 63) |

BIBLIOGRAPHY

- ARNOLD'S MAGAZINE OF FINE ARTS, new series III, London, 1833-34
 L'ART, Paris, 1879
 ART JOURNAL, London, 1856
 L'ARTISTE, Paris, 1837, 1848, 1857, 1886
 LA BELLE ASSEMBLEE, London, 1826
 BERALDI, Les Graveurs du XIXe Siècle, Paris
 BINYON, L., English Watercolour, London, 1933
 LA BIOGRAPHIE MICHAUD, Paris
 BIOGRAPHIE RABBE (Supplement), Paris
 BLANC, CHARLES, Histoire des Peintres de toutes Ecoles, Paris, 1863
 BOUVENNE, A., Catalogue de l'Oeuvre gravé de R. P. Bonington, Paris, 1873
 BURLINGTON MAGAZINE, vols. 11, 12, 51, 71, London
 CALLOW, WILLIAM, Autobiography, ed. by H. M. Cundall, London, 1908
 CHAMPLIN AND PERKINS, Cyclopædia of Painters and Paintings, Paris
 CHESNEAU, E., La Peinture Anglaise, Paris
 CONNOISSEUR, vols. 9, 10, 67, 88, 93, 98, London
 CURTIS, ATHERTON, L'œuvre gravé et lithographié de R. P. Bonington, Paris, 1939
 CUNDALL, H. M., History of British Watercolour, London, 1929
 CUNNINGHAM, ALAN, Lives of the British Painters. 3 vols., London, 1880 DICTIONARY OF NATIONAL BIOGRAPHY
 DUBUISSON, A., & HUGHES, C. E., Richard Parkes Bonington, London, 1924
 ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA
 ESCHOLIER, RAYMOND, Delacroix, Paris, 1930
 FONTAINAS, ANDRE, Histoire de la Peinture Francaise du XIXe Siècle
 GAZETTE DES BEAUX ARTS, Paris, 1859, 1876
 GENTLEMAN'S MAGAZINE, vol. 98
 GIGOUX, JEAN, Causeries sur les Artistes de mon Temps, Paris, 1885
 LE GLOBE, Paris, 1828
 HARDING, J. D., Series of Subjects from the Works of the late R. P. Bonington, London, 1830
 HEDIARD, Germain, Lithographies de Bonington, Paris
 HOLME, C., & WEDMORE, SIR F., English Watercolour, London, 1900
 HUET, RENE PAUL, Paul Huet, Paris
 ILCHESTER, the Earl of, CHRONICLES OF HOLLAND HOUSE, London, 1820-1900
 JAL, A., Le Salon, 1827, Paris
 JOUBIN, ANDRE, Correspondence Generale d'Eugène Delacroix, Paris, 1936-38
 JOUBIN, ANDRE, Le Journal d'Eugène Delacroix, Paris, 1932

BONINGTON

- JOUETS, JULES, L'Ecole des Beaux Arts de St. Omer
 LAYARD, G. S., Sir Thomas Lawrence's Letter-bag, London, 1905
 LE FRANC, J. TRIPIER, Histoire de la Vie et la Mort du Baron Gros, Paris, 1880
 LIBRARY OF FINE ARTS, London, 1832
 LITERARY GAZETTE, 1826, 1828, London, 1832
 LITERARY SOUVENIR, London, 1835
 LONDON MAGAZINE, London, 1829
 LONDON WEEKLY REVIEW, London, 1828-29
 MAGAZINE OF FINE ARTS, London, 1833
 MERCURE DE FRANCE, Paris, 1901
 LE MUSEE ARTISTIQUE ET LITERAIRE, Paris, 1881
 NAGLER, Neues Allgemeines Kunstler-Lexicon, Berlin
 NEW MONTHLY MAGAZINE, London, 1828, 1829, 1834
 NOTES AND QUERIES, 4th Series VII, pp. 502-3, London
 LA NOUVELLE BIOGRAPHIE GENERALE FIRMIN DIDOT, Paris, 1862
 PORTFOLIO, London, 1881
 REDGRAVE, Dictionary of the English School, London, 1874
 REDGRAVE, R., Watercolour Painting in England, London, 1878
 REVUE BRITANNIQUE, Paris, 1833
 REVUE DE L'ART ANCIENNE ET MODERNE, Paris, 1909
 ROGET, J. L., History of the Old Water-Colour Society, London, 1891
 ROSENTHAL, La Peinture Romantique, Paris
 RYLEY, S. W., The Itinerant, or Memoirs of an Actor, vol. VI
 SHIRLEY, THE HON. A. (Edited by), Leslie's Memoirs of the life of Constable, London, 1937
 STOKES, HUGH, Girtin and Bonington, London, 1922
 STUDIO, London, 1904
 TAYLOR, BARON, Voyages Pittoresques dans l'ancienne France, Paris, 1823-47
 THOROTON SOCIETY'S TRANSACTIONS, 1910
 WALPOLE SOCIETY, Journal, II
 WHITLEY, W. T., Art in England, 1820-37, London, 1930
 WHITMAN, A. C., S. W. Reynolds, London, 1903

CATALOGUE

CATALOGUE

Note. Abbreviations:—A. Dubuisson and G. E. Hughes' Richard Parkes Bonington.
D. and H.

Burlington Fine Arts Club: B.F.A.C.

1817-18 TALL HOUSES, WITH BOATS ON A FORESHORE Watercolour $6\frac{1}{2}"$ $\times 6"$ (16.5×15.2 cm.) Cut at the top, left Inscribed, "Par Bonington à (?) Rouen" Musée
Magnin, Dijon

1818 VIEW IN CALAIS (A Gothic church, left, in a street of old houses; a stream and bridge in the foreground) Oil on canvas $15\frac{1}{2}" \times$ $11\frac{1}{2}"$ (39.4×29 cm.) Arthur
Morrison

L'EGLISE DE ST. WULFRAN, ABBE-VILLE (Old timbered houses on the left, with figures) Pencil, heightened with white, on grey paper $9\frac{5}{8}" \times 7\frac{1}{8}"$ (24×18 cm.) A copy is in the Musée de Picardie, Amiens Coll. His de la
Salle Louvre, Paris, 809 Plate 1

ANCIEN HOPITAL, ST. LO Pencil
 $9" \times 6\frac{1}{4}"$ (22.8×15.8 cm.)
Inscribed as title Coll. Gaude- froy, Fils. Atherton Curtis Plate 2

STUDIES OF SAILS AND TOPSAILS
Pencil $4\frac{1}{2}" \times 5\frac{1}{2}"$ (11.5×14 cm.) Coll. W. B. Paterson City
Art Gallery, Nottingham, 13-71

1818-19 VUE DE CALAIS (The harbour with shipping) Watercolour
 $7\frac{5}{8}" \times 11"$ (19.3×27.8 cm.)

Signed, R. P. Bonington Engraved by G. Reeves Atherton
Curtis Plate 6

A SQUARE BELFRY Pencil and wash $3\frac{7}{8}" \times 3"$ (9.9×7.5 cm.)
Numbered 62 Lot 185, sale 1829
Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114
(No. 34 in album) The Marquess
of Lansdowne, Bowood

1819 APRES L'ORAGE: MER CALME Oil on paper, mounted on panel
 $8\frac{3}{4}" \times 10\frac{3}{4}"$ (22.2×27.3 cm.)
Musée Magnin, Dijon Plate 7

BOYS WITH A DONKEY (one riding) Watercolour, Indian ink, and pencil $7\frac{1}{2}" \times 5\frac{5}{8}"$ (18.5×14.2 cm.) Musée de Besançon, 2379 D
Plate 5

HALF TIMBERED HOUSES AT ABBE-VILLE Pencil heightened with white on yellowish paper $8" \times$
 $3\frac{3}{4}"$ (20.2×9.6 cm.) Inscribed
Abbevil(le) No. 6 Numbered 86
Lot 185, sale 1829 Exhib.
B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 33 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood

PARIS, WITH A VIEW OF S. SULPICE
Pencil $9\frac{1}{8}" \times 5\frac{3}{4}"$ (23.2×14.5 cm.) Inscribed R. P. B. Pierre Maurois Plate 3

- A BARGE UNDER SAIL Pencil $2\frac{5}{8}" \times 2"$ (6.7×5 cm.) P. M. Turner
- A TWO MASTED SHIP UNDER SAIL IN A BREEZE Pencil $5\frac{1}{4}" \times 2\frac{1}{8}"$ (13.2×6.3 cm.) P. M. Turner
- THREE SHIPS UNDER SAIL Pencil $2\frac{1}{8}" \times 2\frac{1}{8}"$ (5.3×5.3 cm.) P. M. Turner
- COAST SCENE (A Beached Boat and figures) Pencil $3\frac{5}{8}" \times 8\frac{1}{2}"$ (9.2×21.5 cm.) City Art Gallery, Nottingham, 12-41
- 1819-20 SEA SCAPE (Cottages on a shore with high hills beyond; perhaps La Bouille) Oil on canvas $8\frac{1}{4}" \times 12\frac{1}{8}"$ (20.8×31.7 cm.) Signature, R. P. B. Coll. Gigoux Musée de Besançon, 14 Plate 7
- PALAIS DE JUSTICE, ROUEN Pencil heightened with white on grey paper $16\frac{1}{4}" \times 11\frac{3}{8}"$ (41.2×28.3 cm.) Inscribed as title Numbered 54 Lot 189, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 42 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood Plate 9
- 1820 PARIS, PONT SAINT-MICHEL Oil on canvas $8\frac{1}{8}" \times 11\frac{7}{8}"$ (20.5×30 cm.) Coll. A. M. Bracquemont Exhib. Paris, Gros., 1936, No. 148; Bonington, 1936, No. 51 Reproduced Dubuisson & Hughes, p. 82 Atherton Curtis
- A SAILOR HOLDING AN OAR Oil on canvas $11\frac{3}{4}" \times 7"$ (29.8×17.7 cm.) Inscribed, on a separate piece of canvas at the back, "P. R. Bonington 1820" Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1930-31, No. 11; 1937, No. 24 Lord Berners
- NOTRE DAME AND THE PONT ST. MICHEL, TWILIGHT Oil on panel $5\frac{7}{8}" \times 11"$ (14.8×27.8 cm.) Dated 1820 on a label at the back P. M. Turner Plate 11
- PORTRAIT OF A STUDENT (whole length, standing, hand in pocket) Watercolour with traces of pencil $10\frac{1}{4}" \times 8"$ (26×20.4 cm.) Cut to an octagon Inscribed R. P. Bonington Collector's mark, CG in oval Coll. Gigoux Plate 4
- Verso. HEAD OF A WOMAN Watercolour charged with gum Musée de Besançon, 2374 D Plate 4
- CHURCH IN NORMANDY Watercolour $9\frac{7}{8}" \times 6\frac{7}{8}"$ (25×17.3 cm.) Victoria and Albert Museum, London, P. 26-1928 Plate 8
- HALF TIMBERED HOUSES (three peasants in the foreground, barrels, etc.) Pencil heightened with white on grey paper $13\frac{3}{4}" \times 9\frac{1}{4}"$ (34.8×23.4 cm.) Numbered 158 Probably lot 176, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 37 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- GOTHIC DOORWAY (with an open wooden door; used for the lithograph, Restes Gothiques (C 2)) Pencil and wash on buff paper $15\frac{1}{8}" \times 9\frac{5}{8}"$ (38.5×24.4 cm.) Lot 188, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 39 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- ST. PIERRE, CAEN, Lithographed as St. Sauveur, Caen (C 7) Pencil heightened with white on buff paper $13\frac{1}{4}" \times 10\frac{1}{2}"$ (33.8×26.7 cm.) Numbered 59 Lot 175 or 185, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 40 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood Plate 10

CATALOGUE

- TWO-MASTED BOAT (sails partly furled) Pencil $6\frac{1}{2}'' \times 9\frac{5}{8}''$ (16.5 \times 11.7 cm.) Numbered 35 P. M. Turner
- A CADET OF ST. CYR Pencil $13\frac{1}{4}'' \times 6\frac{1}{8}''$ (33.5 \times 15.5 cm.) Pierre Maurois Plate 3
- THREE FIGURES BY AN ESTUARY (hills beyond) Pencil $4\frac{1}{8}'' \times 6\frac{7}{8}''$ (10.5 \times 17.4 cm.) Coll. Fairfax Murray City Art Gallery, Nottingham, 20-36
- 1820-21 LES DEUX MOULINS SUR LA DUNE (figures in the foreground) Oil on paper, laid on canvas $8\frac{1}{4}'' \times 11\frac{3}{8}''$ (21 \times 29 cm.) Signature R. P. Bonington Coll. M. Roso Exhib. Bonington, 1936, No. 28 Maurice Gobin Plate 15
- TWO GEESE Pencil $1\frac{3}{4}'' \times 4''$ (4.4 \times 10.2 cm.) Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 2 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- 1821 SHIPPING OFF DUNKIRK (Rough Water) Watercolour $5\frac{3}{4}'' \times 8\frac{3}{4}''$ (14.6 \times 22.2 cm.) Signature, R. P. B. Dated 1821 Atherton Curtis Plate 50
- A PORT (?) DIEPPE (A church tower, centre; shipping in the foreground) Watercolour over pencil $6\frac{1}{2}'' \times 7''$ (15.5 \times 17.7 cm.) Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1927, No. 100 P. M. Turner Plate 14
- TOUR DU MARCHE, BERGUES Pencil $7'' \times 4\frac{1}{4}''$ (17.8 \times 10.8 cm.) Inscribed Bergue, Begne Numbered 40 Lithographed by Feillet (C 6) Reproduced D. & H., p. 139 Lot 185, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 29 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- CUPOLA OF THE HOTEL DE VILLE, CALAIS Pencil $4\frac{1}{2}'' \times 2\frac{1}{2}''$ (11.4 \times 6.3 cm.) Numbered 54 Perhaps lot 185, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 32 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- GOthic HOUSE AND DOORWAY (Perhaps used for the lithograph Interieur d'une Cour (C 5)) Pencil on grey paper $13\frac{1}{8}'' \times 9\frac{1}{2}''$ (34.3 \times 24 cm.) Numbered 60 Probably lot 176, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 13 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- ST. SAUVEUR, CAEN (Figures entering the porch) Pencil heightened with white on grey paper $14\frac{5}{8}'' \times 9\frac{3}{8}''$ (37.3 \times 23.8 cm.) Numbered 75 Lithographed by J. D. Harding, 1829 Lot 175 or 185, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., No. 114 (No. 41 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- ST. SAUVEUR, CAEN Pencil $14\frac{1}{8}'' \times 9''$ (35.8 \times 22.7 cm.) Atherton Curtis Plate 32
- A TWO-MASTED BOAT (sails partly furled) Pencil $6\frac{1}{2}'' \times 9\frac{5}{8}''$ (16.5 \times 11.7 cm.) Numbered 35 P. M. Turner
- DISMASTED MAN OF WAR Pencil on tinted paper $8\frac{1}{4}'' \times 10\frac{1}{8}''$ (21 \times 26.3 cm.) British Museum, London, L.B. 10-1
- STUDY FROM A FLEMISH DRAWING DATED 1668 (a shepherd, a soldier with his servant, and a musqueteer) Pencil on tracing paper $7\frac{3}{8}'' \times 10\frac{3}{8}''$ (18.7 \times 26.4 cm.) Probably in lot 169, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 14 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood

- TWO STUDIES OF A GOTHIC STATUE (an abbess or a saint) Pencil $4\frac{1}{2}" \times 3\frac{7}{8}"$ (11.4 \times 9.8 cm.) Inscribed, "Notre dame (Pa)ris" British Museum, London, L.B. 10-86
- MADONNA AND CHILD (Study from a Gothic statue) Pencil $7\frac{3}{8}" \times 3\frac{1}{8}"$ (19.8 \times 8.3 cm.) Numbered 41 British Museum, London, L.B. 10-19
- MADONNA AND CHILD (from Notre Dame) and a GROUP OF THREE FIGURES Pencil $4\frac{1}{4}" \times 3\frac{3}{4}"$ (10.8 \times 9.5 cm.) Numbered 39 Study from the same statue as the last British Museum, London, L.B. 10-13
- TWO SCULPTURED FIGURES Pencil $5\frac{1}{8}" \times 4"$ (13 \times 10.2 cm.) Inscribed, "(Not)re Dame (Par)is" Numbered 39 British Museum, London, L.B. 10-12
- SHIPPING Pencil $3\frac{1}{8}" \times 6\frac{5}{8}"$ (8 \times 16.8 cm.) City Art Gallery, Nottingham, 12-34
- A HULK AND A SINGLE-MASTED SHIP Pencil $3\frac{3}{8}" \times 8\frac{1}{2}"$ (8.8 \times 20.5 cm.) Coll. W. B. Paterson City Art Gallery, Nottingham, 13-70
- 1821-22 LA BOUILLE (near the Seine, at Rouen) Oil on paper, laid on canvas $10\frac{5}{8}" \times 14\frac{3}{4}"$ (27 \times 37.5 cm.) Exhib. Paris, Bonington, 1936, No. 40 Maurice Gobin Plate 16
- VIEW OF A PORT WITH SHIPPING Pencil $2\frac{1}{4}" \times 6\frac{7}{8}"$ (5.8 \times 17.6 cm.) Coll. Lewis Brown Luc A. Moreau
- 1822 BERGUES: LA TOUR DU MARCHE Oil on panel $13\frac{1}{2}" \times 9\frac{1}{4}"$ (34 \times 24 cm.) Exhib. Bethnal Green, 1872, No. 42 Wallace Collection, London, 319 Plate 17
- INTERIOR OF SENLIS CATHEDRAL (with figures) Oil on canvas $12\frac{1}{2}" \times 16"$ (32 \times 40.6 cm.) Exhib. Sambon, 1932, No. 8; Bonington, 1936, No. 24 P. M. Turner Plate 18
- INTERIOR OF THE GREAT GALLERY OF THE LOUVRE (painters copying) Oil on canvas $12\frac{5}{8}" \times 9\frac{1}{2}"$ (32 \times 24 cm.) Maurice Gobin Plate 19
- BORDS DE RIVIERE Oil on paper, laid on canvas $8\frac{5}{8}" \times 14\frac{5}{8}"$ (22 \times 37 cm.) Exhib. Paris, Bonington, 1936, No. 34 G. Strolin
- NOTRE DAME DE DIJON Pencil $12" \times 9\frac{1}{4}"$ (30.5 \times 23.5 cm.) Atherton Curtis
- STATUES OF A KING AND OF A SAINT Pencil $5\frac{5}{8}" \times 2"$ Numbered 39 C. E. Hughes
- A KING AND A SOLDIER (from sculpture) Pencil $4\frac{1}{4}" \times 5\frac{3}{8}"$ (10.7 \times 13.6 cm.) Inscribed, "Notre Dame Paris" Numbered 39 C. E. Hughes
- STUDIES OF MEDIEVAL SCULPTURE, BRUGES Pencil $6" \times 3\frac{7}{8}"$ (15.2 \times 9.8 cm.) Inscribed "Bruges" Numbered 73 British Museum, London, L.B. 10-17
- KNIGHT IN CHAIN ARMOUR (study from sculpture) Pencil $4\frac{3}{4}" \times 2\frac{1}{8}"$ (12.1 \times 7.2 cm.) Numbered 39 British Museum, London, L.B. 10-16
- STUDY FROM A MEDIEVAL CARVED GROUP OF TWO FIGURES Pencil $3\frac{1}{2}" \times 2\frac{1}{4}"$ (8.8 \times 5.7 cm.) Numbered 73 British Museum, London, L.B., 10-11a

CATALOGUE

ARCHITECTURAL ORNAMENT (a Gothic angel; perhaps from a miserere seat) Pencil $3\frac{3}{8}" \times 3\frac{1}{8}"$ (8.5 \times 7.7 cm.) Numbered 72 British Museum, London, L.B., 10-7b

A COURTIER AND A SEATED LUTANIST Watercolour and pencil $4\frac{1}{2}" \times 6\frac{1}{8}"$ (11.4 \times 15.5 cm.) Inscribed, "Jean de Weredin Seneschal de Heynault XVe Siecle" Colour notes in English British Museum, London, L.B. 10-9b

SEIGNEUR DE LA COUR DE CHARLES VIII Watercolour over pencil $5\frac{3}{8}" \times 3\frac{3}{4}"$ (13.7 \times 9.5 cm.) Inscribed as title, and with colour notes in English Numbered 43 British Museum, London, L.B., 10-9a

STUDIES OF THIRTEENTH CENTURY COSTUME (derived from a mediæval MS. Pencil $5\frac{3}{8}" \times 8\frac{1}{8}"$ (13.7 \times 20.7) Inscribed twice "13 Siecle" Numbered 72 British Museum, London, L.B. 10-14

STUDY OF SEVENTEENTH CENTURY COSTUME (a right leg, and an arm) Pencil $3\frac{3}{8}" \times 8\frac{3}{8}"$ (9.3 \times 22 cm.) British Museum, London, L.B., 10-6

STUDY OF SEVENTEENTH CENTURY COSTUME (Translated from the figure of Marie de Medicis in Henri IV goes to the German Wars by Rubens) Pencil $4\frac{3}{4}" \times 3\frac{3}{4}"$ (12 \times 9.5 cm.) Numbered 59 British Museum, London, L.B., 10-15

STUDY OF A FOUR-POSTER BED Pencil $8\frac{1}{8}" \times 5\frac{1}{2}"$ (20.7 \times 14 cm.) Inscribed, "Chateau de la Roche Guyon Henri 4" British Museum, London, L.B., 10-19a

BOATS AT GHENT Pencil $4\frac{1}{2}" \times 8\frac{3}{8}"$ (11.4 \times 21.4 cm.) Inscribed "Ghent" Numbered 33 British Museum, London, L.B. 10-4

STUDY OF A BOAT Pencil $7\frac{3}{8}" \times 4"$ (18.7 \times 10.2 cm.) Numbered 37 British Museum, London, L.B., 10-3

FISHING BOATS Pencil $7\frac{1}{4}" \times 4\frac{1}{2}"$ (18.4 \times 11.4 cm.) Numbered 38 British Museum, London L.B., 10-2

1822-23 THE BEACON TOWER (scene with figures and shipping by the jetty of a town, Dunkirk?, on the north coast of France, Oil on panel Messrs. J. Leger & Son, London

STONE STATUES FROM AN ANCIENT BUILDING Pencil on tinted paper $6\frac{3}{8}" \times 8\frac{1}{8}"$ (16.3 \times 20.7 cm.) British Museum, London, L.B., 10-5

THREE STUDIES OF MEDIEVAL RELIGIOUS COSTUMES (from sculpture) Two in watercolour, one in pencil and wash $4\frac{1}{2}" \times 7"$ (11.4 \times 17.8 cm.) British Museum, London, L.B., 10-20a

TWO STUDIES OF MEDIEVAL RELIGIOUS COSTUME (from sculpture) Watercolour $4\frac{5}{8}" \times 4\frac{1}{2}"$ (11.7 \times 11.4 cm.) British Museum, London, L.B., 10-18

STUDY OF COSTUME (a Page's doublet) Pencil $3\frac{1}{2}" \times 3\frac{3}{8}"$ (8.9 \times 8.2 cm.) Numbered 4(3) British Museum, London, L.B., 10-7a

- TWO STATUES: A KING AND A SAINT Pencil $5\frac{5}{8}" \times 2"$ (14.3×5 cm.) Numbered 39 C. E. Hughes
- KING AND TWO SOLDIERS (sculptured group) Pencil $4\frac{1}{4}" \times 5\frac{3}{8}"$ (10.8×13.5 cm.) Inscribed, Notre Dame Paris Numbered 39 C. E. Hughes
- SOUTH DOOR OF ROUEN CATHEDRAL Pencil $18\frac{3}{8}" \times 14\frac{3}{4}"$ (46.7×37.5 cm.) Coll. Charvet. Reproduced D. & H., p. 44 Atherton Curtis
- A PIER; THREE SHIPS Pencil $3" \times 7"$ (7.5×17.8 cm.) City Art Gallery, Nottingham, 12-43
- HARBOUR AND SHIPPING (Calais?) Pencil $3\frac{1}{8}" \times 6\frac{3}{4}"$ (8.9×17.1 cm.) City Art Gallery, Nottingham, 12-35
- FOUR SHIPS NEAR THE SHORE Pencil and wash $2\frac{1}{8}" \times 4\frac{1}{8}"$ (5.3×10.4 cm.) P. M. Turner
- 1823 MARLY FROM THE TERRACE OF ST. GERMAIN EN LAYE Oil on canvas $11\frac{3}{8}" \times 15\frac{3}{8}"$ (28.9×39 cm.) Signed and dated, R. P. B., Marly, 1823 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 9 The Hon. Mrs. David Bowes Lyon Plate 20
- ROGNY SUR SEINE (Paris and Mantes in the distance) Oil on paper $7\frac{1}{4}" \times 11"$ (18.4×27.8 cm.) Exhib. Paris, Bonington, 1936, No. 29; B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 15 P. M. Turner Plate 22
- MANTES (View across the Seine, the Cathedral in the middle distance, and the bridge, left) Oil on millboard $8\frac{1}{2}" \times 10\frac{1}{2}"$ (21.5×26.7 cm.) Coll. Baron Charles Rivet Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 18 The Heirs of the late M. N. de Lajudie Plate 21
- LES PENICHES (Mantes from the river; barges in the foreground; the cathedral and bridge in distance) Oil on canvas $11\frac{1}{2}" \times 15\frac{1}{4}"$ (28.2×38.7 cm.) Exhib. Leicester Galleries, 1938, No. 12 P. M. Turner Plate 27
- ABBAY OF ST. BERTIN, ST. OMER (the Ruined Transept) Oil on canvas $23\frac{1}{4}" \times 19"$ (60.3×48.2 cm.) Coll. R. P. Bonington (sale 1829), William Twopenny, James Orrock Exhib. Wembley, 1926, No. 45; Brussels, Peinture Anglaise, 1929, No. 93; Liverpool, 1933, No. 69; Manchester, 1934, No. 93; Royal Academy, British Art, 1934, No. 459 (635); B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 19; Paris, 1938, No. 00 City Art Gallery, Nottingham Plate 23
- PAYS DE CAUX, TWILIGHT Oil on canvas $12" \times 15\frac{3}{4}"$ (30.5×40 cm.) Exhib. Ipswich, Gainsborough, 1927, No. 92; B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 3 P. M. Turner Plate 25
- HEATH SCENE, NORMANDY (two women and a boy on a sandy road; distance, a village and low hills) Oil on canvas $12\frac{3}{4}" \times 17\frac{3}{4}"$ (32×45 cm.) Coll. Staats Forbès, Salting National Gallery, London, 2664 Plate 24
- VIEW AT LA FERTÉ NEAR SALVADORE Oil on paper laid on canvas $8\frac{1}{2}" \times 11\frac{1}{2}"$ (21.5×29.2 cm.) Coll. Rev. John Lucy, J. P. Heseltine Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 17 P. M. Turner Plate 24
- COAST SCENE, PICARDY (horses and figures on the foreshore; ships and cliffs beyond) Oil on canvas $13\frac{3}{4}" \times 19\frac{1}{4}"$ (35×49

CATALOGUE

- cm.) Coll. Duke of Bedford (sale 1853) Exhib. Bethnal Green, 1872-5, No. 46 Wallace Collection, London, 431 Plate 37
- LOW TIDE (Three beached boats with slack sails; figures and horses) Oil on canvas $21\frac{1}{2}'' \times 17''$ (54.5×43.2 cm.) Exhib. St. Helens, 1939, No. 13 P. M. Turner
- COTES NORMANDES (foreshore extends from a high chalk cliff, left; sun breaking through mist) Oil on canvas $17\frac{3}{4}'' \times 15''$ (45×38 cm.) Exhib. Gros., 1936, No. 142 Louvre, Paris, 1804 Plate 35
- COAST NEAR DIEPPE (children seated with baskets of fish, by a horse's saddle) Oil on canvas $9\frac{1}{2}'' \times 12\frac{5}{8}''$ (23.5×32.2 cm.) Signed, R. P. Bonington Coll. Munro of Novar (sale 1878), Sir Hugh Adair (sale 1903), Sir Charles Robinson Exhib. Royal Academy, British Art, 1934, No. 463 (634); B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 47 Andrew T. Reid Plate 26
- COAST SCENE (Stormy sky) Oil on panel $6\frac{1}{2}'' \times 10\frac{1}{2}''$ (16.5×26.7 cm.) Coll. Delacroix, Baron Charles Rivet, Mme. de Salvandy Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 20 Reproduced D. & H., p. 56 The Heirs of the late M. N. de Lajudie
- LA VIEILLE GOUVERNANTE (portrait of an old woman in a muslin cap) Oil on canvas $30'' \times 24\frac{1}{8}''$ (76×63 cm.) Coll. Webb (sale 1837), Leopold Flameng Exhib. Gros., 1936, No. 140 Louvre, Paris, 1805 bis. Plate 29
- PORTRAIT OF A YOUNG MAN (whole length, seated; a wooded background, with a cottage beyond) Oil on millboard $8\frac{3}{4}'' \times 6\frac{3}{4}''$ (22.2×17.1 cm.) Musée des Beaux Arts, Epinal, 90 Plate 28
- FISHING BOATS: DEAD CALM (a village church and spire, right) Watercolour over pencil $6\frac{3}{8}'' \times 10\frac{1}{4}''$ (16×26 cm.) Signed, R. P. Bonington Coll. L. Brown (sale 1837, No. 20 or 23) Wallace Collection, London, 700 Plate 30
- STREET IN ABBEVILLE Watercolour over pencil $6\frac{1}{2}'' \times 4\frac{7}{8}''$ (16.5×12.5 cm.) Coll. R. Schumann Collector's mark, N in a circle Exhib. Le Décor et la Vie Romantique, 1930, No. 325; Bonington, 1936, No. 32 Henri Marillier Plate 48
- NEAR JUMIEGES (a meadow and stream; a church spire in distance, left) Watercolour $8\frac{3}{4}'' \times 12\frac{1}{8}''$ (22.2×30.8 cm.) Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 27 Andrew T. Reid
- SEASCAPE (a square-rigged vessel, and a sailing boat, left) Sepia $3\frac{3}{4}'' \times 6\frac{1}{8}''$ (9.5×15.6 cm.) Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 124 Sir Michael Sadler
- FIGURE STUDIES (six sketches of peasants, and a group of three others) Watercolour and reed pen $4\frac{1}{2}'' \times 6\frac{1}{8}''$ (11.5×16.8 cm.) Numbered 24 Verso: a nude male figure, watercolour; and a dos-à-dos, pencil P. M. Turner
- STUDIES OF GIRLS Wash $2'' \times 3\frac{1}{2}''$ (5×8.4 cm.) Perhaps in lot 84, sale 1829 Exhibited, B.F.A.C., 114 (No. 5 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bwood Plate 31

PAYS DE CAUX (First sketch for the oil in Mr. P. M. Turner's and M. P. Gosselin's collections) Pencil $3\frac{1}{2}" \times 6\frac{3}{4}"$ (9×17.2 cm.) Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 125 P. M. Turner

SUNSET IN THE PAYS DE CAUX (Study for the same pictures) Pencil on blue-grey paper $2\frac{3}{8}" \times 5\frac{1}{8}"$ (6×14.8 cm.) Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 119c Sir Hickman Bacon, Bart., Thonock

A GOTHIC DOORWAY AND WINDOW Pencil $6\frac{1}{4}" \times 5\frac{1}{2}"$ (15.8×14 cm.) Inscribed, Ghent Numbered 104 Probably lot 185, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 24 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood

ANCIENNE MAISON DES BATELIERS, GHENT Pencil $8\frac{1}{2}" \times 5\frac{1}{2}"$ (21.5×14 cm.) Inscribed as title Lot 185, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 25 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood

AN OLD GABLED HOUSE, WITH FIGURES Pencil $6\frac{1}{4}" \times 4\frac{1}{4}"$ (16×10.8 cm.) Inscribed, St. Omer anno 1614 Numbered 15 Lot 185, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 36 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood

THE TOWER OF ST. BAVON (?), GHENT Pencil $8\frac{1}{8}" \times 5"$ (20.6×12.6 cm.) Inscribed, Ghent Numbered 22 Lot 185, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 26 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood

A RENAISSANCE GABLE Pencil $7\frac{1}{8}" \times 5\frac{3}{8}"$ (19.9×13.6 cm.) Numbered 123 Perhaps lot 185,

sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 27 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood

QUILLEBOEUF (shipping on the estuary; jetty with figures, foreground) Pencil $3\frac{1}{8}" \times 7\frac{1}{8}"$ (7.9×18 cm.) City Art Gallery, Nottingham, 12-37

CAEN (four boats sailing, scattered figures) Pencil $3\frac{1}{8}" \times 6\frac{1}{8}"$ (7.9×17.4 cm.) City Art Gallery, Nottingham, 12-45

VIEW OF DUNKIRK Pencil $6\frac{5}{8}" \times 10\frac{3}{8}"$ (17×26.3 cm.) Coll. Lewis Brown Luc. A. Moreau

1823-4 BOATS AND FISHERFOLK ON THE SHORE Watercolour $5\frac{1}{8}" \times 7"$ (13×17.7 cm.) P. M. Turner

SHORE SCENE, WITH WAGGON AND HORSES (Study for Boulogne Sands) Pencil on blue-grey paper $2\frac{3}{4}" \times 5\frac{1}{8}"$ (7×14.8 cm.) Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 119a Sir Hickman Bacon, Bart., Thonock

WIMEREUX (a thatched cottage in sunlight) Pencil $4\frac{5}{8}" \times 6"$ (11.7×15.2 cm.) Inscribed, Wimereux Victoria and Albert Museum, London, D2272-1885

A TRADING SHIP DISMASTED (near the shore) Pencil $8" \times 9\frac{1}{4}"$ (20.3×23.5 cm.) Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 130 P. M. Turner

TWO SHIPS BECALMED Pencil $1\frac{5}{8}" \times 6\frac{1}{4}"$ (4×15.8 cm.) P. M. Turner

DUTCH BARGE WITH SAILS FURLED Pencil and wash $4\frac{3}{4}" \times 3\frac{3}{4}"$ (12×9.5 cm.) P. M. Turner

SHIP WITH TOPSAILS SET (coast line beyond) Pencil and wash

CATALOGUE

- $5\frac{5}{8}" \times 3\frac{1}{8}"$ (14.3 \times 7.8 cm.)
 Numbered 20 P. M. Turner
- TWO PEASANTS Pencil $4" \times 3\frac{1}{8}"$
 (10.1 \times 8 cm.) Coll. A. Colin, A.
 Dubuisson Henri Marillier
- SKETCH FROM A DUTCH SEVENTEENTH CENTURY PICTURE Pencil $5\frac{1}{8}" \times 3"$ (13 \times 7.5 cm.)
 City Art Gallery, Nottingham, 20-39
- DIEPPE: THE QUAYSIDE (Sailors drying and repairing nets) Reed pen and wash $5\frac{1}{2}" \times 7\frac{3}{8}"$
 (14 \times 19.3 cm.) Coll. R. Nesham
 P. M. Turner Plate 31
- LATE GOTHIC DOORWAY (Two peasant women; perhaps a preparatory sketch for the Frontispiece of Restes et Fragmens d'Architecture du Moyen Age) Pencil $5\frac{3}{8}" \times 3\frac{3}{8}"$ (13.7 \times 8.4 cm.)
Perhaps lot 188, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 28 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- THREE SHIPS WITH SAILS SET Pencil and wash $4\frac{1}{8}" \times 3"$ (10.4 \times 7.7 cm.) P. M. Turner
- THREE-MASTED BARGE (lateen sails set) Pencil and wash $4\frac{1}{8}" \times 3\frac{3}{8}"$ (10.4 \times 8.5 cm.) P. M. Turner
- 1824 THE SEINE NEAR MANTES Oil on canvas $11\frac{7}{8}" \times 17\frac{3}{8}"$ (30 \times 44 cm.)
Exhib. Bethnal Green, 1872-5, No. 51 Wallace Collection, London, 339 Plate 27
- LE CHEMIN SABLONNEUX, BORDS DE LA SEINE (near Champrosay) Oil on canvas $10\frac{1}{4}" \times 15\frac{1}{2}"$ (26 \times 39.5 cm.) Exhib. Paris, Bonington, 1936, No. 26 Maurice Gobin Plate 33
- BORDS DE LA SEINE (view over the river to a wood and hills) Oil on paper laid on canvas $10\frac{5}{8}" \times 18\frac{1}{2}"$ (27 \times 47 cm.)
 Coll. Comte J. Milleret de Milleret Exhib. Paris, Bonington, 1936, No. 38 Maurice Gobin Plate 34
- MANTES ON THE SEINE Oil on canvas $15" \times 20\frac{3}{4}"$ (38 \times 52.6 cm.)
 Metropolitan Museum, New York Plate 38
- INTERIOR OF A CHURCH (the chancel; two monks) Oil on panel $7\frac{3}{8}" \times 5\frac{1}{4}"$ (18 \times 13.4 cm.)
 Maurice Gobin Plate 48
- COAST SCENE, NORMANDY (Fishing Boats beached in the foreground) Oil on canvas $10\frac{1}{4}" \times 17\frac{1}{2}"$ (26 \times 44.5 cm.) Signed R. P. B. monogram Coll. Baron Charles Rivet, Mme. de Salvandy Exhib. Gros., 1936, No. 145; B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 4 Mlle. F. de Catheu, Paris Plate 36
- COAST SCENE (a beached boat and a waggon in foreground) Oil on canvas $14\frac{1}{2}" \times 20\frac{3}{8}"$ (36.4 \times 51.6 cm.)
 Coll. Pourtales (sale 1865) Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 14 Mr. C. E. Russell Plate 40
- COTES NORMANDES Oil on canvas M. Bureau Plate 35
- THE BEACH AT FECAMP (Fishwives by a row of cottages) Oil on panel $18\frac{3}{8}" \times 13\frac{3}{8}"$ (46.7 \times 36.9 cm.)
 Coll. W. A. Coats Exhib. W. B. Paterson, 1913, No. 15; B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 46 Sir Martyn Beckett, Bart. Kirkdale Manor
- PAYS DE CAUX, SUNSET Oil on paper, laid on canvas $8\frac{1}{2}" \times 9"$
 (21.8 \times 23 cm.) P. Gosselin Plate 37

PAYS DE CAUX (First sketch for the oil in Mr. P. M. Turner's and M. P. Gosselin's collections) Pencil $3\frac{1}{2}" \times 6\frac{3}{4}"$ (9×17.2 cm.) Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 125 P. M. Turner

SUNSET IN THE PAYS DE CAUX (Study for the same pictures) Pencil on blue-grey paper $2\frac{3}{8}" \times 5\frac{7}{8}"$ (6×14.8 cm.) Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 119c Sir Hickman Bacon, Bart., Thonock

A GOTHIC DOORWAY AND WINDOW Pencil $6\frac{1}{4}" \times 5\frac{1}{2}"$ (15.8×14 cm.) Inscribed, Ghent Numbered 104 Probably lot 185, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 24 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood

ANCIENNE MAISON DES BATELIERS, GHENT Pencil $8\frac{1}{2}" \times 5\frac{1}{2}"$ (21.5×14 cm.) Inscribed as title Lot 185, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 25 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood

AN OLD GABLED HOUSE, WITH FIGURES Pencil $6\frac{1}{4}" \times 4\frac{1}{4}"$ (16×10.8 cm.) Inscribed, St. Omer anno 1614 Numbered 15 Lot 185, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 36 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood

THE TOWER OF ST. BAVON (?), GHENT Pencil $8\frac{1}{8}" \times 5"$ (20.6×12.6 cm.) Inscribed, Ghent Numbered 22 Lot 185, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 26 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood

A RENAISSANCE GABLE Pencil $7\frac{7}{8}" \times 5\frac{3}{8}"$ (19.9×13.6 cm.) Numbered 123 Perhaps lot 185,

sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 27 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood

QUILLEBOEUF (shipping on the estuary; jetty with figures, foreground) Pencil $3\frac{1}{8}" \times 7\frac{1}{8}"$ (7.9×18 cm.) City Art Gallery, Nottingham, 12-37

CAEN (four boats sailing, scattered figures) Pencil $3\frac{1}{8}" \times 6\frac{7}{8}"$ (7.9×17.4 cm.) City Art Gallery, Nottingham, 12-45

VIEW OF DUNKIRK Pencil $6\frac{5}{8}" \times 10\frac{3}{8}"$ (17×26.3 cm.) Coll. Lewis Brown Luc. A. Moreau

1823-4 BOATS AND FISHERFOLK ON THE SHORE Watercolour $5\frac{1}{8}" \times 7"$ (13×17.7 cm.) P. M. Turner

SHORE SCENE, WITH WAGGON AND HORSES (Study for Boulogne Sands) Pencil on blue-grey paper $2\frac{3}{4}" \times 5\frac{7}{8}"$ (7×14.8 cm.) Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 119a Sir Hickman Bacon, Bart., Thonock

WIMEREUX (a thatched cottage in sunlight) Pencil $4\frac{5}{8}" \times 6"$ (11.7×15.2 cm.) Inscribed, Vimereux Victoria and Albert Museum, London, D2272-1885

A TRADING SHIP DISMASTED (near the shore) Pencil $8" \times 9\frac{1}{4}"$ (20.3×23.5 cm.) Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 130 P. M. Turner

TWO SHIPS BECALMED Pencil $1\frac{5}{8}" \times 6\frac{1}{4}"$ (4×15.8 cm.) P. M. Turner

DUTCH BARGE WITH SAILS FURLED Pencil and wash $4\frac{3}{4}" \times 3\frac{3}{4}"$ (12×9.5 cm.) P. M. Turner

SHIP WITH TOPSAILS SET (coast line beyond) Pencil and wash

- $5\frac{5}{8}" \times 3\frac{1}{8}"$ (14.3 × 7.8 cm.)
Numbered 20 P. M. Turner
- TWO PEASANTS Pencil $4" \times 3\frac{1}{8}"$ (10.1 × 8 cm.) Coll. A. Colin, A. Dubuisson Henri Marillier
- SKETCH FROM A DUTCH SEVENTEENTH CENTURY PICTURE Pencil $5\frac{1}{8}" \times 3"$ (13 × 7.5 cm.)
City Art Gallery, Nottingham, 20-39
- DIEPPE: THE QUAYSIDE (Sailors drying and repairing nets) Reed pen and wash $5\frac{1}{2}" \times 7\frac{3}{8}"$ (14 × 19.3 cm.) Coll. R. Nesham P. M. Turner Plate 31
- LATE GOTHIC DOORWAY (Two peasant women; perhaps a preparatory sketch for the Frontispiece of Restes et Fragmens d'Architecture du Moyen Age) Pencil $5\frac{3}{8}" \times 3\frac{3}{8}"$ (13.7 × 8.4 cm.) Perhaps lot 188, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 28 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- THREE SHIPS WITH SAILS SET Pencil and wash $4\frac{1}{8}" \times 3"$ (10.4 × 7.7 cm.) P. M. Turner
- THREE-MASTED BARGE (lateen sails set) Pencil and wash $4\frac{1}{8}" \times 3\frac{3}{8}"$ (10.4 × 8.5 cm.) P. M. Turner
- 1824 THE SEINE NEAR MANTES Oil on canvas $11\frac{7}{8}" \times 17\frac{3}{8}"$ (30 × 44 cm.) Exhib. Bethnal Green, 1872-5, No. 51 Wallace Collection, London, 339 Plate 27
- LE CHEMIN SABLONNEUX, BORDS DE LA SEINE (near Champrosay) Oil on canvas $10\frac{1}{4}" \times 15\frac{1}{2}"$ (26 × 39.5 cm.) Exhib. Paris, Bonington, 1936, No. 26 Maurice Gobin Plate 33
- BORDS DE LA SEINE (view over the river to a wood and hills) Oil on paper laid on canvas $10\frac{5}{8}" \times 18\frac{1}{2}"$ (27 × 47 cm.) Coll. Comte J. Milleret de Milleret Exhib. Paris, Bonington, 1936, No. 38 Maurice Gobin Plate 34
- MANTES ON THE SEINE Oil on canvas $15" \times 20\frac{3}{4}"$ (38 × 52.6 cm.) Metropolitan Museum, New York Plate 38
- INTERIOR OF A CHURCH (the chancel; two monks) Oil on panel $7\frac{1}{8}" \times 5\frac{1}{4}"$ (18 × 13.4 cm.) Maurice Gobin Plate 48
- COAST SCENE, NORMANDY (Fishing Boats beached in the foreground) Oil on canvas $10\frac{1}{4}" \times 17\frac{1}{2}"$ (26 × 44.5 cm.) Signed R. P. B. monogram Coll. Baron Charles Rivet, Mme. de Salvandy Exhib. Gros., 1936, No. 145; B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 4 Mlle. F. de Catheu, Paris Plate 36
- COAST SCENE (a beached boat and a waggon in foreground) Oil on canvas $14\frac{1}{2}" \times 20\frac{3}{8}"$ (36.4 × 51.6 cm.) Coll. Pourtales (sale 1865) Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 14 Mr. C. E. Russell Plate 40
- COTES NORMANDES Oil on canvas M. Bureau Plate 35
- THE BEACH AT FECAMP (Fishwives by a row of cottages) Oil on panel $18\frac{3}{8}" \times 13\frac{3}{8}"$ (46.7 × 36.9 cm.) Coll. W. A. Coats Exhib. W. B. Paterson, 1913, No. 15; B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 46 Sir Martyn Beckett, Bart. Kirkdale Manor
- PAYS DE CAUX, SUNSET Oil on paper, laid on canvas $8\frac{1}{2}" \times 9"$ (21.8 × 23 cm.) P. Gosselin Plate 37

STORMY SEA (shipping near a jetty) Oil on panel $13\frac{1}{2}'' \times 19\frac{1}{4}''$ (34.3×49 cm.) P. M. Turner Plate 41

SEA COAST: THE DUNES (three peasants and a dog; showery day) Oil on paper, laid on canvas $11\frac{5}{8}'' \times 17\frac{5}{8}''$ (30×44.7 cm.) Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 36 P. M. Turner Plate 43

LE DEPART POUR LA PECHE Oil on canvas $10\frac{1}{8}'' \times 17\frac{3}{4}''$ (26×45 cm.) Coll. Simon Exhib. Paris, Sambon, 1932, No. 57 P. M. Turner Plate 39

SUNSET AT SEA (Two Peasants; ruined towers in the distance) Oil on panel $9\frac{5}{8}'' \times 11\frac{1}{2}''$ (24.5×29.2 cm.) P. M. Turner Plate 44

COUCHER DE SOLEIL ORAGEUX SUR LA MER Oil on millboard $8\frac{1}{4}'' \times 11\frac{1}{4}''$ (20.8×28.5 cm.) Maurice Gobin Plate 47

MARINE: ETUDES DE VAGUES Oil on paper laid on canvas $10\frac{3}{4}'' \times 14\frac{5}{8}''$ (27.3×37.3 cm.) P. Gosselin Plate 47

PORTRAIT OF A MAN Oil on canvas $30'' \times 25''$ (76.2×63.3 cm.) P. M. Turner Plate 46

PORTRAIT DE FILLETE Oil on paper laid on canvas $10\frac{1}{8}'' \times 13\frac{3}{8}''$ (26×34 cm.) Coll. Simon Exhib. Paris, Sambon, 1932 $18\frac{3}{8}''$ (26×34 cm.) P. M. Turner

FESTIN D'ARTISTES (Men and women banqueting in a studio) Oil on canvas $7'' \times 9''$ (17.6×23 cm.) Patrice Hennessy Plate 45

LE PHARE, DUNQUERQUE Watercolour and pencil $9\frac{3}{4}'' \times 7''$ (24.7×17.7 cm.) Coll. Char-

vet, A. Colin Atherton Curtis Plate 49

DUTCH BARGES WITH A SCHOONER IN THE DISTANCE Watercolour $9\frac{3}{8}'' \times 7''$ (23.7×17.7 cm.) Signed and dated R. P. B. 182 (?) Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 109 C. E. Russell

A MILKMAID Watercolour and pencil $4\frac{1}{8}'' \times 3\frac{1}{8}''$ (10.8×9.8 cm.) Coll. A. Colin, A. Dubuisson Henri Marillier

FISHERMEN AND BOATS (a wide shore with high cliffs) Pencil on tinted paper $6\frac{1}{8}'' \times 9\frac{1}{2}''$ (15.5×24 cm.) Inscribed, verso: donné par mon ami Secretan Undecipherable collector's mark P. M. Turner

BARGES AND FIGURES (Three barges, with sails furled) Pencil $4\frac{1}{2}'' \times 7''$ (11.3×17.7 cm.) Victoria and Albert Museum, London, D2273-1885

HEAD OF A MAN WEARING A FLEMISH CAP Pencil $4\frac{1}{8}'' \times 3\frac{3}{4}''$ (10.4×9.6 cm.) Numbered 87 Coll. George Cattermole Luc. A. Moreau

STUDIES OF FRENCH FISHERFOLK Black, red, and white chalk on buff paper $7\frac{7}{8}'' \times 10\frac{3}{4}''$ (20×27.3 cm.) British Museum, London, 1901-4-17-7 Plate 51

A MAN SEATED (perhaps a study from a picture) Pen and wash $3\frac{1}{2}'' \times 4''$ (8.8×10 cm.) British Museum, London, LB 10-8a

1824-5 SHORE SCENE (showery day; figures on a jetty, right; men beaching a boat) Oil on millboard laid on panel $10\frac{3}{4}'' \times 15\frac{1}{4}''$ (27.3×38.7 cm.) His Excellency Chevky Pasha, Cairo

CHILD AT PRAYER (scene in seventeenth century costume; a child kneels by his mother seated in a high backed chair) Oil on panel $13\frac{3}{4}'' \times 10''$ (35×26 cm.) Exhib. British Institution, 1843, 130; Bethnal Green, 1872-5, No. 52 Coll. The Hon. Edmund Phipps, 1843,? sale General Phipps, 1859, lot 91 Wallace Collection, 270 Plate 60

THE BRIDE AT PRAYER (a girl kneeling before a crucifix) Oil on panel $6\frac{1}{4}'' \times 8\frac{3}{4}''$ (15.8×22.3 cm.) Maurice Gobin Plate 54
FLOWERS IN A VASE Oil on mill-board $14'' \times 10''$ (35.5×25.3 cm.) P. M. Turner Plate 55

CART ON A ROAD (Mantes in the distance) Sepia $5'' \times 8\frac{3}{8}''$ (12.6×21.2 cm.) Coll. Flameng, Comte de Faucigny; a partly obliterated inscription reads "Faucigny était dans l'intimité du peintre à cette époque" P. M. Turner

A KNIGHT TEMPLAR STANDING BY A GOTHIC TOMB (An Expansion of this subject signed by L. S. M. Lavigne is in the Musée Magnin, Dijon) Sepia over pencil $3\frac{1}{4}'' \times 2\frac{1}{4}''$ (8.2×5.6 cm.) Musée Municipal, Nancy, 1338

PORTRAIT OF THE COMTE DE FORBIN (three-quarter length, seated in armchair, left hand on table, curtain background) Watercolour over pencil with touches of gum $9\frac{5}{8}'' \times 8''$ (24.5×20.5 cm.) Inscribed, "Esquisse pour le portrait du Comte de Forbin" Coll. Gigoux Musée de Besançon, 2377 D Plate 81

THREE NORMAN PEASANT GIRLS (two sitting and one standing by a rock) Black and red chalk on tinted paper $5\frac{3}{4}'' \times 5\frac{3}{4}''$ (14.5×14.5 cm.) British Museum, London, LB 21-7-14-13 Plate 52

CLIFFS AND A BEACHED BOAT Pencil $3\frac{1}{8}'' \times 6\frac{7}{8}''$ (7.9×17.4 cm.) City Art Gallery, Nottingham, 12-44

DINGHY WITH LATEEN SAIL DRYING Pencil $3\frac{3}{4}'' \times 4\frac{1}{2}''$ (9.5×11.4 cm.) Numbered 26 Coll. W. B. Paterson City Art Gallery, Nottingham, 13-69

SEA SHORE WITH FISHERFOLK (three ships in the distance) Pencil $3\frac{1}{2}'' \times 7''$ (7.9×17.8 cm.) Coll. Fairfax Murray City Art Gallery, Nottingham, 12-40

PULPIT AT AMIENS Pencil $7'' \times 5''$ (17.8×12.7 cm.) Inscribed as title C. E. Hughes

LA VIERGE DOREE, AMIENS CATHEDRAL Pencil $6\frac{1}{2}'' \times 3\frac{7}{8}''$ (16.5×9.8 cm.) Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 97 C. E. Hughes

SCULPTURE ON THE CHOIR SCREEN, AMIENS CATHEDRAL Pencil $8\frac{1}{2}'' \times 10\frac{3}{4}''$ (22.5×27.7 cm.) Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 121 R. W. Reford

GOthic PULPIT OR BALCONY Pencil $6\frac{3}{4}'' \times 4\frac{1}{8}''$ (17.1×19.4 cm.) Coll. J. P. Heseltine Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 94 P. M. Turner

BARGE AND DINGHY Watercolour $5\frac{1}{2}'' \times 6\frac{3}{8}''$ (14×16.2 cm.) Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 67 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood

MAN SEATED UNDERNEATH A PENTHOUSE Black chalk and bistre $2\frac{3}{8}'' \times 2\frac{5}{8}''$ (7.5×6.8 cm.) Coll. Fournier Louvre, Paris, 5927

- 1825 COAST SCENE (Children seated on rocks near a pile of fish) Oil on canvas $21'' \times 32\frac{3}{8}''$ (53.4×83.2 cm.) Signed and dated R. P. Bonington, 1825 Engraved by C. G. Lewis, 1836 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 43 The Duke of Westminster, Eaton
- COAST SCENE (two children with a basket of fish; a stranded vessel) Oil on canvas $17\frac{3}{4}'' \times 21\frac{1}{2}''$ (45×54.5 cm.) Signed and dated R. P. Bonington 1825 (? 1826 or 1823) Exhib. B.F.A.C. 1937, No. 49, where the date is read with equal reason as 1826 The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood Plate 56
- LANDSCAPE WITH A WAGGON: A GROUP OF TREES MIDDLE DISTANCE (a plain beyond) Oil on canvas $14\frac{1}{2}'' \times 20''$ (36.4×50.8 cm.) National Gallery of Canada, Ottawa Plate 57
- RIVER SCENE (Windmill by a group of trees on a river; moored barges in the foreground) Oil on English mill-board $9\frac{5}{8}'' \times 13\frac{3}{4}''$ (24.5×34.8 cm.) Signed R. P. B. Coll. Lord Taunton Exhib. Tooth's Gallery, 1931, No. 4; Royal Academy, British Art, 1934, No. 467 (662); B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 41 Mrs. E. W. Tilling
- SUNSET: SEAPORT AND LIGHTHOUSE Oil on canvas $4\frac{1}{8}'' \times 12\frac{1}{4}''$ (10.4×31 cm.) P. M. Turner Plate 59
- ROUEN CATHEDRAL: SUNRISE Oil on millboard $10\frac{3}{4}'' \times 7\frac{7}{8}''$ (27.5×20 cm.) Seal on verso R.P.B. Exhib. Paris, Sambon, 1932, No. 7; Bonington, 1936, No. 39 Maurice Gobin Plate 58
- HEATH SCENE; STORMY SKY Oil on canvas $10\frac{5}{8}'' \times 13\frac{7}{8}''$ (27×35 cm.) Coll. Paul Delaroche Lithographed by J. D. Harding Musée Fabre, Montpellier, 342
- SHIPPING OFF THE ENGLISH COAST (This sketch inspired Roqueplan's Marine now in the Musée de Beziers, No. 181) Oil on canvas $7\frac{1}{8}'' \times 11\frac{7}{8}''$ (18×30 cm.) Exhib. Paris, Bonington, 1936, No. 6; Sambon, 1932, No. 4 Maurice Gobin Plate 78
- L'ODALISQUE Oil on canvas $15'' \times 12\frac{1}{2}''$ (38×31.8 cm.) P. M. Turner Plate 61
- DON QUIXOTE IN HIS STUDY (This subject was No. 102 in the sale of 1829) Oil on canvas $15\frac{1}{2}'' \times 15\frac{1}{8}''$ (39.3×38.5 cm.) Maurice Gobin Plate 53
- HENRI AND GABRIELLE D'ESTREES (the King standing in armour by a table; Gabrielle seated with a lute) Oil on paper $9\frac{3}{4}'' \times 7\frac{1}{2}''$ (25×19 cm.) Exhib. Paris, Bonington, 1936, No. 22 Maurice Gobin Plate 53
- SELF PORTRAIT (the artist painting in his studio) Oil on panel $10\frac{1}{4}'' \times 7\frac{3}{8}''$ (26×18.7 cm.) Exhib. Paris, Bonington, 1936, No. 67 Gabriel Renand Frontispiece
- PORTRAIT OF A WOMAN PAINTING Oil on millboard $12\frac{3}{8}'' \times 8''$ (31.4×20.3 cm.) Gabriel Renand Plate 63
- THE JOCKEY (half-length, wearing the maroon and yellow colours of the Duke of Richmond) Oil on canvas $24'' \times 20''$ (61×50.8 cm.) P. M. Turner Plate 64

- MIRACLE OF ST. BAVO (copy after Rubens) Oil on panel $10\frac{1}{2}" \times 16"$ (26.6×40.6 cm.) P. M. Turner Plate 62
- LISIÈRE DE FORET (paysage d'Angleterre) Watercolour $4\frac{1}{8}" \times 6\frac{5}{8}"$ (10.5×17 cm.) Exhib. Paris, Sambon, 1933, No. 25 M. Aubry
- RIVER SCENE (a man fishing) Watercolour and gum over pencil $6\frac{1}{2}" \times 8\frac{3}{8}"$ (16.5×21.8 cm.) Signed R. P. B. and dated 1825 Coll. Charles, Duc de Nemours Atherton Curtis Plate 65
- VIEW AT GREENWICH (the Queen's House seen beyond trees Cf. a watercolour by Delacroix of the same subject, reproduced Moreau-Nelaton, Delacroix I, p. 75, fig. 45) Watercolour $4\frac{1}{2}" \times 7\frac{1}{2}"$ (11.3×19 cm.) Coll. Charvet, Leloir Exhib. Paris Bonington, 1936, No. 4 P. M. Turner Plate 66
- WESTMINSTER ABBEY (figures and a belt of trees) Watercolour and bodycolour $6\frac{3}{4}" \times 10\frac{1}{4}"$ (17.1×36 cm.) Coll. Charvet, Leloir Exhib. Paris, Sambon, 1932, No. 26; Bonington, 1936, No. 3 P. M. Turner Plate 68
- PARK SCENE: SUNSET Watercolour $5\frac{7}{8}" \times 10\frac{3}{4}"$ (14.8×27.3 cm.) Coll. Charvet, Leloir Exhib. Paris, Bonington, 1936, No. 2 P. M. Turner Plate 67
- THE GREAT STAIRCASE OF A FRENCH CHATEAU (nobles and ladies descending; pages and dogs at the foot, left) Watercolour with gum over pencil $7" \times 6\frac{1}{2}"$ (17.7×16.5 cm.) Signed and dated R. P. Bonington, 1825 Coll. Lewis Brown, 1843, lot 9 Exhib. Bethnal Green, 1874-5 No. 701 Wallace Collection, London, 696 Plate 69
- THE ARABIAN NIGHTS (A princess on a divan, attended by a lutanist) Watercolour and gum $9\frac{1}{4}" \times 7\frac{1}{8}"$ (23.5×18 cm.) Signed and dated, R. P. Bonington, 1825 Perhaps Coutan Sale, 1830, lot 116 Exhib. Bethnal Green, 1874-5, No. 706 Wallace Collection, London, 657 Plate 70
- LADY AND PAGE (a young woman seated at a table considers the message brought by a page) Watercolour with gum $5\frac{3}{4}" \times 3\frac{3}{4}"$ (14.5×9.5 cm.) Perhaps Lord Henry Seymour Sale, 1860 Exhib. Bethnal Green, 1872-5, No. 611 Wallace Collection, London, 676
- LADY AND CAVALIER (a youth seated at a table converses with a lady sitting in a chair; seventeenth century costume) Watercolour, gum, and traces of pencil $5" \times 3\frac{3}{4}"$ (13×10 cm.) Exhib. Bethnal Green, No. 704, 1874-5 Wallace Collection, London, 732
- PORTRAIT OF NEWTON FIELDING (?) (with gun and game-bag, in a landscape) Watercolour and pencil $9\frac{1}{2}" \times 7\frac{3}{4}"$ (24.2×19.7 cm.) Signed R. P. Bonington Henri Marillier
- LANDSCAPE WITH TWO WINDMILLS (a man on horseback, and a woman on foot) Watercolour $8" \times 10\frac{1}{2}"$ (20.2×26.6 cm.) Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 91 Mrs. E. W. Tilling

- SHIPPING OFF THE COAST OF KENT
Watercolour $6\frac{3}{8}'' \times 9\frac{1}{4}''$ (13.8 × 23.4 cm.) Signed on the mainsail of the barge: R P B
Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 108
Whitworth Art Gallery, Manchester
Plate 76
- SHIPPING OFF THE ENGLISH COAST
Sepia $3\frac{1}{4}'' \times 9''$ (8.2 × 22.8
cm.) P. M. Turner
- SHIPPING Sepia and pencil $6\frac{1}{2}''$ × 9" (16.5 × 22.8 cm.) P.
M. Turner
- STUDY FROM A VANDYCK CON-VERSATION PIECE (three men)
Watercolour $4'' \times 3\frac{7}{8}''$ (10.1
× 9.8 cm.) Probably lot 169, sale
1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No.
114 (No. 21 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- SELF PORTRAIT (head and shoulders, leaning his head on his right hand, wearing a beret)
Sepia touched with white $4\frac{3}{4}''$ × 4" (12 × 10.1 cm.) Coll.
Baron Charles Rivet Reproduced
D. & H., p. 90 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 76 The Heirs of the late M. N. de Lajudie Plate 72
- GIRL WITH BROAD STRAW HAT,
SEATED Pencil and wash $3'' \times$
 $3\frac{3}{8}''$ (7.6 × 8.5 cm.) British Museum, London, LB 10-11b
- OLD WOMAN SEATED Pencil $4\frac{1}{8}''$
× $3\frac{7}{8}''$ (11 × 9.7 cm.) Coll.
A. Colin, A. Dubuisson Henri
Marillier
- STUDIES OF FRENCH FISHERFOLK
Black, red, and white chalk on brown paper $7\frac{7}{8}'' \times 10\frac{3}{4}''$ (20.2 × 27.3) British Museum,
London, 1901-4-17-17
- STUDIES OF BRETON FISHERFOLK
Black, and red chalk on buff paper $7\frac{3}{4}'' \times 10\frac{1}{8}''$ (19.7 × 25.7 cm.) Coll. William Bateson
Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 95,
1937 The Earl of Sandwich, Hinchinbrooke Plate 51
- PEASANT BOY Black and white chalk on buff paper $4\frac{1}{2}'' \times$ $2\frac{3}{8}''$ (11.3 × 6 cm.) Collector's mark, William Bateson, F.R.S.
P. M. Turner
- TWO PEASANT BOYS Black, red, and white chalk on buff paper
 $3\frac{3}{8}'' \times 6''$ (9.2 × 15 cm.) Col- lector's mark, William Bateson,
F.R.S. P. M. Turner
- CHURCH TOWER BEYOND MEA-DOWS (tree and a stream right ground) Pencil on grey paper
 $6\frac{7}{8}'' \times 6\frac{3}{4}''$ (17.4 × 17.1 cm.)
Numbered 111 Probably lot 185, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937,
No. 114 (No. 31 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
Plate 72
- VILLAGE SCENE (Church tower and windmill) Pencil $3\frac{3}{4}'' \times 6\frac{7}{8}''$ (9.5 × 17.5 cm.) Coll. Sir F.
Seymour Haden Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 127 P. M. Turner
- LANDSCAPE WITH THREE PEA-SANTS (a tower on a distant hill)
Pencil $3\frac{3}{4}'' \times 7\frac{3}{8}''$ (9.5 × 18.6)
Coll. Sir F. Seymour Haden Exhib.
B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 129 P. M.
Turner
- COUNTRY ROAD (two trees in the foreground and a distant church) Pencil $3\frac{5}{8}'' \times 7''$ (9.2 × 17.8 cm.) City Art Gal- lery, Nottingham, 12-42
- RIVER SCENE WITH BOATS AND
CHURCH Pencil $3\frac{5}{8}'' \times 5\frac{3}{8}''$ (9.3 × 13.5 cm.) Coll. A. Colin,
A. Dubuisson Henri Marillier

CATALOGUE

SHIPPING AT SEA (a steamer in the distance; slight breeze) Pencil $3\frac{1}{8}'' \times 7\frac{3}{8}''$ (8×18.7 cm.) City Art Gallery, Nottingham, 12-36

FISHING BOATS OFF DOVER Pencil $4\frac{7}{8}'' \times 9\frac{1}{4}''$ (12.3×23.4 cm.) Inscribed verso, donné par mon ami Secretan Undecipherable collector's mark P. M. Turner

THREE BARGES (one on the right with lateen sails) Pencil $3\frac{7}{8}'' \times 5\frac{1}{2}''$ (8.2×14 cm.) P. M. Turner

STUDIES FOR FIGURES IN THE MERCHANT OF VENICE, WITH SHYLOCK Pen and sepia on two sheets of paper $8\frac{3}{4}'' \times 13\frac{7}{8}''$ (22.3×35.2 cm.) Coll. Sutton Palmer Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 77 P. M. Turner Plate 73

STUDIES OF THE COSTUME OF PALIKARES Pencil and wash $11\frac{1}{4}'' \times 9''$ (28.6×23 cm.) Exhib. Paris, Bonington, 1936, No. 11 Luc A. Moreau Plate 74

STUDIES OF ORIENTAL COSTUME Verso, four similar studies Pencil $11\frac{3}{4}'' \times 9\frac{5}{8}''$ (29.8×24.5 cm.) Luc A. Moreau

PORTRAIT OF A PAINTER (from a Dutch seventeenth century portrait) Pencil $3\frac{3}{4}'' \times 4\frac{5}{8}''$ (9.4×11.7 cm.) Lot 169, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 16 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood

BEARDED MAN IN PROFILE (caricature) Pencil $3'' \times 2\frac{1}{2}''$ (7.4×6.3 cm.) Probably in lot 84, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 13 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood

STUDY OF LEAVES Pencil $2\frac{3}{8}'' \times$

$3\frac{5}{8}''$ (6×9.2 cm.) Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 1 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood

A FUNERAL MONUMENT (a boy and two women kneeling) Pen, pencil and wash $4\frac{1}{2}'' \times 6\frac{5}{8}''$ (11.5×17.5 cm.) Inscribed with date 1596 C. E. Hughes

A FUNERAL MONUMENT (a man in armour and a woman kneeling; two details) Pen and wash $4\frac{1}{2}'' \times 6\frac{7}{8}''$ (11.5×17.5 cm.) Inscribed with date 1587 C. E. Hughes

A QUEEN (study from a sixteenth century painting) Wash $5\frac{3}{8}'' \times 2\frac{1}{2}''$ (13.7×6.5 cm.) C. E. Hughes

MAN WEARING A CLOAK AND RUFF, KNEELING Pencil and wash $5\frac{1}{2}'' \times 4''$ (14×10.2 cm.) Numbered 59 C. E. Hughes

TWO WOMEN KNEELING (from late sixteenth century sculpture) Pencil and wash $5'' \times 3\frac{3}{8}''$ (13.7×8.5 cm.) Numbered 56 C. E. Hughes

BOY KNEELING Pencil and wash $4\frac{3}{8}'' \times 3\frac{1}{4}''$ (11.2×8.3 cm.) Numbered 59 C. E. Hughes

A WOMAN (detail of statuary) Pencil and wash $4\frac{1}{8}'' \times 3''$ (10.4×7.6 cm.) C. E. Hughes

RECUMBENT FEMALE FIGURE (from a mediaeval monument) Pencil $4\frac{1}{4}'' \times 8\frac{1}{4}''$ (10.8×20.8 cm.) Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 122a R. W. Reford

FIGURE STUDY FROM SCULPTURE Pen and ink on paper water-marked G. & R. Turner $4\frac{5}{8}'' \times 2\frac{5}{8}''$ (11.7×6.8 cm.) British Museum, London, LB 10-28b

THREE STUDIES OF A BASINET
Pencil $3\frac{1}{2}" \times 8\frac{3}{8}"$ (8.8×21.3 cm.) Inscribed, "1390 basinet à vizier" Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 126b R. W. Reford

FOUR STUDIES OF ARMOUR (one dated 1460) Pencil on paper watermarked, G. & R. Turner $7\frac{5}{8}" \times 8"$ (19.2×15.2 cm.) British Museum, London, LB 10-25

A FULL SUIT OF SIXTEENTH CENTURY ARMOUR Pencil $7" \times 4\frac{7}{8}"$ (17.8×12.3 cm.) Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 126a, R. W. Reford

FOUR STUDIES OF ARMOUR (breast-plates and thigh-pieces) Indian ink $4\frac{1}{4}" \times 7\frac{1}{2}"$ (10.7×19 cm.) Numbered 43 British Museum, London, LB 10-27

MAN ON HORSEBACK WEARING INLAID ARMOUR Pencil $6\frac{3}{8}" \times 5"$ (17.5×12.7 cm.) British Museum, London, LB 10-23

FIVE STUDIES OF ARMOUR (one dated 1540) Pencil on paper, watermarked G. & R. Turner $6\frac{1}{2}" \times 8\frac{7}{8}"$ (16.5×22.5 cm.) Numbered 58 British Museum, London, LB 10-26

FIVE STUDIES OF ARMOUR AND COSTUME Pencil on English paper $10\frac{1}{4}" \times 7\frac{1}{8}"$ (26×18 cm.) Inscribed, "gensarmier italien 1485" and with notes of colour, material, etc. British Museum, London, LB 10-22

FOUR STUDIES OF ARMOUR (and other sketches) Pencil and wash $6\frac{3}{4}" \times 9\frac{1}{4}"$ (17.2×23.5 cm.) Numbered 58 British Museum, London, LB 10-24

THREE STUDIES OF ARMOUR AND

COSTUME Inscribed with the date 1580 Verso, Study of Trees Pencil $7\frac{1}{8}" \times 10\frac{3}{8}"$ (18×26.4 cm.) Coll. George Cattermole M. Luc A. Moreau Plate 73

STUDIES OF TWO WOMEN (half-length and whole length; costume c. 1600) Pencil $7\frac{7}{8}" \times 4\frac{1}{2}"$ (20×11.5 cm.) Numbered 84 Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau

STUDIES OF A HERALD AND ANOTHER FIGURE (sixteenth century costume) Pencil $6\frac{3}{4}" \times 4\frac{1}{4}"$ (17×11 cm.) Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau

STANDING MALE FIGURE (perhaps after a Velasquez portrait) Pencil $5\frac{7}{8}" \times 4\frac{1}{4}"$ (15×10.7 cm.) Numbered 70 Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau

STUDIES OF HEADS, A MAID WITH A TRAY, ETC. Pencil $4\frac{3}{4}" \times 4\frac{1}{2}"$ (12×11.5 cm.) Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau

STUDIES OF SPANISH COSTUME, HAT, RUFF AND CLOAK Pencil $4\frac{3}{8}" \times 2\frac{1}{4}"$ (11×5.5 cm.) Numbered 76 Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau

STUDIES OF TWO FIGURES Pen and ink $3\frac{3}{8}" \times 2\frac{1}{8}"$ (8.5×5.5 cm.) Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau

BOUND CAPTIVES AND A TROPHY OF ARMS Pen and ink $6\frac{1}{2}" \times 4\frac{3}{8}"$ (10.5×11.7 cm.) British Museum, London, LB 30

STUDIES OF WOMEN Pen and ink $6\frac{3}{4}" \times 4\frac{5}{8}"$ (17.2×11.7 cm.) British Museum, London, LB 10-13

AN ANGEL WITH A CORNUCOPIA

CATALOGUE

- (study from sculpture Pen and ink $4\frac{5}{8}" \times 2\frac{3}{5}"$ (11.8 \times 6.8 cm.) British Museum, London, LB 10-28a
- FIGURE STUDIES Pen and ink $7\frac{1}{2}" \times 3\frac{1}{2}"$ (19 \times 9.8 cm.) British Museum, London, LB 10-10
- A MAN AND WIFE WITH CHILDREN: AND A FIGURE OF PLENTY Pen and ink $4\frac{3}{4}" \times 5\frac{7}{8}"$ (12 \times 14.7 cm.) British Museum, London, LB 10-32
- FIGURE STUDIES Pen and ink $7\frac{7}{8}" \times 4\frac{3}{4}"$ (20 \times 12 cm.) British Museum, London, LB 10-35
- TWO DUTCH CHILDREN Pencil, chalk and wash on buff paper $4\frac{1}{2}" \times 4\frac{3}{4}"$ (10.5 \times 12 cm.) Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau
- "THE CORONATION CHAIR, WESTMINSTER ABBEY" Pencil $5\frac{3}{4}" \times 7\frac{1}{8}"$ (14.5 \times 18 cm.) Inscribed with the title Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 122b R. W. Reford
- TWO STUDIES OF A CHAIR COVERED IN GENOESE VELVET Pencil $5\frac{3}{8}" \times 4\frac{7}{8}"$ (13.5 \times 12.5 cm.) Numbered 70 Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau
- AN ARMCHAIR COVERED IN VELVET Pencil $4\frac{7}{8}" \times 4\frac{3}{8}"$ (12.2 \times 8.8 cm.) Numbered 79 Coll. J. P. Heseltine P. M. Turner
- INTERIOR OF A PANNELLED ROOM (a four poster bed and a chair) Pencil $6" \times 5\frac{1}{4}"$ (15 \times 13.2 cm.) Coll. Sir Francis Seymour Haden Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 128 P. M. Turner
- STUDY OF MOORISH ARCHITECTURE (a doorway) Pencil $5\frac{5}{8}" \times 3\frac{7}{8}"$ (14.2 \times 8.8 cm.) Num-
- bered 79 Coll. J. P. Heseltine P. M. Turner*
- AN ARMCHAIR COVERED IN VELVET Pencil $4\frac{7}{8}" \times 4\frac{3}{8}"$ (12.3 \times 11 cm.) Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau Plate 75
- 1825-6 PORTRAIT OF EMPRESS JOSEPHINE ? after Gérard Oil on canvas $6\frac{5}{8}" \times 8"$ (15.5 \times 20.7 cm.) H. Marillier Plate 62
- A CHINAMAN Oil on canvas $21" \times 16\frac{1}{2}"$ (53.4 \times 41.9 cm.) P. M. Turner Plate 46
- L'ESCALIER DU PALAIS DE JUSTICE, ROUEN Watercolour and reed pen over pencil $8\frac{5}{8}" \times 8"$ (22 \times 20.5 cm.) Coll. Charvet Exhib. Bonington, 1936, No. 37 Maurice Gobin
- BORDS DE LA SEINE, ROUEN (barges, right and tower of St. Ouen, centre) Watercolour over pencil $6\frac{3}{4}" \times 9\frac{1}{8}"$ (17.1 \times 23 cm.) Coll. H. Dreux, Jullien, Marillier Exhib. Paris, Bonington, 1936, No. 36, B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 102 Lithographed by Français P. M. Turner Plate 80
- ENVIRONS DE PARIS Wash $5\frac{3}{8}" \times 8\frac{1}{4}"$ (13.5 \times 21 cm.) Henri Marillier
- SUR LES DUNES (a mother with her child, a peasant and a horse) Watercolour with gum and pencil $6\frac{1}{4}" \times 9\frac{1}{8}"$ (16 \times 23 cm.) Exhib. Paris, Bonington, 1936, No. 5 Maurice Gobin Plate 79
- THE EARL OF SURREY AND THE FAIR GERALDINE (Scene at the foot of steps to a mansion) Watercolour with touches of gum and pencil $5\frac{1}{2}" \times 4\frac{1}{4}"$ (14 \times 10.7 cm.) Signed RPB

Exhib. Bethnal Green, 1872-5, No. 618 Wallace Collection, London, 675 Plate 69

A WOMAN SEATED, LEANING FORWARD Pencil $4'' \times 4\frac{3}{4}''$ (10.2×12 cm.) Coll. Fairfax Murray City Art Gallery, Nottingham

A GALLANT (seventeenth century costume) Pencil and wash $5\frac{3}{8}'' \times 2\frac{3}{4}''$ (13.7×7 cm.) Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau Plate 75

OLD WOMAN SEATED (study of seventeenth century costume) Pencil $3\frac{1}{2}'' \times 3''$ (9×7.7 cm.) Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau

STUDY FROM A WOMAN'S PORTRAIT (seventeenth century costume) Pencil $5'' \times 3\frac{1}{8}''$ (12.5×9.7 cm.) Numbered 84 Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau

STUDY OF A SOLDIER (from a Dutch seventeenth century genre picture) Pencil $6\frac{1}{8}'' \times 2\frac{3}{8}''$ (15.2×6.8 cm.) Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau

A GIRL IN PROFILE AND A WOMAN STANDING (Dutch seventeenth century costume) Pencil $5\frac{1}{8}'' \times 4\frac{5}{8}''$ (13.2×12 cm.) Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau Plate 75

KNEELING WOMAN (Study from a funeral sculpture) Pencil and wash $5\frac{1}{2}'' \times 3\frac{3}{8}''$ (14×8.5 cm.) C. E. Hughes

COSTUME STUDY Pencil $3\frac{1}{8}'' \times 2\frac{3}{8}''$ (8×6 cm.) Numbered 76 Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau

1826 NEAR MANTES Oil on canvas $21\frac{1}{2}'' \times 33\frac{1}{8}''$ (54.5×84.2 cm.) Signed and dated R. P. Bonington, 1826

Coll. Earl of Norman- ton, H. Darrell Brown Exhib. Royal Academy, 1884; Japanese-British Exhibition, 1910, No. 57; W. B. Paterson, 1913 Reproduced D. and H., p. 204 Taft Museum, Cincinnati Plate 82

LANDSCAPE WITH A TIMBER WAGON (left, the wagon drawn past trees by three horses; a flat landscape, right) Oil on canvas $19\frac{5}{8}'' \times 26\frac{5}{8}''$ (30×68 cm.) Coll. perhaps Webb Sale, 1837, lot 14 and Collot Sale, 1852, lot 1 Exhib. Bethnal Green, 1872-5, No. 49 Wallace Collection, London, 362 Plate 83

VUE DU PARTERRE D'EAU A VERSAILLES Oil on canvas $16\frac{5}{8}'' \times 20\frac{1}{2}''$ (42×52 cm.) Coll. Arago Exhib. British Art, 1934 (631); Paris, Gros., 1936 (139) Louvre, Paris, 888 Plate 85

IN THE FOREST OF FONTAINEBLEAU (rocks with trees beyond) Oil on millboard $12\frac{1}{2}'' \times 9\frac{1}{2}''$ (31.8×24.2 cm.) An old label is inscribed: Sketch in the Forest of Fontainebleau by R. P. Bonington from the collection of Mr. Carrier, painter to the Duc de Condé and a fellow student of Bonington from whom he received this sketch Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 12 The Hon. Sir Evan Charteris, K.C., London

THE WAGON (drawn by two horses; a heath with a tall poplar) Oil on canvas $8'' \times 13\frac{1}{4}''$ (20×33.2 cm.) Coll. Exhib. Wildenstein, John Constable, 1937, No. 13 Major the Hon. Arthur Howard, London Plate 84

CATALOGUE

THE SUNKEN ROAD Oil on canvas

10 $\frac{1}{2}$ " \times 14" (26.6 \times 35.5 cm.)

Exhib. Wildenstein Galleries, Constable, 1937, No. 14 P. M.

Turner Plate 77

L'ESPACE (a plain with distant hills; morning light) Oil on canvas Musée de Rheims, 257

MOUNTAIN SCENE (haymaking)

Oil on paper laid on canvas

10 $\frac{1}{2}$ " \times 13 $\frac{1}{2}$ " (27 \times 34 cm.)

Presented by Lord Ivor Spencer Churchill, 1927 National Gallery

4254 Plate 86

ITALIAN SCENE (mountains beyond a lake; a house in foreground)

Oil on canvas 9 $\frac{5}{8}$ " \times 12 $\frac{1}{2}$ "

(24.4 \times 31.3 cm.) Coll. Richard

Bonington, James Keyden, Alexander Reid National Gallery of

Scotland, Edinburgh Plate 89

PLACE DE VILLAGE: MAMECIA (?)

(street scene with a church, and a steep hill, left) Oil on paper laid on canvas 7 $\frac{1}{2}$ " \times 7 $\frac{7}{8}$ "

(19 \times 20 cm.) Coll. Faure Du- jarrée, Rodrigues Exhib. Paris,

Bonington, 1936, No. 53 Maurice

Gobin Plate 87

VERONA: VIEW OF A CHURCH (an arch centre) Oil on panel 9 $\frac{1}{2}$ "

\times 7 $\frac{5}{8}$ " (24 \times 19.2 cm.) Exhib.

Paris, Bonington, 1936, No. 55

Maurice Gobin Plate 88

VERONA: VIEW OF A CHURCH AND

RUINS (an arch left) Oil on panel 9 $\frac{3}{4}$ " \times 7 $\frac{1}{2}$ " (24.7 \times 19 cm.) Exhib. Paris, Bonington, 1936,

No. 54 Maurice Gobin Plate 88

VIEW OF VENICE (the basin of St.

Mark's) Oil on canvas 12 $\frac{1}{4}$ " \times

15 $\frac{3}{4}$ " (31 \times 40 cm.) Exhib.,

Paris, Sambon, 1932, No. 11

M. Marignane

VENICE: THE GRAND CANAL AND

THE PALAZZO SAGREDO Oil on panel 8 $\frac{3}{4}$ " \times 11 $\frac{1}{4}$ " (22.2 \times

28.5 cm.) Exhib. B.F.A.C.,

1937, No. 21 Reproduced in colour

D. & H., p. 70 C. E. Hughes

THE CAMPANILLE AND S. GIORGIO

MAGGIORE Oil on canvas 8 $\frac{1}{4}$ "

\times 6 $\frac{1}{8}$ " (21 \times 15.5 cm.) Exhib.

Paris, Bonington, No. 56 Henri

Marillier Plate 91

THE GRAND CANAL AND THE

SALUTE CHURCH, VENICE Oil

on canvas 13 $\frac{3}{4}$ " \times 16 $\frac{1}{2}$ " (35 \times 42 cm.) Coll. J. Strauss Exhib.

Paris, Sambon, 1932, No. 10;

Bonington, 1936, No. 58 Gabriel

Renand

THE COLUMN OF ST. MARK,

VENICE Oil on canvas 17 $\frac{1}{2}$ " \times

14 $\frac{1}{2}$ " (44 \times 36 cm.) Coll.

Robert Vernon Exhib. British

Institution, 1828 National Gallery,

London, 374 Plate 145

INTERIOR OF THE DOGE'S PALACE

(scene suggesting Delacroix's Execution of Marino Faliero) Oil on canvas 31 $\frac{1}{4}$ " \times 25 $\frac{1}{2}$ " (81 \times 64.9 cm.) Coll. Carlier René Longa

A LAGOON NEAR VENICE Oil on canvas 11 $\frac{1}{4}$ " \times 16 $\frac{1}{2}$ " (28.7 \times 42 cm.) Exhib. British Art, 1934,

637 Louvre, Paris

THE RIALTO Oil on canvas 14"

\times 18" (35.5 \times 45.7 cm.) P.

M. Turner

VIEW ON THE GRAND CANAL,

VENICE Oil on panel 8 $\frac{3}{4}$ " \times

13 $\frac{3}{8}$ " (22.3 \times 34 cm.) P. M.

Turner Plate 93

STA. TRINITA DE' MONTI, ROME

Oil on paper 6 $\frac{1}{8}$ " \times 8 $\frac{3}{8}$ "

(15.5 \times 21.3 cm.) Maurice

Gobin Plate 92

- VIEW FROM A TERRACE, WITH A PEACOCK Oil on paper laid on canvas $16\frac{1}{4}'' \times 22\frac{1}{4}''$ ($41.2 \times$ 50.3 cm.) Exhib. Tate Gallery,
1930; Oxford Arts Club, 1933
Arthur Morrison Plate 90
- CASTLE OF LERICI (gulf of Spezzia)
Oil on millboard $8\frac{7}{8}'' \times 11\frac{1}{8}''$ (22.5×28.5 cm.) Perhaps lot 3, sale 1829 Maurice Gobin Plate 87
- CHATEAU DE LA DUCHESSE DE
BERRI Oil on panel $9\frac{1}{4}'' \times 15''$
(23.5×37.7 cm.) Exhib.
B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 44 C. E.
Russell
- VIEW ON A LAKE; MORNING Oil on panel $5\frac{1}{8}'' \times 8\frac{3}{8}''$ ($13 \times$ 22 cm.) Cf. the watercolour in
Mr. P. M. Turner's collection
Musée Fabre, Montpellier, 343
- A SEA PIECE (shipping under way on a choppy sea) Oil on canvas
 $21\frac{1}{8}'' \times 32\frac{1}{2}''$ (54×83 cm.)
Wallace Collection, London, 273
Plate 136
- LA DEVISE: FRANCIS I AND MAR-GUERITE OF NAVARRE (a version of the Wallace Collection picture) Oil on canvas $9'' \times 7\frac{3}{8}''$ (23×18 cm.) Exhib. Paris,
Sambon, 1932, No. 35 Arthur
Sambon
- THE CHIBOUK (a Turk reclining, holding a long pipe) Oil on canvas $9\frac{1}{2}'' \times 11\frac{1}{2}''$ ($24 \times$
 29.2 cm.) Exhib. B.F.A.C.,
1937, No. 30 National Gallery of Ireland, Dublin Plate 97
- ANNE PAGE AND SLENDER Oil on canvas $17\frac{1}{2}'' \times 14\frac{1}{8}''$ (45×36 cm.) Coll. Duchesse d'Orléans
(sale, 1853, No. 6) Exhib. Bethnal
Green, 1872-3, No. 53 Wallace
Collection, London, 333 Plate 95
- PORTRAIT OF A LADY (seated three-quarter length in a red chair; a handkerchief in her right hand, dressed in black) Oil on canvas $36'' \times 30''$ (91.5×76.5 cm.) The previous owner stated that an original signature on the hem of the handkerchief was destroyed by damp, while the painting was in store Possibly to be identified with Portrait of a Lady in Bonington's sale, lot 164 Dudley Wallis Plate 98
- MAN IN A TOP HAT (landscape background) Oil on canvas
 $25'' \times 20\frac{3}{4}''$ (63.4×52.8 cm.)
Exhib. Ipswich, Gainsborough, 1927,
No. 78; B.F.A.C., 1937, 32 P. M.
Turner Plate 99
- RIVER SCENE WITH BARGES (windmills beyond, and distant hills) Watercolour and touches of gum $6\frac{3}{4}'' \times 9\frac{3}{8}''$ (17×24.6 cm.) Signed Bonington P. M.
Turner
- FISHERFOLK WITH A NET ON A FORESHORE (distance, a jetty; sunset) Watercolour with traces of pencil $5\frac{1}{2}'' \times 8\frac{7}{8}''$ (14×22.6 cm.) P. M. Turner
- COTTAGE WITH TREES AND LAD-
DER Watercolour and pencil
 $4'' \times 5\frac{3}{8}''$ (9.9×13.6 cm.)
Coll. A. Colin, A. Dubuisson Henri
Marillier
- BRIDGE OF ST. MAURICE, ON THE RHONE, VALAIS Watercolour
 $7\frac{1}{4}'' \times 9\frac{3}{8}''$ (18.4×22.8 cm.)
Engraved by W. J. Cooke, 1828
Victoria and Albert Museum, London, P27-34 Plate 102
- THE PIAZZA SAN MARCO, VENICE
Watercolour $10\frac{1}{8}'' \times 8''$ (25.8

- × 20.4 cm.) Done for or from the oil painting in the Wallace Collection Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 113 C.E. Russell Plate 94
- CLAVIGLIAGO (view of the village of Mascheri and the volcano) Watercolour over pencil $5\frac{1}{8}" \times 8\frac{1}{4}"$ (13 × 21 cm.) Coll. Delacroix, Ch. Dollfuss, Faller, H. Rouart Exhib. Paris, Bonington, 1936, No. 63 Maurice Gobin Plate 103
- THE LEANING TOWERS, BOLOGNA Watercolour and chinese white over pencil $9\frac{1}{8}" \times 6\frac{1}{4}"$ (23.2 × 16.5 cm.) Coll. L. Brown (sale 1839, No. 64), San Donato (sale 1863, No. 371) Exhib. Bethnal Green, 1874-5, No. 711 Engraved by W. J. Cooke, 1831 Wallace Collection, London, 701 Plate 104
- A PIAZZA IN BOLOGNA (a procession passes across the foreground) Watercolour and gum with bodycolour $4\frac{7}{8}" \times 7"$ (12 × 18 cm.) Coll. His de la Salle Louvre, Paris, 808
- VIEW OF ROME Pen and wash $9\frac{7}{8}" \times 16"$ (25.1 × 40.6 cm.) Inscribed, St. Jean de Latéran près des Thermes de Caracalla Louvre, Paris, 22758
- THE QUAYS Watercolour and chalk on tinted paper $5" \times 7"$ (12.7 × 18 cm.) Coll. Ionides Victoria and Albert Museum CAI 14 Plate 103
- A WASHING PLACE IN PARIS Watercolour and chalk $11\frac{5}{8}" \times 16"$ (29.4 × 40.5 cm.) Inscribed with colour notes Coll. Henreaux Louvre, Paris, 11962 Plate 112
- ROUEN (view across the Seine with ships in the foreground) Watercolour and pencil $6\frac{7}{8}" \times 9\frac{1}{8}"$ (17 × 23 cm.) Coll. Barnett, Lewis Brown, San Donato Exhib. Bethnal Green, 1874-5, No. 707 Lithographed by J. D. Harding, 1829 Wallace Collection, London, 704 Plate 101
- VIEW ON A LAKE (a castle in the distance) Watercolour $4\frac{1}{2}" \times 8\frac{7}{8}"$ (11.3 × 21.7 cm.) Study for the painting in the Montpellier Museum P. M. Turner
- SHIPS OUTSIDE CALAIS HARBOUR (a buoy in the foreground) Watercolour $5\frac{5}{8}" \times 8\frac{5}{8}"$ (14.3 × 21.7 cm.) P. M. Turner
- A BEARDED ORIENTAL ON A DIVAN Watercolour touched with gum $2\frac{1}{4}" \times 4\frac{5}{8}"$ (5.6 × 11.6 cm.) Signed and dated R.P.B., 1826 Exhib. B.F.A.C., No. 83, 1937 C. E. Hughes
- TURK REPOSING (seated, holding a long pipe; a curtain left) Watercolour with gum $4\frac{1}{4}" \times 6\frac{3}{4}"$ (10.7 × 17.2 cm.) Inscribed R. P. B., 1826 Exhib. Bethnal Green, 1874-5, No. 649 Coll. L. Brown (sales 1837, No. 78, 1843) Wallace Collection, London, 750 Plate 97
- MEDORA (a woman in a yellow dress reclining on a divan) Watercolour and gum $6" \times 6\frac{3}{4}"$ (15.2 × 17.2 cm.) Signed and dated R. P. Bonington, 1826 Exhib. Bethnal Green, 1874-5, No. 699 Coll. L. Brown (sale 1837, No. 60); Paul Perier, 1846, No. 43 Wallace Collection, London, 749 Plate 105

MEDITATION (an old woman reading to a girl, both seated at a table; seventeenth century costume) Watercolour and gum $8" \times 6\frac{1}{4}"$ (20×16 cm.) Signed and dated R. P. Bonington, 1826 Engraved mezzotint S. W. Reynolds, 1827 Exhib. Bethnal Green, 1874-5, No. 700 Wallace Collection, London, 668 Plate 116

HENRY IV AND THE SPANISH AMBASSADOR (a preparatory sketch for the oil) Watercolour, gum and bodycolour $6" \times 6\frac{5}{8}"$ (15×17 cm.) Coll. Coutan (No. 114, sale 1830), L. Brown (No. 12, sale 1837) Exhib. Bethnal Green, 1872-5, No. 704 Wallace Collection, London, 733 Plate 122

LES BONNETS D'ANE Watercolour with gum over pencil $5\frac{1}{8}" \times 5\frac{7}{8}"$ (13×15 cm.) Coll. Comte Hauguet Maurice Gobin Plate 71

ITALIAN PEASANT GIRL SEATED IN A COTTAGE Watercolour, pencil and gum $10\frac{1}{4}" \times 7\frac{7}{8}"$ (26×20 cm.) Inscribed R. P. Bonington Collector's mark, C G in oval Coll. Jean Gigoux Musée de Besançon, D 2381 Plate 113

PORTRAIT OF HENRI MONNIER (three-quarter length, dressed as a "chasseur") Landscape background Watercolour and gum $7\frac{3}{4}" \times 5\frac{7}{8}"$ (19.7×14.8 cm.) Inscribed, verso, "d'après les notes du fils du Peintre Gaudefroy cette aquarelle a été faite en 1824" Coll. J. Roberts and Gaudefroy fils Atherton Curtis Plate 81

WOMAN RECLINING ON CUSHIONS Watercolour The Earl of Sandwich, Hinchinbrooke Plate 114

WINDMILL AND FIGURES Pencil $4" \times 6\frac{1}{8}"$ (10×15.5 cm.) Coll. A. Colin, A Dubuisson Henri Marillier

A PORTE COCHERE Pencil $4\frac{1}{4}" \times 2"$ (10.8×5 cm.) Inscribed Dole Lot 185, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1927, No. 114 (No. 35 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood

PORTE DE LAUSANNE Pencil $8" \times 4\frac{5}{8}"$ (20.2×12 cm.) Luc A. Moreau

CHURCH BY A LAKE AMONG MOUNTAINS Pencil and wash $3\frac{5}{8}" \times 6\frac{1}{4}"$ (9.2×15.6 cm.) Numbered 105 Perhaps lot 185, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 30 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood

BOLOGNA: THE LEANING TOWER (sketch for the watercolour in the Wallace Collection and for the etching) Pencil $7\frac{5}{8}" \times 4\frac{1}{2}"$ (19.2×11.3 cm.) Inscribed, Bolognia Lower both sides of the small tower Numbered 22 Coll. J. P. Heseltine Exhib. Whitechapel Art Gallery, 1906; B.F.A.C., 1927, No. 98 P. M. Turner Plate 104

THE PALACE AT MILAN Pencil on tinted paper $6\frac{7}{8}" \times 7\frac{1}{2}"$ (17.5×19 cm.) Inscribed twice, Milan British Museum, London, L.B. 10-21

PIAZZA DELL'ERBE, VERONA (with market stalls and many figures) Pencil heightened with white on grey paper $8\frac{3}{4}" \times 10"$ (21.3×25.5 cm.) Numbered 14 Lot 150,

- sale 1829 Reproduced D. & H., p. 170 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 47 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood*
- THE TOMB OF MASTINO II, VERONA Pencil on grey paper $14\frac{3}{4}" \times 10\frac{3}{8}"$ (37.6×26.4 cm.) Numbered 40 Perhaps lot 146, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 46, in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood Plate 110
- THE CASTELBARCO TOMB, VERONA (sketch for the watercolour) Pencil $11\frac{3}{4}" \times 8\frac{1}{8}"$ (29.7×20.6 cm.) Inscribed, "Verona" and some colour notes Lot 152, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 45 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- VIEW OF VENICE (the Riva degli Schiavoni and the Doges' Palace) Pen and ink $4" \times 6\frac{3}{4}"$ (10.2×16.1 cm.) Coll. Coutan-Hauguet, Schubert-Milliet Louvre, Paris, 22757
- THE SALUTE CHURCH, VENICE (barge in the foreground) Pencil on yellow paper $3\frac{1}{2}" \times 5\frac{1}{4}"$ (8.8×13.2 cm.) Inscribed, Venice Lot 143, sale 1829 Exhib., B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 54 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood Plate 106
- THE SALUTE CHURCH AND THE DOGANA Pencil and white on grey paper $4\frac{1}{8}" \times 9\frac{5}{8}"$ (10.4×24.5 cm.) Inscribed, Venice Lot 145, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 57 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- THE GRAND CANAL AND THE RIALTO Pencil $11\frac{3}{4}" \times 18\frac{5}{8}"$ (29.7×47 cm.) Inscribed, No. 2. The names of some palaces are given, but are barely legible Lot 155, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 66 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- THE PALACE OF ST. MARK'S, VENICE Pencil heightened with white on buff paper $12\frac{3}{8}" \times 17\frac{3}{8}"$ (31.4×44.1 cm.) Inscribed as title; No. 4 Reproduced D. & H., p. 107 Lot 154, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 65 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood Plate 111
- THE RIALTO (gondolas and barges in the foreground) Pencil $9\frac{3}{4}" \times 6\frac{7}{8}"$ (24.9×17.5 cm.) Coll. J. Lewis Brown Mlle. Lewis Brown Plate 109
- THE DOGES' PALACE AND THE WATERFRONT (Used for the watercolour in the Wallace Collection) Pencil on grey blue paper $10\frac{7}{8}" \times 15"$ (27.5×38.1 cm.) Numbered 147 Reproduced D. & H., p. 107 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937 (No. 64 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- S. GIORGIO MAGGIORE (shipping) Pencil and wash heightened with white $4\frac{7}{8}" \times 12\frac{1}{8}"$ (12.3×30.8 cm.) Inscribed, S. Giorgio Venice Lot 151, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 58 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- THE SALUTE CHURCH AND LADEN BARGES Pencil heightened with

- white on grey paper $7\frac{1}{2}" \times 12\frac{1}{2}"$ (19×31.8 cm.) Lot 145, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 59 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- TITIAN'S MONUMENT, VENICE Pencil and wash $9\frac{5}{8}" \times 5"$ (24.5×12.6 cm.) Inscribed, In Church of St. Giovanni e Paolo, Venice Lot 143, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 55 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- TITIAN'S MONUMENT, VENICE Pencil $6\frac{1}{4}" \times 4\frac{1}{8}"$ (15.8×10.5) Inscribed, Venice Lot 143, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 51 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- LADED BARGES Pencil $5\frac{1}{4}" \times 12"$ (13.3×30.5 cm.) Inscribed, Venice Numbered 31 Lot 145 (?), sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 56 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- VENICE FROM THE LIDO Pencil heightened with white on blue paper $6\frac{1}{2}" \times 16\frac{1}{8}"$ (16.5×40.9 cm.) Inscribed, Venice vue prise du Lido, No. 9, lot 151-3 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 60 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- TWO VIEWS OF VENICE: (1) TOWARDS THE ZATTERE, (2) S. GIORGIO MAGGIORE AND S. MARCO Pencil $8" \times 11\frac{7}{8}"$ (20.4×30.2 cm.) Inscribed St. Marc, Venice Numbered 9, 10 Lot 146, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 61 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood Plate 107
- THE GREEK CHURCH, VENICE Pencil $14\frac{7}{8}" \times 10\frac{3}{4}"$ (37.8×27.3 cm.) Inscribed, Eglise des Grecs, Venice Numbered 56 and 147 (lot 147, sale 1829) Reproduced D. & H., p. 70 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 62 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood Plate 108
- THE PIAZZETTA FROM THE CAMPANILE (Used for the water-colours in the Wallace Collection and in the Manchester City Art Gallery) Pencil $10\frac{1}{8}" \times 14\frac{1}{4}"$ (25.7×36.2 cm.) Inscribed Venice Numbered 35 Reproduced D. & H., p. 70 Lot 146, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 63 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- STUDY OF THE COLLEONI STATUE, VENICE (notes of three sleeping figures) Used for the water-colour in the Louvre Pencil $9" \times 5\frac{1}{2}"$ (22.8×14.3 cm.) Numbered 49 Lot 143, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 49 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- STUDIES OF THE COLLEONI STATUE, VENICE (used for the water-colour in the Louvre) Pencil $8\frac{7}{8}" \times 6\frac{1}{8}"$ (22.7×15.4 cm.) Inscribed, Statue of Coleoni, Venice Reproduced D. & H., p. 168 Lot 143, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 50 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- THE CASTELLO, FERRARA Pencil $12" \times 9\frac{1}{4}"$ (30.5×23.5 cm.) Inscribed, Castle of Ferr(a)ra Numbered 23 Lot 152, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114

- (No. 44 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood Plate 110
- GENOA: THE CITY AND HARBOUR Pencil $4\frac{3}{8}" \times 11\frac{3}{8}"$ (11.2 × 28.8 cm.) Numbered 5 Lot 151, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 48 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- DESCENT TO A SEAPORT (? GENOA) (peasants and a donkey; tall trees, right) Pencil $4\frac{1}{8}" \times 7\frac{1}{2}"$ (10.5 × 19 cm.) Numbered 7 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 123 P. M. Turner
- CONVENT IN A MOUNTAIN VALLEY Pencil $4\frac{3}{8}" \times 7\frac{1}{2}"$ (11.2 × 19 cm.) Numbered 8 P. M. Turner
- A BALCONY AND A GOTHIC ARCH Pencil $5\frac{1}{8}" \times 3\frac{1}{8}"$ (13 × 8 cm.) Inscribed, Venice Lot 143, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 53 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- A GOTHIC TURRET AND A BALCONY Pencil $5\frac{3}{4}" \times 2\frac{1}{2}"$ (14.5 × 6.3 cm.) Perhaps lot 143, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 52 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- A TOWER WITH PINNACLES Pencil $6\frac{1}{4}" \times 4\frac{3}{8}"$ (15.8 × 11.2 cm.) Numbered 79 Coll. J. P. Heseltine P. M. Turner
- STAGE COACH PASSENGERS (A mother and child, and two studies of children) Pencil touched with wash $4\frac{7}{8}" \times 7\frac{3}{8}"$ (12.3 × 18.6 cm.) Coll. J. P. Heseltine Exhib. Whitechapel Art Gallery, 1906, No. 118; B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 120 P. M. Turner Plate 115
- TWO PEASANTS (boats in the distance) Pencil $3\frac{5}{8}" \times 5\frac{7}{8}"$ (9.1 × 9.8 cm.) Numbered 34 Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau
- STUDY OF A PEASANT GIRL Verso, a basket Pencil $3\frac{5}{8}" \times 3\frac{7}{8}"$ (9.1 × 9.8 cm.) Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau
- STUDIES OF PEASANT COSTUME: STATUE OF AN ANGEL Pencil $7\frac{1}{8}" \times 4\frac{1}{4}"$ (18 × 12 cm.) Inscribed, Florence Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau
- STUDY OF ITALIAN PEASANT COSTUMES Pencil $6\frac{5}{8}" \times 4\frac{5}{8}"$ (16.8 × 11.8 cm.) Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau
- PEASANT GIRL SEATED (tree and cottage beyond) Pencil $2\frac{1}{4}" \times 3"$ (5.7 × 7.5 cm.) Probably in lot 84, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 4 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- SWISS GIRLS AT MEYRENQUIS (?) (Five girls seated) Pencil $7\frac{1}{2}" \times 12\frac{1}{8}"$ (19 × 30.7 cm.) Reproduced D. & H., p. 168 Probably in lot 84, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 6 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- A BOY Pencil $2\frac{3}{4}" \times 3\frac{1}{8}"$ (7 × 8 cm.) Numbered 75 Lot 84, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 7 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- BOY WITH A WHITE COLLAR Pencil and watercolour $4" \times 4"$ (10.2 × 10.2 cm.) Numbered 75 Lot 84, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., No. 114 (No. 8 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood

- WOMAN, SEATED IN A CHAIR (seventeenth century costume) Perhaps a study for The Visit, at Boston Sepia 4" × 5½" (10.2 × 13.3 cm.) Inscribed Original design for the Remonstrance Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 131 H. Reillinger
- FIGURE STUDIES (early seventeenth century costume, with colour notes) Connected with Henry IV and the Spanish Ambassador Pencil 6" × 4" (15.2 × 10 cm.) P. M. Turner
- CARICATURES AND AN EROTIC DRAWING Pencil 5½" × 4½" (14.6 × 11.7 cm.) Probably lot 84, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., No. 114 (No. 15 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood
- STUDIES OF A MAN AND A WOMAN (from a seventeenth century picture) Pencil 3½" × 4½" (8.5 × 11.2 cm.) Numbered 76 Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau
- FIGURES IN SEVENTEENTH CENTURY COSTUME Pen, ink, and wash 6½" × 5" (15.8 × 12.8 cm.) Maurice Gobin
- STUDY FROM AN ITALIAN RELIGIOUS PICTURE Pencil 7½" × 4½" (20 × 12 cm.) Numbered 32 Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau
- NOTE OF A PORTRAIT (Italian sixteenth century) Pencil 4½" × 3½" (12.5 × 9.3 cm.) Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau
- FOUR STUDIES FROM PAINTINGS (a Cardinal, etc.) Pencil 7" × 4½" (17.8 × 12 cm.) Numbered 84 Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau
- STUDIES OF HEADS (from an Italian picture) Pencil 5¼" × 4½" (13.3 × 10.5 cm.) Coll. George Cattermole Luc M. Moreau
- STUDY OF A WOMAN HALF LENGTH Pencil 3½" × 2½" (8 × 6.5 cm.) Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau
- STUDY OF A MONK (from an Italian Renaissance picture) Pencil 6½" × 3½" (16.2 × 8 cm.) Numbered 32 Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau
- A WOMAN KNEELING AND A MONK (from an Italian Renaissance picture) Pencil 6½" × 4½" (15.6 × 12 cm.) Numbered 32 Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau
- STUDIES OF TWO NOBLEMEN AND OTHER FIGURES (from an Italian Renaissance picture) Pencil 7½" × 9½" (19.5 × 23 cm.) Numbered 19 Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau
- STUDY FROM A GENRE PICTURE (details of a goblet and a bellarmine) Pencil 5½" × 4½" (15 × 11.5 cm.) Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau
- STUDY OF A HEAD (Flemish fifteenth century) Pencil 3½" × 2½" (7.7 × 6.8 cm.) Numbered 87 Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau
- WOMAN IN A COIF Pencil 5" × 4" (12.5 × 10.2 cm.) Numbered 82 Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau
- STUDY OF A PIKEMAN Pencil 6½" × 3" (15.3 × 7.5 cm.) Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau
- A BEARDED DOGE Pencil 6½" × 4½" (15.6 × 12.3 cm.) Num- bered 93 Lot 169, sale 1829

Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114
(No. 17 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood

HEAD OF A BEARDED MAN WEARING A CAP (from a Venetian sixteenth century picture) Pencil on buff paper Numbered 93 Lot 169, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 10 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood

THREE MALE HEADS (probably from a Venetian conversation picture) Pencil on buff paper $3\frac{7}{8}'' \times 3''$ (9.9 × 7.5 cm.) Numbered 93 Lot 169, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 11 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood

BEARDED MAN AND A WOMAN Pencil $4\frac{3}{4}'' \times 6\frac{3}{4}''$ (12.1 × 17 cm.) Lot 169, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 12 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood

MADONNA AND CHILD (after Raphael (?)) Pencil $4'' \times 3\frac{1}{2}''$ (10.2 × 8.8 cm.) Numbered 75 Lot 169, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 14 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood

1826-7 FRANCIS I AND MARGUERITE OF NAVARRE (the king, seated, looks at Marguerite, who stands by a Gothic window) Oil on canvas $12\frac{1}{4}'' \times 9\frac{3}{8}''$ (31 × 23.7 cm.) Coll. Baron Charles Rivet Exhib. Paris, Gros., 1936, No. 147; B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 27 Mme de Guirangaud

VIEW ON THE SEINE, NEAR PARIS (view over the river from a terrace) Sepia $5'' \times 7\frac{1}{8}''$ (12.7 × 20 cm.) Coll. Victor Rienaecker City Art Gallery, Nottingham, 28-170 Plate 59

BARGES ON A RIVER: SUNSET Watercolour with gum $8'' \times 10\frac{1}{8}''$ (20.3 × 25.7 cm.) Maurice Gobin

DUCK SHOOTING (A gun is fired from behind a fallen tree, left) Watercolour and gum $5\frac{1}{2}'' \times 8''$ (13.8 × 20.2 cm.) P. M. Turner Plate 100

VENICE: THE DOGES' PALACE FROM THE PIAZZETTA Watercolour touched with gum and white $7\frac{1}{8}'' \times 9\frac{3}{4}''$ (19.4 × 25 cm.) Signed and dated R. P. B., 182(?) Coll. J. T. Blair Exhib. Whitworth Art Galleries, 1920; Royal Academy, British Art, 1934, 874 (865); Bucharest, British Drawings, 1935-6; Amsterdam, British Art, 1936; B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 111 City Art Gallery, Manchester Plate 128

CHARLES V VISITING FRANCIS I AFTER PAVIA (connected with the oil in Mr. P. M. Turner's Collection) Watercolour and gum over pencil $5\frac{1}{8}'' \times 6\frac{3}{8}''$ (13.1 × 16.3 cm.) Lithographed by J. D. Harding, 1829 Coll. Clarkson Stanfield Perhaps Lewis Brown sales (1837, lot 6, 1839, lot 72) Exhib. Bethnal Green, 1874-5, No. 702 Wallace Collection, London, 727

STUDIES FROM TWO PORTRAITS BY VAN DYCK (one unfinished) Watercolour with gum and body colour over pencil $5'' \times 7\frac{7}{8}''$ (12.7 × 19.8 cm.) Lot 135, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937,

- No. 114 (No. 22 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood*
 GIRL SEATED (in a romantic gorge; a castle above the cliff)
 Sepia and pencil $15\frac{1}{2}'' \times 12\frac{1}{2}''$ (39.5 \times 30.75 cm.) Musée de Besançon Plate 113
- MOTHER AND CHILD (another figure) Verso, two studies of a child Pencil $6\frac{1}{8}'' \times 4\frac{1}{8}''$ (15.5 \times 10.5 cm.) Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau
- 1827 SCENE ON THE FRENCH COAST (peasants; a stranded vessel)
 Oil on canvas $21\frac{1}{2}'' \times 29\frac{1}{2}''$
 (54.5 \times 74.9 cm.) Coll. Mrs. Combe Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 37 Ashmolean Museum, Oxford Plate 119
- BOULOGNE SANDS Oil on canvas
 $14\frac{1}{2}'' \times 20\frac{1}{4}''$ (36.8 \times 51.4 cm.)
Coll. Darell Brown Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1910, No. 19; 1937, No. 39 Sir Martyn Beckett, Bart., Kirkdale Manor
- BOULOGNE SANDS Oil on canvas
 $14'' \times 19\frac{1}{2}''$ (35.5 \times 49.5 cm.)
Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 35 Sir Alfred Beit, Bart.
- BOULOGNE SANDS (a woman beside a pony; a team of horses drawing a waggon beyond) Oil on canvas $14\frac{1}{2}'' \times 20\frac{3}{8}''$ (36.8 \times 51.7 cm.) Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 38 F. J. Nettlefold
- FISHERFOLK ON THE COAST OF NORMANDY Oil on canvas
 $26'' \times 39\frac{1}{2}''$ (66 \times 100.4 cm.)
Coll. Ross Reproduced in colour; Connoisseur City Art Gallery, Nottingham, 27-33 Plate 120
- SCENE ON THE FRENCH COAST Oil on canvas
 $15'' \times 21''$ (38 \times 53 cm.) Coll. Frank Lloyd National Gallery, London, 4377 Plate 120
- CHATEAU DE LA DUCHESSE DE BERRI (view across the river to the house among trees) Oil on canvas $14'' \times 19\frac{3}{8}''$ (35.6 \times 49.7 cm.) Coll. Fuller Maitland Exhib. British Gallery, 1863; Royal Academy, 1873; B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 45 Sir Martyn Beckett, Bart. Kirkdale Manor Plate 118
- THE PIAZZA DI SAN MARCO, VENICE Oil on canvas
 $38\frac{1}{2}'' \times 30\frac{7}{8}''$ (98 \times 78 cm.) The preparatory sketch is in Mr. C. E. Russell's collection Exhib. Bethnal Green, 1872-5, No. 48 Wallace Collection, London, 375 Plate 94
- VIEW OF VENICE (the Riva degli Schiavoni and the Doge's Palace) Oil on canvas $14\frac{1}{2}'' \times 20\frac{3}{4}''$ (41 \times 54 cm.) Coll. Coutan, Hauguet, Schubert-Milliet Exhib. Royal Academy, British Art, 1934 No. 636; Paris, Gros., 1936, No. 141 Louvre, Paris, 11805 Plate 117
- DEATH OF TITIAN (scene in the Piazzetta) Oil on millboard
 $7\frac{3}{8}'' \times 9\frac{3}{4}''$ (18.8 \times 24.7 cm.) Exhib. Paris, Sambon, 1932, No. 12; Bonington, 1936, No. 60 Formerly Maurice Gobin Plate 125
- THE GRAND CANAL AND STA. MARIA DELLA SALUTE (cloudy sky) Oil on English canvas $13\frac{3}{4}'' \times 16\frac{1}{2}''$ (35 \times 42 cm.) Exhib. Paris, Sambon, 1932, No. 10 Jules Strauss
- PLACE DU MOLARD, GENEVA Oil on canvas
 $24\frac{3}{4}'' \times 29\frac{1}{8}''$ (63.1 \times 75.6 cm.) Coll. Ionides Victoria and Albert Museum, London C. A. I. 13 Plate 121

CATALOGUE

HENRY IV AND THE SPANISH AMBASSADOR (the French King surprised playing with his children; the queen seated) Oil on canvas 15" × 19 $\frac{5}{8}$ " (38 × 50 cm.) *Coll. Coutan, Gendrini, San Donato (sale 1870, lot 4) Exhib.
Salon, 1827, R.A. 1828, Bethnal
Green, 1872-75, No. 49 Wallace
Collection, London, 351 Plate*
123

LEICESTER AND AMY ROBSART (on a balcony) Oil on canvas 13 $\frac{1}{4}$ " × 9 $\frac{3}{4}$ " (34 × 24.7 cm.) *Coll.
Hamilton Palace, Mrs. F. J. Weldon Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No.
31 Ashmolean Museum, Oxford
Plate 124*

LA DECLARATION (a lady leaning over a gallant, seated in the open air; seventeenth costume)
Oil on canvas 10 $\frac{1}{4}$ " × 8 $\frac{1}{4}$ " (26 × 21 cm.) *Coll. Carlier
René Longa Plate 124*

FRANCIS I AND MARGUERITE OF NAVARRÉ (by a window) Oil on canvas 18" × 13 $\frac{1}{4}$ " (46 × 34 cm.) *Coll. Webb, Lewis
Brown, Perier, Delessert Exhib.
Salon, 1827; Bethnal Green, 1872,
1874, No. 43 Wallace Collection,
London 322 Plate 142*

THE VISIT (an old woman seated by the bedside of a girl; a cat and a workbasket on the left) Oil on panel Engraved on steel by C. Rolls, and in mezzotint by S. W. Reynolds, 1829, and
T. Doney *Museum of Fine Arts,
Boston, Mass. Plate 127*

ODALISQUE AU PERROQUET ROUGE
(a landscape beyond) Oil on canvas 9 $\frac{3}{8}$ " × 7 $\frac{1}{4}$ " (24 × 18.5 cm.) Gabriel Renand Plate 126

VENETIAN SCENE (woman seated on a balcony) Oil on panel
6 $\frac{1}{8}$ " × 4 $\frac{3}{4}$ " (15.5 × 12 cm.)
*Coll. The Earl of Effingham Exhib.
B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 6 C. E.
Hughes Plate 96*

THE PAGE (a knight in armour attended by a page) Oil on canvas 7 $\frac{1}{2}$ " × 13 $\frac{3}{4}$ " (19 × 34.8 cm.) *Coll. Baron Charles
Rivet Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No.
23 Mlle. F. de Catheu, Paris*

CHARLES V VISITING FRANCIS I
AFTER PAVIA Oil on canvas
10 $\frac{1}{2}$ " × 12 $\frac{1}{2}$ " (26.6 × 31.8 cm.)
*Coll. The Earl of Effingham P. M.
Turner*

HENRI III RECEIVED BY THE DOGE
MOCENIGO Oil on millboard
7 $\frac{1}{2}$ " × 8 $\frac{5}{8}$ " (19 × 22 cm.)
Coll. Napoleon Gavagnion, Comte Barozzi Exhib. Paris, Sambon, 1932, No. 37 Arthur Sambon

MILTON DICTATING A POEM Oil on canvas laid on panel 3 $\frac{1}{8}$ " ×
2 $\frac{3}{4}$ " (8 × 7 cm.) *Coll. Lacroix (sale 1901), Warneck Exhib.
Paris, 1932, Sambon, No. 40
Alfred Sambon*

BEACH AT CALAIS WITH FIGURES
Watercolour 6 $\frac{1}{4}$ " × 9 $\frac{1}{8}$ " (15.7 × 23.2 cm.) Maurice Gobin

CHOPPY SEA OFF THE ENGLISH
COAST Watercolour 5 $\frac{1}{2}$ " ×
8 $\frac{3}{8}$ " (13.8 × 21.3 cm.) *Exhib.
B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 68 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood Plate 135*

THE INSTITUT, PARIS, FROM THE QUAIS Watercolour and reed pen with touches of gum 9 $\frac{3}{8}$ " ×
7 $\frac{5}{8}$ " (24.5 × 20 cm.) *Coll.
Salting British Museum, London, 1910-2-12-224 Plate 134*

THE QUAIS DES GRANDS AUGUSTINS Watercolour and traces of pencil $7\frac{1}{8}" \times 9\frac{3}{4}"$ (18.2 \times 24.7 cm.) Gilbert Levy Plate 133

LE LAVOIR (farm buildings and a washing place, with figures) Watercolour heightened with white, and pen $8\frac{1}{2}" \times 13\frac{1}{4}"$ (21.5 \times 33.5) Signed R. P. B. Exhib. Paris, 1936, Bonington, No. 44 Maurice Gobin Plate 112

BEAUVAIS Watercolour and gum over pencil $9\frac{1}{8}" \times 6\frac{7}{8}"$ (23.1 \times 17.5 cm.) Coll. Charles, Duc de Nemours Atherton Curtis

CHELSEA OLD CHURCH (trees on the left; groups of figures and waggons) Watercolour $4\frac{1}{2}" \times 7"$ (12 \times 18 cm.) Tate Gallery Plate 137

MARINE (ships on a choppy sea) Watercolour $5\frac{1}{4}" \times 7\frac{1}{4}"$ (13.3 \times 18.3 cm.) National Gallery of Wales Plate 76

CHURCH OF S. AMBROGIO, MILAN Watercolour and gum $8\frac{3}{4}" \times 11\frac{1}{8}"$ (22.3 \times 28.2 cm.) Signed and dated, R. P. B., 1827 Coll. Lewis Brown (sale 1837, lot 2); San Donato, sale, 1863 Exhib. Bethnal Green, 1874-5 (No. 709) Wallace Collection, London, 714 Plate 130

STREET IN VERONA (the Maffei Palace) Watercolour $9\frac{1}{4}" \times 6\frac{1}{4}"$ (23.5 \times 16 cm.) Signed R. P. B. Engraved by W. I. Cooke, 1830 Victoria and Albert Museum, London, 3047-1876 Plate 132

THE CASTELBARCO TOMB OVER THE SMALL CEMETERY GATE OF

THE CHURCH OF STA. ANASTASIA, VERONA Watercolour $7\frac{1}{2}" \times 5\frac{1}{2}"$ (19 \times 13.8 cm.) Signed and dated R. P. B., 1827 Coll. W. A. Coats Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 110 P. M. Turner Plate 131

THE GESU CHURCH FROM THE CALLETTE STA. AGNESE, VENICE Watercolour over pencil $11" \times 8"$ (28 \times 20.3 cm.) Signed R. P. B. City Art Gallery, Nottingham, 29-40 Plate 131

STATUE EQUESTRE DE COLLEONI Watercolour, pen and gum $9\frac{1}{8}" \times 7\frac{7}{8}"$ (23 \times 17.5 cm.) Signed R. P. B. Reproduced in colour D & H p. 72 Louvre, Paris, M 1889 Plate 129

ODALISQUE AU PALMIER Watercolour and gum $7\frac{1}{2}" \times 5\frac{1}{8}"$ (19 \times 13 cm.) Louvre, Paris, 35281 Plate 138

ODALISQUE (a woman sleeping in a chair; a garden beyond a parapet, on which is a parrot) Watercolour and gum over pencil $8\frac{1}{4}" \times 5\frac{3}{4}"$ (20.7 \times 14.6 cm.) Signed and dated R. P. B., 1827 Coll. Perier (sale 1846, No. 42) Exhib. Bethnal Green, 1874-5, No. 705 as Woman Asleep Wallace Collection, London, 734

LADY AT HER TOILET (standing before a mirror with her hands to her hair) Watercolour and gum with traces of pencil $5\frac{7}{8}" \times 3\frac{7}{8}"$ (15 \times 9.7 cm.) Signed and dated R. P. B., 1827 Coll. Lord Henry Seymour; Laboureaux Exhib. Bethnal Green, 1874-5, No. 610 Wallace Collection, London, 679

THE LETTER (a woman, seated, hides a letter in her bosom) Watercolour with gum and pencil and chinese white $6" \times 3\frac{7}{8}"$ (15×9.8 cm.) Signed and dated R. P. B., 1827 Coll. Lord Henry Seymour (sale, 1860) Exhib. Bethnal Green, 1874-5, No. 617 Wallace Collection, London, 678 Plate 140

OLD MAN AND CHILD (an old man, seated, holds a child against his knees, late sixteenth century costume) Watercolour, gum and body colour $7\frac{1}{2}" \times 5\frac{1}{2}"$ (19×14 cm.) Signed and dated R. P. Bonington, 1827 Coll. Lewis Brown (sale 1837, lot 62), San Donato (sale, lot 43) Exhib. Bethnal Green, 1874-5, No. 703 Wallace Collection, London, 698

THE ANTIQUARY (a girl leans over an old man who examines his treasures at a table; a dog in foreground) Watercolour and gum $8" \times 6\frac{1}{4}"$ (20×16 cm.) Coll. Lewis Brown (sale 1837, No. 1), San Donato (sale 1863) Exhib. Bethnal Green, 1874-5, No. 698 Wallace Collection, London, 672 Plate 140

A KNIGHT IN ARMOUR (by a table; two pages and a dog) Watercolour, gum and gouache $8" \times 6\frac{1}{8}"$ (20.4×15.5 cm.) Signed R. P. B. Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 82 P. M. Turner

BOOK ILLUSTRATION (a lady introduces two gentlemen) Watercolour $1\frac{5}{8}" \times 3"$ (4.1×7.6 cm.) British Museum, London, LB 10-20b

WOMAN SEWING Sepia (16.5×10.8 cm.) Lithographed by

Noel, 1829 Exhib. Paris, Bonington, 1936, No. 7 René Longa Plate 139

THE INSTITUT, PARIS, AND THE PONT DES ARTS Pencil $4\frac{3}{4}" \times 7\frac{1}{2}"$ (12×18.6 cm.) Inscribed, "Paris (? March)" Coll. J. P. Heseltine Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 96 P. M. Turner 372 Plate 133

COTTAGE BY A GATE (trees behind) Pencil $3\frac{1}{2}" \times 4\frac{3}{4}"$ (9×12 cm.) P. M. Turner

CART IN A QUARRY (trees beyond) Pencil $1\frac{1}{4}" \times 2\frac{3}{4}"$ (3.2×7 cm.) Coll. Fairfax Murray City Art Gallery, Nottingham, 20-37

LANDSCAPE (group of figures and a horse, foreground) Pencil $3\frac{3}{8}" \times 4\frac{1}{4}"$ (8×10.7 cm.) P. M. Turner, 1920

SKETCH ON THE BANKS OF A RIVER Pencil $4\frac{3}{8}" \times 8\frac{1}{8}"$ (11.1×20.6 cm.) British Museum, London, LB 10-34

HEAD OF A GIRL Pencil $5\frac{1}{2}" \times 5\frac{1}{4}"$ (13.9×13.2 cm.) Lot 84, sale 1829 Lithographed by Hullmandel, 1829, as "Study from Nature" Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 19 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood

PORTRAIT OF ARTHUR DE BEAUPLAN, AGED $4\frac{1}{2}$ (dressed as a soldier) $4\frac{7}{8}" \times 4"$ (12.3×10.2 cm.) Inscribed date on the back, 1827 Exhib. Paris, Bonington, 1936, No. 14 H. Marillier Plate 115

HEAD OF A YOUTH WITH LONG HAIR (profile to left) Pencil $5\frac{1}{2}" \times 4\frac{1}{2}"$ (14×11.4 cm.) Lot 84, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 9 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood

TWO FIGURES SEEN FROM BEHIND

Pencil $4\frac{5}{8}" \times 4\frac{1}{8}"$ (11.7 × 10.4 cm.) Maurice Gobin

FIGURES IN SEVENTEENTH CENTURY

COSTUME (a man and woman arm in arm, and a man with an ostrich plumed hat) Pencil and wash $6\frac{1}{2}" \times 7\frac{3}{4}"$ (16.5 × 19.6 cm.) Maurice Gobin

STUDY OF A HANAP AND A COVERED

TAZZA Pencil and wash $6\frac{3}{4}" \times 4\frac{1}{4}"$ (17.2 × 10.8 cm.) Numbered 82 Coll. George Cattermole Luc A. Moreau

FIGURE STUDIES (a sketch for the Spanish Ambassador; six complete figures and 3 heads)

Pencil $7\frac{5}{8}" \times 11\frac{1}{4}"$ (19.4 × 28.5 cm.) Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 99 P. M. Turner

STUDY FOR THE SURRENDER OF A

CITY Pencil $3\frac{3}{8}" \times 3\frac{1}{4}"$ (8.5 × 8.8 cm.) Luc A. Moreau

1827-8 LA LEÇON DE LUTH (a man seated beside a girl holding a lute; mediaeval costume; a window, left) Oil on millboard $13\frac{1}{8}" \times 10\frac{1}{4}"$ (35.7 × 26.1 cm.) Coll. Baron Charles Rivet Exhib. Gros., 1936, No. 149; B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 28 The Heirs of the late M. N. de Lajudie Plate 141

HENRY III AND THE ENGLISH AM-

BASSADOR Oil on canvas $20\frac{3}{4}" \times 25\frac{1}{8}"$ (53 × 64 cm.) Coll. Lord Henry Seymour (1849 sale) Exhib. R.A., 1828, Bethnal Green, 1872-5, No. 50 Wallace Collection, London, 325 Plate 147

ABBEY OF ST. ARMAND, ROUEN

(with figure) Watercolour, gum and body colour $7\frac{5}{8}" \times 5"$ (19.5 × 12.7 cm.) Numbered 109 Lot 191, 1829 Reproduced

D. & H., p. 44 Exhib., B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 43 in album) The Marquis of Lansdowne, Bowood Plate 143

PAYSAGE: MOULIN, SOLEIL COU-
CHANT Watercolour and gum $6\frac{1}{4}" \times 8\frac{5}{8}"$ (15.5 × 21.8 cm.) Coll. Coutan-Hauguet, Schubert-Milliet Louvre, Paris Plate 144

PROCESSION OF CATHOLIC CLERGY

Watercolour, gum and pencil $4\frac{7}{8}" \times 6\frac{3}{8}"$ (12.5 × 16.1 cm.) Lot 135, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 23 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood

PARIS FROM PASSY (view down the Seine) Wash and pencil $3\frac{3}{4}" \times 5\frac{7}{8}"$ (9.5 × 14.7 cm.) Signed R. P. Bonington P. M. Turner

544

1828 VENICE (a canal at sunset; the Dogana in the distance); Oil on canvas $8\frac{3}{4}" \times 12\frac{3}{8}"$ (22.3 × 31.5 cm.) Signed (?) and dated by scratching in the paint, "July 3/28 RPB" Dudley Wallis Plate 146

ANNE D'AUTRICHE AND MAZARIN

Oil on canvas $13\frac{3}{4}" \times 10\frac{5}{8}"$ (35 × 27 cm.) Signed R. P. B. and dated 1828 Coll. Coutan, Hauguet, Schubert-Milliet Louvre, Paris, 1803 Plate 148

FRANCIS I ET LA DUCHESSE D'ET-

AMPES Oil on canvas $13\frac{7}{8}" \times 10\frac{5}{8}"$ (35 × 27 cm.) Sale, Mosselmann, 1849 Lithographed by C. Hue Louvre, Paris, 1802 Plate 148

SUNSET ON THE PAYS DE CAUX

Watercolour and gum $7\frac{1}{2}" \times 10\frac{1}{2}"$ (19 × 27 cm.) Signed and dated R. P. B., 1828 Coll.

- L. Brown (sale 1837, No. 66)*
Exhib. Bethnal Green, 1874-5, No.
710 Wallace Collection, London,
708 Plate 149
- THE UNDERCLIFF: TWILIGHT (a shipwreck scene with rescuing boat, by a chalk cliff) Watercolour $5\frac{1}{8}'' \times 8\frac{1}{2}''$ (13×21.5 cm.) Signed and dated R. P. B. 1(8)28 Inscribed, "Augst 6th & 7th 1828. the last drawing made by our dear son about prior to his fatal dissolution. E. Bonington" City Art Gallery, Nottingham, 28-171 Plate 150
- OLD HOUSE IN RUE STE. VERONIQUE, BEAUVAIS (two peasant women at the door of a Gothic house) Watercolour and gum $7\frac{1}{4}'' \times 4\frac{7}{8}''$ (18.2×12.2 cm.) Signed R. P. Bonington, 1828 Sale: Coll. F. V., Paris, 1864, lot 5 Bequeathed, Solomon Rothschild, 1922 Exhib. Gros., 1936, No. 154 Louvre, Paris, 5614
- THE STAIRCASE (two men in armour, foreground: other figures behind them) Watercolour heightened with body and scraping $9\frac{1}{2}'' \times 5\frac{5}{8}''$ (24.3×14.5 cm.) Signed and dated R. P. P., 1828 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 81 Whitworth Art Gallery, Manchester Plate 153
- ON THE BALCONY, VENICE (a lady resting her head on a gentleman's shoulder; a page leaning against the balustrade; the Campanile beyond) Watercolour, gum and body colour $7\frac{1}{4}'' \times 5\frac{1}{4}''$ (18.5×13.3 cm.) Engraved by Quilly Reproduced colour Connoisseur, 1931, p. 101 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 85
- Lady Lever Art Gallery, Port Sunlight Plate 153*
- ON A VENETIAN BALCONY (a lady and gentleman standing, a page leaning over the parapet; sixteenth century costume; the Campanile beyond) Watercolour, gum, heightened with white $6\frac{3}{8}'' \times 4\frac{3}{8}''$ (16.2×11 cm.) Coll. A. Stevens, James Orrock Lithographed in reverse by Mouilleron Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 84 Glasgow Art Gallery, No. 117
- LA SIESTA (a woman seated before a curtain, attended by a lutanist and a negro page) Watercolour and gum over pencil $7\frac{1}{4}'' \times 5''$ (18.4×12.7 cm.) Signed and dated R. P. B., 182(6 or 8?) Coll. James Carpenter Perhaps No. 41 in the Paul Perrier Sale, 1846 Wallace Collection, London, 726 Plate 151
- A VENETIAN SCENE (figures in sixteenth century costume on a balcony, attended by a negro page) Watercolour and pencil $6\frac{7}{8}'' \times 9\frac{5}{8}''$ (17×24 cm.) Coll. Lewis Brown, Perrier, Lord Henry Seymour Exhib. Bethnal Green, 1874, No. 675a Wallace Collection, London, 674 Plate 152
- CAVALIER AND LADY (a mountain-fringed bay and a lighthouse seen through a window) Watercolour with gum and chinese white over pencil $6\frac{3}{4}'' \times 4\frac{7}{8}''$ (17.2×12.4 cm.) Signed and dated, R. P. B., 182(6 or 8) Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 80 P. M. Turner Plate 139

BONINGTON

STORM AND THE SYLPH (a vignette)

Sepia $6\frac{1}{8}" \times 4\frac{1}{4}"$ (15.6 \times 10.8 cm.) Inscribed, "La Sylphide" Lot 96, sale 1829 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 114 (No. 23 in album) The Marquess of Lansdowne, Bowood Plate 154

COAST SCENE (figures in foreground; a fishing boat beyond)

Pen and sepia $4\frac{1}{2}" \times 7\frac{3}{8}"$ (11.5 \times 18.6 cm.) Coll. John

Sadler, G. H. Shepherd Reproduced D. & H., p. 84 Exhib. B.F.A.C., 1937, No. 74 Sir Hickman Bacon, Bart., Thonock

SEVEN FIGURE STUDIES Pen and ink $8" \times 10"$ (20.3 \times 25.4 cm.) Inscribed by Roberts, "the last drawing of Bonington's given me by Gaudefroy who was with him when he made it" Coll. Gaudefroy & Roberts Ather-ton Curtis Plate 154

SALES OF PICTURES AND DRAWINGS
BY OR ATTRIBUTED TO RICHARD PARKES BONINGTON

SALES

1829 THE LATE R. P. BONINGTON Lot (Christie's) 29th-30th June

Lot OIL SKETCHES

- 1 View in the Mediterranean; a ditto Coast Scene, St. Valerie (2) Roberts £2 4s.
- 2 A ditto, ditto; A ditto, View near Genoa, by a pupil (2) Barnet £2 4s.
- 3 A ditto, View of the Castle of Erici, on the Mediterranean, very fine Heath £13 13s.
- 4 Ditto, Coast Views, on one panel (2) Colnaghi £4 16s.
- 5 Ditto, Italian Buildings Tiffin £2 12s.
- 6 Ditto of Trees near Florence Jones £11 11s.
- 7 Ditto, of Francis I and his sister Triphook £2 5s.

PENCIL SKETCHES

- 8 Spirited sketches of Coast Scenery, Shipping, etc. (13) Hinxman £3 3s.
- 9 Ditto (8) Colnaghi £2 12s.
- 10 Ditto (9) Colnaghi £2 12s.
- 11 Ditto, one of which is tinted (9) Hixon £3
- 12 Ditto, and figures (11) Colnaghi £2 12s.
- 13 Ditto (11) Bourne £4 4s.
- 14 Ditto, ancient armour, some tinted (8) Colnaghi £3
- 15 Ditto, Ancient Armour, from Dr. Meyrick's collection (6) Colnaghi £2 12s.
- 16 Spirited sketches of Ancient Armour, from Dr. Meyrick's collection (13) Triphook £3 8s.

- 17 Ditto, Tombs in Westminster Abbey, etc. (5) Colnaghi £5 2s. 6d.
- 18 Ditto, Tombs in Normandy, etc., some tinted (13) Colnaghi £35s.
- 19 Ditto, Ancient Costumes and Gothic Architecture (12) Hull £2 18s.
- 20 Spirited sketches, some tinted (16) Barnet £4
- 21 Ditto, Ancient Costume, some tinted (22) Molteni £2 16s. 6d.

OIL SKETCHES

- 22 Coast Scenery, on one panel (2) Stanfield £3
- 23 View in Switzerland, on canvas Colnaghi £5
- 24 View of Fort Rouge, Calais Seguier £5 10s.
- 25 A spirited sketch of a Land Storm, with a Waggon in the foreground Tiffin £15 10s.
- 26 View in Venice, with the Church of St. George, very fine Molteni £12 12s.
- 27 Spirited sketches in distemper, after Titian and Giorgione (6) Molteni £10 10s.
- 28 Rural Landscape, with cattle, on canvas Colnaghi £2 12s.
- 29 Coast Scene, canvas Triphook £3 3s.
- 30 Sketch of Henry IV's Bedchamber; the king in an armchair at the window, canvas Cattley £10 10s.
- 31 Landscape with figures, canvas Hixon £3 5s.

Lot

- 32 The Agony in the Garden, sketch, panel Hixon 11s.
 33 Landscape, panel. Tiffin £7 12s.
 WATERCOLOUR DRAWINGS
 34 Vaults of the Cathedral, Basle Colnaghi £2 12s.
 35 Rouen Cathedral Colnaghi £7
 36 The Coast at Calais Colnaghi £7 10s.
 37 Lake of Thun; Mont Blanc (2) Tiffin £8 10s.
 38 Porch of an Ancient Convent at Beauvais Cattley £8
 39 Coast Scenes, La Ferté, etc. (2) Townshend £13
 40 Street Views, Calais, etc. (2) Mills £13
 41 Sketches of Shipping (3) Roberts £3 3s.
 42 Ancient Buildings, Beauvais Colnaghi £14
 43 Pont des Arts, Paris Colnaghi £1 6s.
 44 View of the Church at Rouen Molteno £9 9s.
 45 Machine for driving Piles Roles £7 10s.
 46 View of Le Havre Monro £8

WATERCOLOUR DRAWINGS, FRAMED AND GLAZED

- 47 View on the French Coast Colnaghi £4 18s.
 48 Highly-finished architectural drawing Colnaghi £4 12s.
 49 Interior of Henry IV Bedchamber Roles £9 9s.
 50 View of Venice Molteno £9 5s.
 51 Ecole des Arts, Paris, pencil and chalk Colnaghi £26
 52 Entrance to the Port, Le Havre, with Fishing Boats, etc. Pinney £9 9s.
 53 View on the French Coast, sepia Bourne £2 2s.

Lot

- 54 Ditto, in colours Cattley £6 10s.
 OIL SKETCHES
 55 Interior of an Italian Courtyard Hinxman £3 5s.
 56 Interior of Henry IV's Bedchamber Colnaghi £10 10s.
 57 View on the Grand Canal, Venice Tiffin £13
 58 Ditto Utterson £8
 59 Studies of Trees, near Rouen Molteno £10 10s.
 60 A Sea-Port, with Shipping Townshend £12 12s.
 61 Interior of a Cathedral Colnaghi £3
 62 View in the Environs of Florence Cattley £8 18s. 6d.
 63 Swiss Peasant Girl Tiffin £2 5s.
 PENCIL SKETCHES
 64 Ancient Tombs, some tinted (14) Utterson £2 2s.
 65 Coast Scenery, with Shipping (3) Blackford £2 10s.
 66 Ditto (10) Colnaghi £1 15s.
 67 Ditto (5) Hull £4
 68 Ditto, Views of Calais (7) Cox £5 5s.
 69 Figures and animals, various (9) Vine £2 18s.
 70 Ancient Buildings in France (5) Blackford £4 6s.
 80 (sic) Sketches in Switzerland, etc. (8) Tiffin £4 4s.
 81 Ditto (8) Roberts £2 8s.
 82 Ditto (8) Wharnccliffe £4 10s.
 83 Ancient Monuments, some tinted (19) Chambers £1 4s.
 84 Sketches of Heads from Nature (10) Lansdowne £5 7s. 6d.
 85 Ditto (9) Greville £3 3s.
 86 Ditto (17) ? £3 12s.
 87 Views in Florence, etc. (6) Cawdor £6 6s.

LIST OF WORKS SOLD AS BY BONINGTON

Lot		Lot
88	The Rialto and Equestrian Figure at Venice (2) Colnaghi £7 10s.	103	View in the Boboli Gardens, Florence Tiffin £7
89	Views of Bologna, etc. (4) Seguier £5 17s. 6d.	104	View on the Grand Canal, Venice Colnaghi £16 5s.
90	View of Venice from the Piazzetta Cawdor £3 5s.	105	View of the Rialto, Venice Townshend £19
91	View of the Grand Canal, Venice, slightly tinted Hinxman £6 15s.	106	View in France Cutley £23
92	View of the Piazzetta, Venice Cawdor £11 11s.	107	Scene from The Merchant of Venice Dawkins £9
93	View of the Palace of Count Maffei, Verona Seguier £11 11s.	108	A Conversation; figures in Venetian Townshend £56
94	View of Jumièges Molteno £5 15s. 6d.	109	Normandy, with cattle and figures sixteenth century costume Townshend £48
95	L'Abbaye St. Armand, on blue paper, chalk and body-colour Mills £17	110	Maffei Palace, Verona, with a religious procession Marquis of Stafford £73 10s.
96	Italian Monk, tinted Roles £2 2s.	OIL SKETCHES
97	Sketches of Birds, black and white chalk (4) Mills £6 10s.	111	Studies of heads, by a pupil Rumbold £1
96	Subjects, the Storm, and the Sylph, sepia (2) Lansdowne £1 13s.	112	Studies of two females Hixon £1 13s.
97	View of Geneva, etc. (7) Wharncliffe £4 16s.	113	Figures after Veronese Hinxman £1 18s.
98	Swiss Costume, coloured sketches (2) Roberts £4 4s.	114	Ruins of a church at St. Omer Byng £2 8s.
99	View in Venice with shipping Molteno £6 15s.	115	French Coast with figures Townshend £4
100	Horses, Figures, etc., chalk (7) Blanchford £7	116	Dieppe Harbour with Shipping Colnaghi £4 6s.
100	Views in Verona, etc., copied from Bonington (6) Griffiths £1 11s.	117	Interior of a church Burney £6 10s.
98	Venetian Costume, after Bellini Graves £1 13s.	118	View of La Ferté, with figures Knapp £3 15s.
99	Sketches of Females, coloured chalk (2) Townshend £6 10s.	119	Studies of Grecian Costumes, two figures on one canvas Townshend £20
100	Ditto (3) Irby £3 15s.	120	Studies of Swiss Costume Roberts £5
OIL PAINTINGS		PENCIL SKETCHES
101	Interior of an Abbey Colnaghi £5 15s.	121	Ancient Costume from Dutch pictures (18) Roberts £1 18s.
102	Don Quixote in his study Triphook £10 10s.	122	Ditto (14) Stanfield £2 18s.
		123	Studies of Buildings and Coast scenery (6) Cawdor £4 4s.

- | | | |
|--|---|--|
| Lot | Lot | |
| 124 Views in Switzerland, France, etc.
(5) Thane £3 18s. | 145 St. Mark's, St. George's, Venice, etc. (4) Lansdowne £6 10s. | |
| 125 Views of Honfleur, etc. (2) Seguier
£6 10s. | 146 The Ducal Palace, etc., Venice (3)
Lansdowne £5 | |
| 126 View of the Bridge of Louis XVI, and a Gothic Tomb (2) Col-
naghi £4 4s. | 147 The Doge's Palace; The Greek Church (2) Lansdowne £9 10s. | |
| 127 Bridge of St. Maurice, and Cottages in Switzerland (3) Col-
naghi £4 15s. | 148 View on the Grand Canal, etc. (3)
Colnaghi £4 16s. | |
| 128 Studies of Gothic Architecture (7)
Hull £3 15s. | 149 Street View in Verona Cawdor £7
15s. | |
| 129 Studies of the Town Hall, Ypres,
etc. (5) Colnaghi £5 5s. | 150 Market Place, Verona, on tinted paper heightened with white
Lansdowne £13 13s. | |
| COLOURED DRAWINGS | | |
| 130 Fishing craft Colnaghi £8 5s. | 151 Views of Venice, Genoa, etc. (3)
Lansdowne £6 6s. | |
| 131 Fishing Vessels Boone £7 17s. | 152 Castle of Ferrara; Tomb at Verona
(2) Lansdowne £6 15s. | |
| 132 Ditto Boone £8 8s. | 153 Church of St. Mark, Venice Col-
naghi £14 | |
| 133 Boboli Gardens, Florence Colnaghi
£13 | 154 Palace of St. Mark, on coloured
paper heightened with white
Lansdowne £6 12s. | |
| 134 View on the French Coast Seguier
£10 10s. | 155 Grand Canal with a distant view of the Rialto Lansdowne £14 14s. | |
| 135 Processions of Catholic Clergy, and studies from Vandyck (2) Lans-
downe £5 15s. | 156 View of Venice Cawdor £6 10s. | |
| 136 Studies of Shipping (2) Hall £4 8s. | OIL SKETCHES | |
| 137 Old Buildings; Swiss Costume (2)
Molteno £7 15s. | 157 A Fresh Breeze Townshend £13 13s. | |
| 138 Views in Switzerland (2) Colnaghi
£8 15s. | 158 Coast near Genoa Townshend £17 | |
| 139 Views in Beauvais (2) Monro £6
15s. | 159 Port of Genoa, and the Bay Rogers
£3 1 | |
| 140 View of Mont Blanc; Coast Scene
(2) Monro £7 | 160 Environs of Genoa Sir T. Lawrence
£11 | |
| PENCIL SKETCHES, VIEWS IN ITALY, ETC. | | |
| 141 Florence and the Boboli Gardens
(4) Hinxman £2 8s. | 161 View on Venice Hinxman £23 | |
| 142 Genoa, and environs (6) Byng
£2 2s. | 162 St. Mark's Church, upright, unfinished Cattley £18 | |
| 143 Views of Venice (8) Lansdowne
£7 17s. 6d. | 163 Study, portrait of a Lady Triphook
£6 | |
| 144 Views in Venice, the Ducal Palace, etc. (2) Colnaghi £5 7s. 6d. | 164 Port of Le Havre, Shipping Triph-
hook £2 15s. | |
| | 165 Storm with a shipwreck Tiffin £4 | |
| | 166 Portrait of Old Cordier, of Rouen, mending his nets Colnaghi £3
7s. | |

LIST OF WORKS SOLD AS BY BONINGTON

Lot		Lot
167	Interior of a Room Colnaghi £14	189	Palais de Justice, Rouen Lansdowne £8 18s. 6d.
	PENCIL SKETCHES
168	Sketches of costumes, some tinted (13) Colnaghi £2	190	View of Abbeville, tinted paper heightened with white Townsend £20
169	Ditto, and studies from Italian masters (9) Lansdowne £5 15s. 6d.	191	Abbey of St. Aman, tinted paper, heightened with white Lansdowne £24 3s.
170	Ditto (8) Barnet £2 2s.		FRAMED AND GLAZED DRAWINGS, VARIA.
171	Ditto (13) Roberts £2 12s.	192	Holy Family, after Titian, highly finished in colour Hull £2 2s.
172	Studies of Greek Costume (4) Roberts £2 12s.	193	Subject from Italian History, highly finished in colour Hull £6 10s.
173	Views in Italy (8) Triphook £3	194	Views of Switzerland (2) Colnaghi £5 15s.
174	Sketches, coloured, of coast scenery and Part of the Port of Le Havre (2) Monro £11	195	St. Mark's, Venice Colnaghi £21
175	Gothic Church at Rouen, on tinted paper Lansdowne £6 10s.	196	Ducal Palace, Venice Seguier £19
176	Specimen of ancient Architecture (2) Lansdowne £9	197	View in Switzerland Monro £3
177	Town Hall of St. Omer Monro £7	198	Waterfall in Switzerland, coloured Monro £4
178	Gothic Screen of a Cathedral, heightened with white Triphook £5 18s.	199	Mountainous view in Switzerland, coloured Hull £6 10s.
179	Town Hall, Ypres; Gothic Fountain, Rouen (2) Colnaghi £6 6s.	200	View of La Ferté, coloured Hull £6 10s.
180	Views in Switzerland; a Gothic chest, etc. (5) Monro £6	201	View of Paris, the last Production of Bonington Seguier £24
181	View of Rouen, on tinted paper Carpenter £6	202	View in Italy, highly finished in colours Molteni £8
182	View of Calais, sepia Colnaghi £5 15s.	203	Palace of the Tuileries, highly finished in colours Seguier £16
183	Fort Rouge, Calais, tinted paper heightened with white Hastings £3 15s.	204	Studies of Trees, highly finished in colours Tiffin £5 10s.
184	Archway, tinted paper touched with white (2) Thane £6	205	Paris and the Tuileries, highly finished in colours Colnaghi £12
185	Ancient Buildings in France (12) Lansdowne £13	206	River Scene, highly finished in colours Cattley £9
186	Hotel at Dieppe; Gothic Porch at Rouen (2) Colnaghi £9 5s.	207	Interior of a Church, Milan, highly finished in colours Hull £11
187	Ancient Buildings (2) Uttersen £6 12s.	208	Fruit and Flower piece, in coloured chalk Hull £7
188	Ancient Gateways (2) Lansdowne £8	209	The Pont Royal, highly finished in colours Laurence £18 18s.

BONINGTON

Lot		Lot
210	Henry IV in his Bedchamber Lansdowne £15	231	Ditto, 4 compartments Hull £1 11s.
	OIL PAINTINGS	232	Ditto, 4 compartments Sotheby 18s.
211	Port of Le Havre Townshend £35	233	Ditto, 5 compartments Sotheby £1 3s.
212	Interior of a Church, Milan Townshend £32 11s.	234	Ditto 27" × 21" Lansdowne 16s.
213	Environs of Florence Glynn £32 6s. 6d.	235	Ditto 24" × 17" Sotheby 11s.
214	Bridge of the Rialto Molteno £30 9s.	236	Ditto 17" × 14" Sotheby 12s.
215	Ducal Palace, Venice Glynn £18 10s.	237	Ditto, in 4 compartments each 26" × 18" Colnaghi £1 5s.
216	The Rialto Barnet £22 1s.		Ditto Brown 9s. 6d.
217	View of a Castle in the Mediterranean Laurence £30 9s.	1830	COUTAN SALE 19th April, Paris
218	The Grand Canal, Venice Townshend £52 10s.		Lot
219	Sea Coast with Fishermen, etc. Colnaghi £14	5	Landscape; oil
220	View of Venice Townshend £53 11s.	6	Sea Shore; sunset
221	Mother and Child at Prayer Seuguier £105	7	Henry IV and the Spanish Ambassador
222	Subject from Quentin Durward Bone £94 10s.	112	Knights at Prayer
223	Henry IV and the Spanish Ambassador (exhibited R.A. 1828) Colnaghi £84	113	The Remonstrance
	MISCELLANEOUS	114	Henry IV and the Spanish Ambassador
224	A Sword, Pistol, Steel breastplate, and various Pieces of Ancient leather Pickersgill £1 5s.	115	Henry VIII
225	A Suit of Steel Armour, not quite perfect Stanfield £4 12s.	116	Subject from the Arabian Nights
226	French carved frame 53" × 40" Triphook £2 16s.	117	The Cornfield
227	Ditto 63½" × 44" Colnaghi £2 14s.	118	The Mill
228	Parcel of odd Plates, Histoire de l'Art par les Monuments Pickersgill £1 14s.	119	View in Switzerland
229	A gilt Frame in 4 compartments Sotheby £1 1s.		SIR THOMAS LAWRENCE, P.R.A. (Christie) 12th May
230	Ditto, 5 compartments Sotheby £2 2s.		Lot
		312	Bologna, Leaning Towers; etching with two other engravings Harrison 18s.
			15th May
		87	Turk Reposing Oil 15¼" × 12¼" Colnaghi £64 1s.
			17th June
		26	River scene, barges at anchor and a long iron bridge Colnaghi £15 4s. 6d.

LIST OF WORKS SOLD AS BY BONINGTON

Lot

- 27 Study of Trees Oil Colnaghi £5 10s.
 28 Italian View with Mountains Oil
Moon £5 18s.
 29 Italian Sea-coast view, with a Castle on a Rock Oil Lord
Northwick £21 10s. 6d.

- 1832 L.S. SALE 31st January, Paris
 The Waggon Watercolour Fr.
1,300
 Reading the Bible Watercolour
Fr. 1,700
 View of Rouen Fr. 500

CAPT. WEBB SALE
 6th February

Lot

- 87 A Road across a Plain Sepia
 88 Tower of a Cathedral
SALE BY SCHROTH 15th March
 Market Place at Boulogne
CAPT. WEBB SALE 15th March
 135 Sea Piece Fr. 152
 136 Sea Piece; approaching storm Fr.
160
 137 Paris from the Quai du Louvre
 Watercolour Fr. 115
 138 Two Vignettes Watercolours Fr.
80.50
 139 Harfleur; a shepherd in the foreground Fr. 101
 140 View at Meudon Fr. 87
 141 Crossing the Lake; morning Water-colour Fr. 97
 142 Sea Piece "From the Album of Mme. C." Fr. 270
 183 View on the Sea shore
 184 Group of Figures Fr. 190
 185 A Market Place at Boulogne Fr.
330

- 1833 SALE BY SCHROTH
 7th February, Paris

Brother Philippe's Geese Water-colour

SALE BY SCHROTH

17th February

A Lord and his Lady with pages.

W— SALE 12th March

Odalisque with a red parrot Water-colour

SALE BY SCHROTH 18th March

Elizabeth and Lord Leicester.

G. DE F. SALE n.d.

Torrent in Dauphiné Watercolour
DUC D'ORLEANS' SALE n.d.

Paris

The Venetian Courtesan 17¾" × 14½" Fr. 8,200

- 1834 DUC DE RIVOLI'S SALE

18th April, Paris

Elizabeth and Lord Leicester

CHRISTIE'S 23rd and 24th May

(The property of Richard Boning-ton, the painter's father.)

THE FIRST DAY'S SALE

Lot

PRINTS

- 1 A portfolio containing twenty-seven artists prints after Rubens,
 etc. Colnaghi £1 6s.
 2 Thirteen Academy Figures Strutt
 £2 4s.
 3 Lord Byron after Phillips; Francis
 I, and thirty-three portraits of kings Strutt £1 1s.
 4 Twenty-two foreign and English
 Topography Strutt 7s.
 5 The Surprise after Maes, and thirteen more illustrations Strutt
 7s.
 6 Sixteen French lithographic of views and figures Strutt 4s.
 7 Philippo Lippi, and Les enfants surpris par l'orage, after De la Roche, mezzotinto Strutt 4s.

BONINGTON

Lot

- 8 Turner's marine views, india proofs
Strutt 5s.
- 9 Cumberland's designs, and Ackermann's and Rodwell's drawing books Strutt 5s.
- 10 Cook's views in Suffolk, Part I
Gibbs 3s.
- 11 Turner and Girtin's River Scenery
Strutt £1 5s.

WORKS OF THE LATE R. P. BONINGTON

Lot

SKETCHES

- 12 Six pen and ink sketches of figures in one frame Gibbs 13s.
- 13 The storm, a vignette in bistre
Uttersen £2 2s.
- 14 View of the Lake of Brienne, with figures, in sepia Colnaghi £3
- 15 View on the French Coast, and a river scene in black chalk, and a view of Salinette, in pencil
Colnaghi £1 4s.
- 16 Six slight studies of boats, etc., in black lead Colnaghi £1 2s.
- 17 Six Ditto Colnaghi £1 1s.
- 18 French cottages on the bank of a river, in black and red chalk, and a coast scene Colnaghi £1
- 19 Six small views of Calais and Fort la Rouge in chalk and pencil Hixon £1 11s. 6d.
- 20 Ten studies of vessels and boats, in pencil Colnaghi £1 11s.
- 21 Six small sketches, with shipping, at Caen, Trouville, Rouen, etc., in pencil Hubbard 10s.
- 22 Eight small studies of vessels and boats in pencil Hixon 16s.
- 23 A heath scene, in bistre Colnaghi £1 11s. 6d.
- 24 Seven sketches of figures, in pen and ink Gibbs £1 1s.

Lot

- 25 Five studies of pea-fowls James £2 5s.
- 26 View of the town of Berne, with figures, bistre Colnaghi £2 5s.
- 27 Ann Page and Slender, vignette in bistre Pickering £2 18s.
- 28 An English landscape, in bistre
Hixon £1 4s.
- 29 Prospero and Ariel, sepia Pickering £3 13s. 6d.
- 30 A view on the Thames Colnaghi £2
- 31 A rough sea off a coast, with boats in distance Strutt £1 8s.
- 32 View of Lillebonne, sepia Colnaghi £2 6s.
- 33 View of the entrance of Le Havre, with boats and figures Gibbs £2 2s.
- 34 Views of the churches of St. Ouen, Jumièges, Lillebonne, and one other in Normandy, pencil sketches Houghton £1 15s.
- 35 View of the quay at Havre, and one at Honfleur, in pencil Houghton £1 6s.
- 36 View in the Harbour of La Ferté, with a cutter and other vessels, in black lead, on yellow paper Colnaghi 15s.
- 37 An owl, in black lead James £2 5s.
- 38 La Chapelle de St. Hay at Bruges—a beautiful pencil sketch
Colnaghi £1 8s.

PENCIL SKETCHES

- 39 Four pencil sketches of landscape
Molteno £1 15s.
- 40 Four ditto Molteno £1 18s.
- 41 Four ditto, a view of Salinette, etc.
Molteno £2 15s.
- 42 Four pencil sketches of French peasants Genl. Phipps £1 1s.
- 43 Five ditto, of French fishermen
Jones £1 5s.

LIST OF WORKS SOLD AS BY BONINGTON

Lot

- 44 Five ditto, of Swiss peasants, etc.
Phipps £1
- 45 The wreck—a sketch in pencil and Indian ink Phipps 5s.
- 46 An Academy figure, in black and white chalk on gray paper Col- naghi £1 5s.
- 47 Study of a figure in the picture of “the Lute” and one other in black chalk Gibbs 13s.
- 48 A female figure—an academy study in black and white chalk on drab paper Hixon £1 11s.
- 49 View of the windmill at Montmartre, in black chalk Strutt
15s.
- 50 Part of the Palais de Justice at Rouen, in black chalk on drab paper, and one other Colnaghi
£1 16s.
- 51 A sketch of French fishermen, in black and white chalk on drab paper Colnaghi £1 7s.
- 52 Ditto of French peasant girls, in red and white chalk Colnaghi
£2 6s.
- 53 View of the church at Dives, at Louviere, and one other, sketches in pencil Colnaghi £1 7s.
- 54 View of the Abbey at Graville, buildings at Dives, and one other—pencil sketches Col-
naghi £2 11s.
- 55 A subject from Quentin Durward,
in black lead Conant 12s.
- 56 A sea-shore with a wave breaking in among some piles, black and white chalk on drab paper
White 9s.
- 57 A sketch of figures of French sailors,
in black and red chalk Colnaghi
19s.
- 58 A sea-shore with a cart and figures,

Lot

- in black and white chalk on blue paper
- 59 Grotesque ornaments of a house at Beauvais, and two architectural ornaments of a church at Caen
Molteni 18s.
- 60 View of an old house at Caen, and of a church-tower at Gisors
Molteni 18s.
- 61 Views of Salinette and Honfleur, and one other, pencil sketches
Hixon 9s.
- 62 A pair of river scenes, in black lead on drab paper, and one other James £1 18s.
- 63 Views of Vache Noir, Trouville, and Ourticham, in black lead
Hixon 10s.
- 64 Five studies of French peasants, in black lead James £1 18s.
- 65 Five ditto Colnaghi £1 16s.
- 66 Two of French fishing boys, in black chalk on drab paper
Houghton £1 14s.
- 67 Two ditto, in black and red chalk Colnaghi £3
- 68 Five small studies of French peasants, in black lead Colnaghi
£1 10s.
- 69 View of the valley and church of Unterlaken, and a river scene, on drab paper Houghton £2
12s. 6d.
- 70 View of a tower near Unterlaken, a river scene, and a cat's head, on drab paper Colnaghi £1 10s.
- 71 View of the Grand Canal and the Rialto at Venice, with vessels and figures, in black lead Col-
naghi £4
- 72 A pair of coast views, in black and white chalk on drab paper Lord
N £2

Lot

- 73 Three studies of sea-shores, with shipping, on drab and blue paper Lord N £2 17s.
 74 VIEW OF THE GRAND CANAL AND THE RIALTO, VENICE, in black lead heightened with white—very carefully finished Molteno £8
 75 VIEW OF THE GRAND CANAL AT VENICE, with boats and figures—a beautiful drawing in black lead Colnaghi £6 6s.

END OF FIRST DAY'S SALE

SECOND DAY'S SALE

Lot DRAWINGS IN WATERCOLOUR

- 76 Study of a subject from the history of the Medici Sir C. G. 16s.
 77 A man in a punt angling White 7s.
 78 The companion—small White 11s.
 79 View at the mouth of a French river, with boats and figures Sir C. G. £3 6s.
 80 Sketch of a lady in Spanish dress Colnaghi 13s.
 81 View of the harbour of Honfleur, with boats and figures Sir C. G. £1 14s.
 82 French fishing boats, with figures at a jetty Hixon £2 4s.
 83 A road scene, with trees—upright Hixon 19s.
 84 View near Dover, with boats Houghton £2 6s.
 85 View of Mont Valerien, from the road to St. Cloud—small Molteno £3 15s.
 86 A sea-piece, with boats and figures on a pier head Sir C. G. £3 9s.
 87 View of the village of La Ferté, with the trunk of a tree in the foreground White £1 13s.
 88 A harbour scene with a ship moored near a stone jetty Heath £1 4s.

Lot

- 89 View of the village of La Ferté, with figures landing from a boat Hixon £1 9s.
 90 Old houses at Canterbury Sir C. G. £1
 91 Entrance to a château Molteno £5 5s.
 92 View of the harbour of Honfleur, with vessels and figures in the foreground La Neuville £4
 93 Casks and still life Sir C. G. £1 6s.
 94 Portrait of a lady, in crayons Hixon 13s.
 95 Fishing boats, with figures, at a pier Melville £1 12s.
 96 View at Honfleur White £1 2s.
 97 View of the cathedral, and town of Rouen, from the river, twilight Melville £4 4s.
 98 View on the coast, near Boulogne, with figures raising stone La Neuville £1 15s.
 99 An Italian landscape, with figures dancing Murtens £2 4s.
 100 A sea-shore, with buildings and a fishing boat in distance; evening Lord Ducie £6
 101 French fishing boats in harbour Colnaghi £5 6s.
 102 View of Rouen from the river, with a capital sunny effect Heath £2 4s.
 103 View in a valley in Switzerland, with mountainous distance, and figures making hay in the foreground Sibley £3 10s.
 104 The gateway of a cloister Colnaghi £1 4s.
 105 A French river-scene with a fishing boat—small upright Gibbs £1 13s.
 106 A study of two Swiss peasant girls, and one of horses and minute figures Molteno £6 10s.

LIST OF WORKS SOLD AS BY BONINGTON

- | Lot | | Lot | |
|------------|---|------------|---|
| 107 | Two studies of French fishing boys—full of character Molteni £46s. | 118 | A knight in armour with a lady and a fortune teller—full of character Hixon £7 |
| 108 | View on the Pont des Arts at Paris, with a capital effect of evening sun Rey £1 10s. | 119 | A KNIGHT ATTENDED BY TWO PAGES, at a table covered with yellow drapery—a capital drawing Colnaghi £38 17s. |
| 109 | Peasants with a cart and a grey horse, halting at the door of a village inn—admirably coloured in the manner of Isaac Ostade La Neuville £2 10s. | 120 | INTERIOR OF A CHURCH, with knights at their devotions, and three figures kneeling at the door—very rich in colour and effects the companion Colnaghi £31 |
| 110 | View on the coast near Dunkirk, with fishing and figures on the beach preparing to go out—with rich effect of evening sun Hixon £4 | 121 | Henry VIII with Wolsey receiving the Spanish envoy in armour—a brilliant little drawing Colnaghi £24 |
| 111 | View of Versailles from the gardens, a sketch Jones £1 8s. | 122 | The remonstrance, an old woman admonishing two children Colnaghi £21 |
| 112 | A watermill at Charenton, with trees on the bank of a river—treated with great effect Hixon £2 11s. | 123 | A SCENE FROM THE ANTIQUARY—a beautiful drawing Hixon £59 17s. |
| 113 | View of the cathedral of Dives, with a religious procession entering the gateway—a capital drawing Colnaghi £33 12s. | 124 | View of the Pont des Arts, Paris Robinson £6 6s. |
| 114 | VIEW OF A STREET, WITH THE CATHEDRAL OF ABBEVILLE, and numerous market figures, with a powerful effect of afternoon sun—a grand drawing Hixon £40 19s. | 125 | A sea-shore, with a fishing vessel drawn up on the beach, and a ship in the distance, with some figures to the left—a capital drawing Lord Ducie £16 5s. 6d. |
| 115 | A subject from the Arabian Nights , a Persian princess on an ottoman with an attendant at her feet—a capital finished drawing La Neuville £21 | 126 | A RIVER SCENE, WITH DUTCH FISHING BOATS, moored near a jetty—a brilliant and beautiful specimen Colnaghi £34 13s. |
| 116 | A view on the coast, with a fishing boat drawn up on the shore, and fishermen—illuminated with a brilliant effect of evening sun Colnaghi £8 15s. | 127 | View on the coast near Calais, with numerous fishing boats and figures—with a beautiful effect of evening sun Gen. Phipps £13 2s. 6d. |
| 117 | VIEW OF THE INSTITUT AT PARIS, with figures—a capital drawing Colnaghi £19 | 128 | A LANDSCAPE WITH A WAGGON descending a hill in a storm—this drawing has always been considered one of his finest productions Colnaghi £71 8s. |

BONINGTON

Lot PICTURES

- 129 Fishing smacks at anchor, a sketch
Colnaghi £2 6s.
- 130 A sea-shore with cliffs and buildings
Sibley £3 6s.
- 131 A harbour with vessels, sunset
Sibley £2 18s.
- 132 View near Venice, with vessels, sunset, a very clever slight sketch Sibley £2 4s.
- 133 A river scene with a wooden jetty and children in a boat Money
£3 3s.
- 134 View of the canal and the church of
St. Maria Maggiore, at Venice
Sibley & Colnaghi £2 4s.
- 135 Portrait of a Venetian Girl in a yellow dress Heath £1 1s.
- 136 View of the cathedral and town of Rouen, from the opposite side of the river, with admirable effect of sunset, a sketch Sibley
£1 10s.
- 137 View on the Seine near Rouen, with vessels and figures Robin- son £2 2s.
- 138 A view near Newhaven, with Beachy Head in the distance, and figures in the foreground—very powerfully painted Heath
£12 12s.
- 139 View of Rouen from the opposite side of the river, with blocks of stone under some trees on the quay Lord Normanton £10
10s.
- 140 A sea-shore with cliffs, and a brig
aground, and a man with two horses in the foreground Webb
£35 14s.
- 141 View of the Pont des Arts from the quay of the Louvre—a capital sketch Sibley £7 7s.

Lot

- 142 Fishermen with a donkey, on a flat shore, a village in the distance
Colnaghi £16 16s.
- 143 A view on the Seine with barges—
a beautiful effect of morning
Heath & Colnaghi £73 10s.
- 144 A sea piece with a schooner and a man-of-war in the distance; upright Heath £27 6s.
- 145 VIEW OF THE RIALTO AT VENICE, with vessels, gondolas, and figure —beautifully clear picture Webb
£12 12s.
- 146 A SUBJECT FROM QUENTIN DURWARD
—drawn with admirable character Webb £5 5s.
- 146 VIEW ON THE SEINE, with a barge and figures near a group of trees on the bank; evening scene—a beautiful picture Bought in
- 148 VIEW OF THE GRAND CANAL AT VENICE, looking up to the Rialto with vessels and figures—an exquisite picture Lord Normanton
£40 19s.
- 149 HENRY III OF FRANCE RECEIVING THE SPANISH ENVOY—the celebrated picture La Neuville £100
- 1836 SALES OF BONINGTON'S WORKS
Paris, 19th February Sale by Schroth
WATERCOLOUR
Mary Stuart leaving France
- 1836 SALE AT FOSTERS
(late Richard Bonington, sen.),
6th May
- Lot DRAWINGS
- 26 An Architectural Drawing, unfinished Colnaghi 15s.
- 27 Study of a Monk, watercolours
Bell 14s.

LIST OF WORKS SOLD AS BY BONINGTON

- | | |
|---|---|
| Lot 28 A Lady in a Spanish Dress Hoffland 16s. 29 The original sketch of Henry III of France for the celebrated picture Colnaghi 16s. 30 A Coast View, with Figures in black and white chalks, on grey paper Williams £1 19s. Bought in 31 A Coast View, in sepia Williams 15s. Bought in 32 Angler in a Boat, a charming little drawing Longman £1 4s. Bought in 33 Companion to ditto Longman £1 4s. Bought in 34 Fishing Boats near a Pier, in sepia Williams £1 10s. Bought in 35 Coast View near a Pier, with Vessels and Figures Marsden £2 2s. Bought in 36 Pere la Chaise, unfinished Mr Smyth 16s. 37 A View near Paris, Mont Calvaire in the distance Marsden £2 4s. Bought in 38 Queen Elizabeth's Entry into Kenilworth, by torchlight, from Sir Walter Scott Williams £2 10s. Bought in 39 A View of La Ferté, with Boats and Figures Colnaghi £4 10s. 40 A Landscape with Figures Williams £7 10s. Bought in 41 A Coast View with Men unloading a Boat, Vessels in the distance and Figures near a Fort to the left, in indian ink Marsden £1 17s. Bought in 42 A Subject from Gesner's Idyls Maling £1 8s. Bought in 43 A View of Dieppe Harbour, fine, sepia Marsden £2 15s. Bought in | Lot 44 Honfleur Harbour, with Vessels and Figures in the foreground Williams £2 Bought in 45 Boulogne Harbour, with Fishing Boats and Figures Maling £2 2s. 6d. Bought in 46 A Coast Scene, with Vessel and Figures on Shore Mrs Durant £4 10s. 47 A River Scene, with Dutch Fishing Boats Brooker & Sons £4 10s. 48 A Coast View near Calais, with many Fishing Boats and Figures, setting Sun Marsden £4 15s. Bought in 49 A Coast View at Sun-set, the last drawing made by R. P. Bonington Willding £6 16s. 6d. Bought in 50 The Drowned Fisherman, a masterly drawing, engraved Williams £7 17s. 6d. Bought in 51 Louis XI, Isabelle de Croye and Quentin Durward—from Sir W. Scott Maling £6 16s. 6d. Bought in PICTURES IN OIL 52 The Discovery of Gesner's Tomb, an academical study Williams £3 3s. Bought in 53 Jephtha and his Daughter £5 15s. 6d. Bought in 54 The Holy Maid of Kent; painted by the artist when sixteen years old Williams £2 Bought in 55 Elymas, the Sorcerer, struck with Blindness by the Apostle Paul; painted when only fourteen years old Williams £1 17s. 6d. Bought in 56 Christ preaching to his Disciples; an unfinished picture, after Rembrandt Marsden £2 2s. Bought in |
|---|---|

BONINGTON

Lot

- 57 A Head of the Magdalen, after Dominico Fetti Maling £1 11s. 6d. Bought in
- 58 An Historical subject Williams £1 16s. Bought in
- 59 The companion picture Williams £1 16s. Bought in
- 60 Head of an Italian; a study from Nature Marsden 18s. Bought in
- 61 A Portrait of a young Venetian Williams £2 10s. Bought in
- 62 The Stone Quarry near Boulogne. in watercolour Williams £2 10s. Bought in
- 63 Mill at Charenton, on the River Seine Long £2 Bought in
- 64 A View on the Seine, below Rouen; daybreak Williams £4 10s. Bought in
- 65 Coast Scene, near St. Valerie Maling £2 2s. Bought in
- 66 Quentin Durward with the rebellious Liégeois From Sir Walter Scott's novel This picture was the first of this subject painted by the artist—he made another for the Duchesse de Berri which has since been sold in London Williams £44 2s. Bought in
- 67 A View near Paris, with Figures Archbutt 45s. 3d.
- 68 A View near Newhaven, Beachy Head in the distance and Figures in the foreground Maling £36 15s. Bought in
- 69 A Scene in Normandy, near Dives, with Figures Marsden £60 18s. Bought in
- 70 A View on the Seine, with Boats and Figures; Sunset Williams £71 8s. Bought in
- 71 A View on the Seine, with Barges—

Morning Williams £73 10s. Bought in

The following Six Pictures and Water-colour Drawings are Copies made from the Works of R. P. Bonington, Esq., by his late Father:

Lot

- 72 Boulogne Harbour Longman £2 Bought in
- 73 Napoleon Manning £6 16s. 6d. Bought in
- 74 A Coast Scene, with Vessel on the Sands; after lot 46 Williams £2 10s. Bought in
- 75 A Coast View, the Effect of a Storm Maling £1 9s. Bought in
- 76 A Landscape, Haymaking; the Figures by R. P. Bonington Williams £1 8s. Bought in
- 77 A Marine View From a beautiful picture by R. P. Bonington, now in the possession of his mother Williams £4 10s. Bought in

1837 LEWIS BROWN SALE
17th and 18th April, Paris

Lot

WATERCOLOURS

- 1 The Antiquary £47 10s.
- 2 Interior of a Church at Venice £29 10s.
- 3 Terrace by the Sea; Genoa Light-house £28
- 4 Piazzetta and the Doge's Palace £33
- 5 The Rialto and the Grand Canal, Venice £32
- 6 Francis I visiting the sick Leonardo da Vinci £45
- 7 A Warrior standing by a table £20
- 8 Rouen from the Seine; sunrise £32
- 9 Castle and Bay of Genoa £14
- 10 Don Quixote in a chair, reading £35
- 11 London Bridge £12
- 12 Henry IV and the Spanish Ambassador £80

LIST OF WORKS SOLD AS BY BONINGTON

Lot		Lot
13	Mouth of the Thames, with Ship- ping £40	41	Castle of Chillon £1 11s. 6d.
14	Venetians in rich Costumes £20	42	On the banks of the Seine £5
15	Rough Sea £12 10s.	43	Disused Fishing smacks on the beach £1 11s. 6d.
16	The Remonstrance £20	44	Children gathering apples Sepia £4 2s.
17	Venice from the Sea £14	45	Landscape with a Gothic Church Steeple £1 15s.
18	Street in Florence, with figures £11 11s.	46	Sailors on the beach by a boat £7
19	Knights at Prayer £18 18s.	47	Landscape with a road, and a man with his back turned £1 15s.
20	Shipping in a calm sea; sunrise £30	48	Peasant Woman by the roadside, with a man Sepia £4 2s.
21	Landscape with ships and river £32	49	Fort Rouge, Calais Sepia £2
22	Market Place in Verona £20	50	Landscape with Trees by water Sepia £1 5s.
23	Rouen from St. Catherine's Hill; sunset £32	58	Fields at sunset £9
24	A Street in Abbeville £12	59	Calm sea and shipping; sunset £9 9s.
25	View at Boulogne, with figures £8	60	An Odalisque on a divan with musical instruments £44
26	Paris, near the Cours la Reine £9 9s.	61	Landscape with Castle; sunset £23 10s.
27	Castle of Chillon £9	62	An old man, seated, with a girl £14 8
28	A Ruin and a Tower £8	63	Le Havre; Fisherman furling sails £3 15s. 6d.
29	The Pont des Arts from the Tuiler- ies, with boats £10 10s.	64	Quentin Durward at Liege £4 8
30	Ship on a Canal; morning £3	65	Road with a Flemish Waggon; storm effect £45
31	Jetty at Honfleur, with boats £5	66	Sea shore with white cliffs and figures; low tide £104
32	View at Beauvais £4	67	Grand Canal, Venice £60
33	A Jetty; Fishermen with their nets £6 6s.	68	Young Woman, recumbent £24
34	A Lady and a Child with a Horse- man Sepia £6	69	The Rialto with figures £30
35	Coast at Falaise; ships in the fore- ground £1 10s.	70	Lady with a dog, attended by a negro and pages £44
36	A Road by a hillock, with figures Sepia £4 10s.	71	View at St. Omer £20
37	Swiss View; figures by a lake among mountains Sepia £16	72	Terrace of a House at Venice; a conservation £26
38	Street in Rouen with many figures £3 3s.	73	Ducal Palace, Venice, with ship- ping £15
39	Thun, with figures by a sailing ship £4 4s.	74	Lady seated, with a dog, attended by two girls £44
40	On the Seine; a barge, and a boat aground £4

BONINGTON

Lot		Lot
75	Lighthouse and Coast of Genoa £12	107	Faust and Mephistopheles Sepia Unfinished £5
76	Henry VIII seated on a dais, attended £15	108	Lady seated, and a Cavalier £5 5s.
77	River Scene; Mantes in the distance	109	Sea Piece with shipping £1 1s.
78	Turk Reposing £10	1837	CAPT. W. WEBB SALE 23rd and 24th May, Paris
79	A Heath; peasants in the fore- ground, mountains beyond £6 6s.	Lot
80	Portraits of two children £6 6s.	1	Grand Canal, Venice Fr. 5,005
81	View of Lillebonne £1 11s. 6d.	2	Fishmarket on the shore, Normandy Fr. 3,060
82	Reading the Bible £14 14s.	3	St. Valery sur Somme; shipping Fr. 4,400
83	Calm Sea; morning £3 3s.	4	Low Tide; ships in the water; sun- set Fr. 1,730
84	A Knight before a Lord and his Lady £15	5	Sea shore near Dieppe; peasants Fr. 1,270
85	Pile Driving £8	6	Francis I and Marguerite of Na- varre Fr. 1,505
86	Fish Market, on a beach £7 10s.	7	Shipping in the Canal at Calais; morning Fr. 1,115
87	Beach with shipping at low tide £18	8	Normandy Coast; peasants with fish; low tide Fr. 905
88	Seascape; an Italian view £17	9	Venice from the Grand Canal Fr. 212
89	Harbour with shipping £7	10	Normandy Coast; sunset Fr. 1,005
90	Road and two figures £12	11	Road across a plain, Calais Fr. 195
91	Canal in Venice £10 10s.	12	Dredging on the Seine, near Rouen Fr. 279
92	Coast scene with a town £4 4s.	13	Henry IV looking out of a window Fr. 166
93	The River at Hyères; a fisherman £2 10s.	14	Timber waggon skirting a wood Fr. 1001
94	Ship on a beach £2 10s.	15	Interior of a Church, Milan Fr. 210
95	Market Place, Verona, with figures Drawing £4 3s.	16	The Rialto Fr. 201
96	Lake of Brienz, with figures £10	17	Shipping on the Thames; morning
97	Gothic House at St. Germain £10 10s.	18	Street in Louvain Fr. 490
98	Sea shore at low tide Sepia £6	19	Honfleur port, shipping Fr. 170
99	Berne £5	20	Rialto and the Grand Canal Fr. 301
100	Dunkirk from the land Sepia £4 2s.	21	A Square in Rouen Fr. 905
101	View of Rouen Sepia £4
102	Cavalier and Lady; a staircase Sepia £4
103	View of Meudon Sepia £3 15s.
104	Piles on the sea; children £4 4s.
105	Sailors launching a boat £6
106	Normandy landscape near the sea £2

LIST OF WORKS SOLD AS BY BONINGTON

- | Lot | | Lot | |
|------------|--|------------|---|
| 22 | Canal scene, Venice; sunlight Fr.
359 | 1 | Peter the Hermit preaching to the Crusaders sketched by R. P.
Bonington, when fourteen years and a half old; also five other sketches of Battle Pieces and
Shipping, pen and ink 6 |
| 23 | A Waggon; effect of storm Fr. 205 | 2 | A district map of Nottingham, drawn at an early age, for the Election Committee in the Whig interest, very interesting and curious, and two smaller maps
3 Shirley 2s. |
| 24 | Rough Sea Fr. 64 | 3 | Early designs and sketches, pencil, pen and ink, and colours 9
Shirley 3s. |
| 25 | Coast Scene, near Nice | 4 | Academical Studies, pencil 9
Mawe 5s. |
| 26 | The Piazzetta | 5 | Two designs for pictures, and other Sketches, pencil, etc. 11 Col-
naghi 16s. |
| 27 | Greek Girl, standing Fr. 159 | 6 | Sketches and Studies, pencil 13
Colnaghi 13s. |
| 28 | Greek figure in costume; profile
Fr. 120 | 7 | Landscapes, pencil, sepia, etc. 13
Smith 14s. |
| 29 | Lago Maggiore Fr. 31 | 8 | Venetian and other Costume, pencil, spirited 10 Colnaghi 7s. |
| 30 | Road between mountains | 9 | Studies of figures, spirited, pen and ink 5 Colnaghi 11s. |
| 31 | Road to a group of trees | 10 | A sheet having thereon very many studies of Female Figures, Heads, etc., very spirited, pen and ink
1 Colnaghi £1 11s. |
| 32 | Town on the French Coast | 11 | Studies for Shylock, and Female Figures, on two sheets, very spirited, pen and ink 2 Col-
naghi 12s. |
| 33 | Shore at low tide | 12 | Portrait of a Lady, in three positions, pen and ink 3 Colnaghi
£1 1s. |
| 34 | Sea Coast and sand dunes Fr. 505 | 13 | Sketches of Female Heads, Heads of Monkeys, etc., pen and ink, very spirited 8 Colnaghi
£1 5s. |
| 35 | Waggon by a group of trees by a pond Fr. 485 | | |
| 36 | Landscape; Seapiece; tondi (2) Fr.
120 | | |
| 37 | Landscape; sunset Fr. 121 | | |
| 38 | View of mountains | | |
| 39 | Sand Dunes and the sea | | |
| 40 | View in Venice | | |
| 41 | View in Paris; unfinished Fr. 111 | | |
| 42 | Sea-piece; a distant town | | |
| 43 | Canal in Venice; a sketch | | |
| 44 | Marshland Fr. 300 | | |
| 45 | Mountain Valley; sunny effect | | |
| 46 | Cottage with trees Fr. 36 | | |
| 47 | Rouen; Sketch Fr. 15 | | |
| 48 | Sea Piece; distant town | | |
| 49 | A Chain of mountains Fr. 130 | | |
| 50 | Merchant Ships Fr. 53 | | |
| 51 | St. Marks Piazza; large unfinished picture | | |
| 52 | Portrait of the Old Governess Fr. 136 | | |
| 1838 | SOTHEY 10th February | | |
| | Sale following the death of Bonington's mother | | |
| | SKETCHES AND STUDIES, IN PEN AND INK, PENCIL, AND COLOURS | | |

Lot

- 14 Two designs for pictures, sepia Gateway, pencil, and Ancient Armour, chalk 4 Colnaghi £1 15s.
- 15 A Study for a picture, colours, and Sketch of Calais 2 Turner 9s.
- 16 Vessels at the Wharf, and Study for a Landscape 2 Mawe 14s.
- 17 An Album, containing upwards of Ninety Original Drawings, Studies and Sketches, in chalk and pencil, all by the late R. P. Bonington Colnaghi £7

FINISHED DRAWINGS, IN SEPIA, MOUNTED WITH GLASS

- 18 Robinson Crusoe, interesting as being the artist's first design, drawn at a very early age
- 19 Christ casting out the Money Changers, an original design at an early age
- 20 Queen Catherine, design from Shakespeare Turner 3s.
- 21 Another design from Shakespeare Colnaghi 16s.
- 22 The Finding of Gessner's Tomb
- 23 Storm coming on Wraught £2 2s.
- 24 St. Valery Holloway £1 7s.
- 25 Landscape, with sheep in foreground Holloway £2 2s.
- 26 Dieppe Harbour Colnaghi £1 5s.
- 27 View on the Rhine Colnaghi £2 4s.
- 28 Sea View, with fishing boats in foreground Palser 12s.
- 29 View on the Seine, Rouen in the distance Colnaghi £1 7s.
- 30 View on the Seine Turner £1 15s.
- 31 Fort Rouge, Calais Gore £2 16s.
- 32 The Drowned Fisherman Wraught £2 16s.
- 33 Landscape, with female figures in the foreground, and Abbeville in the distance White 8s.

Lot

- 34 A Study from Shakespeare Turner 10s.
- 35 Study for a Picture, two figures, Venetian Costume Colnaghi £1 14s.
- 36 Mary de Medicis and Louis the Thirteenth Dawkins £3 3s.
- 37 Faust and Mephistopheles Colnaghi £2
- 38 Sea Shore, sketch in chalk Gore 8s.
- 39 A Landscape with Water, pencil Wraught £1 16s.
- 40 Sea Shore, with Fishing Boats and Figures, in the foreground Mawe 5s.

FINISHED DRAWINGS IN WATER-COLOURS

(Some with Glasses, and others framed and glazed)

- 42 Scene from one of Sir Walter Scott's novels
- 43 An Interior, comprising a Family Party, with many Figures, an early drawing
- 44 View of the Harbour of Boulogne, with Figures raising stones, an early drawing
- 45 Sea View, with Figures and Fishing Boats in the foreground, an early drawing
- 46 Sea Shore, with many Figures in the foreground, and Shipping coming in and going out, an early drawing
- 47 View of St. Valery, on the French Coast, with Boats and Figures in the foreground, an early drawing
- 48 View of the Harbour at Harfleur, with Vessels and Figures, an early drawing
- 49 View on the Soane, unfinished Chambers £2 4s.

LIST OF WORKS SOLD AS BY BONINGTON

Lot

- 50 View of Paris, unfinished Palser £1
- 51 View in Switzerland Shirley 10s.
- 52 View of Havre Colnaghi £2 4s.
- 53 View of Rouen Shirley £4 10s.
- 54 Coast Scene, with Smugglers landing the goods Austin £6 6s.
- 55 View in Paris with many Figures
The late Mrs. Bonington was offered one hundred guineas for this specimen of her son's highly gifted talents Austin £27
This was the last drawing made by the artist
- 56 View of Venice, with Shipping in the foreground Colnaghi £11 10s.
- 57 Reading the Bible It was from this drawing that the Artist made his large picture Du Roviny £8 8s.
- 58 Louis XI, Isabelle de Croye, and Quintin Durward, from Sir Walter Scott Colnaghi £6 6s.
- 59 View on the Seine, in coloured chalks Colnaghi £1 6s.
- 59 Two Scrap Books, containing One Hundred and Fifteen Engravings in Lithography, from the works of R. P. Bonington, comprising those drawn on stone by himself in Paris—those published by Harding and others Mawe £6 1s.
- 60 Portrait of Napoleon, an admirably executed miniature, in colours, by Lecour This portrait was taken immediately after the return of Napoleon from Elba and is highly characteristic Edwards £2 2s.

WATERCOLOUR DRAWINGS BY VARIOUS ARTISTS

- 61 Grenier A soldier on the look out,

Lot

- and Turk and attendant, both sepia Colnaghi 11s.
- 62 Charlet A study, and a Battle Scene, by Gudin, both sepia Colnaghi 8s.
- 63 Joly Two sketches in sepia, a Sketch by Larom, and another Colnaghi 7s.
- 64 Cox, D. Shipping on the Dorset Coast Shirley £2 12s.
- 65 Mornier Shipping Beghe 7s.
- 66 Boys View on the French Coast Thompson £1 14s.
- 67 Holland View on the Medway Holloway £1 4s.
- 68 Vickers Shipping, St. Michael's Mount in the distance Rought £1 1s.
- 69 Parke Shipping Sir H. Harris £2 4s.
- 70 Stone Juliet W— £1 14s.
- 71 Stothard The Monk Ch— £15s.
- 72 Buchard Rebecca
- 73 Prout View on the Rhine Larpen £1 15s.
- 74 Brockedon View in Syria Larpen £1 15s.
- 75 Barrett Classical Landscape Shirley £1 18s.
- 76 Varley Pont Mer, Glass Lynn W— 15s.
- 77 Boys View near Rouen Holloway £1 17s. 10d.
- 78 Isabey Shipping Ackermann 19s.
- 79 Linton Classical Composition W— £1 5s.
- 80 Holland Woody Dell W— 15s.
- 81 Phillips Mountain Scenery W— 13s.
- 82 Dibdin View of Damascus Ackermann £1 10s.
- 83 Brockedon View of Syria W— £1 8s.

BONINGTON

Lot		Lot
84	Bentley Landscape Scenery W — £1 5s.	99	A Composition, early specimen P —
85	Cooke, elder View on the Kentish Coast W — £4 12s.	100	Jephtha and his Daughter, un- finished P —
86	Bentley Looking towards Folke- stone W — £1 6s.	101	A copy after Fetti Cash 12s.
87	Parke Shipping Ackermann £2 10s.	102	A Sketch for a Picture P —
COPIES FROM THE DRAWINGS OF R. P. BONINGTON MADE BY THE LATE MR.		103	Another Sketch P —
BONINGTON, SENIOR		104	Design from Macbeth P —
88	Three Figures in chalk, and three small drawings, in colours	105	Portrait of a Foreigner playing the Violin-cello Cash 8s.
88	Boats near a Pier, with Figures looking out, and the Bay of Naples	106	A Portrait P —
89	Sea View, with Figures and Fishing Boats in the foreground, copy of No. 45	107	Another Portrait Turner 11s.
89*	View near Boulogne, with Figures raising stone, copy of No. 44	108	Two Portraits of Venetians, studies Colnaghi 16s.
90	View of St. Valery, copy of No. 47	109	A Female in Venetian Costume, a study Colnaghi £1 6s.
90*	Sea View, Storm blowing up	110	The Artist with his Portfolio Turner 9s.
91	Sea Shore, with Fishing Boats and Figures, copy of No. 28	111	The Finding of Gessner's Tomb Palser 5s.
91*	The Drowned Fisherman, with the original	112	A Composition P —
92	Sea Shore, with Fishing Boats and Figures, copy of No. 46	113	The Water Mill Turner 8s.
93	Dieppe Harbour, copy of No. 26	114	Elizabeth and the Virgin Mary, after Rubens P —
94	Sea View, with Boats and Figures	115	A Landscape, unfinished Mawe 16s.
95	Coast Scene, with Smugglers, copy of No. 54	116	A Portrait, study after nature P —
96	Louis XI, etc., from Sir Walter Scott's novel of Quentin Dur- ward, copy of No. 58	117	The Raising of Lazarus, after Rem- brandt Turner 12s.
SKETCHES AND FINISHED PAINTINGS IN OIL BY R. P. BONINGTON		118	An Interior, with many Figures This picture was painted in March, 1818 It may therefore be considered as one of the earliest of the Artist's produc- tions in oil It has great merit Shellman £1
97	Two copies from French Historical Subjects, very early specimens P —	119	A small Landscape Palser £1 6s.
98	The Holy Maid of Kent, sketched 1818 P —	120	Sea View, two Figures in the fore- ground regarding the Body of the Drowned Sailor Colnaghi £9 10s.
		121	Lago Maggiore Laigmann £3 10s.

LIST OF WORKS SOLD AS BY BONINGTON

Lot

- 122 A View in Piedmont, Switzerland
Laigmann £7 10s.
- 123 A Landscape, with Figures in the foreground, Peveril Castle (?Pevensey) in the mid-distance, and Beachy Head in the background Laigmann £7 10s.
- 124 A View of Venice, with Vessels in the foreground Mawe £8
- 125 Portrait of a Favourite Dog, not varnished Mawe £4 14s.
6d.
- 126 View in Switzerland, River Scene with Bridge, Buildings, and Figures W— £7
- 127 View on the Seine, with Boats
W— £9 9s.
- 128 Quentin Durward The original from which the large picture was taken W— £9
- 129 An outline in pencil for a Picture, on canvas Chambers 2s. 6d.

DRAWINGS AND PAINTINGS BY THE LATE MR. BONINGTON, SENIOR

- 129 Two Portraits, and three others
Nichols 5s. 6d.
- 130 Four Landscapes, in colours, and two, in indian ink Nichols 6s.
- 131 Six small Landscapes, in colours
Prier 2s.
- 132 Two Landscapes, in oil P—
- 133 Another P—
- 134 Study of Fruit R. Palser 5s.
- 135 A Group of Birds, by Boucher
Marchant 13s.
- 136 The Colour Box, formerly the property of R. P. Bonington, containing many colours, brushes, and other necessary instruments for drawing Mawe £1 12s.
- 137 Two boxes with various coloured chalks Mawe 5s.
- 138 Two drawing Boards Mawe 7s.

Lot

- 139 Sundry frames for pictures Marchant £2
- 140 Others Palser 18s.

1839 B(ROWN) SALE
(Paris, Pierret), 12th, 13th March
OILS

- Francis I and Diane de Poitiers
Cottage and trees by a stream
WATERCOLOURS AND DRAWINGS
Cows in a meadow
Sea Piece; Early Period
Ships entering a harbour
Fisherman preparing his nets
Sea Piece; women carrying fish
Ship returning to harbour Ship at anchor; sunset
Fishing boats in a squall
St. Valerie; fishermen on the shore
Women carrying fish
Entrance to Dunkirk Harbour
Sea Piece; rising tide
Coast scene; unloading a ship;
woman with a horse
The Seine near Mantes; sunset
Mill by a road in a plain Sepia
Pont des Arts and Notre Dame; sunrise Montmorency
Waterfall in Switzerland
Road to a village in a plain River and trees; sunrise Equestrian Statue of Colleoni, Venice
The Mausoleum, Venice
Market Place, Bologna
View at Ferrara
Market Place at Verona
The Rialto, Venice
View at Beauvais
Ducal Palace, Venice, and the Piazzetta, with figures
A Girl playing with a doll, at a table

The Father and his Prodigal Son
Francis I in bed receives Charles V
Cavalier with his children Fr. 450
Venetian Lord attended

LANEUVILLE SALE 19th April

An Odalisque reclining, with a female attendant, and a man

1843 BROWN SALE Paris

Lot

- 1 A Vault Fr. 225
- 2 Coast scene; stranded boat Fr. 121
- 3 River scene; sailing ships Fr. 160
- 4 Man reading at a table Fr. 145
- 5 Three figures at a table Fr. 400
- 6 Sea piece; a storm Fr. 110
- 7 Dutch Family approaching a castle
Fr. 360
- 8 The Seine near Mantes, with boats
- 9 Grand Staircase of a French Château
Fr. 330
- 10 Fishing Boats; dead calm Fr. 600
- 11 The Invalid Fr. 410
- 11 Mountain Torrent Fr. 360
- 12 Ducal Palace, Venice, with figures
Fr. 1,000
- 13 On a Balcony, Venice Fr. 370
- 14 Trees by a river Fr. 330
- 15 Interior; two figures and a child by a window Fr. 920
- 16 Mother and Child at Prayer Fr. 300
- 17 Landscape and a waggon drawn by three horses Fr. 810
- 18 The Conservation Fr. 1,015
- 19 A Canal in England; fisherman and sailing ship Fr. 330
- 20 Rouen; the Seine with shipping
Fr. 760
- 21 Turk seated on a divan Fr. 550
- 22 Landscape; sunset Fr. 205
- 23 Renaissance House, with peasants
Fr. 150
- 24 Group of people, richly clad Fr. 205

1846 PERIER SALE Paris

The White Odalisque Fr. 3,000
Odalisque in a yellow dress Fr. 2,020
Odalisque by a Palm Tree Fr. 1,000
The Window Fr. 900
Promenade in Venice Fr. 925
The Romanstrance Fr. 45
Venetian Girl Fr. 1,005
The Torrent Fr. 300

1849 MOSSERMANN SALE Paris

Francis I and the Duchess d'Etampes Fr. 6,700
Odalisque under a Palm Tree Fr. 780

1852 UTTERSON SALE

(Sotheby), 3rd May

Church in Normandy
Two figures on a Terrace
Figures in Armour, kneeling

1853 DEMIDOFF SALE

View of Rouen Agnew Fr. 4,550
Market Place at Boulogne Fr. 3,680
Interior of a Church Fr. 4,150
Sea shore at low tide Fr. 8,780
Quentin Durward Fr. 5,150
The Antiquary Fr. 5,100
The Old Man Fr. 9,100

DUCHESSE D'ORLEANS SALE
Paris

The Page and the Lady (Anne Page and Slender) 45 × 37 cm. Fr. 8,200

1855 BARROILHET SALE Paris

Environs of Quillebeuf Fr. 1,500
BARON C. DE VEZE SALE

Lot

96 Castle of Fenelon in Perigord
Watercolour

LIST OF WORKS SOLD AS BY BONINGTON

Lot

- 97 Caricatures, portraits and landscapes; pen, chalk, and water-colour (5)
- 1856 J. CLAYE SALE Paris
Coast of Normandy Fr. 300
Sea Shore; sun after storm Fr. 400
- 1859 X SALE Paris
Elizabeth and Leicester Water-colour Fr. 270
The Carnival at Venice Water-colour Fr. 290
The Departure Sepia Fr. 53
- 1860 LORD HENRY SEYMOUR SALE
13th February, Paris
WATERCOLOURS
View on the Loire 1825 Hulot Fr. 1,500
A Young Woman reading a Letter 1827 Laboureau Fr. 1,390
The Messenger Fr. 1,050
Quentin Durward, wounded, and the Princesse de Croy 1824 Fr. 480
The Toilet Laboureau Fr. 2,480
Venetian scene; a man and two girls making music Laboureau Fr. 1,290
- OILS
On the Seine 29 × 44 cm. Laboureau Fr. 250
Cottage at the edge of a Wood; sketch Fr. 300
Street in Rouen 54 × 24 cm. Laboureau Fr. 6,000
Two oval landscapes Fr. 705
Henry. III receiving the Spanish Ambassador Laboureau Fr. 49,000
Coast Scene 15 × 26 cm. Fr. 280
Ditto 15 × 26 cm. Fr. 325
Landscape 15 × 20 cm. Fr. 275
- Sea Piece 15 × 20 cm. Fr. 420
Ditto 15 × 20 cm. Fr. 380
ACHINTO SALE Paris
View of the Piazza San Marco and the Doge's Palace Watercolour Fr. 1,600
- 1864 F.V. COLLECTION SALE Paris
Portrait of Bonington, ?by Newton Fielding Fr. 51
- Lot*
1 Little Fishermen Fr. 121
2 Landscape; a peasant with a bundle talking to an old woman 1826 Sepia Fr. 162
3 Marché des Prouvaires, Paris Fr. 155
4 Landscape; a waggon with two horses Fr. 505
5 Old House in the Rue Ste. Veronique, Beauvais Fr. 400
6 Landscape; sheep, a brook and a cow; sunset
7 Colleoni Statue, Venice Fr. 1,020
8 A Woman and two daughters; costume of Louis XIII Fr. 1,165
- 1865 POURTALES SALE Paris
Sea Shore at low tide; waggon and two horses 36 × 50 cm. Fr. 6,500
Interior; a man by a window Fr. 240
- 1867 DUC DE FELTRE SALE
May, Paris
Sea Piece; calm weather Water-colour
Sailors dancing by the sea Sepia
The Cornfield Watercolour
- 1868 HENRI DIDIER SALE Paris
River Bank 41 × 58 cm. Fr. 4,200

- Landscape 26 × 39 cm. Fr. 460
 Sea Shore at low tide 16 × 27 cm.
Fr. 260
 Francis I in Spain 31 × 40 cm.
Fr. 205
- 1869 DELESSERT SALE Paris
 Francis I and Marguerite of Navarre
 46 × 33 cm. Fr. 31,000
- 1870 SAN DONATO SALE Paris
February
 Henry IV and the Spanish Ambasador Fr. 83,000
MICHAEL YAKOUNTSCHIKOFF
SALE April
 The Road
- 1872 MICHAEL DE TRETТАIGNE
SALE
19th February, Paris
 Seine at Rouen Panel 9 × 12 cm.
Fr. 1,000
CH. FORGET SALE
 Valley of the Arno Millboard 45
 × 32 cm.
 Marguerite and Faust Sepia
 Banks of the Seine at Rouen Water-colour
ETIENNE ARAGO SALE
 Garden of Versailles 53 × 53 cm.
Fr. 3,050
 Cavaliers and a Lady at a Mansion
Fr. 185
JAMES TURLING SALE (Christie)
 Wooded Landscape £28
GILLOT SALE 19th April
 Landscape with a Timber Waggon
 20" × 38" £520
 Landscape with a woman and a horse £210
 View on the Seine £315
- 1873 D. WILSON SALE (Christie)
- Entrance to the Village of Caudebec
 11" × 9" £80
MARQUESS OF HARCOURT
SALE 4th April
 A Sea Port £630
CH. FORGET SALE
17th March, Paris
 Valley of the Arno with the Apen-nines 45 × 32 cm. millboard
Fr. 1,000
 Marguerite and Faust Sepia
 Bank of the Seine, near Rouen
 Watercolour
VAN ELVEN SALE
 Scotsman at Prayer Watercolour
 23 × 16 cm. Fr. 1,500
 Nobleman escorting a lady 15 × 10
 cm. Fr. 155
- 1874 X SALE 1st April, Paris
 Portrait of a Cardinal Fr. 1,000
- 1875 MENDEL SALE (Christie)
23rd April
 Château on the French Coast 14½"
 × 24½" £483
WOOLNER SALE (Christie)
 Palace of Prince Maffei, Verona
 £199 10s.
 An old Water Mill £315
 "Souvent femme varie, bien fol", etc £231
- 1876 SOUTZO SALE Paris
 Frieze at Windsor Castle Water-colour Fr. 660
 Fruit on a tablecloth Pastel Fr.
107
- 1878 H. A. J. MONRO (NOVAR)
SALE (Christie) 6th April
Lot
 1 Normandy Coast, with children
 9½" × 12½" £420

LIST OF WORKS SOLD AS BY BONINGTON

- Lot*
- 2 French Coast, with two figures
10½" × 14" £210
- 3 Fish Market, Boulogne 31" × 47"
Agnew £3,150
- 4 Grand Canal, Venice 40" × 52"
Agnew £3,150
- 1880 MAHERAULT SALE Paris
Portrait of Gaudefroy Watercolour
Fr. 20
J. W. WILSON SALE March
Low Tide 30 × 42 cm. Fr. 1,900
EDWARDS SALE
Entrance to a village 28 × 28 cm.
(St. Aignan) Fr. 2,000
Landscape 33 × 55 cm. Vannier
Fr. 3,800
- 1882 L. FLAMENG SALE Paris
The Old Governess Fr. 4,900
GIGOUX SALE
Scottish Peasant leaning on a stick
Watercolour Charras Fr. 80
Sea Pieces with fishing boats Watercolours (2) Fr. 90
Renaissance House near the Ricotte
Gate at Besançon Pencil Fr. 80
- 1883 SABATIE SALE Paris
Sea Piece Fr. 380
MARMONTELE SALE
Sea Piece 9 × 15½ cm. Fr. 30
Scottish Fishermen Fr. 120
BARON DE BEURNOUVILLE
SALE 22nd May
Louis XIV receiving the Prince de
Condé 45 × 58 cm.
Landscape on the Sea Coast 22 ×
34 cm.
The Minister's Room Interior 27
× 35 cm.
The Waterfall Watercolour
- 1884 X SALE 24th March, Paris
Sea shore, Normandy Fr. 15,100
- 1885 BARON DE BEURNOUVILLE
SALE Paris
Rising Tide Drawing Fr. 265
- 1886 CHRISTIE
Low tide on the French Coast 17" ×
21" £472 10s.
- 1888 GOLDSCHMIDT SALE (Christie)
The Road 33 × 44 cm. From the Yakountschikoff Sale Fr. 4,300
- 1889 SECRETAN SALE 1st July, Paris
Low Tide 64 × 96 cm. Agnew Fr.
29,000
COUTAN-HAUGUET SALE
The Love Letter 1827 Fr. 1,325
The Odalisque Watercolour M.
Levy Fr. 955
Visit to the Sick Lady 1826 Water-
colour Fr. 605
Despair Sepia Wauters Fr. 175
Poor People at a Church Door
Watercolour Fr. 140
Subject from Peveril of the Peak Fr.
280
Douglas and the Duke of Albany
Sepia M. Levy Fr. 235
Raphael painting Jeanne of Aragon
Sepia M. Levy Fr. 185
Side Entrance of Notre Dame,
Rouen Sepia and watercolour
Fr. 210
The Dogana and the Salute Church
Pencil Fr. 125
Riva degli Schiavoni Pen Fr. 72
- 1890 DIETERLE SALE Paris
Portrait of a Prelate Sepia Fr. 220
BARLOW SALE (Christie)
22nd March

Coast Scene, Normandy $23\frac{1}{2}" \times 32\frac{1}{2}"$ £1,018 10s.

1892 BARON MOURRE SALE

27th March, Paris

Marine Landscape; signed on a sail to left 21×26 cm.

MARTIN SALE 7th April

Cardinal seated with a letter in his hand

HULOT SALE 9th May

Melody A woman in blue and white under a red canopy, with a guitar 33×25 cm. Fr. 1,450

The Park; two women resting in foreground 37×35 cm. Fr. 420

Landscape 23×37 cm. Fr. 1,350

1893 MURRIETTA SALE (Christie)

6th February

Piazzetta, Venice £204 15s.

MME. DENAIN SALE

April, Paris

Banks of a River; two horses by the shore Fr. 17,500

1894 EMIL BARRE SALE Paris

Street in an Italian Village 48×34 cm. Fr. 420

1895 PAUL MANTZ SALE Paris

Sea shore 32×40 cm. Fr. 510

J. PRICE SALE (Christie) 15th June

Pont des Arts, with Notre Dame Panel $13\frac{1}{2}" \times 17\frac{1}{2}"$ £367 10s.

Near Boulogne; sandy road over a common $12\frac{3}{8}" \times 17"$ £367

Les Amoureux; shepherd and shepherdess $12\frac{1}{2}" \times 15\frac{3}{4}"$ £1,818

1896 X SALE 25th February, Paris

Anne of Austria and Mazarin

MARMONTEL SALE

Sea Piece Watercolour $9 \times 15\frac{1}{2}$ cm.

Scottish Fishermen Watercolour

1898 RANKIN SALE (Christie)

View on the French Coast $23" \times 32"$ £1,050

KUMS SALE Antwerp

Devotion 46×38 cm. £80

CASIMIR PERIER SALE Paris

Lady and Gentleman with two children Watercolour M. Levy Fr. 640

Interior Old Woman seated talking to two children Watercolour Turner Fr. 400

WILLIAM STEWART SALE

New York

View of Old Paris Watercolour £75

JULES MICHELIN SALE Paris

Waggon on a road; distant town Sepia Fr. 320

1899 H. H. BLAHERLE SALE

New York

View on the English Coast £170

MIEVILLE SALE (Christie)

Sunny Landscape $21" \times 16\frac{1}{2}"$ Sir John Fowler, Bt. £323

Coast of Normandy $25\frac{1}{2}" \times 38\frac{1}{2}"$ £1,785

View on the French Coast $12\frac{1}{4}" \times 16\frac{1}{2}"$ £315

Francis I and Diane de Poitiers $9\frac{7}{8}" \times 7\frac{1}{2}"$ £830

SAWERLET SALE

Windmill by the Sea $28\frac{3}{4}" \times 23\frac{3}{8}"$ £168

X SALE Munich

Landscape with a viaduct 26×34 cm. £75

Storm on a sea coast 26×34 cm. £15 10s.

LIST OF WORKS SOLD AS BY BONINGTON

- 1900 S—SALE 31st March, Paris
 The Promenade 38 × 27 cm. Fr.
 450
- 1901 HENRI LACROIX SALE Paris
 Environs of Brighton
 Milton and his Daughters
- 1904 BARONESS DE H. SALE Paris
 View of Venice Watercolour 23 ×
 33 cm.
- 1905 COMTE DE R—SALE Paris
 Henrietta of France after Vandyck
 61 × 53 cm.
- 1907 CHARLES SEDELMAYER SALE
16th–18th May, Paris
 Louis XIV and Marie Mancini 44
 × 54 cm.
 Francis I and Charles V Panel 34
 × 44 cm.
 The Page 1825 50 × 36 cm.
 The Siesta 46 × 39 cm.
 Devotion 45 × 37 cm.
 View of Caen 38 × 55 cm.
 Arrival of a Fishing Boat 1826 65.5
 × 81 cm.
 Castle of Falaise 50 × 79 cm.
 Environs of Dunkirk 27.5 × 44.5
 cm.
 Landscape Panel 27 × 44 cm.
 Sea Coast 30 × 39.5 cm.
 Sea Piece 31.5 × 45 cm.
 Sea Piece 30.5 × 44 cm.
 Small Shore Scene Panel 20 × 30
 cm.
- 1908 THOMAS MACLEAN SALE
(Christie's) 18th January
 The Highway 13½" × 17½" Coke
 £35 14s.
 Italian Bay, with buildings and figures 6" × 9" Leger £7 17s. 6d.
- Figures on a Terrace 14" × 10½"
Permain £12 12s.
 Paris with the Seine and Notre Dame 9½" × 13"
 Figures in period costume Water-colour
HUMPHREY ROBERTS SALE
 On the Coast of Normandy 8½" ×
 12½" Gooden & Fox £73 10s.
 Calm Sea with Shipping 13½" ×
 9½" Permain £94 10s.
 Coast Scene with fisherfolk and ponies 13½" × 17½" Agnew
 £105
 The Waggon Watercolour 8½" ×
 10¾" Agnew £210
 Les Rivières de la Forth 5½" × 8½"
Eyles £25 14s.
STEPHEN G. HOLLAND SALE
(Christie's) Fécamp Panel 8½" × 13½" Pat- erson £252
 Coast Scene Watercolour 7" × 9½"
Vokins £210
 Quai du Louvre 1828 Water-colour 5¾" × 8¾" Agnew £231
 Dover? Watercolour 5¼" × 9"
Agnew £99 15s.
 The Undercliff 1828 Watercolour
 5" × 8½" Agnew £115 10s.
 Boulogne Watercolour 5" × 7"
Gooden & Fox £27 6s.
 Death of Francis I Watercolour
 5¼" × 6¾" Agnew £42
 Coast Scene with Jetty Water-colour 3¼" × 4½" Agnew £29 8s.
- 1909 R. G. BEHRENS' SALE (Christie's)
 Coast Scene 8" × 13" Woodward
 £78 15s.
 French Coast Scene 14" × 19"
Agnew £14 14s.
 Meditation and a sketch A. Smith
 £10 10s.

- Venetian Canal Scene $4\frac{1}{2}" \times 6\frac{1}{2}"$ Lot
C. Davis £10 10s.
SIR JOHN D. MILLBURN,
BART., SALE 10th-11th June
- Boats at anchor off Venice $12\frac{1}{4}" \times 16\frac{1}{2}"$ Mulin £11 11s.
HOLBROOK GASKELL SALE
24th-25th June
- Interior of a French Fisherman's cottage $20\frac{1}{2}" \times 26"$ Agnew £39 18s.
2nd July
- On the French Coast; low tide $14\frac{1}{2}" \times 20\frac{1}{2}"$ Permain £162
SIR W. QUILTER SALE 9th July
- Town on a River Watercolour $10" \times 7\frac{3}{4}"$ Agnew £21
 Grand Canal, Venice $8\frac{1}{4}" \times 11\frac{1}{2}"$ Wallis £378
- 1910 J. E. FORDHAM SALE (Christie's)
9th April
 Album with 13 drawings Proper
£1 18s.
ABEL BUCKLEY SALE 27th May
 Sandy Bed of a River Watercolour $5\frac{1}{2}" \times 9\frac{1}{2}"$ Agnew £94 10s.
SIR THEODORE MARTIN SALE
17th December
 Coast Scene; low tide $12" \times 15\frac{3}{4}"$ Paterson £120 15s.
- 1911 LORD RONALD SUTHERLAND GOWER SALE (Christie's)
28th January
- Lot*
- 32 Street Scene in Verona $23" \times 16\frac{1}{2}"$ Gooden & Fox £220 10s.
SIR JOHN GRAY HILL SALE (Christie's) 11th February
- 118 Straw-barges off Margate Panel $12\frac{1}{2}" \times 25\frac{1}{2}"$ Beckendorff £5 5s.
SIR THEODORE MARTIN SALE (Christie's) 20th February
- 29 View at Venice, with shipping at anchor $7" \times 6\frac{1}{2}"$ Gooden & Fox £73 10s.
A. SMITH SALE (Christie's) 13th March
- 4 Beach Scene and fisherfolk $5\frac{3}{4}" \times 8\frac{1}{2}"$ Drawing Carfax £13 13s.
CHARLES T. JACOBY SALE (Christie's) 20th March
- 54 Street in Cairo; the tired huntsman Lister £3 15s.
ISAAC SMITH SALE (Christie's) 15th May
- 6 Beach Scene, with stranded boats and figures $4\frac{1}{2}" \times 8\frac{1}{2}"$ Drawing Shepherd £13 13s.
SIR WILLIAM AGNEW SALE (Christie's) 19th May
- 39 Coast scene, with boats and figures; Sunset $11\frac{1}{4}" \times 15\frac{3}{4}"$ Ward £17 17s.
CHARLES BUTLER SALE (Christie's) 7th July
- 22 View in Normandy, with timber waggons and figures by a pool $16" \times 22\frac{3}{4}"$ Leggatt £13 13s.
- 1912 MME. ROUSSEL SALE
25th March, Paris
 Entrance to the Rue Royale
LESSER LESSER SALE (Christie's) 10th February
- Lot*
- 20 Beach scene, with fisherwomen and fish, on the Boulogne coast $26" \times 39\frac{1}{2}"$ Prideaux £178 10s.
EDMUND ATKINSON SALE (Christie's) 9th March
- 7 Rouen, from the Catherine Hill $5\frac{1}{4}" \times 8\frac{1}{2}"$ Drawing Leggatt £32 11s.
G. N. STEVENS SALE (Christie's) 14th June

LIST OF WORKS SOLD AS BY BONINGTON

- | | |
|---|--|
| Lot 71 Palais de Justice and S. Patrice, Rouen Pair Panel 7" × 4$\frac{3}{4}$"
Permain £52 10s.
JOHN EDWARD TAYLOR SALE
(Christie's) 5th and 8th July 178 Street scene with high tower and figures 7$\frac{1}{2}$" × 4$\frac{3}{4}$" Drawing Agnew £162 15s.
MAURICE LYONS SALE (Sotheby)
8th July 61 Scene on the sea shore, with cart and figures 17" × 24" Signed
Thomas £4 1913 W. J. THOMSON SALE
(Christie's) 24th January Lot 87 Francis I and his sister 14$\frac{1}{2}$" ×
11$\frac{1}{2}$" Percy £17 17s.
GEORGE SMITH SALE (Christie's)
24th February 39 The Rialto, Venice Drawing
Palser £12 1s. 6d.
T. WOOLNER SALE (Sotheby)
12th March 92 The Timber Waggon, with engraving by Chas. Lewis 26" × 38"
Morrison £190 106 Castle Stalker on the Clyde 13" × 21" Parker £16 111 Venice 13" × 9$\frac{1}{2}$" Yachts in a gale 12" × 17" Woolner £4 10s. 114 Beachy Head 7$\frac{3}{4}$" × 5$\frac{3}{4}$" Sepia drawing Morrison £2
FREDERICK NETTLEFOLD
SALE (Christie's) 5th and 6th
June 64 The Timber Waggon 25$\frac{1}{4}$" × 30"
Paterson £65 1
SIR JOHN E. A. MURRAY-
SCOTT, BART., SALE
(Christie's) 27th June | Lot 1 The Doge's Palace, Venice, from the Piazzetta 7$\frac{1}{2}$" × 9$\frac{1}{2}$" Drawing Agnew £420 2 The Staircase 7$\frac{3}{4}$" × 6" Drawing Arnold & Tripp £73 10s. 3 Landscape with peasants returning from market; Sunset 6" × 8"
Drawing Agnew £168 50 Toilet of Venus 10$\frac{1}{4}$" × 7" Tooth
£14 51 Francis I and Margaret of Navarre
Panel 6$\frac{1}{4}$" × 5$\frac{1}{2}$" Tooth £46 4s.
LORD JOICY SALE (Christie's)
4th July 3 Evening; Coast of Normandy 12"
× 17" Drawing Muller £84
LORD HOLDEN SALE (Christie's)
18th July 31 French town on a canal 23$\frac{1}{2}$" × 19$\frac{1}{2}$" Evans £39 18s.
J. H. FITZHENRY 21st November 10 La Grande Palace, Bayonne 9" × 6" Sampson £14 14s. 30 Beach scene with stranded boat and figures, and another Permain £4
14s. 6d.
J. M. LAWRENCE SALE (Christie's) 27th and 28th November 227 View in the Jura mountains with figures in a wood 7$\frac{3}{4}$" × 10"
Drawing Mason £29 8s. 238 Beach scenes with stranded boats and figures Pair Panels 6$\frac{1}{2}$" × 11$\frac{1}{2}$" Willis £18 18s. 228 View in Burgundy with a peasant seated at a stream 6$\frac{1}{2}$" × 9$\frac{1}{2}$"
Drawing Mason £21 1914 SIR CHARLES ROBINSON
SALE (Christie's) Lot 66 The Luxembourg Gardens Water-colour 3" × 5$\frac{1}{4}$" Leggatt £12 12s. |
|---|--|

- Lot*
 114 Coast scene (and two others) $8\frac{3}{8}"$ $\times 11\frac{1}{8}"$
 55 Environs de Dieppe Oil $9\frac{1}{4}"$ \times $12\frac{1}{2}"$ Agnew £504
 C. E. NEWTON-ROBINSON
 SALE (Christie's) 6th April 3 Studies of landscape, etc., 11 on 8 mounts (with drawings by others) Pencil McClean £2
 15s.
 MRS. SARAH BARCLAY SALE
 (Christie's) 4th May
 26 The staircase $7\frac{3}{4}"$ \times $5\frac{1}{2}"$ Drawing Squire £19 19s.
 27 On the Thames, near Windsor
 $5\frac{1}{4}"$ \times $8\frac{1}{4}"$ Sepia Palser £2 2s.
 1915 G. WILLIAM DETTER SALE
 (Christie's) 30th April
Lot
 18 Henry IV receiving the Spanish
 Ambassador $9\frac{1}{2}"$ \times $12"$ Drawing T. Gromer £3 3s.
 H. W. B. DAVIES, R.A., SALE
 (Christie's) 18th June
 150 The boudoir; and another by Cox
 Drawing Walker £23 2s.
 LEWIS H. SAMUEL SALE
 (Christie's) 16th July
 104 Boats becalmed $6\frac{1}{4}"$ \times $9\frac{3}{4}"$ Drawing Sampson £5 5s.
 REV. A. E. CLEMENTI-SMITH
 SALE (Christie's) 3rd December
 29 Low tide $19\frac{1}{4}"$ \times $29"$ Cooling
 £21
 1916 RED CROSS SALE (Presented by T.
 Humphrey Ward), 6th-29th April
Lot
 1368 Near Beachy Head $11\frac{1}{2}"$ \times $16"$
 Cox £4 14s. 6d.
 THOMAS JAMES BARRATT
 SALE 11th and 12th May
- Lot*
 28 A church in Rouen $23"$ \times $17\frac{1}{4}"$
 Beecham £33 12s.
 204 View in Brittany, with buildings, boats and washerwomen $12"$ \times $16"$ A. H. Smith £11 11s.
 CHRISTIE'S 4th February
 21 River Scene; The Thames near St.
 Paul's; Stream with angler;
 Mountain Lake Paterson £24 3s.
 1917 SIR FRANCIS SEYMOUR
 HADEN SALE (Christie's)
 26th February
Lot
 141 Greenwich Hospital $10\frac{1}{4}"$ \times $14\frac{1}{2}"$
 Drawing Permain £57 15s.
 CONSTANTINE POLITACHI
 SALE (Christie's) 9th March
 7 Sea coast, Normandy $4\frac{1}{2}"$ \times $7"$
 Agnew £42
 DAVID JARDINE SALE (Christie's)
 16th March
 3 River scene, with shipping, bridge and sheds 1823 $8\frac{1}{2}"$ \times $12"$
 Drawing Currie £44 2s.
 SIR J. BEECHAM (Christie's)
 3rd May
 3 Paris; View on the Seine, with towers of Notre Dame $41"$ \times
 $68"$ Arnold £546
 4 The old Mill, thatched house, ferry boat and figures left $25"$ \times $22"$
 F. Partridge £525
 C. W. LEA SALE (Christie's)
 11th May
 49 French coast scene with cart, figures and stranded boat $15\frac{1}{2}"$ \times $26\frac{1}{2}"$ Lord £10 10s.
 CHRISTOPHER C. TOWER SALE
 (Christie's) 1st June
 1 The chalk pit; and a coast scene by Francia 2 in one frame, drawings Willey £6 6s.

LIST OF WORKS SOLD AS BY BONINGTON

- Lot*
 4 The Old Mill Partridge £525
 WILLIAM COOKE SALE
 (Christie's) 8th June
 5 A Bay, with figures and boats
 Drawing $6\frac{3}{4}" \times 9\frac{1}{4}"$
 22nd June
 79 On the Banks of the Somme Oil
 Wallis £105
 JAMES GRESHAM SALE
 (Christie's) 12th July
 4 Venice Drawing $7" \times 6\frac{3}{4}"$
 Gooden & Fox £141 15s.
 S. WILLSON 18th June
 2 View in a coast, with bathing machines $4\frac{3}{4}" \times 10"$ Drawing
 Permain £33 3s.
 284 Boulogne $5" \times 7"$ Drawing (Stephen G. Holland's Coll., 1908) Andain £11 11s.
- 1918 FREDERICK RELFE SALE
 (Christie's) 6th May
- Lot*
 61 Street scene, Normandy $26" \times 20"$
 Joseph & Lewis £14 14s.
 WILLIAM FRANCIS DARNELL
 SALE (Christie's) 12th July
 2 Figures in a courtyard; and Figures on a terrace Pair $9" \times 6\frac{1}{2}"$
 Drawing Robinson £12 12s.
- 1919 W. E. S. ERLE-DRAX SALE
 (Christie's) 21st March
- Lot*
 7 Figures on a beach Panel $4" \times 5"$
 Sampson £8 8s.
 H. MARTIN KENNARD SALE
 (Christie's) 4th April
 1 Fishing Boats off the coast Drawing $6" \times 8"$ Agnew £42
 WILLIAM HARTREE SALE
 25th April
- Lot*
 83 Fishing boats off a jetty $7\frac{1}{2}" \times 9\frac{1}{2}"$
 Drawing Frost & Reed
 £35 14s.
 95 Low tide $11\frac{1}{2}" \times 17\frac{1}{2}"$ Amor £9
 9s.
 DUKE OF HAMILTON SALE
 (Christie's) 6th November
 109 The declaration: cavalier proposing to a lady on a terrace, dog by his side $13\frac{1}{2}" \times 10\frac{1}{2}"$ Colnaghi
 £330 15s.
 MRS. E. J. PLATT (Christie's)
 28th November
 139 On the Spanish coast $23\frac{1}{2}" \times 44\frac{1}{2}"$ Sloebridge £39 18s.
- 1920 FAIRFAX MURRAY SALE
 (Christie's) 30th January
- Lot*
 1A Queen Mary and Rizzio Drawing $3\frac{1}{4}" \times 5\frac{1}{4}"$ Bowden £48 6s.
 SIR E. A. WATERLOW SALE
 (Christie's) 6th February
 8 Fisherfolk on the Beach Drawing
 $7" \times 10"$ Bowden £63
 J. P. HESELTINE SALE (Sotheby's)
 25th March
 96 On the Balcony, Venice Water-colour $7\frac{1}{2}" \times 5\frac{1}{2}"$ Gooden &
 Fox £53
 97 Verona Pencil $10\frac{3}{4}" \times 7\frac{1}{2}"$
 Colnaghi £16
 98 Honfleur Pencil $8\frac{1}{4}" \times 11"$
 Gooden & Fox £35
 99 Honfleur Pencil $11" \times 9\frac{3}{4}"$ Colnaghi £9
 HOLBROOK GASKELL SALE
 (Christie's) 11th June
 13 Grand Canal, Venice Oil $28\frac{1}{2}"$
 $\times 39\frac{1}{2}"$ £1,260
 E. A. V. STANLEY (Lord Taunton Heirlooms) SALE (Sotheby's)
 15th July

- Lot*
 113 Evening in Venice Oil 22" × 17" CHRISTIE'S 23rd July
 44A Mouth of a River Oil 13½" × 17½" £147
LORD NORTHWICK SALE
(Sotheby's) 3rd November
 333 Landscape near Jumieges Watercolour 9" × 12½"
 334 Three Peasant Girls Watercolour 6½" × 6½"
- 1921 A. E. LAWLEY SALE (Christie's)
25th February
- Lot*
 70 Asinelli Tower, Bologna Drawing 7½" × 4¾" Gooden & Fox £210
- 1922 LORD MOUNT-STEPHEN SALE (Christie's) 19th May
- Lot*
 6 A road by the coast, with a horse 7" × 10" Drawing Sampson £16 16s.
A. H. WILD SALE (Christie's)
16th June
 3 View on the French coast 6" × 8" Drawing Mitchell £178 16s.
 4 View of Paris from the Seine 8" × 12¼" Drawing Rankin £52 10s.
 68 View in Normandy with chateau on a river Drawing 8" × 11"
W. FULLER MAITLAND SALE (Christie's) 14th July 108 Château of the Duchesse de Berri Oil Arched Top 13¾" × 20" 28th July
D. C. E. ERSKINE SALE (Sotheby's)
 19 Verona with the Palazzo Maffei Oil 23" × 17" Leggatt £280
- 1923 T. W. WRIGHT 27th April
- Lot*
 106 Crossing the sands 14½" × 21" F. H. Clarke £11 11s.
 107 Venice; and another by J. Burnet Glen £22 1s.
CHRISTIE'S 11th May
 The Old Mill 25½" × 22½" £252
EUGENE CREMETTI SALE (Christie's) 1st June
 51 Stranded boats 7½" × 10½" Johnson £5 5s.
SIR CUTHBERT QUILTER (Christie's) 22nd June
 128 The Louvre, Paris, with carriages and figures 10" × 7½" Drawing Rienaecker £37 6s.
VICTOR RIENAECKER SALE (Christie's) 30th November
 14 The Louvre, Paris 10" × 7½" Drawing Parsons £16 16s.
 15 Le Serment 8" × 6½" Drawing Gordon £15 15s.
 106 Asinelli Tower, Bologna 20½" × 17" Agnew £210
- 1924 ERNEST RUFFER SALE (Christie's) 9th May
- Lot*
 16 Fishmarket in Normandy; coast scene, with stranded boats and numerous fisherfolk 19½" × 30½" Leslie £105
H. DARELL BROWN SALE (Christie's) 23rd May
 2 View near Mantes, 1826, in foreground peasant leaning over fallen tree, with wife by his side; beyond, group of cattle standing in water 21½" × 33" Arthur Ruck £2,310
 3 On the French coast: View at low tide, with cart, peasant woman

LIST OF WORKS SOLD AS BY BONINGTON

Lot

with white pony $14\frac{1}{2}'' \times 20\frac{1}{2}''$
Gooden & Fox £892 10s.

DR. E. SPENCER SCOTT SALE
 (Christie's) 2nd June

11 Fishing village $17'' \times 14''$ Mitchell
 £10 10s.

WILLIAM LOWE SALE (Christie's)
 13th June

4 The Undercliff 1828 $5\frac{1}{2}'' \times 8\frac{1}{2}''$ Drawing Rienacker £189 On the back of the drawing is the following: "1828 the last made by our dear son prior to his dissolution."

21 Lake Como $25\frac{1}{2}'' \times 34\frac{1}{2}''$ Smith
 £31 10s.

MRS. HITCHENS SALE (Christie's)
 23rd June

29 Spezzia $7\frac{1}{2}'' \times 10\frac{1}{2}''$ Drawing Humphreys £39 18s.

ROBERT NESHAM SALE (Christie's) 30th July

20 Waiting for the return of the fishing fleet $11\frac{1}{2}'' \times 9''$ Drawing
Sampson £5 5s.

21 Beach scene with fisherfolk $6\frac{1}{2}'' \times$
 $9\frac{1}{2}''$ Drawing Sampson £14 14s.

ROBERT KIRKMAN HODGSON
 SALE (Christie's) 21st November

3 Doge's Palace, Venice $5\frac{1}{2}'' \times 8''$
Amor £11 11s.

4 View of Dordrecht $9\frac{1}{2}'' \times 13\frac{1}{2}''$
Rofe £32 11s.

CHARLES WOODBRIDGE SALE
 (Christie's) 28th November

7 Coast scene with stranded boats; and another by Fielding Drawing Hill & Co. £13 13s.

1925 PANTIA RALLI SALE (Sotheby's)
 6th May

Lot

95 The Waggon: view of slightly un-

Lot

dulating country with Waggon
 R. and two figures L. $9\frac{1}{2}'' \times$
 $14\frac{1}{2}''$ P. M. Turner £160

96 Coast scene with three children in foreground, sitting round hamper of fish $17'' \times 25\frac{1}{2}''$ Deacon £150

J. F. SWANN SALE (Christie's)
 15th May

7 View in Venice; looking along a street towards a church $10\frac{3}{4}'' \times$
 $7\frac{3}{4}''$ Drawing Boden £47 5s.

8 View in Venice, with market figures in foreground $7'' \times 5\frac{1}{4}''$ Drawing Lush £33 12s.

52 Dover Cliffs $21\frac{1}{2}'' \times 35\frac{1}{2}''$ Sampson £16 16s.

GEORGE MARR SALE (Christie's)
 21st December

11 Island of San Giorgio Maggiore,
 Venice; and another by Prout
Newman £21

1926 LT.-COL. JAMES B. GASKELL
 SALE (Christie's) 30th April and 3rd May

Lot

5 Rouen, 1827 $5'' \times 8''$ Drawing
J. King £162 15s.

102 Palais de Justice and St. Patrice, Rouen Pair Panel $8'' \times 5''$
King £68 5s.

ISAAC HARROF SALE (Christie's)
 28th May

21 Grand Canal, Venice $13\frac{1}{4}'' \times 16\frac{1}{2}''$
Martin £273

22 River scene with sailing boat $8\frac{1}{2}''$
 $\times 11\frac{1}{2}''$ Palser £131 5s.

JOHN F. HOWARTH SALE
 (Christie's) 25th June

133 Brittany coast scene, with cottages and stranded boats $7\frac{1}{2}'' \times 11\frac{1}{2}''$ Drawing Gooden & Fox £42

- | | |
|--|---|
| Lot
 156 On the Seine: morning, two boats moored on R. bank with trees on opposite side $11\frac{1}{2}" \times 13"$
 Gooden & Fox £262 10s.
 LORD BURGH SALE (Christie's)
 9th July 21 Venetian Palaces on Grand Canal $14" \times 17\frac{1}{2}"$ Martin £325 10s.
 LADY APSLEY SALE (Christie's)
 12th July 6 Dunkerque $8" \times 11\frac{1}{2}"$ Drawing
 Sampson £84 1927 MAJOR G. C. ROBERTSON SALE (Christie's) 11th February Lot
 6 The Doge's Palace, Venice $8\frac{1}{2}" \times 13\frac{1}{2}"$ Drawing Bowden £37 16s.
 MRS. H. M. ROBINSON SALE (Christie's) 13th April 1 Beach scene with carts and figures; and another by Francia Collings £189
 MAJOR HOLLAND SWANN SALE (Sotheby) 27th April 27 View in Venice $7" \times 5\frac{1}{4}"$ Drawing Bowden £46 122 View in Venice $10\frac{1}{4}" \times 7\frac{3}{8}"$ Drawing Bowden £89
 MRS. LOUIS RAPHAEL SALE (Christie's) 20th May 3 Grand Canal, Venice; looking down towards Salute, with figures and boats in foreground $30\frac{1}{2}" \times 40"$ Raeburn Gal. £105
 W. A. COATS SALE (Christie's)
 10th June 39 Stormy landscape, with peasants, and child with pony $17\frac{1}{2}" \times 28"$ Waters £10 10s. 40 Fishermen, with donkey, on beach $9" \times 16\frac{1}{2}"$ Methuen £18 18s. | Lot
 41 Beach scene, with numerous figures
 Panel $6\frac{1}{2}" \times 12"$ Methuen £5 5s.
 MRS. NATHAN SALE (Sotheby)
 23rd June 100 View in the gardens of Versailles
 Panel $8" \times 10"$ Nathan £15
 JAMES ROSS OF MONTREAL SALE (Christie's) 8th July 4 Fisherfolk on the coast of Normandy: beach at low tide, with fisherman with loaded mule talking to two women seated on ground, another woman L., stranded boats R. $25\frac{1}{2}" \times 38"$
 Illus. Agnew £3,150
 MRS. RACHEL BEER SALE (Christie's) 22nd July 3 Beach scene, with fisherwomen $5\frac{1}{2}" \times 7\frac{3}{4}"$ Drawing Leggatt £168
 MAJOR G. C. ROBINSON SALE (Christie's) 28th and 29th July 33 Henri IV and the Spanish Ambassador $11\frac{1}{2}" \times 13\frac{1}{2}"$ Bush £68
 MISS A. G. BICKHAM SALE (Christie's) 25th November 3 Picardy $4" \times 5\frac{1}{2}"$ Drawing Agnew £57 15s.
 MARQUESS CURZON OF KEDLESTON SALE (Christie's)
 22nd December 86 View of Paris; view on Seine by Tuileries; beyond, bridge and towers of Notre Dame; figures on quay, etc. $41" \times 69"$
 Gordon £1,050 1928 ERNEST I. NATHAN SALE (Christie's) 20th April Lot
 103 Venetian Nobleman and his family $17" \times 14\frac{1}{2}"$ A. Tooth £68 5s. |
|--|---|

LIST OF WORKS SOLD AS BY BONINGTON

- | Lot | | Lot | |
|------------|---|------------|---|
| 104 | A mansion on a lake with figures
Panel $7\frac{1}{4}" \times 9\frac{3}{4}"$ Moore £22 2s.
WATSON FOTHERGILL SALE
(Robinson, Fisher & Harding)
5th July | 3 | Sunset $5\frac{1}{2}" \times 7\frac{1}{2}"$ Drawing
Leggatt £75 12s.
WILLIAM BATESON, F.R.S.,
SALE (Sotheby)
23rd and 24th April |
| 171 | Francis I and his favourite sister, Marguerite of Navarre $30" \times$
$25"$ Leggatt £252
ROBERT NESHAM SALE (Chris-
tie's) 23rd July | 257 | Studies of Norman peasant women
Black and red chalk $8" \times 10\frac{1}{4}"$ Coast scene: cottage on L., boats in foreground Pencil Kirby £9 |
| 1 | View in Venice $11\frac{3}{4}" \times 17"$
Drawing Vicars £31 10s. | 258 | Two figure studies of Norman fishermen Black, red and white chalk $7\frac{7}{8}" \times 10\frac{1}{4}"$ Studies of Norman peasants $8" \times 10\frac{1}{4}"$
G. T. Thomson £5 10s.
VICOMTE BERNARD D'HENDE-
COURT SALE (Sotheby)
8th and 10th May |
| 2 | The Rialto, Venice, with gondolas and figures $8" \times 10\frac{1}{2}"$ Drawing Vicars £147 | 155 | Subject for one of Lord Byron's poems $4" \times 3"$ Watercolour
Dr. Hudson £5 |
| 3 | Piazza of St. Mark's, Venice $10"$
$\times 8"$ Drawing Thompson
£68 5s. | 156 | Landscape with figures; and another $7" \times 11"$ Watercolour
Dr. Borenus £9 |
| 4 | Side Canal, Venice $7" \times 5\frac{3}{4}"$
Drawing Parker £162 15s. | | MISS L. G. BELL SALE (Christie's)
18th November |
| 5 | Sea piece with shipping near a buoy $5" \times 7"$ Drawing Paw-
sey & Payne £84 | 3 | View in Venice with a man in a boat $4\frac{3}{4}" \times 3\frac{1}{2}"$ Bowden £15
15s. |
| 53 | Old houses in Normandy $15\frac{1}{2}" \times$
$11\frac{1}{2}"$ Beecroft £11 11s.
SIR ALGERNON METHUEN
SALE (Christie's) 30th July | 1930 | BARNET LEWIS SALE (Chris-
tie's) 28th February-3rd March |
| 1 | Beach scene at low tide, with stranded boats and fisherfolk
$9" \times 13"$ Drawing Vicars £21
"BEAULIEU", HIGH BEECH,
EPPING, SALE (Foster)
24th and 25th September | Lot | |
| 255 | Continental buildings and bridge
Drawing Howells £23 2s.
WATSON FOTHERGILL SALE
(Robinson, Fisher & Harding)
25th October | 2 | L'Ile de la Cité, Paris A diligence, and figures on a road by the Seine $6\frac{1}{2}" \times 9\frac{1}{4}"$ Drawing
Permain £189 |
| 102 | Antwerp Cathedral from the Market Place, 1824 Saward £5 | 61 | A calm Boats anchored at low tide off the coast $12\frac{3}{4}" \times 9\frac{1}{2}"$ Par-
ker £78 15s.
W. H. BEHRENS SALE (Puttick &
Simpson) 30th April |
| 1929 | A. T. HOLLINGSWORTH SALE
(Christie's) 19th April | 132 | Sand dunes, near Boulogne $6" \times$
$8"$ Drawing Baird £17 17s. |

BONINGTON

- | | |
|---|---|
| Lot 137 Figure of a girl wearing Eastern dress 9" × 7½" 138 Sand dunes, near Boulogne Panel 10" × 14½" Church £28 7s. W. T. SAWARD SALE (Puttick & Simpson) 28th May 17 Coast scene with boats and figures Two 6" × 9" and 6" × 8" Drawings 18 Coast scene with houses, boats and figures 9" × 12" View of Antwerp Cathedral from Market Place 11" × 8" Drawings 20 Coast scene on the Mediterranean Sketch Panel 9½" × 12½" 21 Coast scene with figures, fishing boats and houses on a cliff 9½" × 5½" Connor £15 15s. 22 Coast scene with boats, a horse and figures 15" × 25" Palmer £16 16s. 23 Coast scene with figures and a dog 19" × 29½" Palmer £58 16s. 24 On the Medway, with Rochester Cathedral in background 10½" × 18½" Palmer £13 13s. 25 River scene, with figures in a rowing boat and other shipping 12½" × 17" Palmer £13 13s. 26 Venice; the Piazza di San Marco, and the Church of Santa Maria della Salute 15" × 24" Connor £33 12s. SIR JABEZ EDWARD JOHNSON-FERGUSON SALE (Christie's) 30th May 4 Low tide with stranded boats and figures 5¾" × 8" Drawing Pawsey & Payne £73 10s. WILMER H. CAY SALE (Puttick & Simpson) 17th December | Lot 28 Street scene in Paris; Henry IV's statue in distance, etc. 5" × 7½" Drawing £12 12s. 1932 F. M. DUTTON SALE (Puttick & Simpson) 19th October Lot 134 Venice; the Rialto 14" × 17½" Mitchell £13 13s. 1933 LADY GORDON CATHCART, Titness Park (Gurr, Johns & Co.) 24th and 28th April Lot 825 The Grand Canal, Venice Panel 7" × 9" and Venetian scene with numerous figures Pair Mitchell £38 17s. LT.-COL. E. H. GRIFFITHS SALE (Sotheby) 14th June 71 Coast scene at low tide, fisherwomen and children seated in foreground 26" × 39" Goodwin £11 MR. JUSTICE McCARDIE SALE (Sotheby) 28th June 8 Como 4½" × 6½" Drawing McLeod £16 9 A cottage with a barge by the river 6" × 9" Drawing Stair £4 10s. 10 Coast scene in a bay, with figures and fishing vessels aground Signed 7" × 9" Drawing Stair £10 11 Quay in a Continental town 6" × 8" Drawing W. H. Thomson £26 FRANK W. KEEN (Christie's) 10th November 54 The Piazza, San Marco, Venice 10" × 8" Drawing D. Thomson £26 5s. |
|---|---|

LIST OF WORKS SOLD AS BY BONINGTON

- 1934 THOMAS FRANKLIN BARRATT Lot
SALE (Sotheby) 21st February
- Lot
- 18 A church at Rouen 24" × 18"
Waters £2
- LT.-COL. C. W. J. UNTHANK
SALE (Sotheby) 21st February
- 82 Coast scene at low tide 20" ×
30½" D. H. Wallis £10
- MISS J. ASHTON WHITEHEAD
SALE (Sotheby) 13th November
- 35 Interior of a cathedral Signed with initials 11¾" × 8" Pencil with white Nater £5 5s.
- LADY NORTHCOTE (Christie's)
16th November
- 9 Fisherfolk on beach 4½" ×
8½" Drawing R. Warner £22
1s.
- 1935 MISS M. FORBES SALE (Christie's) 8th March
- Lot
- 38 Peasants on a road 5½" × 7"
Drawing Vicars £25 4s.
- A. A. ALLEN SALE (Sotheby)
4th April
- 16 On the French coast 6¼" × 9½"
Watercolour MacLeod £18
- MAJOR J. A. COATS SALE
(Christie's) 12th April
- 1 Bay scene with stranded boats and fisherfolk 7½" × 10¼"
Drawing G. D. Thomson £94
10s.
- 2 French fishing boats off the coast
9¼" × 6¾" Drawing G. D.
Thomson £73 10s.
- 3 The Tomb of the Scaligers 7½"
× 5½" Drawing P. M. Turner
£65 2s.
- 32 The Timber Waggon; laden waggon near ford by clump of trees Illus. 24½" × 30" J. B.
Bennet & Sons £1,260
- 33 On the beach; pack-horse with fisherwoman 12¼" × 11¾"
Bisgood £126
- 34 Fécamp; beach at low tide with fisherfolk and stranded boats Panel 8½" × 13¼" Barbizon
House £945
- 35 Going to Market Panel 8¾" ×
14" Fine Art Society £10 10s.
- EDWARD STEINKOPFF SALE
(Christie's) 24th May
- 4 Shipping in a breeze off pier 6" ×
9" Drawing Fine Art Society
£39 18s.
- 5 Ploughing 5" × 6½" Drawing
Permain £30 9s.
- J. P. HESELTINE SALE (Sotheby)
27th and 29th May
- 3 View at the Ferté, near Salvadore
8½" × 11½" Drawing Gooden &
Fox £110
- 290 Street scene in Bologna, and Street scene in Paris Pencil And three others; 5 on 4 mounts
Drawings Turner £38
- 291 Stage coach passengers 5½" ×
7¾" Black chalk Turner £23
- G. R. WOOD SALE (Sotheby)
27th November
- 71 A street in Rouen and Fishing boats (two) Watercolour Passed
- MAJOR ARTHUR LEES EVANS
SALE (Christie's) 6th December
- 3 Street in Verona 6" × 4½" Adam Bros. £8 18s. 6d.
- JOHN DUNN SALE (Christie's)
16th December
- 3 The Doge's Palace, Venice 8" × 10½" Drawing Strolin £8
8s.

BONINGTON

- | | | | |
|------|---|------|--|
| 1936 | EARL OF WARWICK SALE
(Sotheby) 17th June | Lot | P. ADAM SALE (Christie's)
12th February |
| Lot | | | |
| 116 | Coast scene at low tide with fishing smacks $5\frac{1}{2}" \times 7"$ Drawing
Spink £16 | 17 | Street scene with figures $9\frac{1}{2}" \times$
$6\frac{1}{2}"$ Morrell £1 1s. |
| | SIR CUTHBERT QUILTER, Bart.,
SALE (Christie's) 26th June | | LEWIS LLOYD SALE (Christie's)
30th April |
| 13 | Dutch fishing boats off Dunkirk
$22\frac{1}{4}" \times 33\frac{1}{4}"$ Knoedler £105 | 72 | View on the coast of Normandy; with boats and fisherfolk $21" \times$
$34"$ Mrs. Moore £21 |
| | HENRY OPPENHEIMER SALE
(Christie's) 20th-22nd July | | MAJOR RALLI SALE (Sotheby)
15th December |
| 129 | Verona $10" \times 6\frac{3}{4}"$ Pencil Fine
Art Society £7 7s. | 17 | Coast scene at low tide with figures of children $17" \times 26"$ Buhler
£155 |
| | G. H. WELDON SALE (Sotheby)
11th November | | |
| 37 | Church of St. Ambrogio, Milan
$7" \times 7\frac{1}{2}"$ Palser £28 | 1938 | CAPT. F. C. F. PARKER SALE
(Christie's) 4th March |
| | KATHLEEN, COUNTESS OF DROGEDA SALE (Christie's)
27th November | Lot | |
| 26 | A gas balloon passing over a town
$13\frac{1}{2}" \times 11\frac{1}{2}"$ Chance £16 16s. | 14 | View of the Grand Canal, Venice
$8\frac{3}{4}" \times 13\frac{1}{4}"$ Tooth £199 10s. |
| | | 15 | A Swiss peasant girl Study $9\frac{1}{2}" \times$
$7"$ E. C. Norris £50 8s. |
| | | | HOLBROOK GASKELL SALE
(Christie's) 25th March |
| 1937 | W. H. BARRATT SALE (Capes
Dunn, Manchester) 27th January | 63 | The Royal Library, Venice; and View of the Doge's Palace Pair
Panels $8" \times 12\frac{1}{2}"$ Permain
£26 5s. |
| — | Moorland scene $4" \times 6\frac{3}{4}"$ Water-colour Walker £46 4s. | | |

INDEX

	PAGE		PAGE
Abbey of St. Armand, Rouen	113	Drawing Master	5
Abbey of St. Bertin, St. Omer	90	Lace trade at Calais	8
Ancien Hôpital, St. Lo	85	And Paris	14
Ancienne Maison des Bateliers	92	Revisits England	40
Angel with a Cornucopia, An	100	R.P.B.'s Executor	41-4
Anne d'Autriche et Mazarin	116	Bonington, Eleanor	4-7
Anne Page and Slender	68, 71, 104	Bonington, Richard Parkes,
Antiquary, The	69, 115	Addresses in Paris	14, 21, 29, 35, 37
Après l'Orage: Mer Calme	85	Aesthetic ambitions	30
Arabian Nights, The	62, 97	Books	19
Architectural Ornament	89	Criticisms of	37-9
Armchair Covered in Velvet, An	101	Enthusiasm for Dutch School	65
		For Rubens	26, 30, 32
Balcony and a Gothic Arch, A	109	For Watteau	3, 13
Barge and Dinghy	95	Exhibits British Institution	30, 38
Barge Under Sail, A	86	Salon	18, 25, 37
Barges and Figures	94	Royal Academy	39
Barges on a River: Sunset	111	First historical pictures	60, 62
Barnett, J.	37, 41	Friendship with Delacroix (q.v.)
Beach at Calais with Figures	113		25, 29-30
Beach at Fécamp, The	93	With the Fieldings	62, 63
Bearded Doge, A	110	With Tayler	31
Bearded Man and a Woman	111	Goes to Calais	8
Bearded Man in Profile	99	To Paris	12-13
Bearded Oriental, A	105	Influenced by Constable and Turner
Beauplan, Portrait of Arthur de	115	(q.v.)
Beauvais	114	Juvenilia	10-11
Bentley, Charles	44	Lithographs	20, 21, 77-80
Bergues: The Tour du Marché	88	Meyrick Collection	27
Boats and Fisherfolk on the Shore	59, 61, 92	Portraits of	68, 74, 75, 96 (Renand), 68, 98 (Lajudie)
Boats at Ghent	89		73-5 (Nottingham)
Bologna: The Leaning Tower	106		68 (Carnavalet)
Bonington, Richard,		Posthumous sales	41-4
Business in Nottingham	6-7

BONINGTON

	PAGE		PAGE
Receives gold medal	25	Castle of Lerici	104
Salon of 1824	22-5	Cavalier and Lady	71, 117
Studies under Francia	11-12	Charles V Visiting Francis I after Pavia (oil)	113
Under Gros	14-16	Charles V Visiting Francis I after Pavia	111
Visits England	26-8, 37, 40	(water colour)	111
Flanders	26	Charlet, N. T.	26, 44
Italy	18, 33-5, 77	Château de la Duchesse de Berri	104, 112
Normandy	17	Chelsea Old Church	69, 114
Northern France	20	Chemin Sablonneux: Bords de la Seine près de
Use of gum	62	Champrosay, Le	58, 93
Bonnets d'Ane, Les	106	Chibouk, The	104
Book Illustration	115	Child at Prayers, A	65, 95
Bords de la Seine	58, 93	Chinaman, A	75, 76, 101
Bords de la Seine, Rouen	101	Choppy Sea off the English Coast	113
Bords de Rivière	88	Church by a Lake Among Mountains	106
Boulogne Sands	112	Church in Normandy	52, 86
Bound Captives and a Trophy	100	Church of S. Ambrogio, Milan	114
Boy, A	109	Church Tower Beyond Meadows	98
Boy Kneeling	99	Clavigliano	105
Boy with a White Collar	109	Cliffs and a Beached Boat	95
Boys, T. S.	32, 44, 46, 78	Coast near Dieppe	91
Boys with a Donkey	53, 85	Coast Scene	86, 91, 93, 96, 118
Bride at Prayer, The	65, 95	Normandy	93
Bridge of St. Maurice, on the Rhone, Valais	104	Picardy	59, 90
Brockedon, William	44	Colin, Alexandre, Correspondence with	2, 29
Brown, Lewis	18, 35-6	Portrait by	68
Cadet of St. Cyr, A	73, 87	Colleoni Statue: See Statue Equestre de
Caen	92	Colleoni
Callow, William	32, 46, 67, 68	Collins, William	42
Campanile and S. Giorgio Maggiore, The	103	Colnaghi, D.	37, 41, 42
Caricatures and an Erotic Drawing	110	Column of St. Mark, Venice	67, 103
Carpenter, James	37, 39, 41, 42	Constable, John	18, 19, 35, 42, 43, 45,
Carrier, A. J.	40	51, 54, 59, 60, 64
Cart in a Quarry	115	Salon of 1824	22-5
Cart on a Road	95	Convent in a Mountain Valley	109
Castelbarco Tomb, Verona, The (water colour)	67, 114	Coronation Chair, Westminster Abbey	101
Castelbarco Tomb, Verona, The (pencil)	107	Corot, J. B. C.	23, 35
Castello, Ferrara, The	108	Cosmoramic Gallery, The	43
		Costume Study	102
		Côtes Normandes	58, 91, 93

INDEX

	PAGE		PAGE
Cottage by a Gate	68, 115	Espace, L'	66, 103
Cottage with Trees and Ladder	104	Etchings	78, 80
Coucher de Soleil Orageux sur la Mer	94
Country Road	98	Festin d'Artistes	94
Courtier and a Seated Lutanist, A	89	Fielding, Copley	13
Cupola of the Hotel de Ville, Calais	87	Fielding, Newton	21, 32
		Portrait of	75, 97
David, J. L.	2	Fielding, Thales	21
Davis, Scarlett	68, 76	Figure Studies	101, 91, 110, 116
Death of Titian	112	Figure Study from Sculpture	99
Declaration, La	66, 113	Figures in Seventeenth Century Costume	110,
Delacroix, Eugene	2, 15, 17, 19, 20, 46,		116
50, 60		Fisherfolk on the Coast of Normandy	112
Comments on R.P.B.	2	Fisherfolk with a Net on a Foreshore	104
First meeting with R.P.B.	13	Fisherman and Boats	94
Lives with Fielding	21	Fishing Boats	89
With R.P.B.	29	Dead Calm	61, 91
Visits England	27	Off Dover	99
Salon of 1824	22-5	Five Studies of Armour and Costume	100, 106
Use of gum	62	Flowers in a Vase	65, 95
Départ pour la Pêche, Le	94	Forbin, Portrait of the Comte de	73, 95
Descent to a Seaport	109	Forster, Mrs.	37, 40
Deux Moulins sur la Dune, Les	49, 87	Four Ships near the Shore	90
Deuise, La: Francis I et Marguerite de		Four Studies from Paintings	116
Navarre	104	Of Armour	100
Dieppe: the Quayside	61, 93	Francia, Louis	12, 21, 47
Dinghy with Lateen Sail Drying	95	Francis I and Marguerite of Navarre	111
Dismasted Man of War	87	(Wallace Collection)	71, 74, 113
Doges' Palace and the Waterfront, The	66,	Francis I et la Duchesse d'Etampes	116
107		Full Suit of Sixteenth Century Armour, A	100
Don Quixote in His Study	65, 96	Funeral Monument, A	99
Duck Shooting	111
Dupré, Victor	49	Gallant, A	102
Dutch Barges with a Schooner in the Distance		Gaudefroy	40
	94	Genoa: The City and Harbour	109
Dutch Barge with Sails Furled	92	Géricault, M. G.	3, 18, 19, 20, 26
		Gesu Church from the Callette Sta. Agnese,
Earl of Surrey and the Fair Geraldine, The		Venice, The	114
	63, 101	Girl in Profile and a Woman Standing, A	102
L'Eglise de St. Wulfran, Abbeville	51, 52, 85	Girl Seated	112
Environs de Paris	101	Girl with Broad Straw Hat, Seated	98
l'Escalier du Palais de Justice, Rouen	101	Girtin, Thomas	48

BONINGTON

	PAGE		PAGE
Gothic Doorway	86	The Doge's Palace	103
Gothic Doorway and Window, A	92	The Great Gallery of the Louvre	56, 57,
Gothic House and Doorway	87		88
Gothic Pulpit or Balcony	95	Isabey, Eugène	22, 44, 60
Gothic Turret and a Balcony, A	109	Goes to England	29
Grand Canal and the Rialto, The	107	Italian Peasant Girl Seated in a Cottage	106
Grand Canal and the Salute Church, Venice, The	103	Italian Scene	103
Great Staircase of a French Château	62, 63,	Jockey, The	75, 76, 96
65, 96		Jones, George	42
Greek Church, Venice, The	108	Josephine, Portrait of Empress	74, 101
Gros, Baron	14-16
Half Timbered Houses	86	King and a Soldier, A	88
At Abbeville	85	King and two Soldiers	90
Harbour and Shipping	90	Kneeling Woman	102
Head of a Bearded Man Wearing a Cap	111	Knight in Armour, A	115
Head of a Girl	115	Knight in Chain Armour	88
Head of a Man Wearing a Fleming Cap	94	Knight Templar Standing by a Gothic Tomb	61, 95
Head of a Youth with Long Hair	115
Heath Scene, Normandy	57, 58, 90	La Bouille	55, 56, 88
Heath Scene: Stormy Sky	96	Laded Barges	108
Henri III Received by the Doge Mocenigo	113	Lady and Cavalier	63, 97
Henry III and the English Ambassador	43, 70, 116	Lady and Page	97
Henri IV and Gabrielle d'Estrées	65, 96	Lady at her Toilet	114
Henry IV and the Spanish Ambassador	66, 70, 74, 113 (oil), 66, 104 (water colour)	Lagoon near Venice, A	103
Holland, Thomas	43, 44, 67, 68	Landscape	69, 115
Huet, Paul	39, 46, 47	With a Timber Waggon	59, 65, 69, 102
Comments on R.P.B.	1, 3	With a Waggon: a Group of Trees Middle Distance	95
On R.P.B. at Gros	15-16, 42	With Three Peasants	98
Hulin, Mme.	17	With Two Windmills	97
Hulk and a Single-Masted Ship, A	88	Late Gothic Doorway	93
		Lavigne, L. S. M.	60, 61
In the Forest of Fontainebleau	102	Lavoir, Le	67, 114
Institut, and the Pont des Arts, Paris, The	115	Lawrence, Sir T.	26, 37, 40, 42, 44
Institut, from the Quais, Paris, The	113	Leaning Towers, Bologna, The	105
Interior of a Church	56, 93	Leçon de Luth, La	116
Interior of a Panelled Room	101	Leicester and Amy Robsart	66, 71, 113
Interior of Sens Cathedral	56, 88	Leprince, Xavier	60
		Letter, The	69, 115
		Lisière de Forêt	97

INDEX

	PAGE		PAGE
Lithographs	77-80	Old Gabled House with Figures, An	92
Long, St. John	40	Old House in Rue St. Véronique, Beauvais	70, 117
Low Tide	91	Old Man and Child	115
Madonna and Child	88, 111	Old Woman Seated	98, 102
Man and Wife with Children: and a Figure of Plenty, A	100	On a Venetian Balcony	117
Man in a Top Hat	75, 76, 104	On the Balcony	117
Man on Horseback Wearing Inlaid Armour	100	Page, The	113
Man Seated	94	Palace at Milan, The	106
Man Seated Underneath a Penthouse	95	Palace of St. Mark's, Venice, The	107
Man Wearing a Cloak and Ruff, Kneeling	99	Palais de Justice, Rouen	86
Mantes	90	Paris from Passy	116
Mantes on the Seine	93	Paris, Pont Saint-Michel	86
Marine	114	Paris, with a View of S. Sulpice	52, 85
Etudes de Vagues	94	Park Scene: Sunset	64, 97
Mer Orageuse	49	Pays de Caux	92
Marly from the Terrace of St. Germain en Laye	47, 57, 90	Sunset	93
Meditation	106	Twilight	57, 90
Medora	62, 63, 69, 105	Paysage: Moulin, Soleil Couchant	116
Milkmaid, A	94	Peasant Boy	98
Milton Dictating a Poem	113	Peasant Girl Seated	109
Miracle of St. Bavo	62, 97	Péniches, Les	90
Monnier, Portrait of Henri	44, 75, 106	Perrier Family	2
Moon, Sir F. G.	42	Phare, Dunquerque, Le	94
Mother and Child	112	Piazza dell'Erbe, Verona	106
Mountain Scene	103	di San Marco, Venice, The	67, 112
Near Jumièges	91	In Bologna, A	105
Near Mantes	102	San Marco, The	104
Northwick, Lord	42	Piazzetta from the Campanile, The	108
Note of a Portrait	110	Pier: Three Ships, A	90
Notre Dame and the Pont St. Michel, Twilight	47, 48, 86	Place de Village: Mamecia	103
Notre Dame de Dijon	88	Place du Molard, Geneva	68, 112
Odalisque (oil)	96	Port, A	53, 87
Odalisque (water colour)	114	Porte Cochère, A.	106
Odalisque au Palmier	69, 114	Porte de Lausanne	106
Odalisque au Perroquet Rouge	113	Portrait de Fillette	94
		Portrait of: See Beauplan, Arthur de; Bonington, R. P.; Fielding; Newton; Forbin, Comte de; Josephine, Empress; Monnier, Henri
		Portrait of a Lady	76, 104

BONINGTON

	PAGE		PAGE
Portrait of a Man	73, 74, 94	Scene on the French Coast	112
Painter	99	Schroth, L.	18, 36
Student	53, 73, 86	Sculpture on the Choir Screen, Amiens Cathedral	95
Woman Painting	74, 76, 96	Sea Coast: The Dunes	94
Young Man	91	Sea Piece, A	104
Procession of Catholic Clergy	116	Seascape (oil)	86
Pritchett, E.	46, 67, 68	Seascape (sepia)	91
Prout, S.	28, 41, 44, 46, 47, 67, 68	Sea Shore with Fishersfolk	95
Pulpit at Amiens	95	Seguier, W.	43
Quais des Grands Augustins, Les	114	Seigneur de la Cour de Charles VIII	89
Quays, The	105	Seine near Mantes, The	57, 93
Queen, A	99	Seven Figure Studies	118
Quillebœuf	92	Ship with Topsails Set	92
Recumbent Female Figure	99	Shipping	88, 98
Renaissance Gable, A	92	At Sea	99
Reynolds, S. W.	18	Off Dunkirk	87
Rialto, The (pencil)	107	Off the Coast of Kent	64, 98
Rialto, The (oil)	103	Off the English Coast	96, 98
River Scene	95, 96	Ships outside Calais Harbour	105
With Barges	70, 104	Shore Scene	92, 94
With Boats and Church	98	Siesta, La	71, 117
Rivet, Baron Charles	17, 32, 33-5	Sketch from a Dutch Seventeenth Century Picture	93
Roberts, David	42, 67, 68	Sketch on the Banks of a River	115
Roberts, James	2	South Door of Rouen Cathedral	90
Comments on R.P.B.	4, 19	Souvenir de Vandyck	65
Rogny-sur-Seine	57, 90	Square Belfry, A	85
Roqueplan, Camille	22, 46, 60, 70	Stage Coach Passengers	109
Rose, Mlle.	71	Staircase, The	71, 117
Rouen	53, 70, 105	Standing Male Figure	100
Rouen Cathedral: Sunrise	58, 96	Stanfield, Clarkson	41, 67
Ryley	5	Statue Equestre de Colleoni	67, 69, 114
Sailor Holding an Oar, A	47, 86	Statues of a King and of a Saint	88
St. Pierre, Caen	86	Stone Statues from an Ancient Building	89
St. Sauveur, Caen	87	Storm and the Sylph, The	118
Salute Church, Venice, The	107	Stormy Sea	94
And the Dogana, The	107	Street in Abbeville	91
And Laden Barges, The	107	Street in Verona	69, 114
S. Giorgio Maggiore	107	Studies for Figures in the Merchant of Venice, with Shylock	99
Sta. Trinita de' Monti, Rome	103	From Two Portraits by Van Dyck	111

INDEX

	PAGE		PAGE
Studies of a Herald and Another Figure	100	Sunken Road, The	59, 103
Of a Man and a Woman	110	Sunset At Sea	94
Of Breton Fisherfolk	98	In the Pays de Caux	92
Of French Fisherfolk	94	On the Pays de Caux	58, 70, 116
Of Girls	91	Seaport and Lighthouse	96
Of Heads	100, 110	Sur les Dunes	64, 101
Of Mediæval Sculpture, Bruges	88	Swiss Girls at Meyrenquis	109
Of Oriental Costume	99
Of Peasant Costume: Statue of an Angel	109	Tall Houses, with Boats on a Foreshore	51, 85
Of Sails and Topsails	85	Taylor, J. F.	31
Of Spanish Costume, Hat, Ruff and Cloak	100	Taylor, Baron	20, 22, 36
Of the Colleoni Statue, Venice	108	Three Barges	99
Of the Costume of Palikares	99	Figures by an Estuary	87
Of Thirteenth Century Costume	89	Male Heads	111
Of Two Figures	100	Norman Peasant Girls	95
Of Two Noblemen and Other Figures	110	Ships Under Sail	86
Of Two Women	100	Ships with Sails Set	93
Of Women	100	Studies of a Basinet	100
Study for the Surrender of a City	116	Studies of Armour and Costume	100
From a Flemish Drawing dated 1668	87	Studies of Mediæval Religious Costumes	89
From a Genre Picture	110	Three-masted Barge	93
From a Mediæval Carved Group of Two Figures	88	Timber Waggon, The (see Landscape with a Timber Waggon)
From a Vandyck Conversation Piece	98	Titian's Monument, Venice	108
From a Woman's Portrait	102	Tomb of Mastino II, Verona, The	107
From an Italian Religious Picture	110	Tour du Marché, Bergues	57, 87
Of a Boat	89	Tower of St. Bavon (?) Ghent, The	92
Of a Four-poster Bed	89	Tower with Pinnacles, A	109
Of a Hanap and a Covered Tazza	116	Trading Ship Dismasted, A	92
Of a Head	110	Turk Reposing	63, 105
Of a Monk	110	Turner, J. W. M.	45, 54, 59, 60
Of a Peasant Girl	109	Two Dutch Children	101
Of a Pikeman	110	Two Figures Seen From Behind	116
Of a Soldier	102	Geese	87
Of a Woman, Half Length	110	Peasant Boys	98
Of Costume	89	Peasants	93, 109
Of Italian Peasant Costumes	109	Sculptured Figures	88
Of Leaves	99	Ships Becalmed	92
Of Moorish Architecture	101	Statues: A King and a Saint	90
Of Seventeenth Century Costume	89	Studies of a Chair Covered in Genoese Velvet	101
Of the Colleoni Statue, Venice	108

BONINGTON

	PAGE		PAGE
Two Studies of a Gothic Statue	88	View of Dunkirk	92
Studies of Mediæval Religious Costume	89	Of Rome	105
Views of Venice:		Of Venice	107, 112
(1) Towards the Zattere		Of Venice: The Basin of St. Mark's	103
(2) S. Giorgio Maggiore and S. Marco		On a Lake	70, 104, 105
	108	On the Grand Canal	103
Women Kneeling	99	On the Seine, near Paris	111
Two-masted Boat	87	Village Scene	98
Two-masted Ship under Sail, A	85	Visit, The	70, 113
		Vue de Calais	85
Undercliff: Twilight, The	70, 117	Vue de Venice: le Bassin de S. Marc	103
		Vue du Parterre d'Eau à Versailles	66, 102
Venetian Scene	69, 113, 117	Waggon, The	59, 102
Venice	70, 116	Washing Place in Paris, A	105
Venice from the Lido	108	Webb, Captain W.	36
Venice: The Doge's Palace from the Piazzetta		Westminster Abbey	52, 64, 96
	66, 111	Wimereux	92
Venice: The Grand Canal and The Palazzo Sagredo	103	Windmill and Figures	106
Verona: View of a Church and Ruins	103	Woman, A	99
Vieille Gouvernante, La	73, 91	In a Coif	110
Vierge Dorée, Amiens Cathedral, La	66, 95	Kneeling and a Monk, A	110
View at Greenwich	62, 64, 96	Reclining on Cushions	106
At La Ferté, Near Salvatore	90	Seated in a Chair	110
From a Terrace, with a Peacock	66, 104	Seated, Leaning Forward, A	102
In Calais	50, 51, 85	Sewing	115
Of a Port with Shipping	88	Wyld, William	41
Of Calais Harbour	52

ILLUSTRATIONS

Louvre

$9\frac{5}{8} \times 7\frac{1}{8}$ 24 x 11

Mr Atherton Curtis

9×6½ 22·8×15·8

M. Pierre Maurois $13\frac{1}{4} \times 6\frac{1}{4}$ 33.5 x 15.5
Cadet of St Cyr

M. Pierre Maurois $9\frac{1}{4} \times 5\frac{1}{4}$ 23.2 x 14.5
Paris with St Sulpice

de Besançon

10 1/2 x 8 26 x 20 1/4

A Student
L'Étudiant

1820

Musée de Besançon

10 1/2 x 8 26 x 20 1/4

Head of a Woman
Tête de Femme

1820

Musée de Besançon

$7\frac{1}{2} \times 5\frac{1}{8}$ 18.5 x 1.

Boys with a Donkey

Mr Atherton Curtis

View of Calais Harbour
Calais : le Port

7 1/2 x 11 19.3 x 27.8

1819

Musée Magnin, Dijon

$8\frac{3}{4} \times 10\frac{3}{4}$ 22.2 x 27.3

Sea Piece : Departing Storm

Après l'Orage : mer calme

1819

Musée de Besançon

$8\frac{1}{4} \times 12\frac{1}{2}$ 20.8 x 31.7

Seascape

Victoria and Albert Museum

$9\frac{7}{8} \times 6\frac{7}{8}$ 25 × 17.3

The Marquess of Lansdowne

16½ × 11½ 41·2 × 28·3

Palace of Lansdowne

134 x 104 33.8 x 26.7

Mr P. M. Turner

57 x 11 14.8 x 27.8

Notre Dame and the Pont St Michel

Notre Dame et le Pont St Michel

1820

British Museum

1. Turner

6 $\frac{1}{2}$ x 7 15.5 x 17.7

A Port (Dieppe?)

Un Port (Dieppe?)

1820-21

M. Maurice Gobin

Two Windmills on the Dunes

8 1/2 x 11 3/4 21 x 29

M. Maurice Gobin

La Bouille
La Bouille

1822

10 1/2 x 14 1/2 27 x 37 : 5

Mr P. M. Turner

Interior of Senlis Cathedral
L'Intérieur de la Cathédrale, Senlis

1822

12 $\frac{1}{2}$ x 16 32 x 40.6

M. Maurice Gobin

12 $\frac{5}{8}$ x 9 $\frac{1}{2}$ 32 x

The Hon. Mrs David Bowes Lyon

Marly

Marly

1823

11 3/4 x 15 3/4 28.9 x 39

The Heirs of the late M. N. de Lajudie

$8\frac{1}{2} \times 10\frac{1}{2}$ 21

Mantes

Mantes

1823

P. M. Turner

Rogny sur Seine
Rogny sur Seine

1823

7 1/2 x 11 8.4 x 27.8

City Art Gallery, Nottingham

23 $\frac{1}{4}$ x 19 60

Abbey of St Bertin, St Omer

National Gallery

$12\frac{3}{4} \times 17\frac{3}{4}$ 32 x 45

Heath Scene, Normandy
Une Hêtre, Normandie

1823

Mr P. M. Turner

12 x 15 $\frac{1}{4}$ 30.5 x 40

Le Pays de Caux

Mr Andrew T. Reid

$9\frac{1}{4} \times 12\frac{5}{8}$ 23·5 × 32·2

Coast near Dieppe
Les Côtes près de Dieppe

1823

Wallace Collection

$11\frac{7}{8} \times 17\frac{3}{8}$ 30 x 44

The Seine near Mantes
La Seine près de Mantes

1824

Mr P. M. Turner

$11\frac{1}{2} \times 15\frac{1}{4}$ 28.2 x 38.7

ie des Beaux Arts, Epinal

8 $\frac{1}{4}$ × 6 $\frac{3}{4}$ 22 · 2 × 17 · 1

Portrait of a Young Man
Portrait de Jeune Homme

Louvre

30 × 24 $\frac{7}{8}$ in.

The Old Governess
La Vieille Gouvernante

Wallace Collection

6 3/4 x 10 1/4 16 x 26

Fishing Boats : Dead Calm
Bateaux de Pêche : mer calme

1823

The Marquess of Lansdowne

$2 \times 3\frac{1}{2}$ $5 \times 8\cdot4$

Studies of Girls
Études de Fillettes

1823

Mr P. M. Turner

$5\frac{1}{2} \times 7\frac{3}{8}$ $14 \times 19\cdot3$

Boats and Fisherfolk on the Shore
Bateaux et Pêcheurs

1823-4

Mr Atherton Curtis

14 $\frac{1}{8}$ x 9 35.8 x 22.7

St Sauveur, Caen

St Sauveur, Caen

M. Maurice Gobin

Sandy Road by the Seine
Chemin Sablonneux, bords de la Seine

101 x 15 $\frac{1}{2}$ 26 x 39-5

M. Maurice Gobin

By the Seine
Bords de la Seine

1823-4

10 $\frac{1}{2}$ x 18 $\frac{1}{2}$ 27 x 47

Louvre

17 $\frac{3}{4}$ x 15 45 x 38

Normandy Coast
Côtes Normandes

1823-4

M. Bureau

17 $\frac{3}{4}$ x 15 45 x 38

Normandy Coast
Côtes Normandes

1823-4

Mlle F. de Catheu

Coast Scene, Normandy
Côtes Normandes

1824

10 $\frac{1}{2}$ × 17 $\frac{3}{8}$ 26 × 44.5

M. P. Gosselin

$8\frac{1}{2} \times 9$ 21.8×23

Pays de Caux : Sunset
Pays de Caux : soleil couchant
1823-4

Wallace Collection

$13\frac{3}{4} \times 19\frac{1}{4}$ 35×49

Coast Scene, Picardy
Côtes Picardes

Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York

Mantes on the Seine
Mantes sur Seine

1804

15 x 20 $\frac{3}{4}$ 38 x 52.6

1804

Mr P. M. Turner

Boats and Fisherfolk
Bateaux et Pêcheurs

1823-4

108 - 171 - 26 - 15

Mr C. E. Russell

14 $\frac{1}{2}$ x 20 $\frac{3}{8}$ 36.4 x 51.6

Coast Scene
Côtes Françaises

1824 enri Marillier

$10\frac{3}{8} \times 8\frac{1}{8}$ 26·3 × 20·6

Interior of a Gothic Church
Intérieur d'une Église Gothique

Mr P. M. Turner

Sea Coast : the Dunes

118 x 178 30 x 44.7

J. M. W. Turner

$9\frac{1}{8} \times 11\frac{1}{2}$ 24.5 x 29.2

Sunset at Sea
Marine : soleil couchant

1824

M. Patrice Hennesy

Artists' Feast

7 x 9 17.6 x 23

Mr P. M. Turner

30 × 25 76.2 × 37.3

Portrait of a Man
Portrait d'Homme

1824

Mr P. M. Turner

21 × 16½ 53.4 × 41.7

A Chinaman
Le Chinois

1825

M. Maurice Gobin

$8\frac{1}{4} \times 11\frac{1}{4}$ 20.8 × 28.5

Sunset : Stormy Sea
Coucher de Soleil : Orageux sur la Mer 1824

M. P. Gosselin

$10\frac{3}{4} \times 14\frac{3}{8}$ 27.3 × 37.3

Study of Waves
Étude de Vagues
1824

M. Maurice Gobin

7 $\frac{1}{2}$ x 5 $\frac{1}{4}$ 18 x 13 : 4

Chancel of a Gothic Church
Choeur d'une Église Gothique

1824

M. Henri Marillier

6 $\frac{1}{2}$ x 4 $\frac{3}{8}$ 16 : 5 x 12 : 5

Street in Abbeville
Une Rue à Abbeville

1823

Mr Atherton Curtis

9 $\frac{3}{4}$ × 7 24.7 × 17

The Lighthouse, Dunkirk
Le Phare, Dunquerque

Mr Atherton Curtis

5 $\frac{3}{4}$ \times 8 $\frac{3}{4}$ 14.6 \times 22.2

Shipping off Dunkirk
Vaisseaux au large de Dunquerque

1821

British Museum

$7\frac{1}{8} \times 10\frac{1}{4}$ 20 x 27.3

Studies of French Fisherfolk

Pêcheurs français

1824

The Earl of Sandwich

$7\frac{1}{4} \times 10\frac{1}{8}$ 19.7 x 25.7

Breton Fisherfolk

Pêcheurs bretons

1825

h Museum

$5\frac{3}{4} \times 5\frac{3}{4}$ 14.5 × 14.5

Three Norman Peasant Girls

Trois Paysannes normandes

1824

M. Maurice Gobin

9 $\frac{3}{4}$ x 7 $\frac{1}{2}$ 25 x 19

Henri IV and Gabrielle d'Estrées

M. Maurice Gobin

15 $\frac{1}{2}$ x 15 $\frac{1}{4}$ 39 x 38-5

Don Quixote in his Study

M. Maurice Gobin

The Bride at Prayer
L'Épouse agenouillée

1824-5

6 $\frac{1}{4}$ x 8 $\frac{3}{4}$ 15.8 x 22.3

Mr P. M. Turner

14 x 10 35.5 x 25

A Vase of Flowers
Un Vase de Fleurs

Marquess of Lansdowne

17 $\frac{3}{4}$ × 21 $\frac{1}{2}$ 45 × 54·5

Coast Scene
Côtes françaises

1825

Maurice Gobin

$10\frac{3}{4} \times 7\frac{7}{8}$ 27.5 x 20

Rouen Cathedral : Sunrise
La Cathédrale de Rouen au soleil Levant

Mr P. M. Turner

$4\frac{1}{8} \times 12\frac{1}{4}$ 1

Sunset: Seaport and Lighthouse

Coucher de soleil: port et phare

1825

City Art Gallery, Nottingham

$5 \times 7\frac{7}{8}$ 1

View on the Seine near Paris

La Seine près de Paris

1826-7

Wallace Collection

13 $\frac{3}{4}$ x 10 35 x 26

A Child at Prayer
Un enfant en prière

Mr P. M. Turner

15 × 12½ 38

Odalisque
L'Odalisque

1825

M. Henri Marillier

A Portrait of Empress Josephine?
L'Impératrice Josephine?

$6\frac{1}{8} \times 8$ 15.5 × 20.7

1825-6

Mr P. M. Turner

The Miracle of St Bavo (after Rubens)
Le Miracle de St Bavon

$10\frac{1}{2} \times 16$ 26.6 × 40.6

1825

M. Gabriel Renand

12 $\frac{3}{8}$ × 8 31·4 × 20·3

A Woman Painting
Une femme devant un chevalet

M. Turner

24 × 20 61 × 50.8

The Jockey
Le Jockey

1825

Mr. Atherton Curtis

River Scene (a Man Fishing)

Plaque at exhibition

6 1/2 x 8 1/2 10-5 x 21-8

APR 1911

Mr P. M. Turner

View at Greenwich
Greenwich

1825

$4\frac{1}{2} \times 7\frac{1}{2}$ 11.3 x 19

Mr P. M. Turner

56 x 10 1/2 14.8 x 27.3

Park Scene : Sunset
Le Parc : soleil couchant

1825

Mr P. M. Turner

Westminster Abbey
L'Abbaye de Westminster

6 $\frac{3}{4}$ x 10 $\frac{1}{4}$ 17.1 x 36

ice Collection

5½ × 4½ 14 × 10·7

The Earl of Surrey and the Fair Geraldine

Wallace Collection

7 × 6½ 17·7 × 16·

The Great Staircase of a French Chateau

llace Collection

9 $\frac{1}{4}$ × 7 $\frac{1}{8}$ 23.5 × 18

The Arabian Nights
Scène des Mille et Une Nuits

M. Maurice Gobin

$5\frac{1}{8} \times 5\frac{7}{8}$

The Dunce's Cap
Le Bonnet d'Âne

1825

The Marquess of Lansdowne

6 $\frac{7}{8}$ × 6 $\frac{1}{4}$

17.4 × 17.1

Church Tower beyond Meadows

La Tour d'une Église à travers les prés

1825

The Heirs of the late M. N. de Lajudic

4 $\frac{3}{4}$ × 4

12 × 10

Self Portrait

Portrait de l'artiste par lui-même

1825

M. Luc A. Moreau

$7\frac{1}{8} \times 10\frac{3}{8}$ 18 x 26

Study of Costume
Étude de costume
1825

Mr P. M. Turner

$8\frac{1}{2} \times 13\frac{1}{8}$ 22.3 x 35

Studies for Shylock
Esquisses de Shylock

ic A. Moreau

11 $\frac{1}{4}$ × 9 28.6 × 23

Studies of the Costume of Palikares
Le Costume de Palikares

M. Luc A. Moreau
5 $\frac{3}{4}$ x 2 $\frac{3}{4}$ 13.7 x 7

A Gallant
Un gallant

1825

M. Luc A. Moreau

A Girl in Profile and a Woman Standing
Une fille vue de profile et une femme debout

1825

5 $\frac{1}{4}$ x 4 $\frac{1}{4}$ 13.2 x 12

An Arm Chair covered in Velvet
Un fauteuil couvert de velours

1825

M. Luc A. Moreau

4 $\frac{7}{8}$ x 1 $\frac{3}{4}$ 12.3 x 11

National Gallery of Wales

Shipping : Choppy Sea
Vaisseaux : mer agitée
1827

$5\frac{1}{4} \times 7\frac{1}{4}$ 13.3 × 18.3

Whitworth Art Gallery

Shipping off the Coast of Kent
Vaisseaux au large de Kent

$6\frac{3}{8} \times 9\frac{1}{4}$ 13.8 × 23.4

Mr P. M. Turner

The Sunken Road

10 1/2 x 14 26.6 x 35.5

M. Maurice Gobin

7 1/8 x 11 1/8 18 x 30

Shipping off the English Coast
Côtes Anglaises

1825-6

M. Maurice Gobin

On the Dunes

61-91 16-23

Mr P. M. Turner

On the Seine, Rouen
Bords de la Seine, Rouen

$6\frac{3}{4} \times 9\frac{1}{8}$ 17.1 \times 23

Musée de Besançon

98 x 8 24.5 x 20.5

The Comte de Forbin

Mr Atherton Curtis

71 58 19.7 x 14.8

Henri Monnier

Taft Museum, Cincinnati

Near Mantes
Près de Mantes

1806

$21\frac{1}{2} \times 33\frac{1}{8}$ 54.5 x 84.2

Wallace Collection

Landscape with a Timber Wagon

Major the Hon. Arthur Howard

8 x 13 1/2 20 x 33 1/2

The Waggon
La Charrette

1826

Louvre

The Parterre d'Eau, Versailles

103 x 204 cm. 1753

National Gallery

Mountain Scene
Paysage Montagne

10 $\frac{1}{2}$ x 13 $\frac{1}{2}$ 27 x 34

M. Maurice Gobin

$8\frac{7}{8} \times 11\frac{1}{8}$ 22.5 × 28.5

Castle of Lerici
Château de Lerici

1826

M. Maurice Gobin

$7\frac{1}{2} \times 7\frac{1}{8}$ 19 × 20

A Village Square : Mamecia
Place de Village : Mamecia

1826

M. Maurice Gobin

$9\frac{1}{2} \times 7\frac{1}{2}$ 24 x 19.2

Verona : View of a Church

Verone : Vue d'une Église

1826

M. Maurice Gobin

$9\frac{1}{2} \times 7\frac{1}{2}$ 24.7 x .

Verona : View of a Church and Ruins

Verone : Vue d'une Église et des Ruines

1826

National Gallery of Scotland

Italian Scene

98 / 124 24 / 31-3

Mr Arthur Morrison

View from a Terrace
Vue prise d'une Terrasse

1826

16½ x 22½ 41.2 x 50.3

M. Henri Marillier

$8\frac{1}{2} \times 6\frac{1}{2}$ 21

The Campanile and San Giorgio Maggiore, Venice
Le Campanile et St Giorgio Maggiore, Venise

M. Maurice Gobin

Sta. Trinita de' Monti, Rome
Sta. Trinita de' Monti, Rome

1826

6 $\frac{1}{8}$ × 8 $\frac{3}{8}$ 15.5 × 21.3

Mr. P. M. Turner

14 08 355 197

Photo. Division

Wallace Collection

$38\frac{1}{2} \times 30\frac{7}{8}$ 98 x 78

The Piazza di San Marco
La Place St Marc

1827

Mr C. E. Russell

$10\frac{1}{2} \times 8$ 25.8 x 20.

The Piazza San Marco, Venice
La Place St Marc, Venice

1826

1620

1627

Wallace Collection

17½ × 14½

Anne Page and Slender

Anne Page et Slender

1826

Mr C. E. Hughes

$6\frac{1}{8} \times 4\frac{3}{4}$ 15.5×12

Venetian Scene
Scène Venitienne

1827

Wallace Collection

Turk Reposing
Turc au Repos

1826

44 x 64 10.7 x 17.2

National Gallery of Ireland

The Chibouk
Le Chibouk

c. 1826

9 1/2 x 11 1/2 24 x 29.2

by Wallis

Portrait of a Lady
Portrait de Femme

36 × 30 91.5 × 76.5

Mr P. M. Turner

25 × 20 $\frac{3}{4}$ 63·4

Man in a Top Hat

Homme en Chapeau à haute forme

Mr P. M. Turner

Duck Shooting
Chasse aux Canards

1826

5½ × 8 13·8 × 20·2

64 94 17 23

Wallace Collection

Rosen

Victoria and Albert Museum

Bridge of St Maurice, Valais
Le Pont St Maurice, Valais

1826

74 × 93 18.4 × 22.8

M. Maurice Gobin

5 $\frac{1}{8}$ / 8 $\frac{1}{4}$ 13 / 21

Clavigliago

Clavigliago

c. 1826

Victoria and Albert Museum

5 x 7 12.7 x 18

The Quays

Les Quais

c. 1826

Mr P. M. Turner

$7\frac{1}{2} \times 4\frac{1}{2}$ 19.2 x 11.3

The Leaning Tower, Bologna
La Tour Asinelli, Bologna

c. 1826

Wallace Collection

$9\frac{1}{2} \times 6\frac{1}{2}$ 23.2 x 16.5

The Leaning Towers, Bologna
La Tour Asinelli, Bologna

c. 1827

Wallace Collection

6x6 $\frac{3}{4}$ 15.2

Medora

Medora

1826

Marquess of Lansdowne

$3\frac{1}{2} \times 5\frac{1}{4}$ 8.8 \times 13.2

The Salute Church, Venice

L'Eglise Sta. Maria della Salute, Venise

1826

The Marquess of Lansdowne

The Marquess of Lansdowne

Two Views of Venice

Two Views of Venice

: Marquess of Lansdowne

$14\frac{7}{8} \times 10\frac{3}{4}$ 37·8×27·3

The Greek Church, Venice
L'Église des Grecs, Venise

Mike Lewis Brown

The Rialto
Le Rialto

911 x 68 24-9 17-5

The Marquess of Lansdowne

14 $\frac{3}{4}$ × 10 $\frac{3}{8}$ 37.6 × 26.4

The Tomb of Mastino II

Le Tombeau de Mastino II

1826

The Marquess of Lansdowne

12 × 9 $\frac{1}{2}$ 30.5 × 23

The Castello, Ferrara

Le Château, Ferrara

1826

119.

The Marquess of Lansdowne

Palace of St Mark's, Venice
Le Palais de St Marc, Venice

158 x 178 31 x 41

M. Maurice Gobin

$8\frac{1}{2} \times 13\frac{1}{4}$ 21.5 × 33.5

A Washing Place

Le Lavoir

1827

Louvre

$11\frac{1}{8} \times 16$ 29.4 × 40.5

A Washing Place in Paris

Un Lavoir à Paris

Musée de Besançon

10½ x 7½ 26 x 20

Italian Peasant Girl

Musée de Besançon

15½ x 12½ 39½ x 30½

Girl Seated

Leone, Fille Assise

rl of Sandwich

$9\frac{3}{4} \times 8\frac{1}{4}$ 24.8 × 20.9

Woman Reclining
Femme au repos

1826

Mr P. M. Turner

Stage Coach Passengers
Connaissances de Voyage
c. 1826

$4\frac{5}{8} \times 7\frac{3}{8}$ 12·3 × 18·6

M. Henri Marillier

$4\frac{7}{8} \times 4$ 12·3 × 10·2

Arthur de Beauplan
Arthur de Beauplan

e Collection

8 × 6 $\frac{1}{4}$ 20 × 16

Meditation
Le Lecture de la Bible

1826

145 / 204 311 51

View of Venice
View de Venise

14 × 19 $\frac{3}{8}$ 35 · 6 × 49 · 7

Sir Martyn Beckett, Bart.

Château of the Duchesse de Berri
Château de la Duchesse de Berri

1827

Ashmolean Museum, Oxford

Scene on the French Coast
Les Femmes

21 29 51 5 71 9

National Gallery

Scene on the French Coast

Côtes françaises

1827

15 × 21 38 × 53

City Art Gallery, Nottingham

Fisherfolk on the Coast of Normandy

Pêcheurs des Côtes normandes

1827

26 × 39½ 66 × 100·4

Victoria and Albert Museum

Place du Motard, Geneva
Place du Motard, Genève

241 x 298 63 x 1 475 x 6

Wallace Collection

Henry IV and the Spanish Ambassador
Henri IV et L'Ambassadeur Espagnol

1826

6 x 6 1/2 15 x 17

Ashmolean Museum, Oxford

19 $\frac{1}{4}$ x 9 $\frac{1}{2}$ 34 x 24.7

Leicester and Amy Robsart
Leicester et Amy Robsart

1827

M. René Longa

10 $\frac{1}{4}$ x 8 $\frac{1}{4}$ 26 >

The Declaration
La Déclaration

1827

73 x 91 1/2 in. (183 x 232 cm.)

M. Maurice Golin

The Death of Titian
La Mort de Titien

abriel Renand

9 $\frac{3}{8}$ × 7 $\frac{1}{4}$ 24 × 18.5

Odalisque with a Red Parrot
Odalisque au Perroquet Rouge

Museum of Fine Arts, Boston

15 $\frac{1}{4}$ × 12 $\frac{1}{2}$ 39 ×

The Visit
La Visite

1827

City Art Gallery, Manchester

$7\frac{1}{8} \times 9\frac{3}{4}$ 19.4 × 25

Venice. The Doges Palace from the Piazzetta
Venise. Le Palais des Doges vu de la Piazzetta

Wallace Collection

$7\frac{3}{8} \times 10\frac{1}{2}$ 19 × 27

Doge's Palace, Venice
Palais des Doges, Venise

Louvre

$9\frac{1}{8} \times 7\frac{1}{8}$ 23 x 1

Colleoni Statue, Venice
Statue Equestre de Colleoni

Wallace Collection

Church of Saint Ambrogio, Milan
L'Eglise de St Ambrogio, Milan

1827

$8\frac{3}{4} \times 11\frac{1}{8}$ 22.3 x 28.2

Mr. P. M. Turner

7½ x 5½ 19 x 13.8

The Castelbarco Tomb, Verona

City Art Gallery, Nottingham

11 1/2 x 13 1/2 30 x 34

The Gesu Church, Venice

L'Église du Gesù, Venise

Victoria and Albert Museum

$9\frac{1}{4} \times 6\frac{1}{4}$ 23.5 x 16

Street in Verona
Une Rue à Verone

Gilbert Levy

7 $\frac{1}{8}$ × 9 $\frac{3}{4}$ 18 · 2 · 24 · 7

Quais des Grands Augustins

Quais des Grands Augustins

1827

Mr P. M. Turner

4 $\frac{1}{2}$ × 7 $\frac{1}{4}$ 12 × 18 · 6

The Institute from the Pont des Arts

L'Institut vu du Pont des Arts

1827

[useum

$9\frac{5}{8} \times 7\frac{7}{8}$ 24.5 x 20

The Institute from the Quays, Paris
L'Institut vu des Quais, Paris

Mr P. M. Turner

Ships outside Calais Harbour
Vaisseaux au large de Calais

$5\frac{5}{8} \times 8\frac{3}{4}$ 14.3 x 21.7

1827

The Marquess of Lansdowne

Choppy Sea off the English Coast
Mer agitée au large de la côte anglaise

$5\frac{1}{2} \times 8\frac{3}{8}$ 13.8 x 21.3

1827

21 1/2 x 32 1/2 54 x 83

Wallace Collection

Sea Piece
Marine

1827

Tate Gallery

Chelsea Old Church
La Vieille Eglise de Chelsea

1827 ouvre

$7\frac{1}{2} \times 5\frac{1}{8}$ 19 × 13

Odalisque by a Palm Tree
L'Odalisque au Palmier

Mr P. M. Turner

63 - 48 17-2 x 12-4

Cavalier and Lady

Le Cavalier et la Dame

René Longa

62 - 44 16-5 x 10-

Woman Sewing

La Couseuse

Wallace Collection

8 x 6½ 20 x 16

The Antiquary
L'Antiquaire

1827

Wallace Collection

6 x 3½ 15 x 9-8

The Letter
La Lettre

1827

The Heirs of the late M. N. de Lajudie

13 $\frac{1}{2}$ x 10 $\frac{1}{4}$ 35.7

The Lesson on the Lute
La Leçon de Luth

1827-8

ce Collection

Francis I and Marguerite of Navarre
François I et Marguerite de Navarre

18 × 13 $\frac{1}{4}$ 46 × 34

The Marquess of Lansdowne

7 $\frac{1}{2}$ × 5 19.5 × 12.7

The Abbey of St Armand, Rouen
L'Abbaye de St Armand, Rouen

1827-8

6 $\frac{1}{4}$ × 8 $\frac{5}{8}$ 15.5 × 21.8

Louvre

Sunset : a Mill

Paysage : Moulin, Soleil Couchant

1827-8

National Gallery

17½ × 14½ 44

Column of St Mark, Venice
La Colonne de St Marc, Venise

1828

Mr Dudley Wallis

$8\frac{3}{4} \times 12\frac{3}{8}$ 22.3 x 31.5

Venetian Canal Scene
Souvenir de Venise

1828 allace Collection

20 $\frac{3}{4}$ x 25 $\frac{1}{8}$ 53 x 6

Henry III and the English Ambassador

Henry III et L'ambassadeur anglais

1827-8

Louvre

$13\frac{7}{8} \times 10\frac{5}{8}$ 35 × 27

Francis I and the Duchesse d'Etampes
François I et la Duchesse d'Etampes

1828

Louvre

$13\frac{3}{4} \times 10\frac{3}{8}$ 35 ×

Anne of Austria and Mazarin
Anne d'Autriche et Mazarin

1828

Wallace Collection

Sunset, Pays de Claus
Coucher de Soleil, Pays de Claus

7¹ 10³ 19 27

51 x 81 13 x 21.5

The Undercliff
Sous La Falaise

1828

City Art Gallery, Nottingham

Wallace Collection

7¼ × 5 18.4 × 12.7

La Siesta

La Sieste

1826 (or 1828)

A Venetian Scene
Scène Venitienne
1827-8

6 7/8 x 9 3/4 17 x 24

Lady Lever Art Gallery, Port Sunlight 74 x 51 10.5 x 5.25

On the Balcony, Venice
An Balcon, Venice

Whitworth Art Gallery

94 58 31.3 14.5

The Staircase
L'escalier

The Marquess of Lansdowne $6\frac{1}{8} \times 4\frac{1}{4}$ 15.6×10.8
 The Storm and the Sylph
 L'Orage et la Sylphide
 1828

*The last drawing...
 (Bourgeois) given me by Spindley who says it was the last sketch for the Marquess of Lansdowne*

British Museum $10\frac{3}{4} \times 11\frac{1}{4}$ 26-5 26-2

Caen, Church of St Sauveur
Caen, Église St Sauveur

British Museum

$13\frac{7}{8} \times 10\frac{3}{4}$ 35 26-2

Street in the Outskirts of Besançon
Une Rue aux environs de Besançon

THE ESCAPE FROM AUSTIN'S CHAIN

British Museum

The Gibbet
Le gibet
1826

$5\frac{1}{2} \times 6\frac{3}{8}$ 14 × 16.3

British Museum

Rio de Janeiro, Entrance to the Harbour
Entrée de la Rade de Rio de Janeiro

9 × 13 $\frac{3}{8}$ 22.7 × 33.8

British Museum

6 $\frac{3}{4}$ x 4 $\frac{3}{4}$ 16-2 x 10-9

A Calvary
Un Calvaire

British Museum

8 $\frac{1}{2}$ x 4 $\frac{3}{4}$ 21-5 x 13-1

Bologna
Bologne